Gentlemen,—Confirming my statement a short time ago, as to the satisfactory results from the use of your COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES, I will further add that fresh proofs of the genuine benefits conferred on patients requiring it are constantly coming under my observation; parties to whom I have recommended it, have in a short time, with the deepest thankfulness, acknowledged the relief they have experienced, and in some cases have asserted that it, and it alone, have saved their lives. It gives me much pleasure to assure you that I consider your Syrup, the VICTORIA HYPOPHOSPHITES, the best preparation of any which has come under my notice for Debility and all Pulmonary Complaints, Bronchitis, Coughs, &c., and believing this, I constantly recommend it before every other Compound.
Very truly yours,
H. F. McCARTHY,
Pharmaceutical Chemist.

War with the Bagmen

IT having come to our knowledge that certain travellers for Paper Bags have been offering to sell to Peterborough merchants at various percentages lower than our quotations, in the hope of damaging our business in this Department, we have determined to make the following

STANDING OFFER

NAMELY:

We will sell our Paper Bags CHEAPER than the very best bona fide offer made to any Merchant in Peterborough, FREE of Freight or other Charges.

Our trade in Paper Bags and Wrapping Papers has gradually grown to an extent which has made it hardly worth the while for travellers to come to Peterborough. And the result has been to make them jealous of our success and annoyed at their loss of sales.

Retain your future orders for us. We are bound to "Hold the Fort!"

TORONTO.

Special Telegram to the Review, Oct. 14.

THE LAMBTON MILLS MURDERER.—On the arraignment of Robt. W. DeCourcier, the Lambton Mills murderer, at the Assize Court this morning, he entered a plea of "not guilty." His counsel applied for a postponement of the trial till next assizes in January. The application was based on the ground that the public mind had been prejudiced by accounts appearing in the Mail, and that sufficient time had not been allowed to prepare for trial. The application was not received, but the case was enlarged for a few days.

From the Morning Papers.

MONTREAL.

Receipts of cheese same time 16,577 boxes. Shipments 16,844 boxes.

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

ROUT OF THE AFGHANS.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A despatch from Gen. Roberts states that the Afghans are routed, and that the tribes dispersed in the engagements of last week, are dissolving their military organization and returning home; also that heavy batteries of English artillery have received orders to return at once to India. This news is commented upon here as too good and too sweeping to be true. Why Gen. Roberts should telegraph to this effect is not clearly apparent, as the facts have not up to the present time afforded ground for so roseate a view of the situation as the commander at Cabul now appears to take. Much discussion has arisen upon this news, and various conflicting opinions are expressed. No enthusiasm is yet manifested on account of the distrust everywhere felt as to the complete truth of Gen. Roberts' despatch. Fuller details are anxiously awaited by the Foreign Office officials and by the people.

A TRIMPHANT ENTRY.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A later despatch from Simla says that Gen. Roberts made a triumphant entry into Cabul on Sunday. This is a most magnificent denouement to the English campaign, and is hailed with great rejoicing by the officials at the Foreign Office. It is further stated in officials advices that Gen. Roberts and his advance corps were accompanied by the Ameer and his staff, and that the entrance was made with great eclat. As the forces entered the city limits, the Royal Horse Artillery fired a feu de joie in honor of the occasion.

N. Y. Capitalists Investing.

New York Capitalists are said to be investing in grain at Chicago, and it is thought to be the beginning of a lock-up. It is also noticable that there is a large short interest to cover, and this may be the cause of these heavy purchases. Such combinations effect the entire markets of the country, and is, no doubt, partially the cause of the excitement in Peterborough.

AFTERNOON TELEGRAMS

Press Despatches to the Review.

CABLE.

THE AMNESTY CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Paris correspondent says that Gambetta approves of the plenary amnesty campaign. All is certainly over with the Waddington Cabinet. The language of the Radical press is becoming outrageous, and is eagerly copied by the reactionary papers. Bouteillier, another extreme Radical, has been elected member for a Paris municipality.

POLITICAL ALLIANCE.

It is reported that the Right Honourable Robert Lowe and the Earl of Derby will soon affiliate with the Liberals.

THE IRISH RENT QUESTION.

DUBLIN, Oct. 14.—Five hundred tenants of the Marquis of Sligo and the Earl of Lucan met near West Peert, County Mayo, Connaught, and solemnly pledged themselves to pay no rent until a reduction was granted proportionate to the great fall of prices. Notices are posted at Warner point, County Down, Ulster, that any man coming into the county to pay more than a pound an acre for land may bring his coffin with him.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

ROME, Oct. 14.—The Pope on Friday underwent a slight surgical operation. He is not confined to bed.

THE FRENCH MINISTRY.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—La France reports that there is a belief that in January Ministers Waddington and Leroyer will resign, and perhaps Say; also that Freycinet, the present Minister of Public Works will become premier of entirely an Gambettist ministry. It is reported that Freycinet will not accept the premiership with the amnesty programme.

ANOTHER CRUISER.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 14.—The committee of the volunteer's fleet has ordered a fifth cruiser to be constructed at Marseillles, at a cost of £100,000.

THE CABUL RESIDENCY.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A despatch from Allahabad says that Roberts and his staff visited the late Residency at Cabul. The greater part is still standing. The bodies of Major Cavagnari and Dr. Kelly are said to be buried beneath the debris at the end of the court yard, and a search will be made. Cavagnari's visiting diary has been found at the Ameer's palace.

EXCITING ELECTION.

BRUGES BELGIUM, Oct. 14.—There is considerable excitement over the election for a Senator, to succeed Count Boyaval, Liberal, deceased. Boyaval voted in favor of the Elementary Education Bill, which the Government only got through the Senate by two majority. The Catholics are making great efforts to win the seat which would insure the continuance of the clerical supremacy in West Flanders. The excitement last night culminated in numerous arrests.

AMERICAN.

RESPECTING THE DEAD.

RAWLINS, Oct. 14.—Merritt has 700 men. The Ute force is now said to be only 285. The whole country from here to the agency is burnt to a cinder. The soldiers and animals are suffering from clouds of dust, causing sore noses, ulcerated mouths, inflamed eye and bleeding hands. In Thornburgh's fight 14 men were killed, 42 seriously wounded and nearly every man was hit. Thornburgh's body was not mutilated. The Indians had treated it with a curious respect. Laying him out on the ground with one arm close to his side and the other folded over his chest and clasping a photograph of the famous Ute "Jack" who had shared Thornburgh's hospitality only a day or two before.

SUPPLYING AN ENEMY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Col. Merritt telegraphs on Oct. 10th, "I have burried seven bodies here including agent Meeker and three on the road. I am entirely in doubt respecting the force, the hostiles can muster. It is clearly ascertained that all the Unita Indians joined the Utes before the Thornburgh fight." Merritt regrets exceedingly the great amount of military supplies sold to these Indians by the Ranchmen.

A FATAL PLUNGE.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Last evening while a switch engine in the yard of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul Railway was making up the midnight freight train, it started to cross the Burnham slip bridge in a heavy fog. The engineer did not discover that the bridge was turned for a passing vessel, and the engine, the tender and a car of lard plunged into the river. The engineer and firemen jumped from the engine. The former, Len Ru tler, is probably fatally injured, and the fireman is severely bruised. Harry Hill, a telegraph operator, who was riding on the bumper, was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. The loss to the railroad is $25,000.

SEIZED FOR DUTIES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—George Amadell, a prominent Albany brewer, arrived from Europe yesterday, and made a declaration that his trunk contained nothing dutiable. A search revealed $3,000 worth of dutiable goods, which were seized.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Delaware and Lackawanna Company has abandoned its Oct. auction sale of coal. This Company, the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre, and the Reading Company will advance the prices of coal 25 cents a ton on Monday.

RAILWAY COLLISION.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The evening accommodation train on the Galena division of the Northwestern Railway ran into a gravel train at Maywood yesterday owing to misunderstanding the signals. The killed are Monroe Anderson, of Elgin; W. P. Lanzer, of Chicago, both passengers. George Chisholm is seriously injured and several others are badly shaken up.

UNLUCKY SPECULATIONS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 14.—Mr. Pulestom, the Member of Parliament, yesterday settled a debt of $9,000, which arose out of oil speculation some years ago.

A BRICK OF GOLD.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14.—N. D. Clark, President of the Bank at Raveuna, Ohio, while visiting Leadville, recently, was induced by some strangers to pay $14,000 for a gold brick which proved to be base metal tipped with gold. Thos. Lewis, of St. Louis, has been arrested here for complicity in the affair.

ESCAPED CONVICTS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Two Blackwell Island convicts, detailed to row Keeper Strauss on a patrol along the Long Island shore, overpowered him yesterday, left him tied in the boat on Long Island, and escaped.

THE FEVER STILL SPREADING.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 14.—No new cases, but 10 deaths are reported. The Board of Health of Forest City, Ark., 30 miles west of Memphis, telegraphs for 4 nurses.

PEACEFUL UTES.

WASHINGTON, Oct 14.—A letter from Agent Page at the southern Ute agency of Oct. 6th says Ignacio, Red Jacket, and Maniguineup the chief renegade of the Utes, and 60 other southern Ute Indians say they will have no part with the White River Indians. They are contented and desire peace.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—There was a collision this morning on the east river between the ferry boat Columbia and the tug boat Edward Baxter. There was much excitement on the Columbia.

MARRIED AND WIDOWED.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Henry H. Farmer, President of the National Bank, Port Jervis, one of the wealthiest men in Orange County is dead. He leaves a fortune of a million to his widow, whom he married 6 days ago.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14.—The Rev. Mr. Hayden has been again indicted for murder in the first degree.

AN IMPORTANT STRIKE.

SAN FRANSISCO, Oct. 14.—The sharp rise in union and Serra Nevada stocks yesterday is attributed to report of an important strike in the Serra Nevada mine.

WELCOMING GRANT.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14.—Grant will meet the citizens of Vancouver to-morrow morning in the park. He goes to the Cascades on Wednesday, and to Salem on Thursday. A Portland despatch says the city wears an animated appearance. It is estimated that 10,000 people from various portions of the state and of Washington Territory visiting the city. There will be a grand ball this evening.

AN INSURANCE SUIT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—In the suit of Mrs, Furness, against the Mutual Life Insurance Company to recover a £10,000 policy on her husband's life, a verdict was given for the plaintiff for $11.474. Furness was said to have committed suicide.

RICH SILVER MINES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Graphic's San Francisco despatch says the present advance in Union, Sierra Nevada and North End comstocks is caused entirely by the opening up of lower levels, promising the richest bonanza ever found on the ledge. The Sierra Nevada rose yesterday from 57 to 75, and the Union from 79½ to 91.

BLOWN TO PIECES.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Word was brought to the police quarters by a boy who had accompanied the party, that an unknown man claiming to be the inventor of a new explosive compound, and his assistant named Edward Whalen were blown to pieces yesterday, while down the harbor experimenting.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Lord Salisbury has informed Germany, in reply to a question from Berlin, that England is anxious for purely local government in Egypt. This sudden change of policy on the part of the Government is regarded as indicating the presence of influence growing possibly out of Gortschakoff's interview with Bismarck.

DISTRESS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A correspondent in Constantinople says all classes are suffering from the effects of the political and financial crisis. There are grave apprehensions of serious disturbances during the coming winter, of which the prevalent robbery and murder at present is considered a premonitory symptom. The sultan has ordered the disbandment of 10,000 regular troops.

AMERICAN.

GOLD AND SILVER MINES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The Consul at Matamoras gives information concerning some newly discovered gold mines in Mexico. These marvelously rich mines are situated in Sierra Moyada range, 600 miles west of Matamoras. They are very inaccessible, being at a great distance. What with terrible roads and danger from Indians, it will be a hazardous journey to reach them.

REVOLUTION IN MEXICO.

Information from Monterey, Mexico, says that the city of Chihuahua has been captured by revolutionists under Machorro.—General Trevino, with the Federal forces, are en route for the scene.

THE MICHIGAN HORROR.

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 13.—The funeral of Milton Gilbert, engineer of the ill-fated Pacific express, was held yesterday. The church was crowded, several hundred railroad employees being present. The bereaved wife clung to the coffin during the entire service. C. B. Smith, the unfortunate fireman, was buried here on Saturday. All other dead have been forwarded to friends. Most all the wounded have recovered sufficiently to continue their journey. The body of the man having initials G. E. R. on the arm, has been identified as that of George E. Raymond, sailor, of Erie.

Bismarck and His Dog "Sultan."

"My dog! Where is my dog?" were Bismarck's first words on alighting from the railway station at Vienna. The dog Sultan, who attacked Gortschakoff during the Congress, bounded to Bismarck's side, ignoring Andrassy and Prince Reuss, who kept a respectful distance. Bismark and Andrassy entered the Emperor's private carriage, when the window was suddenly opened and a stentorian voice cried, "Mein hund! Wo ist mein hund?" If anything had befallen the Sultan it is believed the Austro-German alliance would have collapsed. However, Sultan was assisted by the Court flunkies into the carriage and sedately sat on the rug. The crowd at the hotel was stupefied to see the Sultan leap out of the Court carriage, contrary to etiquette, and greet the bystanders with unpleasant demonstrations. The sight was rediculous, and the people fled in all directions, Sultan having a bad reputation. Recently he maimed a Berlin Foreign Office official for life for sitting in Bismarck's chair. Six Berlin detectives are watching Bismarck's hotel, Sultan's predecessor having been killed, as Bismarck firmly believes, by two Social Democrats.

CANALS vs. RAILWAYS.

ASK most people and they would no doubt reply that much the larger portion of the grain received at New York from the west was brought thither by Railway, and with good reason, seeing that one can scarcely take up a paper without seeing therein something about railroad freights and pools, or competition between Chicago and New York, and yet much the larger part of the grain arriving in New York during the summer season comes there by water. During the week ending Sept. 23, as we learn from the Scientific American, the total receipts of grain at New York were 3,612,043 bushels, of which 2,560,559 bushels were received by canal, 1,050,305 by rail and 1,183 coastwise, thus proving that the Erie Canal beats the railways all to pieces in carrying grain. If the Erie Canal can do so why not the Trent Valley Canal?

OUT OF HIS OWN MOUTH.

AT the recent meeting at Sorel, where Mr. Joly by invitation appeared on the platform of the Conservative meeting, Mr. Chapleau called upon him to answer "yes or no" whether he had not been beaten on the constitutional question in the House by a vote of the majority. Of course Mr. Joly had to admit the fact though claiming that he was supported afterwards, and yet his friends impudently maintain that Mr. Letellier and his intruded premier were supported in the coup d'etat by the House and the people. He had no majority even in the House elected under his own auspices till he bought one, and he dares not call the Legislature together now because he knows he is in a minority.

In the Jaws of a Lion.

I was out after porcupines, and was lying down one night near the porcupine's hole waiting for him to come out. I had no gun, but only my large hunting-knife and a large knob kerrie with which to knock the porcupine on the nose; for that, as you know kills him at once. I did not hear a sound until I found the grass near me move and a lion got his paws on me and lifted me up. The brute pressed his claws into me, but, luckily, my leather belt prevented his teeth from damaging me, and he carried me holding on to my belt and coat. If either of these had given way I should have been laid hold of in a far more rough maner. A lion is like a cat in one thing—he can hold a live creature in his mouth and not damage it, just as I have seen a cat carry a mouse. I know the nature of the lion well enough to know that if I struggled I should have my neck broken or my head smashed in instant; so I did not struggle but quietly drew my knife and thought what was best to do. I thought at first of trying to strike him in the heart, but I could not reach that part of him, and his skin was so loose that I could not strike deep enough carried as I was. I knew it would be life or death with me in an instant, so turning myself a bit, I gashed the lion's nose and cut it through. The lion dropped me as I should a poisonous snake, and jumped away roaring with pain. He stopped for an instant looking at me, but I did not move, and he did not seem to like to carry me again. More that once he came up to within a few yards, licking the blood as it poured from his nose; but there I remained like a stone and he was fairly afraid to tackle me again. I know a buffalo and an ox are very sensitive about the nose, and a cat, if just tipped on the nose can't stand it, so I thought a lion might be the same, and so it proved among the Zulus.

SIR L. TILLEY'S VISIT.

MIDLAND CITY AND R. R.

THEIR POSITION ON THE GEORGIAN BAY UNRIVALLED.

A More Eastern Outlet Required—Our Railway and Canal Should Pull Together—Charms for the Tourist—A New Camping Ground—Beautiful Chouchiching.

The writer having just returned from a hurried trip to Midland City via the Midland Railway, and believing that not so much what he saw, as what he saw suggested, will prove interesting to the readers of the REVIEW, proposes the discourse thereon. When he left the good town of Peterborough matters not, but taking his departure by the 10 a. m. train and transferring himself to the northward bound train at Milbrook, he was duly landed at the city, that is to be, the same evening, just in time for the good plain substantial tea set before him by the excellent hostess of the Midland House, and which was relished none the less from the fact that no provision for refreshments by the way is made in the companies' time table, and the writer had not provided himself with a well stored basket, (as all travellers by this train should do) from whence the inner man might be refreshed as occasion required. As the reader of the REVIEW knows full well has been the point which the managers of the Midland railway have been long striving to reach, and that this object of their desire has only been attained during the present season. Bearing this fact in mind and remembering that before it can begin to become the Chicago of Ontario, which its promoters fondly hope, elevators and wharves for the grain trade have yet to be built, and also that it is only six years since Mr. H. H. Cook located his saw mill in the wilderness at this point, the visitor need not expect to find it other than a lumbering village of some 1,000 inhabitants, whose chief employment is either in connection with, or arising out of the two saw mills, two shingle mills and grist mill which it contains. But it was, and is not for what Midland is, that both the Railway Company and several enterprising gentlemen are looking to this embrio city to compensate them for their expenditure but to what she is to become. Their hopes, in short, are built chiefly upon being able to draw to this harbour a considerable share of

MIDLAND CITY

THE GRAIN TRADE

of the west, and the "if" upon which the realization of their hopes depends, is their success in this particular. So far as Midland harbour and its surroundings are concerned it undoubtedly possesses all the advantages which have been claimed for it, and which only require to be seen to be appreciated. More than large enough to afford ample room for the anchorage and wharfage of an almost innumerable number of vessels safe at rest from every wind that blows, nature has certainly done all it could do for Midland as a shiping port, and as a destination to be desired in any storm. It therefore stands in an enviable position for both the trade of the great lakes and that of the Georgian Bay, which latter is of no mean importance to the localities which may be so fortunate as to secure it, and a portion of which, the writer ventures to think, is not beyond the reach of the business men of Peterborough. So far as eastward bound freight from the west to the Georgian Bay is concerned, Midland City need fear no rival, but to reap the full fruits of the advantages conferred upon it by nature, the cost of transport from Midland eastward to the sea board, must be reduced to a mininum, and it is to this latter part of the route in our opinion, those interested in Midland City and Railway require to direct particular attention. Assuming that all that requires to be done at Midland, has been done, let us follow the car of wheat on its way to Montreal or New York. Leaving "the city," the Midland Railway skirts the Georgian Bay, touching en route several minor bays, any of which would form no mean harbor, until it reaches Waubaushene, from whence it strikes for Orillia, Beaverton, Lindsay and Omemee, in a tollerably direct line. At the latter place, however, it diverges to the south, thereby increasing the distance to be travelled, and to the great and important disadvantage of landing its freight at a port on the open lake, instead of as it might, were a direct line followed eastward from Omemee to Belleville, on the waters of the Bay of Quinte, from whence it could be carried in barges to the seagoing vessel. So far as personal sympathy goes, the writer has no hesitation in saying his are with Port Hope as against Belleville, but

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS,

and the facts and nature are against Port Hope so far as the grain trade of the West, and the square timber trade of Georgian Bay are concerned. For grain and timber seeking an Eastern outlet by water, a port on the Bay of Quinte posses a decided and undeniable advantage over any port on the north shore of Lake Ontario west of it because the dangers of the lake are avoided and barges can pass direct from that bay to Montreal, and even Oswego, while, from Cobourg, Port Hope, Whitby or Toronto, grain has to be placed on board a lake vessel to be carried to Kingston to be there transhiped to the very same barge which it might have gone into from the cars in the first instance were the railway termini on the Bay of Quinte instead of west of it. When it is remembered that a single cent per bushel is an important item in the carriage of grain, and that half a cent will turn it from one route to the other, and that a port saving a transhipment and the employment of a seagoing vessel can be secured at an increased railway carriage of only about 40 miles, it will be easily understood how great the advantage to both Midland City and railway would be the securing of an eastern terminus either at Belleville or some other point on the Bay of Quinte. So much for a water route with a railway carriage of from 120 to 150 miles in the middle. Looking, however, to an all-rail route from Midland to the seaboard, it will clearly be the interest of those concerned in this route to seek an outlet via the Toronto and Ottawa Railway rather than the grand Trunk, inasmuch as the latter is already a competitor for the same trade at both Chicago and Goderich, and will naturally receive freight at either of these points on more favorable terms, distance considered, than at either Port Hope or Belleville. Moreover taking either Montreal, Halifax or Portland as the objective point, the route via Ottawa would be considerably the shortest, and therefore the cheapest. If the views here enunciated be at all correct, it follows that it is at once the interest of the owners of the Midland Railway and all the people along its route from Peterborough westward, that it should work in harmony with both the Toronto and Ottawa and Grand Junction Railways, with a view to securing the completion of both to Peterborough and thence by a common line to Omemee. Because both routes will serve as important levers in securing a share of the trade to and from the west to this line. Not only this, but we are convinced that instead of proving rivals the

TRENT VALLEY CANAL

if constructed would also be an important element in developing this route. If the great West is half the country it is said to be, its trade is still in its infancy, and will speedily outstrip the joint capacity of the present and prospective means of transit. Moreover, the Trent Valley Canal would, as the Erie now does, with regard to produce destined for New York, be the means of compelling the railways, in spite of all pooling arrangements, to carry it at a reasonable rate, while the fact of having two strings to their bow would do much to make western shippers select the Georgian Bay rather than Buffalo or Oswego as the immediate destination of their cargoes. In fact it will prove mutually advantageous to both the railways and the canal, that they should go forward hand in hand together. In trade, as in many other things, the larger the body, the greater its power of attraction. Besides once fairly opened, and the passenger steamers of Lakes Huron, Superior and Michigan calling at Midland, both business and pleasure would draw to this route a large passenger traffic—which, after all, is the most profitable for railways.

Writing of passenger traffic naturally leads one to speak of the

CHARMS FOR THE TOURIST

which the Midland, since its completion to "the city" affords for those in search of a pleasant holiday. To those fond of camping out and in search of a brief respite from the care and toils and worries of never ending business our own back lakes from their beauty and ease of access, have hitherto enjoyed a monopoly, but if President Cox will only next summer adopt a system of cheap excursion tickets to Midland and return with liberty to stop off en route when you like, and as often as you like, we venture to predict for the Railway a rushing business as soon as the beauties and temptations of the route are known. No better place, (always excepting down by the sea), could be found for boating, fishing, bathing and camping out, than on the shores of Midland Bay, within both sight and easy distance of "the city," thus permitting the holiday maker to at once enjoy camp life and his daily paper, and, if needed, be regularly informed of, and give speedy instructions about matters of moment at home; while to those who enjoy all these things but the camping out, the Midland House will furnish comfortable lodging at prices so moderate as not to be a tax on one's pocket. Nor need the holiday maker confine himself to Midland Bay, because along the whole route from Waubaushene to Midland—a distance of fourteen miles—are numerous bays and islands which, to the passing eye, appear to fulfill the desires of those whose tastes, means and engagements permit such a health-recruiting season, and little imagination is required to picture the pleasant hours which could be spent boating among these islands, while fanned by the morning or evening breezes from the greater bay, or during the moonlight hours of the dog-days of July and August. Neither need the tourist limit himself to the Georgian Bay as the only point of attraction on the route of the Midland. As one crosses the narrows between Atherly and Orillia, and rounds the bay upon which the latter stands, he or she will be dead indeed to the beauties of nature if they do not desire to see more of

BEAUTIFUL COUCHICHING

than the passing glance obtained from the train window. No more delightful four hours sail can be imagined than that enjoyed by the writer on a late hot afternoon on the Carriella round Lake Couchiching, at the very reasonable rate of forty cents. Why of itself it was worth a trip from Peterborough—what more can be said!

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

From the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in McArthur's Hall on Monday evening last, to take into consideration the propriety of urging on the Government the necessity of the immediate construction of this work, a most favourable report of which has been made by Mr. Starke, the engineer appointed by the Government to make a preliminary survey of it. Mr. Starke is said to have expressed his astonishment that the enterprise had not been accomplished many years ago, seeing it so easy of construction and at such a small outlay—in round figures about $2,500,000—and is the natural highway to the great Nor'-West. This enterprise is by no means a new one, having been before the country at intervals during the last forty years. One reason why it has not been already constructed probably is, that the same necessity which now exists for its construction has not existed at any previous period. The great Nor'-West is just now only beginning to be peopled, and that process would be much more rapid than it is if this highway were opened, which would afford the means of the cheap transport of the produce of the country to the seaboard, and so make farming there a profitable undertaking. That the necessity of the case will cause the canal to be built at no distant future there can be no reasonable doubt whatever; and that it will be undertaken without delay is extremely probable. This may be argued from the fact that both the Imperial and Dominion Governments are at the present moment centering their attention on the great Nor'-West, with a view to its settlement with the surplus agricultural population of Europe. With this object in view the Imperial Government has sent out five gentlemen, of the most intelligent agriculturists of England, to examine the country and to report upon it. In their presence a statement has been made by a consul of the United States—a statement no doubt made with reluctance, and which would not have been made had not truth compelled it—that three-fourths of the fertile wheat growing belt of this continent lies north of the boundary line in British territory; and the English agricultural commissioners, from personal observation, have had no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion—a conclusion to which they have already given expression—that the whole country is one vast rich alluvial deposit, ready to yield the largest possible reward in the shape of produce, for the least possible amount of labour. On the report which truth will compel these commissioners to make, a large tide of emigration may be expected to commence to flow into the Nor'-West from Europe next spring. In reporting that the Dominion of Canada, and especially the North-Western part of it, if as well farmed as the countries of Europe, would produce bread for the world—a report that may safely be made—their work will only be half done. They must examine also how this wheat can be got so cheaply to the market as to make it a paying undertaking to raise it. This can never be done by means of railways. It is calculated that a train of fifteen cars will carry only 7,500 bushels of wheat, whereas a train of eight barges—and it is estimated that a strong tug will easily tow from eight to ten barges—will carry 40,000 bushels, and barges as compared with cars are cheap and easily built, all the material entering into their construction being easily obtained. We would only further add that several sensible and telling speeches were made at the meeting in question, and that the following resolutions were adopted with acclamation:—

Moved by Mr. Logan, seconded by Mr. McArthur, That in order to develop and people the great Nor'-West, a cheap means of transportation is absolutely necessary; that the proposed Trent Valley Canal appears to this meeting to afford the means required; and that this meeting therefore respectfully press on the Government the immediate construction of the canal.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Wood, seconded by Mr. Roberts, That Messrs. J. D. Smith, Naylor, J. McArthur, Jordan, Greene, Rev. W. Logan, J. W. Kennedy and James Dickson be appointed a committee to confer with similar committees from Peterborough, Trenton, Bobcaygeon and elsewhere, to bring the matter before the Government and to press it on their attention.—Carried.

THE GROUNDLESS GRIEVING.

An end, O soul, to thy poor wearing sadness!
  Christ liketh not to see thee bathed in tears;
The Spirit's song is one of trust and gladness,
  Not dirgeful moans of melancholy fears.

Dost thou not know tears are for earth, not heaven?
  And not earth now, but heaven, is in thy soul;
Let songs, exultant o'er thy sins forgiven,
  Through all its corridors and arches roll!

For what is gone weep not, 'tis gone forever;
  Nay, 'tis not gone, but by the Lord redeemed;
For what is now, or may be, weep thou never,
  Thy spectral ills to Christ have saintly seemed.

Think not by tears to wash out sins, thy Savior
  Poured forth not only sacred tears but blood;
Dost think thou wilt be doing him a favor—
  To add thy tears to the rich blood of God?

Nay, nay, poor heart, by thy continuous weeping,
  Thou blindest thee to richer gifts in store;
Lo! while thou agonizest thus, thou'rt keeping
  Grace-burdened Christ from entering thy door!

Soul! thou hast had thy cold and cheerless winter,
  Thy spring with storm of penitential tears
Now let the sun and song of summer enter—
  So with rich autumn fruits to crown thy years!

Denis Wortman, D. D., in Christian at Work.

HINTS FOR OCTOBER FARM WORK.

During the early part of this month all potatoes should be dug. If put in pits in the field, from twenty to twenty-five bushels are sufficient in one pit. In pitting it is a bad plan to sink the pit below the ground as it often makes a receptacle for water. Simply remove the loose earth, leaving a round basin. The potatoes should be thoroughly dry before being put in the pit. In covering use a good supply of wheat straw. Pea straw is too loose. Cover only a few inches in depth with earth until about the middle of November when the full quantity can be put on. About two loads of manure from the horse-stable to each pit will prove to be an excellent frost preventative. Arrange the pits in a row so that they can be easily fenced to prevent the cattle from getting on them. If possible put enough in the cellar to supply the family until spring. Potatoes from the pit in the spring are preferable to those kept in the cellar. They cook nicer, are generally more mealy and more pleasant to the taste......Turnips, mangolds and carrots should be taken care of during the last week of the month. If you have no back-barn or frost-proof root-house they had better be pitted until spring. My experience is that roots of any kind should not be fed to the stock until early in the spring. In pitting, care should be taken and not cover them too deep with earth as they are liable to heat and rot....This is an excellent time to husk corn as it can be done in the field, and the stalks can be handled much easier and with less trouble than when the corn is not husked....By this time you will know where the water is most apt to stand on the fall wheat. Take one horse and the plow and run a deep furrow so that the water will run off without hindrance. Every head furrow should be cleaned out and as many cross furrows made as is deemed necessary.. By so doing but little wheat will be water killed. All clover seed should be housed as soon as possible....Hogs, for the winter's meat supply for the family, should be put in a pen without delay, as they fatten much faster in warm than in cold weather....If intending to kill a beef about Christmas time it should be put into the stall at once and fed on the most fattening kinds of food,...Fall ploughing should be pushed on with vigor, and the more plowed in the fall the better, as a better crop can be raised on fall than on spring ploughing. Even sod can be plowed to advantage as the frost is an excellent pulverizer and sod is pretty well rotted by spring....Those who prefer sowing their grass seed in the fall should do so at once before the fall rains set in, so that a good patch can be secured before the snow covers it....Haul out all the manure and plow it under as the soil will be enriched by it during the winter, and the seed in the spring will get the benefit of it. And then to have a yard full of manure in the winter is simply a sure sign of laziness.... House all the machinery and oil the bearings....Apples should be gathered as soon as possible and put in the cellar where the children can have free access to them during the winter.... Health and ripe fruit go together, you know.... Excepting the cabbage all the garden stuff can be taken care of....Stones should be picked off from the meadows, and the fences and gaps properly put up....Turkeys are profitable if they can be sold as soon as they cannot shift for themselves; as soon as they require to be fed grain they are a losing concern. Sell them by the first of November....Any old ewes or wethers, of any age, that are to be sold before spring had better be put by themselves in a clover field and fed each a little grain every day. By so doing they will be ready for the fall market, which is generally good. See to it that the horse and cow stables and the sheep fold are made comfortable for the winter.—Verulam in Rural Post.

SCOTLAND.

The rabbits on the Duke of Argyll's estates in Kintyre have been let for one year to Messrs. Corsair and Currie, Glasgow, for £300.

A number of young men have been sent to prison for disturbing the services of the "Hallelujah Lasses" in Brigeton Public Hall.

With a view to relieve the present distress in Glasgow, and that which may arise next winter, the municipal and parochial authorities are endeavouring to arrange a scheme.

The tourist season in the West Highlands is now over, and hotel and lodging-house keepers, and steamboat and coach proprietors from the Crinan Canal to Ross-shire, pronounce it one of the worst they have experienced.

Two members of the Falkirk Bicycle Club, having arranged to have a run through Perthshire, started from Falkirk on the 14th Sept., at 8 a.m, and, riding via Stirling, reached Dumblane at 10 o'clock, and then went on their route at an average rate of ten miles an hour.

A somewhat singular character has died at Girvan, named John Wallace. He appeared to be in destitute circumstances; yet on examination of his effects deposit receipts were discovered to the amount of nearly £200, and he was in receipt also of a Government annuity of £50.

A competition for the prize offered by the Board of Trade for throwing the cane, a feat which is of great importance in cases of wrecks, was held at Stonehaven on the 13th September. Mr. Joseph Craig proved himself to be the champion thrower, and gained the prize with a distance of 83 yards.

Two gold rings, as well preserved as if new made, have been picked up in the vicinity of Maeshowe, at Loch Stennis, Orkney. The pattern on one of the rings is three plait, and that of the other is a plain double cord, both being united into one ornament by cross bars. Some of the local antiquaries have decided that the rings must be about 1000 years old.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied [illegible] intestines in knots. Those days, and their terrors, are no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap—25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1m Testing a Wife's Affection.

A very singular affair, vouched for by the Boston Traveller, has just occurred in Bangor, Me. A sewing-machine agent by the name of Pendleton, thought he would test the affections of his wife. He accordingly went to the upper story of his residence and opened the window. He then tied a stout rope around his body under the arms, and fastened one end to something in the room and stepped out of the window. He then made a noise which attracted his wife's attention. She came and beheld the perilous predicament in which he was in. She felt the need of doing something at once to save her husband. In her excitement she seized a knife and cut the rope. The result was that he was precipitated some twenty-five feet to the ground beneath. Strange as it may appear, he escaped without serious injury, but it will probably be some time before he attempts a similar exploit.

The piquant and charming actress, Miss [illegible], of the Broadway Theatre, New York, was taken suddenly with a severe hoarseness—was unable to perform; a friend recommended Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia; the cure was rapid and complete.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preemiently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

LOCAL NEWS

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: moderate to fresh, easterly to southerly winds, partly cloudy weather. There was a frost this morning, but the day has proved to be warmer than yesterday. The wind is very light from the south-east, with indications for a change.

Farm Stock and Implements.

The sale of farm stock, implements, &c., to take place on the 23rd of October, at Michael O'Leary's, lot No. 30 in the 3rd concession of the township of Otonabee, will be an important one. Lunch will be served, and the sale will take place at the Neebing Hotel, Indian river, immediately after. This is a fine opportunity for the farmer to add to his stock.

The Movement of Freights.

This was another heavy day at the Midland Station. The morning train brought up another lot of cars which are to be loaded to-day. Some of our shippers are still awaiting cars. It will require two special trains to remove the accumulations of to-day. It is the purpose of shippers to crowd forward shipments until the closing of navigation, and every effort is being put fourth by the railway officials to meet this heavy demand.

The 57th Battalion.

Companies No. 1 and 2 of the 57th battalion recently reorganized are meeting with success. No. 1, Capt. Edwards, numbers 34 men, and by to-morrow evening expect to have the ranks filled. No. 2, Capt, — Langford, has 34 men enrolled, and also expects to have the company full in a day or so. Capt. Edwards' company meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7.30 o'clock for drill. Capt. Langford's company have not designated the the evenings for drill.

The Grain Market.

The wheat market to-day was again feverish, and a sharp advance was effected. It leaked out that one buyer was paying $1.18 for choice lots, and was stopping the wheat from coming into town. The town shippers and millers at once proceeded to retaliate by putting the price of Spring Wheat at $1.16 and Winter at $1.20. The receipts are heavier to-day. The strong markets in Europe have had a tendency to cause the advance to be made. Barley has to a certain extent sympathised with wheat, and an advance may be noted, To-day 57 @ 58 cents is paid for best grades. We change quotations in accordance with this advance.

Presentation to Miss Baguley.

On Friday afternoon, the 10th instant, Miss Elizabeth Baguley, who has been engaged as teacher in the South Ward School for the past four years, was presented with the following address from the teachers and pupils of the school:—

> DEAR MISS BAGULEY,—As you are about leaving us, we, the teachers and pupils of this school, take the opportunity of expressing our high appreciation of your services among us, and our regret at parting with one so justly endeared to all by her loving disposition and genial manners. We ask your acceptance of this cake-basket and pickle-holder, trusting they may sometimes carry back your thoughts to us, while we shall not soon forget the pleasing intercourse we have enjoyed with you.
> FROM THE TEACHERS AND PUPILS OF THE SOUTH WARD SCHOOL, PETERBOROUGH.
> October 10th, 1879.

The manner of the presentation was very appropriately arranged by the head teacher, Miss Greenhow. The address was read by Master John Stock, the cake basket was presented by Clara Cook, the pickle holder by Fred. Boundy, and a handsome bouquet of flowers by Minnie Sproule. Miss Baguley, who had received no previous notice of the intended presentation, was very much taken by surprise and deeply affected by the unexpected honor bestowed upon her. She briefly thanked her friends for the beautiful presents, and assured them that she would always remember the pleasant hours she had spent among them. All present seemed to evince the regret they entertained at parting with a teacher who had earned their respect and esteem and won their friendship by her quiet and amiable manner. We are informed that the certificate which Miss Baguley held having run out, she tendered her resignation to the Board, which it is to be regretted the Board found necessary to accept, as she had become an efficient and painstaking teacher, was well liked by her pupils, and popular among the residents of the Ward.

"SOCIAL TALKERS."

An Important Lecture by The Rev. J. Smith, of Toronto.

On Monday evening last, Rev. J. Smith, pastor of Erskine Church, Toronto, gave his interesting lecture on "Social Talkers," in the George Street Methodist Church to a moderately large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The proceeds from the lecture it is proposed to use to supplement the fund in aid of the Mission School in the southern part of the town, and in behalf of which the entertainment was given. The choir of the church sang a favorite anthem, and Messrs. A. S. Davis and Templeton Brown gave excellent solos, the former singing, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," the latter a selection from Beethoven, "Night."

Rev. Mr. Harper filled the chair, and gave a brief outline of the history of the Mission School since its inception some years ago. He then introduced the lecturer, who made some pleasant remarks relative to a visit made to Peterborough some years ago. After a few generalities leading up to his subject, the Rev. Mr. Smith went on to say:

Of the four methods of acquiring information, which came within the reach of all,—reading, talking, listening, and observation—the second is that which is most extensively made use of. Of the forty known classes of talkers, it was his purpose to only present a few for the consideration of his audience. The subject matter of his discourse had grown out of a series of social meetings which had been held in his church last winter, and while he hoped his remarks would prove amusing, he trusted they would be mutually instructive.

The first of the batch of social talkers which he should hold up for their inspection was the

EXAGGERATIVE TALKER

—the man who, no matter how finished his education might be, had never learned the positive or comparative degrees, but dealt exclusively in the superlative. This was the man who stood in his own estimation at least head and shoulders above his neighbors. Everything belonging to him was superior to that possessed by any-one else. If dogs were the subject of discussion, then it was his dog that could run faster, jump higher, and bark louder than any canine that ever acknowledged ownership. Were horses mentioned, then his was the swiftest, most docile, and handsomest creature that ever travelled. His house was fit for Queen Victoria, and was at her disposal, did he not have a sneaking notion that a greater than she now occupied it. The lecturer related several ludicrous anecdotes illustrative of the propensity of this class of social talkers to tell-tale stories. The habit of exaggeration, he inferred, arose from a desire on the part of many people to tell something astonishing, and to the use of

STRONG PHRASEOLOGY

and extravagent statements in giving their impressions. The extravagant talker was prodigal in the use of the word "never," while a want of confidence was felt by the hearer in the assertions of a person who had the superlative degree constantly at his tongue's end, and used it as persistently. The monopolist (and who did not know him) was generally on the best of terms with himself, and thought he was just as good, perhaps a trifle better than his neighbors—most of them at any rate. He continually pushed forward the pronoun "I" in his conversation, assuming to himself the most consequential airs. Always taking, never listening, he imagines that all should, metephorically speaking, sit at his feet and learn from his lips how to do and how not to do this or that. Arrogating to himself at once the functions of both judge and jury, no exception to his decision should be for a moment entertained, and to question his ruling is tantamount to being deprived of his personal friendships—a deprivation under which no one will suffer but himself. The third fault,—a serious one too—of Social Talkers is that of the trifler, the individual and as empty as it is incessant. Meet one of these gentry on the street during the month of February,—one is in a danger of being frozen stiff before breaking away from him, did the listener wait to hear all there is to be said. And singularly enough too the trifler is astonished that all are not as much interested in what he has to say as he is in saying it. The lecturer here touched upon several grades of this class of Social Talkers, humourously giving illustrations of the point in question. Next came the dogmatic talker, and to throw in no suggestions, find no fault with his arguments, and the only way of getting rid of such a person was to admit his assumptions for the time being. From his personal decision there could no appeal be made that was in his estimation worthy of being entertained. The familiar quotation, "I am Sir Oracle, and when I open my lips let no dog bark," became a reality when the dogmatic talker came to the surface. A man who agreed with you on every point was bad enough, but the bore of his company became a moderate infliction beside that of the dogmatic talker. They could hold a whole community back, throw cold water and distruct on every project, no matter how meritorious, burk the efforts of a congregation tending towards better things, and stand in the way of any or every projected municipal improvement. Effort in the right direction was always uphill work, and the blind unreasoning obstruction of the dogmatic talker nullified to a considerable extent the good efforts of a community. Following came the

WHOSE TALK IS A CONTINUAL RATTLE,

HIM YOU MUST LISTEN,

GRANDILOQUENT TALKER,

who in his own perverted imagination was placed in a higher sphere than that occupied by ordinary mortals. This person seemed to be perpetually standing on stilts, as it were, always ready to catch up and correct any slip of the tongue or incorrect pronounciation. The use of great long words was their habit, without having the most distant idea of their meaning. The anecdotes having reference to the prevalence of this habit were effectively told by the lecturer, and highly enjoyed by the audience. The doctors came in for a share of facetious criticism from the speaker, the repertoir of medical phraseology being drawn on to the merriment of his hearers. The mysterious talker was omnipresent, to be found in every station of life, wishing to be considered as being very profound, very learned, and to be able to dip into the depths of the most abtruse subjects. The profane talker come in for a scathing rebuke, the lecturer asserting that of all the useless sins that man was guilty of, none was as inexcusable as the habit of profane swearing. Then we have, and that, too, pretty often,

THE TECHNICAL TALKER,

who is continually putting forward the language and idoms of his own particular calling. The sailor who speaks of crossing the street as "porting his helm;" the lawyer who proposes to "give evidence on that behalf," when he relates anything to you; the doctor who speaks of "performing an operation" whenever he carves a goose; the parliamentary man who always "agrees with the honourable gentleman opposite;" and the thousand and one instances which could be called to mind, clear down to the sporting personage whose whole conversation is qualified by stable terms and slang phrases. While there might be some excuse for an uneducated person using technical terms as a means of expressing his ideas, no man of any pretensions to acquirements used them but the learned fool. The passionate courtesy talker was, par excellence,

THE TALKER OF SOCIETY

and must be so familiar to all as to be identified with the utmost readiness. Mr. Smith here gave a telling description of a lady who was making a series of calls among her acquaintances, which provoked roars of laughter from the audience. The talker of slang phrases was, as far, as numbers went, decidedly in the front rank. Slang was the recognized language of the sporting world, and as far as their own personal intercourse went, seemed to express the ideas of that fraternity one with the other, no matter how unintelligible to the uninitiated. The speaker gave a liberal instalment, for the edification of his hearers, of the phrases most commonly used, many of which he admitted were harmless, but the great majority were objectionable. Those in particular applied to paternity were disrespectful in the highest degree. There could be no manner of doubt that a majority of the expressions such as he had indicated would, if they were adopted by the leading writers, completely transform our language. The tale-bearing talker (and none were more worthy of contempt) was a sort of who went from place to place, spreading his contemptible gleanings, while no one would trust him with a secret unless it was for the purpose of publication. Under the guise of friendship he would secretly acquire and then rush off to publish unasked to the world that which would ruin a fellow creature. In conclusion the Rev. lecturer admonished his hearers that their conversation should "always be with grace and seasoned with salt, for that for every idle word we should be held accountable on the Judgment day.

AMATEUR GAZETTE,

The Rev. MR. BELL, of St. Andrews Church, then moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. J. Smith, and Mr. Campbell, to the trustees of the church for the use of the edifice, to the choir for their kind services, and to Messrs. Brown and Davis.

The meeting then closed with the doxology and the benediction.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

TUESDAY, Oct. 14.—The Magistrate had two cases before him this morning. The first case was that of Constable Johnston vs. Thos. McCutcheon. The defendant was found upon the street last evening drunk and disorderly, and was taken to the lock-up. This being the second offence, he was fined $5.00. Not being able to pay the fine he was sent to jaol for one month.

VAGRANCY.

Constable McGhee brought into court Patrick Handrigan, who was charged with vagrancy and as being without any visible means of support, and also with having evaded a summons to appear, issued in August last. The Magistrate sentenced him to six months in the common jaol at hard labor. This is the eighth time this prisoner has received sentence.

I.O.F.

There will be a meeting of Court Peterborough of the Independent Order of Foresters in their hall, Water Street, on Wednesday evening next.

King Alfonso and His Intended.

The Archduchess Christine, who is soon to become Queen of Spain, has a spice of the romantic in her character, and when told of the intentions of King Alfonso, sent word, "If he wishes to win me, let him come and woo me." So he went. The moment he had time to dress after his journey, he hasted to visit his intended, assuring her that his desire to see her overcame any little obstacles of etiquette, and then he bent low over her hand and kissed it. This dissipated all reserve and pique. It was dusk, and the King proposed a turn in the garden. Done. The rest of the people scattered. Gone an hour. Returned hand in hand, smiling. Engagement ring on finger. Christine leads King to step-mother, and says, in French, "I have the honor, madame, to present to you my future husband." And so the matter was "done fixed," as they say in the South.

A PRIVATE DETECTIVE is in town at present looking for Henry Gunn, who is charged with murdering Mr. Justice D. Gunn, his father, at Bridgewater on the 29th ult. A man answering to the description has been traced to a barber shop, where he had his hair cut close, his whiskers shaved off, and his moustache dyed.

TORONTO.

SHOEMAKERS' WAGES.—A large meeting of shoemakers who work by the piece was held in the Trades' Assembly Rooms on Monday night for the purpose of taking some steps towards getting an advance of wages. A resolution "that the employers be asked to give an advance of 10 per cent on present prices" was put and carried unanimously. A Committee was appointed from the various shops to bring the matter before the employers, and the meeting adjourned, to convene again on Monday evening next for the purpose of receiving the Committee's report.

MRS. SMYTH.—The Cornwall Freeholder says: "Some time last summer a very pretty lady arrived at the Commercial Hotel. Her captivating appearance provoked many enquiries as to who she was and from whence she came. She announced herself to be the wife of a commercial traveller, from whom she was separated. It was soon ascertained that she was the daughter of a highly respectable French Notary. She stayed at the hotel but a few days, and then removed into private lodgings. She dressed with perfect taste, and altogether she was very 'fetching,' and 'intense.' After remaining here for several months she disappeared suddenly, and nothing more was heard of her until this week, when she turned out to be the woman at the bottom of the Smyth-Turner tragedy in Toronto."

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

THE BRITISH AT CABUL.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A despatch from Simla states that after the British column had entered Cabul a detachment of its officers and men went to the scene of the tragedy in which Major Cavagnari and his associates lost their lives. The Residency of Balahissar is still standing but it has been completely looted, every article of value within it having been taken away. The embassy building has been partly destroyed by fire, the flames having burned all that portion of it extending from the roof of the high building at the northern end of the courtyard of the Plaza. Beneath the debris in front of the Embassy was a heap of charred, half-consumed logs of wood, underneath which the bodies of Major Cavagnari and his staff were buried. The soldiers dug away three piles, and finally discovered the bodies of Major Cavagnari, and of Capt. Kelly.

LIVERPOOL, Oct 15.—Cheese is quoted at 54 shillings.

RUSSIA IN CENTRAL ASIA.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The Russian press is very impatient about the dearth of news from the Central Asia expedition, especially as no effort has been made to reconcile the apparent contradictions in the two official reports of the recent action of Geokteppe. A letter from Tiflis says that gave apprehensions are felt for the safety of the expedition. The letter describes the invalid men arriving at Baku as being in a miserable plight, and says great numbers have died of diphtheria and scorbutic diseases.

TROUBLE IN ASIA MINOR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 15.—Sir A. Layard, the British Ambassador, who has just returned from Asia Minor, reports that the condition of that country is unsatisfactory in consequence of disagreements between the European Inspectors and the Turkish Officials, and the bad administration of justice.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Field Marshal Von Moltke reports to the Emperor as the result of his recent inspection in Alsace-Lorraine that a considerable increase of military defences be necessary.

RUSSIAN REPULSE.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The truth about the Geokteppe affair is gradually leaking out. An assault on the Dengil Teppe earthworks was made on the Pleva pattern. After an effectual cannonade the Russians made a rush with fixed bayonets, but were repulsed and retreated in disorder. The Turcoman cavalry, attacking the Russians flank and rear, created such confusion that when the vanguard reached the main force in reserve, the latter was unable to stem the tide of retreat and was compelled to retire forty miles before order could be restored. According to private intelligence received at St. Petersburg, the Russian loss is much greater than the official reports admit.

THE PLENARY AMNESTY.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A Paris correspondent says he has reason to believe that on the re-assembling of the French Chambers a proposal for a plenary amnesty will be presented. The proposition, he says, probably has not the least chance of passing, but there will be considerable excitement out of doors, which will afford a practical test as to whether the return of the Chambers to Paris was wise.

THE IRISH VOTE.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—It is reported from Dublin that the Irish Government authorities contemplate taking legal proceedings against Parnell, the Home Rule leader. It is stated that Parnell, in response to several pressing invitations, will go to America in November, after the termination of his political tour in England, for the organization of the Irish vote.

THE GREEK FRONTIER.

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—There seems to be a fair chance for the cessation of the unprofitable discussion by the Turco-Greek Frontier Commission. A PARRICIDE.

He made a full confession, stating that he came home late on the night of the 24th, when his father upbraided him for carelessly putting potatoes in the cellar while wet. A quarrel ensued, and the father knocked him down and beat him while down. Shortly afterwards, while the father was resting on the edge of the bed he struck him with a hatchet 3 or 4 times, holding the hatchet with both hands. He then broke open his father's chest and took $108 and a watch, and left for Boston.

THE FRENCH COMMUNISTS.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The La France states that Hermhert's election to the Paris Municipality was discussed at Monday's Cabinet Council. President Grevy declared distinctly that the election would not modifiy the Government's attitude in regard to the amnesty. Nothing warranted the belief that the Deputies would be disposed to revoke their original decision. The Council did not anticipate any street disturbances, but decided if certain manifestations should increase it would be necessary to take measures to enforce proper respect for the law. Another Communist who had been granted amnesty died, and his funeral was attended by 10,000 persons, including a member of the Chamber of Deputies.

HALIBURTON.

From our own Correspondent.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—Our agricultural fair was a decided success. It was held on Tuesday, October 7th. The show of stock would have surprised some of our frontier towns, both in breed, quality and quantity. The show of agricultural products was as good as usual. The ladies' work could not be surpassed, either in excellence of finish or beauty of design. The attendance of people was large, it being stated by competent judges that there were over 500 on the grounds.

ASSEMBLY.—The opening assembly in the Town Hall on Oct. 7th, was got up by our young men who are very successful in organizing anything of the kind. There were 25 couple present, amongt whom were some from quite a distance viz:—Mrs. Stewart, Bobcaygeon; Mr. F. Burt, Minden; Mr. Picking, Toronto; Miss Powers and Miss Huston, Norland; and Mr. McArthur, of Fenelon Falls. The young people of the village and surrounding country turned out in good numbers. The music was supplied by a piano and violin. Dancing commenced at 8.30 a.m., and lasted till 3 p.m. A very sociable evening was spent, and much praise was granted by the ladies to the gentlemen for the first-class arrangements made by them. The supper prepared by Mrs. Millar and served in the basement of the hall could not be surpassed.

RECOVERING.—Gregory, who was shot, is progressing favorably, but is still under the care of Dr. Lowe, who will pull him through all right.

CRICKET MATCH.—The event of most interest here lately was the success of our cricket club in a match with Fenelon on Saturday, Oct. 10th. It was the most interesting game played this season, being the 5th game played with other clubs on the ground. It was thought that Fenelon would have a very easy victory, as they had Logan, the Champion Bowler of Canada, who so distinguished himself against Daft's team; Hallett, Lindsay's best bat, and Barron, of Lindsay, who is so well known for his wicket keeping, also Macdonald, from Peterborough, a splendid bat, but the under-arm bowling of Dinwoodie played sad havoc with their wickets, and the wicket keeping of Crosthwait, who stopped every ball, gave a decided victory for Haliburton. The bowling of Galbraith and Lowe for Haliburton was first class. Logan and Hallett did some excellent bowling for Fenelon. The batting was done in good form, Barron, Fitzgerald and Hallett making double figures in the first innings, and Barron and Macdonald in the second for Fenelon. For Haliburton, Reid made double figures in both innings, with not out in his second; and Niven double figures in his second and not out. The fielding for Haliburton was in all respects good. On the Fenelon side some catches were missed, but their fielding was very good. Mr. Bowman acted as umpire for Haliburton, and Mr. Wirley for Fenelon, deciding everyto the satisfaction of both parties. Taking everything, it was a victory for which the Haliburton Cricket Club may well feel proud of. In another year we hope to stand formidable rivals of such clubs as Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterborough, and we are so elated over our late victory that we think we could whip Peterborough. Haliburton won the game by 8 wickets and 3 runs. The last match before this one between Fenelon and Haliburton was played on Sept. 8, 1876, resulting in a victory for Fenelon by one innings and 119 runs, so no wonder we feel proud of the result. The club is talking of going to Peterborough this fall, although we would rather have the Peterborough club come up here. Go or no go, we must play Peterborough this fall if possible. The following is the score:—

MONTREAL AS A SHIPPING PORT.

MONTREAL is very naturally anxious to become what nature evidently intended her to be, the grain shipping port of the continent, and to this end is anxious that the Dominion Government should assume the expense of deepening the channel below Montreal, which is now borne by the Harbor Commissioners, in order that the harbour dues payable by vessels may be proportionately reduced. The Montreal Gazette, in a recent article, claims that "what is wanted to enable Montreal to successfully compete with New York and other United States ocean ports for the carrying trade of the west, is a diminution of expense" there, and endeavours to sustain its position by the statement that a careful computation of the expenses of an eight hundred ton grain ship at the five principal ports of export on this continent, gives the following result:—New York, $2,073; Baltimore, $2,056; Philadelphia, $1,871; Boston, $1,557; and Montreal, $1,552. As, however, this statement shows the charges at Montreal to be over $500 less than at New York on the same-sized vessel, it does seem to us to be somewhat out of place to claim that "what is wanted" is a further reduction of these same charges, although we are quite ready to grant that a reduction in these charges would enable Montreal to command a larger share of the trade than she now does. But were the harbor fees, of which the Gazette particularly complains, swept away altogether instead of being reduced, it would only amount to a reduction of $84, or about ten cents per ton, a sum insufficient to accomplish an object in which the whole Dominion and especially Ontario and our Nor'-West are deeply interested as well as that city.

While it is desirable that the shipping charges at Montreal should be reduced as low as possible, it will not suffice to stop there. The question with the shipper of grain from say Chicago or Milwaukee is not simply the relative harbor dues of New York, Boston or Montreal, but the gross cost of sending a bushel of wheat from these points forward to a good distributing point for the eastern markets, or to Liverpool.

It is true, as the Gazette points out, that New York has now almost the control of the export grain trade of the continent, and that she ships more than all the other ports combined. But why is this so? It evidently is not her harbor charges, because here are the highest of all those named, hence, we must look beyond the harbor dues for an answer. What are the advantages which New York offers which none of the other ports named offer? If we are not mistaken they are chiefly two, viz:—Cheap freight from the interior to that port and lower sea freights, by reason of the large shipping business done there.

With regard to the first, we believe it is unquestioned that a bushel of grain can be laid down from the west at New York cheaper than at any of the other ports. If this be so, why is it? The only answer we can give is that it is because the Erie Canal centres there. Other ports have their competing lines of railway from the west as well as New York, but where are they in the race? Moreover, not only does New York take the lead, but the port which comes second in the race is the only other one which has a water connection with the interior—Montreal. This proves clearly that water carriage is what will control the grain trade of the west, and that it is to the improvement of our interior water communication Montreal must chiefly look to secure her that pre-eminence as a port to which she is entitled.

It is no doubt in appreciation of this truth that we have and are expending so much money on our canals, although we fear it is in a measure at least a mis-directed expenditure. Take the Welland Canal for instance, we are spending large sums upon it for the purpose of passing large vessels between lakes Erie and Ontario, to tranship their cargoes at either Oswego or Kingston. Would it not be much better to move both Kingston, Oswego and Buffalo to the Georgian Bay as can so easily be done? Would not a route with a clear run, cheap insurance and shorter mileage from Chicago or Milwaukee, or Duluth or Thunder Bay to the Georgian Bay be preferred to one subject to the dangers and high insurance of the St. Clair and Lake Erie, were things equal from Buffalo and the Georgian Bay eastward? Undoubtedly! And yet this is just the fact that we have been ignoring in our canal policy. Ignoring it to the disadvantage of our own St. Lawrence route, because we have been spending our money quite as much to the benefit of New York as Montreal. Whereas were it spent on the Trent Valley Canal, it would not only have been shortening and cheapening the route as compared with the others, but it would have been throwing the trade into the arms of Montreal—what we as Canadians want.

With regard to ocean freights being lower from New York than Montreal, this difference will disappear as the volume of trade increases at Montreal. Secure the one and the other follows.

Entertaining these views we trust that while reducing their harbour dues to a minimum, the people of Montreal will come to see that their connections with the west are of still greater importance, and that the best move for their own and the country's interests is the extension of barge navigation from Montreal to the Georgian Bay.

THE JACKSON DISASTER.

A Passenger's Account of it—Particulars of the Collision, as Gleaned From Various Sources—A Horrible Spectacle.

From a passenger who came through to Toronto by a train from the West a few hours after the disaster, the following particulars have been obtained:—

The Pacific express train consisted of engine and tender, a New York express car, a Michigan Central way-baggage car, a Great Western through-baggage car, two Great Western second-class cars, two Michigan Central first-class coaches, and eight sleepers, of which one was a Pullman and the others Wagners. The engine, tender, and all the cars back to the sleepers were smashed, with the single exception of the New York baggage car, the escape of which is next to a miracle, and can only be accounted for by its being specially constructed of iron plates. The rear second-class car was driven through the forward first-class coach, and it seems impossible that all the first-class passengers can have escaped death and many of them injury, as has been reported. The rear first-class coach was thrown from its trucks, which were piled up among the general wreck of the forward cars, the body of the coach being thrown up transversely. Of one engine it was impossible to find a piece bigger than the body of a man, and of the other only half of the boiler remained to show that it had been a locomotive. Strange to say, it was the men on the less broken engine who were killed, those on the one smashed to atoms escaping with injuries from which it is hoped they may yet recover. The emigrants aboard the second-class cars, of whom so many are reported killed, were principly French Canadians and their tickets chiefly read to Dakota and Minnesota, though some were for Kansas and Colorado. At the time our informant left none of the dead or wounded were found to have tickets for Manitoba.

The Michigan Central Pacific Express makes connection with the Grand Trunk train which leaves Toronto at 12.15, and the Great Western train leaving at 12.50 p. m. The freight train with which the Pacific express had came into collision had left Jackson Station for Jackson Junction, a mile or more to the east, in order to go on the "long siding," and must have very near accomplished it. The yard extends this far east and a little west of Jackson depot, with sidings both north and south of the main line, along which the express train was proceeding. The freight train had been sent forward on the verbal order of the train despatcher at Jackson, who informed the freight conductor that as the express was fifty minutes behind he might safely go on with his yard work and make the "long siding," so as to run right out when the express went by. This he was not able to do, as the express made up time, which she was the better enabled to do on account of having a clear run, without a stoppage, from Ann Arbor, 38 miles east. This distance she is timed to do within 85 minutes. She must have been tearing along at a terrific pace, making up for lost time. The freight conductor has not been found, and it is supposed that he has cleared the country, having no evidence on which to justify his clearance from Jackson depot unless the mere verbal order alleged to have been given by the train despatcher.

Up to the time to which our information from an eye-witness reaches, thirty dead bodies had been taken from the wreck, and fifteen were found seriously wounded. It was then impossible to imagine the full results of the disaster in the way of death and maiming. The company did all in its power to relieve and make comfortable the injured passengers and others who had escaped death. Accommodation was provided and doctors summoned from available points along the line.

The Michigan Central Railway is considered a very ably managed and carefully conducted line. Notwithstanding its immense business and the generally high rate of speed at which its express trains are run, there have been but two very serious disasters upon it previous to this last frightful collision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Yesterday's railway disaster causes considerable excitement here. When the train with the survivors arrived their reception was enthusiastic from the throngs of ladies and gentlemen that filled the platform at the depot. All passengers except emigrants were conveyed to hotels by officers of the railroad company, where every attention was paid them. The company expresses its intention to pay each one for every loss sustained as soon as it can be determined. It is stated that the day's work will cost the company at least $100,000.

O. Parsons, of Boston, says that when he left the sleeper and first climbed through the window he could scarcely find room for his feet, so thick were the bodies of the dead and wounded. The groans of the poor mangled sufferers were horrible. Children were calling for parents, and in the inky blackness of the wrecked car mothers could be heard crying for their children, husbands for their wives, and wives for their husbands. The horror of the position cannot be depicted. One poor fellow died of strangulation, an iron bar having pinned him to the ground. The bar lay across his throat, but so great was the weight that it was impossible to rescue him. A family consisting of father, mother, and little boy, were found crushed beneath a pile of splintered timber. The husband and wife were dead. The mother's arm was clasped so tightly about the child that the little one could not be extricated from the embrace of death for several minutes. The little fellow was finally gotten out of the wreck with one of his legs broken.

The conductor of the Wagner sleepers on the doomed train gives the following particulars:—My train was made up of three Wagner sleepers with forty passengers. We left Detroit fifty minutes late, and ran forty-five miles an hour to make up, until pulling into Jackson Yard, when we slacked up to 25 miles. I was in the rear coach, dosing, when I felt slight shock. Many a time I have felt a harder jar from a common cause, but I noticed the train came to a stand very quickly. I stepped out to see what was the trouble. The brakesman said the train was smashed. I ran ahead and saw a terrible sight. The engines lay side by side up against the bank, the boilers together, as you would lay your fingers. Both cabs were off. One steam box was stripped and the steam was escaping with a shrill roar. The baggage and smoking cars stood together, and the two next cars were completely telescoped—jammed through each other. It was horrible beyond description. The first was well filled with emigrants, and their groans, cries, and shrieks made me sick. I did not stay long, as I had my own cars to look after, and could give no assistance there. Both engineer and fireman were killed outright. Gilbert had both legs cut off, and his bowels torn out, I cannot bear to think of it as I saw him lying with his hot life's blood shining in the glare of many flaring lamps.

COBOURG ASSIZES.

Sentence Passed on Montgomery for Forgery—The Case of the Indian Black.

COBOURG, October 11.—There was a crowded Court House this afternoon when the counsel for the Crown, Mr. Thomas Hodgins, Q. C., moved that sentence be passed in the convictions at the present Fall Assizes. The first to enter the box was James Algar Montgomery, of Port Hope, who had pleaded guilty to three indictments for forgery and one for fraudulently removing property. The prisoner entered the box with a quick, nervous tread, and kept his eyes steadily fixed on the floor except when he addressed the court. He was the last man one would expect to see stand where he stood. He has an intelligent face, is a good talker, and has all the make-up of a successful man of business.

Chief Justice Wilson said:—James Algar Montgomery, there are four indictments found by the Grand Jury against you—three charges of forgery, and the fourth for removing your property from the Province with intent to defraud your creditors, contrary to the insolvency law; and to each of these indictments you have pleaded guilty. Take the first one—that of the Quinlan note, have you any reason why the sentance of the Court should not be pronounced upon you?

The prisoner—My Lord, the reason I am in this position is this:—I gave accommodation paper to a firm in Toronto, J. G. Joseph & Co., for a large amount, and for which I had never received anything. That firm failed, and I saw that I was on the verge of ruin, and I resolved to extricate myself from my embarrassments. When I committed the offences with which I am charged I had no idea of ruining any man; I intended to honestly work my way back. For my acts my sorrow will only end with my existence. I have returned every dollar's worth of goods I took out of the country; I voluntarily returned from the States and confessed my guilt; and may I ask that the Court will exercise mercy in my case, so that in the future by a life of honest industry I may atone for these faults, and gain again the respect of my friends, and not crush my mother, now an old woman. This is all I have to say.

Montgomery began with a clear voice, but completely broke down when he asked for mercy and referred to his mother.

The Judge then asked the prisoner if the Quinlan note had been discounted. He could not tell from the depositions, and he had no knowledge of the facts. Montgomery replied that money had been raised on this and the other notes, but he got no personal benefit from the forgeries he had committed. The money went to J. G. Joseph & Co. Some of the men whose names had been forged would lose the amount, less what they got from his estate.

The judge next asked what the estate would pay, and Montgomery said that when he left there was $8,000 of debts and $10,000 worth of goods, and with prudent management it ought to pay at least 90 cents on the dollar.

The Chief Justice—This is a serious matter, and it is very difficult for me to deal with in some respects. I have received very strong representations in your favor, and a petition signed by nearly all your creditors in your behalf. Three of the offences are of the same character, committed by a person in business, and it is usually business people who suffer from irregular transactions of this kind; and no one ought to have known the dangers and responsibilities of entering into such transactions so well as yourself, a business man. As to the other conviction, that of fraudulently removing goods, it is true that you did return them, and gave yourself up voluntary, and it is this which induces me to take a more favourable view of your case. It may be that on further representation to the Government they may be able to deal more favourably than I can, but as far as I am concerned I think I ought to impose some degree of punishment proportionate to the nature and seriousness of the offences. The sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned in the Provincial Penitentiary for a period of two years for the first offence, and that a like punishment be imposed, for the other offences, but that the time may be concurrent, so that the entire period of punishment will be two years.

A CASE OF PERJURY.

Richard Black, the young Indian convicted of perjury in order to obtain marriage license, next stood up. He addressed the Court, but his voice could not be heard.

The Chief Justice—The charge is that you alleged in an affidavit that the father of Frances Margaret Taylor had given consent to you marrying her. It is quite plain on the evidence and upon your own letter that the statement was not true, to your knowledge, and it would appear from the evidence of Mr. Kennedy that he had told you that if consent of the father was stated in the affidavit when such consent had not been obtained it would be perjury, and notwithstanding that you immediately proceeded to another issuer of marriage license and swore out such an affidavit. Perjury at all times is a serious offence, but in it there are degrees of guilt. I am of opinion that the oath you have taken, although wilful and corrupt perjury, and manifestly against the statute, is not one of such a serious character as some others. I am inclined to think that there are some false oaths that the law ought not to prosecute, for instance where a mother swears a false oath in favor of her son. I am not prepared to say this oath you have taken should not be subject to prosecution, but I am not inclined to look upon it in as serious a light as some others. It is no difference that the object of the oath was to effect a marriage with the young woman. I have no doubt that she was as blameable as you were. You happen to suffer because you happened to make the affidavit—but I can't say that the object you had in view, the marrying of that young woman, was wrong. To take her away from home may be a wrongful act, but I do not say that your marrying her was wrong; and in cases in which the affections are strongly enlisted, some allowance ought to be made for wrongful acts made to bring about a union of this kind. All the witnesses have given you a very high character for industry and good behaviour. Your sentence is that you be imprisoned in the common gaol for five calendar months.

Some applause that broke out in the back seats was at once suppressed.

Great Fire in New Brunswick.

All the business portion of Shediac, N. B., was wiped out by fire on Sunday night. The total losses foot up about $90,000, while the insurance is less than one-quarter of that amount. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin.

The Indian Outbreak.

The latest accounts from the White River Agency reveal a tale of horrible butchery. Every employee at the Agency appears, to have been killed, and the woman and children are missing. It is conjectured that they have either been carried off as hostages or butchered.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap 25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1m

R. W. TURNER'S DEATH.

CONTINUATION OF THE CORONER'S INQUEST—THE MEDICAL TESTIMONY.

The Result of the Post Mortem Examination—Adjournment of the Inquiry Until Thursday Evening.

The inquest on the body of Robert William Turner, who died at the General Hospital on Thursday night last, from the effects of a blow alleged to have been dealt by Lawrence Smyth, was resumed by Coroner Riddel in the theatre of the hospital on Monday afternoon. There was a numerous gathering of spectators, who filled the upper benches. The prisoner, who was dressed with scrupulous care, was present in custody of a constable. He watched the proceedings with great attention, and held frequent conferences with his counsel, Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., The first witness called was MARGARET CRONY, of Hope street, who being sworn, said,—I saw Mrs. Smyth on the 20th of last month, the day she rented a house next door to where I lived in Hope street. I did not know her husband, but I saw a man there who I thought was her husband. She rented the house from a Mr. Woods, but before she did so she called at my place and asked me how many rooms were in the house. She moved in some of her things that evening, and stayed there at night. I heard a man speaking to her in the house that night. I saw the prisoner there on the 26th between ten and eleven. I first saw him standing at the front door of his wife's house. He had a little cane in his hand. I heard him say "neighbours its a nice way for a gentleman to be treated." He was looking toward me when he spoke, but I was not speaking to him. There were some children around the door at the time. Mrs. Smyth had a baby with her when she came. I heard Mr. Smyth say, while he stood at the door, "I'll murder him." He went in and she gave a scream, and he repeated the observation. I did not hear a blow, but just before his wife screamed I heard a heavy fall. I saw Smyth come out. He had cried very hard in the house. He stayed at the house more than half an hour, and I saw him going away. He did not seem to be crying as he went out. I did not notice if he carried the stick when he went out. I did not see Mrs. Smyth that day, but when it was dark I saw her going away, taking her baby with her in a carriage. Before Smyth's arrival there I saw a man cutting wood at the back of the house. He was a dark-haired man, tall and thin. His back was towards me. I do not know where the man was when I heard Mrs. Smyth scream. I did not see the man again that day, and do not know whether he was in the house or not. I did not hear or see a man leave the house after Mrs. Smyth screamed. He might have gone out without my seeing him. Mrs. Smyth left there last Thursday, and I have not see her since. I took the house after she left, and moved into it on Friday. I did not notice anything peculiar in the house. In the back room I saw some socks, a shirt and other things.

Detective BROWN produced a bundle, the address on the paper reading, "Mrs. Smyth, No. 159 Hope Street." On being opened it was found to contain a number of woollen socks, upon one of which, on a piece of cotton in indelible ink the name of "Turner" was printed. There were also two woollen shirts in the bundie. The bundle had been found in the house after Mrs. Smyth left.

WITNESS identified the sock with the name, and continued—I saw several spots of blood upon the floor. On Saturday two gentlemen called on me and asked me not to speak to any one of what I had seen and heard. One of them told me not to give up the bundle I found in the house, only on the order of the Magistrate.

To Mr. McCarthy—I never saw Mr. Smyth before the day he stood in the doorway. When I heard him speak I recognized the voice as the one I heard in the house the night before.

ANASTATIA SMITH, wife of A. E. Smith, druggist, Yorkville, sworn, said—Robert Turner, the deceased, was in my husband's employ. I did not know anything about a lady visiting him there frequently. I remember the deceased coming to the shop on Friday, the 26th complaining that he was ill. He said that he had hurt his hand, and afterwards he said that his head had been hurt. I asked him how he had been hurt, and he said he had met "that man," but he did not say what man. The next day, when my husband was absent from the store, the deceased became ill, and went to his room about five in the afternoon. Between the Friday on which he complained of not feeling well and the Saturday when he took to his bed, I noticed that he did not seem as bright as formerly. I did not see him from Saturday until Wednesday, when he was taken from our house to the hospital.

HENRY J. ROSE, druggist, sworn, said—I knew Robert W. Turner. He was in my employ as an assistant between one and two years. Mrs. Smyth was a customer at my place for a long time. When she came she seemed to prefer to be waited upon by Mr. Turner. She never came in and enquired for Turner when he was not there that I remember. I knew Mrs. Smyth as the wife of Mr. Lawrence Smyth.

CHARLES V. BERRYMAN, M. D., sworn said—I knew the deceased, but can't say how long. On Sunday evening, the 28th, I was called to see Turner by Mr. Smith, the druggist, corner of Scollard and Yonge streets, Yorkville, and found him in bed, feverish, his pulse about 100. There was a good deal of heat on the scalp, tongue densely furred. He complained of intense headaches and loss of power of the left arm and leg. I asked him how he could account for it, and he told me he had received a blow on the head. I examined his head and found a small abrasion on the left hemisphere of the skull. I came to the conclusion that there was no fracture. The tongue when protruded showed no sign of paralysis. The eyes were natural in appearance. His intellect was perfectly clear. I prescribed for him that night and saw him the next day twice. The partially paralysed condition continuing, I thought some passive effusion must be going on in the brain, and consequently the case was assuming a very serious aspect. Mrs. Smith who gave evidence here, having no servant, was anxious he should be properly nursed, and I suggested that they should telegraph to his father at Millbrook to make provision for proper nursing. I telegraphed the father, and Mr. Smith received a reply asking whether his son was dangerously ill or not. As his father did not come on that evening, I thought, it being imperative to relieve the Smiths from the nursing of the young man, that he should be removed to the hospital. Smith gave me a guarantee to the hospital for a fortnight. I took deceased in a cab to the hospital and put him in a private ward where Dr. Thorburn took charge of him. I did not see him again. On the way down to the hospital in the cab I told him he was seriously ill, and that it would be better that he should put some trace of his injury on paper. He said most positively "I will never divulge who struck me, nor where I was struck. I will die first."

JAMES THORBURN, M. D., sworn, said—I was summoned to attend the late R. W. Turner, at the Toronto General Hospital on the first of October, and his condition on admission was as follows:—Partial paralysis of left arm and leg with a small quick pulse; right pupil slightly dilated; temperature [illegible]; bowels constipated; was able to get out of bed and whenever he stood up he complained of a strong tendency to fall backwards; he was perfectly conscious, and in answer to questions he informed me that he had received a blow, some days previous to admission, on the back and upper part of his head. Upon pressure in this region he complained of pain. The symptoms remained much the same until Sunday morning, when the paralysis and loss of speech were marked, although he was conscious, as was evidenced by his protruding his tongue when requested to do so. He became more drousy and insensible, his pulse increased in frequency and quickness. On the 6th he became somewhat conscious and would respond to questions. The same condition was observed on the 7th. On the 8th he became weaker, and continued to grow more feeble until his death, which occurred a short time before midnight on Thursday, the 9th. I assisted at a post mortem examination of the deceased on the 10th inst., in the mortuary at the Toronto General Hospital. The body was that of a man about thirty years of age, well developed and nourished, five feet ten inches in height; there was no external marks of violence; the posterior surface of the body showed post mortem hypothatic congestion. At the nape of the neck the cuticle had been removed by a blister. Cranium—no signs of wound or cicatrix on external surface of the scalp. On inflecting the scalp near the posterior and inferior angle of the right parietal bone a small ecchyemosed spot about the size of a five cent piece, was observed. On removing the skull cap the external surface of the meninges of the dura mater showed great congestion of the vessels, and on removing the membrane it was found to be slightly adherent to the brain at a part nearly corresponding with the ecchymosis observed. At the base of the brain, beneath the pia mater, was observed a layer of puriform lymph. The vessels of the pia mater were gorged with blood. On cutting into the brain at the posterior and inner part of the right hemisphere above the lateral membrane, abscess containing 2 oz. of thick greenish, yellow pus, and another abscess with similar contents were met with in and over the right corpus striatum. The striatum was surrounded by a firm wall. The lateral ventricles contained a small quantity of reddish coloured fluid. The brain in the neighborhood of the abscess was somewhat softer than elsewhere—otherwise its appearance was healthy. A close examination of the inside surface of the calivarium and base of the brain showed no signs of fracture or injury, and but in spots the calivarium was unusually thin and transparent. On opening the thorax the anterior surface of both lungs were observed to be pale and collapsed, and posterially dark red from hypostatic congestion. The heart was normal. On opening the abdomen the intestines were generally found to be congested. The stomach was empty, and the mucous membrane, for the greater part of its extent, was intensely congested, as well as the mucous membrane of the small intestines and secum. The liver, spleen and kidneys were healthy—the bladder contracted and empty. From the symptoms and history of the case, and from the post mortem appearance of the body, I am of opinion that death was caused by concussion and compression of the brain.

To Mr. McCarthy—The appearances I have described might have been caused by a fall. I could not form any idea as to the length of time it required to create the pus.

To a Juror—The deceased told me he had received a blow in the head a few days before, but declined to say how. He also said that he had been troubled with headache.

Dr. BERRYMAN, recalled—When I first saw the deceased and noticed the paralytic condition of the left arm and leg and had examined those parts. I said "there is the connection between cause and effect." And he said "No, Dr. Berryman, you are mistaken. This numbness in my arm and headache have been coming on for some time."

C. O'REILLY, M.D., medical superintendent Toronto General Hospital, described the condition of deceased at the time of his admission, and the changes that occurred up to his death. Dr. Riddel attended for the purpose of taking any declaration deceased might wish to make. The witness was present at the post mortem examination made by Dr. Thornburn, and corroborated evidence of it given.

At this stage the enquiry was adjourned until Thursday evening next at 7.30.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

Arrangements in Progress for it—The Provisions Made for Members of the Press.

JAMESTOWN, N.Y., Oct. 10.—An engineer is surveying the course for the Hanlan-Courtney race. The steamer Waukegan is engaged as referee's boat. The branch railway around the course is half done. Private parties are building barges, and already are selling reserved seats. Special trains are being engaged at various points. The Committee of Arrangements have issued a notice stating that members of the press will have the option either to go on the grand stand, central cars of the observation train, or follow the race on the home stretch—that is, over two miles and a half from the turning buoys to the finish. No boat will be allowed to follow the race from the start to the turning buoys except the referee's boat. No one will be allowed on the grand stand, cars, or boats provided for the press, without showing credentials. All papers proposing to send representatives should telegraph Mr. O. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the Buffalo, Chautauqua Lake, and Pittsburg Railway at Mayville, forthwith. Accommodations will be provided for but one representative of each newspaper.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

A Merchant's Bank Ledger-Keeper Arrested—He Pleads Guilty to the Charge.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Chas. Lancaster, who has been employed at the Merchant's Bank here as ledger-keeper, was arrested to-day on an information charging him with embezzling $1,000 from the bank. He enjoyed a high character for integrity and was greatly trusted, but he seems to have fallen into bad hands. Shortly after he was arrested another man, named Geo. Rowe, was also taken into custody for receiving part of the stolen property. Lancaster is but eighteen years of age, and his companion, Rowe, some ten years his senior. It is alleged that he was induced by Rowe to make false entries and take the money, and afterwards compelled to divide with him. The special embezzlement referred to of $1,000 was effected eighteen months ago, but since then it is alleged other sums have been appropriated, making in all about $2,000. It is understood that three thefts were committed at the repeated instigation of Rowe, who prevailed over his young companion by threats of exposure, but this remains to come out in evidence. A preliminary examination was held this afternoon, when Lancaster pleaded guilty to the charge. He is considered less guilty than Rowe, who is alleged to have systematically blackmailed him.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 15.—The market this morning opened dull, although there were an increased number of farmers and truck-raisers in. The hot weather serves to take away all ambition, and the people become useless, and the market seems to be in sympathy. Vegetables continue fresh and vigorous, and are increasing in size. Some very fine cauliflowers and cabbages, raised upon the land of Mr. John Bell, in the south-west part of the town, were exhibited. One cabbage a few days ago was brought into the REVIEW Office, and measured 15 inches in diameter, 45 inches in circumference, and weighed, upon Messrs. Rush & Elliott's scales, 16½ pounds. This immense cabbage was purchased by Bailey & Co. for 15 cents. Mr. Bell has sold many cabbages this season of similar size and weight, which realized from 10 to 15 cents each. There is no change in prices to note. Several loads of hay was brought in, and and sold at $7.00. Straw made its appearance, and $2.50 was bid; $3.00 asked. There is little demand for straw.

LOCAL NEWS

I. O. F.

Court Peterborough of the Independent Order of Foresters will meet in their hall to-night.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: moderate winds and clear to cloudy, warm weather. Peterborough reports moderate southeasterly to south-westerly winds, clear, warm weather. Some term it "hot."

Trent Valley Canal.

There will be a meeting to-morrow afternoon at half past two o'clock in the Town Council Chamber to consider the best means of forwarding the construction of the Trent Valley Canal. Delegates from the municipalities interested will be in attendance.

Large Receipt of Teas.

We noticed on Wednesday afternoon a large quantity of new teas piled up in front of T. W. Robinson & Co's grocery store on Simcoe Street, which had just been laid down for that firm. There were 108 half chests in the pile, which gave one some idea of the large trade which must be done in teas by this well-known firm.

Idyl Wild.

To-morrow being the regular excursion day to Idyl Wild, parties will do well to avail themselves of the opportunity of another pleasant trip down the river to Rice Lake, during this delight summer weather. The season is not likely to last much longer. The King Fisher leaves to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock. Return fare only 50 cents.

College Distinction.

We notice among the name of matriculants of this year at Victoria University, the name of W. A. Campbell, son of the Classical Master of our Collegiate Institute. Master Campbell took the very creditable position of first man in classics, which is all the more honorable in having been contended for by candidates from some of the best High Schools and Collegiate Institutes in the Province.

Foot Ball.

We learn that the return match between the the Trinity College School, of Port Hope, and the Peterborough Foot Ball Club is to take place some day next week. We hope that they will practice steadily and endeavor to wipe out their last defeat. The School has a powerful team, and will require some considerable work to beat.

The Grain Market.

The excitement of yesterday has subsided. Shippers are refusing to pay the advance of yesterday, and will not buy at above $1.18, for very choice wheat, $1.16 @ $1.18 being their figures. The millers are paying the advance to secure the grain. Barley is pouring in on a strong market; the ruling figure for best white heavy grain is 60c. The largest proportion, however, went at 56 @ 58. No oats have come in.

Personal.

We have pleasure in calling attention to the fact that Mons. Maurice, teacher of the French language, a native of Paris, France, and educated at the Lycee Bonaparte, in that city, is in town, endeavoring to form classes for the study of his native tongue. This gentleman brings the best of testimonials. Those desirous of obtaining instruction, either privately or in classes, will be waited upon by Mons. Maurice if they will leave their address with Mr. Jeffers, the Principal of the Collegiate Institute.

The Midland Freight.

Last evening a special train of 17 cars left Peterborough for the front, 13 being box cars loaded with flour, wheat, and barley, and the rest cars of lumber. The President, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, informs us that the business of the road along the whole line has increased, and is demanding their closest attention. Empty cars are being supplied to accommodate shippers at all points with as much dispatch as the facilities of the road will permit. Peterborough has had all the attention that is possible with the track facilities afforded.

The Streets and Traffic.

The town was unusually quiet at early morning, but as the day advanced the streets became more lively and at 11 o'clock George street had assumed its usual busy appearance. The constant stream of farm waggons bringing in wheat, barley, hay and other products together with the many loads of lumber that pass through it for shipment, gives the stranger an impression of thrift. The market square, Peterborough's "Corn Exchange," has been crowded nearly all day, with grain sellers holding on for higher bids, which makes it somewhat exciting at times.

Destruction by Fire.

The dwelling of Mr. Jas. Henry Best, Emily, was destroyed by fire on Saturday last, together with a greater part of his furniture. The fire is supposed to have been caused by the pipe of a hired man. Mr. Best had just completed and moved into the new house when the fire occurred. His former residence, which was of brick, was destroyed by fire in August last. At that time most of his furniture was saved. There was no insurance in either case, and the loss may be counted a calamity. Within two months a dwelling is destroyed by fire and another is built, the family move in, and it is burned. Mr. Best will receive the sympathy of the public as well as of his friends.

The Best is the Cheapest.

That the best is the cheapest is very generally admitted, but the difficulty is often to tell which is the best. To the uninitated, or inexperienced the safest way is to rely, where it can be done, on the maker's guarantee. But if this rule is generally appliable it is still more so in the case of petroleum, from the use of which, accidents of a serious character not unfrequently occur, and consumers will naturally desire to buy it under circumstances, which make it the manufacturers interest that it should be all that he represents. It is no doubt in realization of this fact, that Messrs. J. L. Englehart & Co, oil refiners of Petrolia, are advertising their "Silver Star" Petroleum, in the manner in which they are doing thoroughout the Dominion. As they are making themselves in this way directly responsible for the quality of every gallon of this brand sold to consumers, we think purchasers will have the best guarantee that it is all that it is represented, as should it prove otherwise; they would be held directly responsible, and suffer considerable loss in addition to the advertisement which appears in another column. We are requested to state that Mr. Henry Best is in a position to supply the trade as well as consumers with "Silver Star" Petroleum.

Kempt's Drug Store.

There has been a complete transformation in Kempt's drug store on George street. The old nine-light window has disappeared and in its place a new handsome plate glass has been substituted. The entrance has also been changed to correspond with the window. The counter, tops and shelving are of cherry oiled. The counter fronts, cornices and other woodwork have been improved with white paint and china gloss; the shelving cornices are now handsomely ornamented with gold leaf. The walls are painted a pale green, the ceiling white with a gold bronzed beading all around. The different shades make a pleasant contrast. Another new improvement has been made in the rear end of the store facing the front door, where a new counter has been placed which is to have a stained glass top, and is intended for the dispensing department. The laboratory is in the back room adjoining the store, making it convenient to the dispenser. The general arrangement of the drugs, patent medicines and fancy goods reflects credit upon the new manager, Mr. John McKee, who evidently has had good experience and understands this business. The painting and decorating is the handiwork of Mr. Watson. The business of this old established drug store has been increasing under its present management, and hence the necessity for the improvements and changes.

The Fire Alarms.

The mistake made by the fire department at the recent fire at Wm. Hamilton's foundry on Reid street, and the remarks in the REVIEW regarding fire alarms have caused a discussion upon the subject. The Mayor and Chief Engineer of the Fire Brigade have agreed upon a plan to be observed in case of fire. It is or ought to be known that the Roman Catholic Church and the English Church bells are at the service of the town in case of fire. It is proposed to sound the alarm according to the number of the ward in which the fire takes place, and that the bell nearest the fire is to be sounded Should a fire take take place in the first ward, then the bell is to be struck once, waiting a sufficient time to mark a distinction. For the Second Ward two strokes and a stop; and so on for the Third and Fourth Wards. It is desirable that when a fire takes place, if in the west end the Catholic bell should be struck, 1 for First Ward, 2 for Second and so on. When the fire is nearer to the English Church that bell should be sounded in like manner. The observance of these rules would at once indicate the locality of the fire, and the operations of the firemen would be greatly facilitated. This is a movement in the right direction and must if attended to result in the saving of much property that otherwise would be destroyed.

Foot Ball.

A foot ball match was played on Saturday last between Trinity College School, Port Hope, and the Peterborough Club, on the grounds of the former. The Peterborough team left town by the 10.05 train; but in consequence of delays did not reach Port Hope until about half past one, when they were in very good condition for doing justice to the dinner provided for them at the St. Lewrence Hall, by the School team. After dinner they proceeded to the school grounds, which are about a mile out of Port Hope. Having won the choice of goals, Mr. Rogers, the Peterborough Captain determined to play uphill for the first half time. As soon as the ball was kicked off, it was very evident that the School team were playing in much better form than their opponents, their combined play contrasting very strongly with the divided and individual efforts of the Peterborough "forwards." The game had been scarcely going on ten minutes, when the ball was kicked behind the Peterborough goal, and one of the School team succeeded in touching it down. The "try" at the goal was successful, thus scoring one goal for Port Hope. The Peterborough team seemed to be slightly roused by their misfortune and kept the ball well to the middle of the field, when, after some very good play on both sides, a successful "run in" was made by one of the Peterborough team; but unfortunately the try at goal was not successful. The advantage of playing down hill enabled the School to keep the ball well down on the Peterborough goal, and shortly before half time was called, the ball was again kicked behind the Peterborough goal and touched down by one of the School team. Another goal was scored by the School by this try. Half time wrs now called, and after a few minutes rest the ball was again kicked off, Peterborough again kicking down hill. The play thoroughout the rest of the match was very exciting, the ball rarely leaving the centre of the field, and only then to be sent back again by the "backs" of the different sides. The Peterborough team showed decidedly better form during the latter part of the game, but it was very apparent that they had not the staying powers of their opponents. When time was called by the referee, the ball was in the centre of the field, leaving the School team the winners of a very closely contested game by two goals to one try. It is perhaps fair to Peterborough to say that they were disappointed by four of their best players, and were therefore compelled to fill up the vacancies with men who were not accustomed to play together. The return match will be played here next week, when our club hopes to give a better account of itself.

ANTI-RENT IN IRELAND.

Monster Proclamation of Discontent—Meath County Demonstration on Sunday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Herald's special from Navan, of the 12th says:—The scene witnessed here to-day was more like an uprising of an enfranched people than a monster proclamation of Ireland's discontent with its rulers. From daylight crowds poured into the town. All were on foot, and every man, woman, and child carried green boughs. Every house was shrouded with greenery, and even the meanest hovels hung out their garlands. The chapel was thronged all morning with devout congregations at service. The priests bade them maintain the greatest order during the day. At 11 o'clock in the morning the place was thronged with frieze-coated country people, who formed in parade and marched behind bands dressed in beautiful uniforms of white and gold, exact counterparts of those worn during the Emmett celebrations. As far away as two miles from the railway the rords were densely packed. The platforms at the station were occupied by a Committee of priests and other members of the popular deputation. There were triumphal arches in every corner, bearing such mottoes as "Down with the Land Robbers," "Parnell for Ireland," "Ireland for Parnell," "Home Rule," "Liberty for the people," and so forth. As soon as the whistle of the arriving train was heard the band struck up "See the conquering hero comes." Parnell was received with frantic outbursts of cheers, and enthusiastically carried to a carriage which was waiting outside. The party included Messrs. Sullivan, O'Connor Power, O'Sullivan, and Biggar. They were preceded triumphial procession, which escorted them into town. The windows were thronged with ladies, and many priests were noticeable along the road to the hotel. The women rushed forward to shake hands with the hero of to-day. Thousands came by train from Dublin, with a brave display of bunting. Drogheda, Athboy, Dundalk, and even Belfast, sent large deputations. It is computed that at least 30,000 people were in town. The streets were constantly paraded by armed police, who, however, were allowed to pass unnoticed.

C. Munro's Sentence Commuted.

BARRIE, Oct. 13.—The death sentence passed upon Chester Munro at the late Assizes, for the murder of Thomas Cook in June last, has been commuted to imprisonment in the Kingston Penitentiary for seven years. Great satisfaction is generally felt at the result of the many petitions sent to the Minister of Justice.

War with the Bagmen

IT having come to our knowledge that certain travellers for Paper Bags have been offering to sell to Peterborough merchants at various percentages lower than our quotations, in the hope of damaging our business in this Department, we have determined to make the following

STANDING OFFER

NAMELY:—

We will sell our Paper Bags CHEAPER than the very best bona fide offer made to any Merchant in Peterborough, FREE of Freight or other Charges.

THE GREAT RACE OFF!

COURTNEY'S BOATS CUT IN A MYSTERIOUS MANNER—NO OTHERS SUIT HIM.

Fine Weather and Crowds of Spectators—Hanlan the Favourite—Great Excitement and Strange Rumors.

By Telegraph to the Review.

MAYVILLE, Oct. 16, 10 a.m.—The water was a little hazy this morning, but it is as fine as can be now. The race is put down for between 3 and 6 o'clock. It is likely to take place at five o'clock.

HEAVY BETTING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—The Graphic's Mayville report estimates the number of strangers present to witness the great race to-day, at from twenty to thirty thousand. The amount of money staked on the result is enormous. The betting is getting very nearly even, long odds no longer being offered. The weather is charming and the water is like a mirror. Both men are very confident. Hanlan's friends slyly convey the impression that their man's condition is not what it should be, but this is only intended to effect the betting; both are in excellent form. Courtney expresses his confidence to his friends more freely than he has ever done before. He has never been in as good condition and the weather which may prove slightly, enervating to Hanlan is of the sort to which he is thoroughly used and which he evidently enjoys.

COURTNEY'S BOATS CUT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A Mayville special says that Courtney's boat was sawed in two during the night. We are awaiting the decision of the referee as to the race coming off.

MAYVILLE, N.Y., Oct. 16.—The great boat race has come to a most inglorious end. Late this morning the air was full of rumors that Courtney's boats were stove in, or that they had been cut last night. Courtney's nephew and Burt Brown, who had been with him as attendants and taking care of his boats last evening, about 6 o'clock left the boat house, locking it on the shore side with a padlock, and on the river side simply hooking it, and driving a nail over the hook. On returning about 8 from a trip to the village, 2 miles distant, they found the river door had been forced, the nail broken, and the boats both cut with a saw. The one built for the race was cut two-thirds through, 12 feet 10 inches from the bow. The working boat was cut entirely through, 6 feet 4 inches from the stern. The two men kept the matter a secret from Courtney till this morning. What will be done as to postponing the race or disposing of the prize is not known. The referee, officers and backers of the two men are now in consultation.

MYSTERIOUS FEATURES.

It will take at least 10 days to get another boat built. The feeling is a general one of distrust as to the part Courtney took in the matter, many believing that he or his men are at the bottom of it, while another story from a reliable source is that Frenchy Johnston was at Courtney's quarters this morning at nearly nine o'clock, and polished up both boats that were cut and knew nothing of the course of affairs. There was found in the boat house an old rusty crosscut saw, with seven teeth to the inch, large and course enough to cut a saw log, while the cut in the boats is a clean one, evidently made with a finer instrument. Hanlan, it is reported, in speaking of the boats yesterday, said, "I would give a thousand dollars now if I had a boat like Courtney's.

COURTNEY'S BACKERS FURIOUS.

Courtney claims that Johnston's boat is too light for him, and has refused to accept the use of one of Hanlan's boats as being unused to it, and placing him at marked disadvantage. Courtney's backers swear revenge, and loudly express their opinion that he caused the boats to be cut himself. Courtney, it is understood, asks 10 to 20 days postponement. The lake never was more beautiful than to-day. Every train brings a large accession to the already large throng. The referee and officers in charge of the affairs are still in session and no reporters are admitted.

INDISCRIBABLE EXCITEMENT.

The excitement is perfectly indiscribable, and the consultation being held with closed doors, nothing can be learned.

THE SCULLING RACE.—The following has just been received from Hanlan's backer:—"Things are perfectly satisfactory. Hanlan is well and confident. The betting is 100 to 80. I am reasonably confident that we will win."

STRANGE DEATH.—A very melancholy accident happened near this village about 6 o'clock, Mrs. Hazad set fire to a large dead hemlock which was standing near the house. The roots had become loosened from the action of the fire, and the unfortunate woman, fearing the tree would fall upon the house, kept around it and endeavoured to pull it the other way. It fell upon her, killing her instantly. She leaves a husband and three small children.

TIMID LOAN HOLDERS.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Times correspondent at Oldham says the position of many limited companies there is very grave indeed. A few have gone into liquidation because their loan capital has been hastily withdrawn. One of the largest concerns with a nominal capital of £150,000, which during last year was compelled to repay £40,000 to timid loan holders, has gone into liquidation to prevent further hasty withdrawals.

EARTHQUAKE IN HUNGARY.

PESTH, Oct. 16.—Shocks of an earthquake continue in South Hungary. No serious catastrophe has yet occurred, but people are in a state of continual suspense.

CASPIAN SEA CABLE.

BAKU, Oct. 16.—The Caspian sea sub-marine telegraph cable was successfully laid on October 14th.

POPE AND PRESIDNT.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Monsignor Czaoti, the newly-appointed Papal Uuncio at Paris has presented his credentials to President Grevy. Czaoti said he counted upon the President's kindness and the support of his Government to bring about a perfect agreement between Church and State. The Union of Church and State, he said, was the best protection for their common interests, and to afford the mutual satisfaction of those interests was the principal aim of his mission. Grevy replied that the maintenance and strengthening of the good relations between France and the Holy See was an object of constant solicitude to the French Government.

GAMBETTA'S RIVAL.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A Paris despatch says concerning Gambetta's views on the plenary amnesty, that even supposing he were ostensibly to support the amnesty he could not have any very ardent desire for its adoption. Were Gambetta to enable Rochefort to return to Paris, he would simply create for himself a troublesome opponent if not a rival. Were Rochefort to stand for Belleville at the next election for members of the chamber of deputies he would assuredly run Gambetta very close.

AMERICAN.

SUSPECTED MURDER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—John McManns, aged sixty, died on Sept. 19th, as was supposed of the effects intemperance, but it is now charged that he was murdered for $6,000 which he had hoarded in his apartments.

HORSEWHIPPED BY A WOMAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Bernard Beyer, editor of the Hoboken Democrat was horsewhipped in the public square at Hoboken yesterday by Mrs. Pigott, a young married woman, who alleges that Beyer had circulated reports against her character.

THE LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 16.—The Grand International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers opened their annual session, yesterday. A hundred and fifty members from all parts of the country and Canada were present.

APACHE DEPREDATIONS.

DENVER, Oct. 16.—Despatches from Santa Fe indicate that the Apache Indians under Victoria had not been completely whipped. On Tuesday news came of the massacre of citizens near Hillsboro, the scene of the former difficulties. The despatch states that the Indians made their appearance in Mesilla Valley on Saturday and continued murdering and fighting on Saturday and Sunday. A party of thirty men were attacked by about a hundred Indians and so far not one escape is reported. Nine men and two families, with the exception of two persons were killed at McEvans Ranche, fifteen miles from Hillsboro, the women being outraged previous to being killed and the bodies of the men being burned. Loyd's Ranche, near by, was burned and several Mexicans were killed. It is believed that the Indians scattered before the advance of the soldiers and again consolidated in the rear, committing the depredations reported. It is thought that the Indians have been reinforced from Mexico. There are three hundred and fifty soldiers in the field and authority has been granted to enlist twenty-four Navajo scouts. A war meeting was held in the office of Governor Wallace in Santa Fe, and a committee of safety was appointed. The Territorial Officers have telegraphed to the Secretary of war and General Pope for rations for five hundred men for sixty days.

IMPORT OF COIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Suevia from Europe to-day brought $411,000 in gold coin.

THE BALKAN PRINCIPALITIES.

BELGRADE, Oct. 16.—The relations between Roumania and Servia are now extremely cordial, and it is believed there will be an offensive and defensive alliance between the Balkan principalities.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

IRON FOR THE STATES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Pall Mall Gazette mentions as an evidence of the eagerness of the American demand for iron that one of the principal railways just sold for American account 30,000 tons of old iron rails at £4 per ton or about the price new rails commanded two months ago.

THE SLANDERED BEAUTIES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Mr. Rosenberg, the editor of the society paper charged with libelling Mrs. West, appeared in court to-day as a prisoner, and made abject apologies to the ladies. He pleaded ignorance of the writing in question about Mrs. Langtry's divorce, and gave the name of the journalist who had written the paragraphs. He denied that there was any malice in what had been reported. The court refused to reduce the prisoner's bail, and he was remanded for trial.

AMERICAN.

PLUNDERING THE TREASURY.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 15.—The county ledgers and almost all the county vouchers for thirteen years were stolen last night. An investigation committee has been examining them to ascertain what moneys have been plundered from the treasury. It is supposed the parties inculpated employed accomplices to do the act. The robbery will retard but not defeat investigation.

CANADA'S POLICY.

An Interview with the Dominion's Finance Minister—Protection and the Business Revival of Canada.

Sir Leonard Tilley, Finance minister of the Dominion of Canada, was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday, and in the course of a conversation with a Herald reporter the honorable gentleman gave expression to some interesting views as to the present protective policy of Canada, and topics more or less connected with it.

"Is it true," asked the reporter, "that the Cabinet intended to adopt a modification of your protective policy?"

"No," was Sir Leonard's reply; "as far as we can judge at present these statements are merely rumors. The Cabinet will maintain the policy as it stands now."

"Is the temper of the Canadian people not favorable to such modification?"

"No; the people are well satisfied with its results thus far. Of course in Montreal and in the upper provinces generally this satisfaction is more marked than in the lower provinces, where the manufacturing interest is as yet much smaller, and where capital, which there has been largely invested in shipping, has been suffering so greatly that it has thus far failed to go as extensively into manufactures as it will. But I predict that in twelve months the good results of our protective policy will be as marked in the lower provinces as they are in Montreal and Ontorio."

BUSINESS REVIVAL IN CANADA.

"In what have these result manifested themselves so far, Sir Leonard?"

"Well, our severe business depression in Canada is over, and an era of great revival of business has set in with us as with you. The gentlemen who was talking with me when I received your card was just giving me another proof of it. He represents one of the leading railways of Canada, and says he has just come here to lease more cars, as the road he represents is unable to move the immense amount of freight going over its line."

"May not this increase of business be accounted for by your large crops?"

"Of course, good crops will help any country. Your good crops are no doubt helping you greatly in your present revival. But there is something more than that in our revival of business. Manufacturers are beginning to feel the stimulus which our protective policy is giving them. At first, of course, they do not feel it in so marked a degree as they will by and by. When the present tariff went first into effect we had on hand large quantities of stock in every description of trade, and it takes some time to dispose of these. The full beneficent effect of our policy will probably not be felt until next year."

RECIPROCITY STILL DESIRABLE.

"Are you so wedded to your policy that you regard it preferable to a fair reciprocity between the two countries?"

"Not at all. We agree that a fair reciprocity would be more advantageous for both countries, and are still open to any proposition which the United States Government may make to us. You know that the last proposed treaty was rejected by your Senate because they feared it would allow English manufactured goods to be brought in an unfinished condition to Canada, and thence free of duty into the United States, to the injury of your own manufactures. I think that was a groundless fear, but still the Senate probably supposed they knew best their duty toward the American people. We are perfectly willing and ready at any moment, and have the authority of Parliament to meet the United States half-way in any proposed plan o reciprocity regarding the natural productions of the two countries, and to reduce our tariff in precisely the same proportions you reduce it, or to abolish the duty altogether if you abolish it."

THE PROPOSED BASIS.

"On any article?"

"Oh no, that would hardly be fair. Take, for instance, corn. It might be well enough for the United States government to say to us, 'You admit our corn free of duty and we'll admit yours', for Canada only imports corn and does not export it. Again, it would be unfair for us to say to the United States Government, 'You admit our barley free and we'll admit yours', for that is an article of produce in which we deal soley for exportation. No, reciprocity would have to be established on some fair and equitable basis, as, for instance, was that of the treaty of 1854. Our present tariff has been called a prohibitive one. As a matter of fact, it is not over fifty per cent. as high as yours, with the sole exception of woollen goods."

"IT IS YOUR TURN NOW."

"Has anything been done recently to bring the two countries together?"

"The Government of Canada have on two or three occasions approached the United States Government on the subject, but always unsuccessful, and, having taking authority from the Parliament of Canada to deal with certain articles of production of both countries, we prefer waiting the advances of our American neighbors. It is your turn now."

"Has your present visit to Washington any reference to this subject?"

"None whatever."

"What is the present current of trade between Canada and the United States?"

"The imports from the United States have increased for the last five years, while our imports from England have fallen off nearly fifty per cent. during the same period."

"What is the cause of this remarkable change?"

"Your manufactures have found a market for their surplus stock in Canada at reduced prices, underselling in many cases the English manufactures, and, as a consequence, diminishing the operations of our own manufacturers. What we are doing at present is really to save our infant Canadian industries."

"Have you heard the rumor that Secretary Evarts is in favor of a zollverein (tariff union) between the two countries, thus practically uttering them as far as the tariff is concerned?"

"I do not know what Mr. Evarts' views are on the suject," and Sir Leonard Tilley smiled significantly, as though he knew a good deal more than he cared to say.

The interview here terminated, Sir Leonard being called away by his wife, who desired him to add directly and immediately to the commercial prosperity of this country by going with her on a shopping tour among the fashionable bazaars of New York.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 9.

THE N. P. AND PRICES.

THE Mail and Globe are having a battle royal over the effect of the N. P. on the price of grain which we think is exceedingly foolish from whichever side it be viewed. The Globe threw down the gauntlet by publishing a column of figures to prove that because of the N. P., the farmers were getting less for their grain than they would have done, had it not been in existence, and to which we have already referred as foolish, because an unfair and inapplicable statement. To this the Mail replies with a number of figures, proving that since the inauguration of the N. P., farmers have got a better price for everything except barley than previously—a fair enough argument, as a reply to that of the Globe, but equally foolish and inapplicable, when used to justify the statement that the present high prices are due to the N.P. As we have said before, Legislation can help things, but that does not mean that it can do everything. The duty on wheat and flour helped prices last spring, but is not helping them further than to help to even up the price of spring, as compared with fall wheat at the present time, and for the Mail to argue that it is doing so is quite as foolish as for the Globe to argue that the difference in the price of barley this year as compared with last is due to the N.P. Were it necessary or desirable we could easily take the figures given by both these journals, and prove therefrom that the conclusions drawn by both are foolish if nothing worse, but we do not really think it worth the powder. We merely notice the subject now to enter our protest against the line of argument adopted by both these journals on this subject, and to express our regret that the Mail should have so far justified the Globe in pursuing a similar policy when it may tell with the ignorant and unthinking. Clearly if every rise in price which has taken place in grain since the 15th March last is attributable to the N. P. when falls take place it must be equally responsible. As a supporter and advocate of the N. P., we believe it is capable of influencing and has had a beneficial effect on prices, but to claim that it is responsible for all and every change is the height of absurdity. Had there been an abundant instead of a short crop in Europe this season, prices would have gone down as compared with last year in spite of the N. P., but that would not in our estimation have proved the N. P. to be a failure, much less injurious as the Globe seeks to make out. On the other hand if it would not have been responsible for a good crop in Europe, it is equally clear it cannot claim the credit of what arises out of a bad crop in the same countries. The fact of the matter is both these journals are running to absurd extremes on this subject, and as a consequence with all intelligent people are doing the side they espouse more harm than good.

THE banquet at Quebec last night, in honour of Sir John Macdonald was a brilliant success. Sir John, in returning thanks when his health was proposed, referred to the success of his mission to England.

THE EAST RIDING EXHIBITION.

The best Ever Held in the District—Numerous Exhibits—the Village of Norwood Crowded—the Prize List.

The Exhibition of the East Riding of the County of Peterborough Agricultural Society, held at Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday last, surpassed any of its predecessors in every respect. For the first time in several years the effort of the people of the East Riding has been concentrated on one exhibition—neither Otonabee or Dummer having one of their own this season, and the result is that the interest taken in it, and consequently the Exhibition itself, surpass any previous one, and indicates that the numerous exhibitions held every year would prove better and more advantageous were their numbers decreased. As we give below the prize list it is unnecessary for us to mention, in more than a general way, the exhibits. On entering the Drill Shed the first thing that would strike the eye of the visitor was the large display of ladies' work as compared with that at the Central Exhibition recently held in Peterborough. The display of fruit was also very good, and it is to be regretted that the apples shown by Mr. Blizard, M.P.P., were not also exhibited at Peterborough, as we are inclined to think they would have surpassed anything shown at the latter place. Indeed it is a matter of serious regret that many of the articles exhibited at Norwood were not on exhibition at Peterborough. There is no use trying to have these larger exhibitions unless they prove the means of bringing together the best from all parts of the district. We cannot account for their non-appearance, otherwise than that our East Riding friends have quite too modest an opinion of their own productions. In the stock department, the only thing worthy of special notice is the fact that in the East Riding as elsewhere, Ayrshires are rapidly becoming the favourite breed of cattle, as evidenced by the thorough bred Ayrshire bulls on exhibition. The entries this year reached the unprecedently large number of   and the number of paying visitors was between fifteen and sixteen hundred. As for Norwood, we believe we are safe in saying that so many people were never seen within its precincts at one time before.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. These days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap—25 cents a bottle. w41-d60-1m

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

A Girl Fifteen Years of Age Gone Astray From Her Home in London.

The London Advertiser says:—The friends of a girl named Lavinia Nichols are much distressed by her mysterious disappearance from her home. The girl in question, who is only fifteen years of age, has been living with her widowed mother and her brother, at 310 Simcoe street, and was employed at Mrs. Montague's dressmaking establishment. On Friday afternoon she left her home ostensibly for the purpose of returning to work, but this, it appears, she did not do as it has since been discovered that she went down the river instead, taking with her a neighbor's child. She returned on the 4 o'clock boat and took the child nearly home, and came back in the direction of the city. Her brother, who was going home about half-past five, saw her not far ahead of him, and she was then going towards home, but when she arrived at the corner of Henry and Simcoe streets she turned west again instead of east, and that is the last that has been seen of her. Her prolonged absence has greatly alarmed her friends, who will gladly receive any information of her whereabouts. She is of rather small statute for her age, and looks young. When last seen she was dressed in a light dress with dark overskirt, and white straw hat. She has only been in the city about four months, and is not thoroughly acquainted with the streets yet.

The missing girl is a sister of James Nichols, formerly of this town, and who was an apprentice in the REVIEW Office.

DEATH IN THE CAMP.

TROY, N.Y., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Seymour Talmadge, of Stillwater, was fatally burned last night by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM is composed of the most healing balsams and gums. The Balsams, which enter into its composition, were used by the natives when America was first discovered, and are combined with other vegetable tonics, so blended together, that it is a specific for all affections of the throat and lungs. Thousands of bottles are used annually, and it is considered one of the standard preparations of the day.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d60-1m

INFERNAL MACHINE IN A DRAWER OF AN ATTORNEY'S DESK.

Arranged so that a Pull at a Knob Would Discharge Four Heavily-loaded Pistol Barrels—An Office Boy's Narrow Escape.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—A heavy explosion shook the building 229 South Sixth street this morning. Lawyers all along the street were startled, and rushed to the door in a body. A thick cloud of smoke rolled out upon them, impregnated with a strong smell of sulphur. In a corner of a law office on the first floor a boy was lying with his left hand nearly blown off. A desk standing near the window was badly shattered, and in the drawer, which was still smoking, was a machine invented for no other purpose than to cause the death of the person undertaking to disturb the desk.

No. 229 is a lawyer's office. The room is on the first floor, and is occupied by Robert A. Parrish, Jr., John Shallcross, John Busby, and Robert L. Pyle. Mr. Parrish had desk room only. He is a member of the Philadelphia bar, but rarely practices. His desk was close to the window, and it was in this desk that the infernal machine was placed.

IT WAS A CURIOUS AFFAIR,

and so very nicely arranged that the slightest pull at the drawer would set it off. The drawer was one of three or four others belonging to a desk five feet long by three feet wide. In it was a solid piece of wood, on which were securely fixed three pistol barrels, fully nine inches in length, with large bores. Screws kept the barrels in their places. The bores pointing directly to the front. To the right was the top of an ordinary blotting pad, on which was a piece of chemically prepared emery paper, such as is used for striking patent matches, and under it were many heads of patent matches, around which was scattered a quantity of gunpowder. The supposition is that a train of powder was laid to the nipple of each pistol barrel. In addition to all this was an ingenious arrangement of wires, so that when the drawer was opened the emery paper would scratch over the matches, the powder trains would be ignited, and the pistols discharged. The barrels were loaded with heavy slugs, and so heavily charged that one of the pistols burst. Underneath the drawer was still another barrel, the size of a horse pistol, also arranged to explode should the drawer be disturbed. The machine was so successfully contrived that it worked just as the maker of it intended, and the wonder is that it had not sooner exploded, as it must have evidently been there some days. A shake of the desk would have been almost sufficient to have set the thing off. Right in front of the desk an armchair had been placed, as though

INVITING ONE TO SIT DOWN.

Had any one sat there for a moment and carelessly toyed with the knob on the drawer, he would have been pierced with slugs and instantly killed.

The only person present at the time of the explosion was Willie McDowell, a boy of seventeen, employed about the office. According to his own story, he leaned over the desk to pull down the window, his foot slipped, and, in falling, he clutched the knob of the drawer, and the explosion followed. His hand was badly mangled, and part of the flesh was found sticking to the infernal machine. He was taken to the hospital and his hand was amputated. The boy is very nervous and excited, and only physicians are allowed to see him. The force of the explosion was tremendous. How many slugs were rammed into the barrels is not known The arm-chair was pierced and torn by the bullets, and two went through the inch thick door, and buried themselves in a bundle of papers piled up in another room, cutting a hole in them an inch long. In this small room was a desk, in front of which was a chair over which the slunga passed. Had any one been sitting in the chair he would have met instant death. The lock of the drawer was burried in the chair, the front of the drawer torn to pieces, the drawer alongside smashed, and one of the legs of the desk shattered. The glass over the desk was smashed, and slugs were found on the floor.

Why the machine was constructed is a mystery. The police think that Parrish put it in the desk, and this afternoon a warrant was granted for his arrest. He has a place at Masonville, N.J., and detectives have gone to look for him there. Pharrish is forty-five or fifty years old. He has not been at his office since the middle of last week. He is and had a notion that thieves were always on the look-out for him.

HANGING BASKETS.

There is no prettier ornament for the parlor or sitting room during the bleak winter months than a hanging basket. Plants in any form whether cut flowers or living specimens in pots, when tastefully arranged and well grown, always help to make a room cosy, and have a cheerful influence upon the occupants, but no plant that can be grown in a room can be compared in beauty with a thrifty hanging basket, from which vines droop in rich luxuriance from all sides. Every member of our club, and every cousin whether member or not, should have such a basket, and now is the time to prepare it if they have not already done so. The basket itself need not be expensive. Plants will thrive as well in a home-made wire or cane basket as in one made of costly china-ware. Nor should it be large and bulky, those ugly things called rustic baskets, made of crooked branches and painted brown may do for the piazza, but they are out of place in the house. If a wire basket is used it should first be coated inside with nice moss to hold the soil, and then this all filled in and the vines planted. Small vines should be stuck in through the meshes of the wire all round to hide the basket and give the whole the appearance of one living mass of foliage. The soil should be a mixture of leaf mould and garden loam with a little manure and sand. It may trouble some of the cousins to obtain the very best kind of plants; those who have Dracænas, Yuccas and similar plants with plenty of all kinds of vines can easily make a handsome basket. In general choose graceful drooping plants in preference to those of stiff growth such an old Geranium. In the middle set a tall plant and around it arrange the others so that the basket will be nicely balanced. Fuchsias, Ferns, Verbenas, Ivy-leaved Geraniums, Vinca, Oxalis, English Ivy, Saxifrage, Sedum, Lobelia, Tropæolum, German Ivy, Panicum variegatum and similiar plants are excellent for baskets. There is the inconvenience with baskets that the water runs through and wets the floor, this can be avoided by watering at a time of day when the room is not occupied and then place a tray under the basket till all the water has run through. A basket planted now will be greatly improved if kept two or three weeks in a greenhouse so as to give the plants a good start.

Protest Against Chinese Labour.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 13.—Large meetings have been held in this Province, at which resolutions have been passed and petitions addressed to the Premier of the Dominion Government, protesting against the employment of Chinese labour in the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

During the past week the deliveries of barley have exceeded those of wheat. A moderate advance has been established in wheat, while barley has been steadily advancing until as high as 66 cents was paid to-day, being within four cents of the top price paid in Toronto yesterday. Our market, however, cannot be expected to follow outside markets as closely as it has been doing, inasmuch as the Grand Trunk have already commenced to advance their freight rates, and a further advance may be looked for at an early day. The deliveries of farmer's grain in Great Britain have been much behind the average, and notwithstanding the large shipments from this continent, stocks have not as yet begun to accumulate at the principal ports. Until they do so, no decline can well take place, while, if supplies should decrease, another advance may be looked for. This, however, can scarcely be expected, in view of improved reports from France, and the statement that the Australian crop is likely to be a good one.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LOCAL NEWS

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: easterly to southerly winds; increasing cloudness followed by rain to-morrow. The weather in Peterborough is hot; wind southerly and a clear sky.

Boots and Shoes.

The speedy opening of a new boot and shoe store is announced by Messrs. Foot and McWhinnie, who, besides keeping a full ready made stock, will make a specialty of custom work, and both of them being well know they are likely to be extensively patronized.

The Hum.

While we are not disposed to credit everything to the N.P. or "the hum," as our political opponents call it, we can at least credit to that source the fact that the Norwood Hub and Spoke Factory has sold a large quantity of hubs to go to Brockville, to a firm which never before used anything but the American article.

The Liliputians.

The Liliputian Opera Company will visit this town on Thursday, October the 23rd, and will give a representation of the operetta "Pocahontas." The press both of Canada and the States speaks very highly of the performance of Miss Jennie Quigley and Admiral Dot, who are well supported by ten other little people, and by their gigantic associate Col. Orr.

The Volunteers.

The ranks of Companies No. 1 and 2, of the 57th, are rapidly filling up. No. [illegible], forming at Ashburnham, under Capt. Geo. [illegible] Rogers, can take a few more recruits, who make early application to the Captain. There is much enthusiasm displayed among the men, and there is quite a spirit of rivalry among the several companies for the first place.

Complaints.

There have been some complaints made against the use of the railway track for rifle practice, on account of the supposed danger. We visited the grounds and we find that every precaution is taken against accident. Flags are stationed at proper distances to give warning of danger, and a guard is stationed at the target to note the approach of any person or animal within range.

Fall Wheat.

Go in which direction you may green fields prove that an unusually large acreage has been sown with fall wheat this year. So far it is looking admirable—in some instances rather too strong, but it has the much dreaded winter before it. Should however even one half of that sown come out safe and do as well as the crop of the past season, the aggregate to go forward next fall, would again be large.

Collision.

Yesterday evening as Mr. A. Sawers was driving at the lower end of the town, near the Little Lake Cemetery, his buggy came in contact with a farm waggon, when horse, buggy and driver were overturned and for a time it was though that both man and horse were killed; they were, however, only stunned. Mr. Sawers came off with a bruise on the head, the horse seems to be all right, while the buggy has two spokes broken and is otherwise wrenched.

Announcement Extraordinary?

Miss E. Delaney begs to announce the purchase for cash, at a large reduction off manufacturer's price of a wholesale stock of Wool Fringes, Beaded Fringes, Gimps, Braids, Mantle Frogs and Ornaments, Plain and Colored Galloons, Dressmaker's Trimmings, which she will offer to her customers at prices that will defy any competition in Canada. Dressmakers will do well to inspect these goods. George Street Peterborough. 2w42-3d91

Another Chance for Farmers.

There will be an auction Sale of Farm Stock, Implements &c., on the premises of Mr. Joseph Riston, lot No. 3, in the 10th con. of the township of Cavan, about 2 miles east of Bethany, on Monday Oct. the 20th. There will be, also sold 100 bushels barley, 50 do. rye, with oats, peas &c. Sale to take place at 11 o'clock a. m. Mr. Chas. Stapleton will sell again on Tuesday the 21st, on the premises of Mr. Michael Garvey, lot No. 16, in the first con. of the township of Asphodel, Farm Stock, Implements &c. Sale to take place at 12.30 p.m. Lunch at noon. Mr. Garvey is giving up farming and the sale is peremptory.

Rifle Practice.

Rifle practice is going on daily, at the range on the old Cobourg Railway track beyond the deep cut at the north end of the town. Yesterday afternoon Col. H. C. Rogers hit the target 20 times out of 25 shots at 400 yards. The wind was rather strong and not steady enough for good sighting. Several others got in some good shots. It was too late in the day to try the 500 yard range. Some of those who propose to contest for the prize at the coming match, are practicing for a portion of each day, as arrangements have been made for the use of this range daily until the match comes off. The prize list is nearly completed, and as soon as it is made up it will be published.

THE TOWN TRUST.

A Meeting of Commissioners—The Railway Matter Renewal of Debentures Wanted.

The Commissioners met in the Council Chamber, on the 15th instant, pursuant to notice.

Present,—Jas. Stevenson, Esq., in the Chair; and Messrs. W. Cluxton, and W. Toole.

Absent,—Messrs. E. Chamberlain, and J. J. Lundy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The Secretary reported that two debentures of four hundred dollars each, had fallen due on the 1st October, and that new ones required to be issued to recoup the bank for the payment of the same.

Moved by Mr. Cluxton, seconded by Mr. Toole, and resolved, that the Secretary be instructed to apply to the Town Council for the issue of two debentures of $400 each, and dated the 1st October, leaving ten years to run, and bearing seven per cent. interest to retire debentures No's 91 and 92, which fell due on the 1st of October, instant.

The Chairman said that Mr. McFarlane, who held these debentures, had made a special claim for three months interest thereon, as there was no coupon attached to them for interest from the 1st of July to the 1st of October, and that the books of the late and present Secretary indicated that it had not been paid at any time.

Mr. Toole doubted the power of the Commissioners to pay any interest thereon if there were no coupons attached for the same, and the matter was allowed to stand over.

The Chairman then read the following letter from the President of the Midland Railway Company:—

The Midland Railway of Canada.
President and Managing Directors Office.
Port Hope, 15th Oct., 1879.

James Stevenson, Esq., Chairman Town Trust Commissioners, Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your inquiry I regret that we are not at present in a position to pay anything upon the Company's indebtedness to your municipality, nor can I hold out any hope that we shall be able to do so for some months yet.

My policy since I have assumed the management has been to expend our entire earnings in the improvement of the road, and increasing our rolling stock, so as to be able as nearly as possible to meet the demands of our customers in moving their grain, lumber, merchandise, &c., and to afford greater comfort and safety to the travelling public. I do not think it would be in the interest of either the road or the municipalities through which it runs to change that policy.

We have given the necessary notice, and expect to obtain permission from the Ontario Legislature, at their next session, to issue a certain amount of preference bonds, from the proceeds of which we propose to settle our indebtedness and complete the thorough renewal and equipment of our line.

The Company is quite willing to pay interest on all overdue amounts, and to avoid any question as to our liability for interest upon interest, we are prepared to give the Coy's note for any sum now due in that respect.

Although writing in my official capacity as President of the Midland Railway, it may not be out of place for me to add that perhaps no one person in Peterborough is more interested than myself in protecting the town from loss upon their claim, and if I had any fears upon that point I should not ask for delay in the payment, but I have no such fears, the security is in my opinion unquestionable, and the earnings of the road are being used to improve the security.

I am, &c.,
GEO. A COX,
President.

Mr. Toole said he desired to call attention to the fact that notwithstanding the resolution passed at the last meeting, two of the five members of the Trust were still absent, and that a bare quorum was being forced to deal with so important a matter as our railway indebtedness.

Moved by Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Cluxton,—That inasmuch as the Commissioners have to pay the interest on the Municipal Loan Fund Debentures, and have no other means to meet the same, the Midland Railway be required to pay the sum of $4,000 before the 1st of January next.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cluxton, seconded by Mr. Toole,—That the Secretary be instructed to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Cox's letter, and to forward him a copy of the resolution just passed.—Carried.

Mr. Jas. Howden was heard with reference to the present rent of the stalls in the Market, and claiming that the rent should not have been advanced last May in the way it had.

After some discussion the matter was laid over until next meeting, and the Commissioners adjourned.

Victoria Chemical Company, Toronto,

Gentlemen,—Confirming my statement a short time ago, as to the satisfactory results from the use of your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, I will further add that fresh proofs of the genuine benefits conferred on patients requiring it are constantly coming under my observation; parties to whom I have recommended it, have in a short time, with the deepest thankfulness, acknowledged the relief they have experienced, and in some cases have asserted that it, and it alone, have saved their lives. It gives me much pleasure to assure you that I consider your Syrup, the Victoria Hypophosphites, the best preparation of any which has come under my notice for Debility and all Pulmonary Complaints, Bronchitis, Coughs, &c., and believing this, I constantly recommend it before every other Compound.

Very truly yours,
H. F. McCARTHY,
Pharmaceutical Chemist.

WHO "DOCTORED" THE HIDES?

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—There appeared in your issue of the 10th instant the following paragraph, copied from the Hide and Leather Reporter:—

"A man in Peterborough shipped a lot of hides to Boston. On their arrival they were handed to a public weigher. After he had shaken off salt and other foreign matter, he weighed and found the hides 595 lbs. less that the invoice called for."

As all the hide dealers in Peterborough are liable to be suspected for the above fraud, the undersigned beg leave to publicly repudiate any connection with the above transaction, and further, to state that we have never shipped any hides to Boston. The other hide dealers in the neighbourhood can speak for themselves.

(Signed), W. PATERSON & SON,
R. B. LUNDY,
W. J. HALL,

How a Woman Peeled Onions.

There is more than one to skin onions, as well as cats, it appears. "Bob, the seacook," spins the following instructive yarn in the New York Times of Sunday:—

She came on board as pretty as a daisy, and as sweet and fresh as an elegant make-up could make her. There was a chattering aft, on the yacht, as to what they would have for dinner, and it was agreed, for fun, that it was chowder, each one to do something for the same. "You have got to peal and chop up them onions," says a dandy kind of fellow to the pretty girl. "Agreed," said she, not wincing a bit, and they all laughed, and pitied her. When the time came for fixing up things, kind of urged, I brought that pretty girl a peck of the fiercest onions, real red-skin ones, you ever smelled. "There is going to be a lot of crying," thinks I; "if that would be the only sorrow in her life!" She says to me: "Mr. Roberts, do you haul me a bucket of water," and I did it. Then she took off her white fingers a lot of rings and put them in her pocket, and asked for a knife, and the onions being in the water, she peeled and sliced them under water, and narry a tear came, nor nothing. "Now," says she, holding out the tips of her pretty fingers, "who will be gallant enough to kiss these?" Seeing I was cook I didn't like to be bold, but there was half a dozen men who rushed forward, and of course I had no chance. That's the way I learnd how ladies can peel onions and don't cry over them.

FRIDAY, OCTOIER 17, 1879.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

Hanlan Makes the Fastest Time on Record and Receives the Prize.

Our telegram yesterdaygave all the principal particulars of the "fizzle" at Chautauqua Lake. Both parties are chargingeach other with foul play. The Mail correspodent gives the following account of Hanlan's scull around the course:—

Mr. Blakie, the referee had boarded the tug Olivia preparatory to starting Hanlan for the walk over. He ordered the boat first to steam up the course to see if the flags and buoys were in line and then returned to Courtney's quarters and enquired if he was coming out; and on learning that he was not, returned below the starting buoy, sounded the signal, and Hanlan, who had previously rowed down the lake as far as Fair Point, asserted that he was ready to fill his part of the agreemen. He was dressed in his usual costume, and afer some time had been wasted in clearing the course, he was started on his trial of speed, going off at a vigorous 35 stroke. He maintained that rate of speed until the half mile flag was reached, when he slackened a little, soon after inceasing to 36. At the mile he was once more pulling 35, but speedily slowed down to 32, a rate of striking which he sustained to the turning buoys, reached in 16 minutes, including several stoppages to wipe his brows, blow his nose, to survey the scene, and to look around to see where he was going. On the journey home he rowed strong and well, varying in his stroke from 3? to 34, and finishing, in spite of a repetition of the stoppages which marked the outwardtrip, in the extraordinary time of 33 min. 56½ sec. The following is the time made by the champion at each half mile:—

First Half	2½	Three Miles	20.27¼
First Mile	5½	Three Miles and a Half	23.50
Mile and a half	9½	Four Miles	27.14
Two Miles	13½	Four Miles and a Half	30.37
Two Miles and a half	16½	Five Miles	33.56½

The fastest five-mile time on record is that made by Josh Ward Staten Island, on Oct. 11th, 1859, when he rowed the distance in 35.10. It is generally belied, though, that either Ward's miles were short or his minutes were long ones; in fact it is safe to say that such time could never have been made in the old-fashioned boats of those days. Accepting the record as correct, however, Hanlan beats it by a 1 min. 13¾ sec. His time today averaged a mile in 6 min. 47¼ sec., at the same rate of going, 1.13¾, would have carried him about 320 yards, so that Josh Ward would literally have been distanced.

At the finish, Referee Blakie announced his decision, awarding the race and the $6,000 prize to Hanlan.

By Telegraph to the Review.

HANLAN RECEIVES THE PRIZE.

MAYVILLE, N. Y Oct. 17.—Hanlan this morning received from Blakie the referee, a check on the City Bank, Rochester, for $6,000 the amount of the prize money. He paid Blakie half his expenses according to the agreement. Hanlan goes to Rochester to-day to demand the money. It is understood that Soule will contest the payment, having openly declared he would spend ten thousand in contesting it, unless rowed for by the two men. Nearly all the strangers have left.

The streams are covered with the wreck of farm houses, agricultural implements, dead cattle and human corpses. EUROPEAN DIPLOMACY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Herald's London despatch says that Bismarck during his sojourn in Vienna succeeded in securing a secret defensive alliance between the German and Austrian empires. This alliance is strongly approved by England. The relations between England and Russia are at this moment almost critical. Friendly interchanges between the two Powers have given way to evidences of zealous diplomatic questioning. England has been watching with no little fear the progress of the Russian expedition against Tekke, and the possible Russian occupation of Herat has been discussed. The Russian journals urge the Czar to extend his territory in Central Asia down to Hindoo Koosh and to secure Herat. On Monday Count Schouvaloff had an interview with Lord Salisbury. Schouvaloff proposed that Russia shall have the western part of Afghanistan, while England shall take possession of the eastern part as far as the Hindoo Koosh, Salisbury declined in most emphatic and even harsh terms, saying that England would not allow Russia to meddle in any way whatever in the matter. He said the future of Afghanistan would be settled by England exclusively. Salisbury refused to entertain any proposition on the subject. It is believed that the representations of Count Munster, the German Ambassador influenced Salisbury's determined course. It is also rumoured that the English Government have lately succeeded in obtaining assurances from the State of Persia, that in the event of complications between England and Russia, Persia will not side with Russia. Salisbury's emphatic language is probably based on the certainty that in the race for Herat, the English troops could undoubtedly first reach the goal.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Very Large and Influential Meeting—Active Measures Decided Upon—Memorials and Pamphlets to be Prepared—Deputations to Visit Montreal and Ottawa.

In response to the circulars issued by the committee appointed by the Town Council to secure the united action of those interested with respect to the Trent Valley Canal, the following gentlemen assembled in the Council Chamber on Thursday last, at 2.30 p.m., to consider the matter, viz:—Jos. Keeler, M.P., East Northumberland; John Burnham, M.P., East Peterborough, and Warden of the county; George Hilliard, M.P., West Peterborough; Charles Fairbairn, Warden of the County of Victoria; C. Francis, Reeve, J. N. Lee, Deputy-Reeve, and Dr. Day, Trenton; John D. Smith, John W. Kennedy, Wm. Jordan, H. W. Green and Rev. Mr. Logan, Fenelon Falls; John D. Naylor, ex-Reeve of Fenelon; M. Boyd, Geo. Bick, Reeve, and J. L. Read, Bobcaygeon; Isaac Garbutt, J. H. McWilliams, and J. T. Nelson, councillors, Lakefield; John Moloney, Reeve, J. McOliggott, Deputy-Reeve, and John Shea, Councillor, Douro; James Miller, Reeve, and Geo. Read, Otonabee; M. Sanderson, Reeve, James Elliott and Lewis Davis, Smith; T. B. Pearce, Reeve of Norwood; H. T. Strickland and H. Calcutt, Councillors, Ashburnham, and John J. Lundy, Mayor, W. Toole, ex-Mayor, D. G. Hatton, P.M., J. M. Irwin, Thos. Cahill, H. C. Rogers, John Ludgate, John Garvey, T. G. Hazlitt, R. A. Morrow, R. Romaine, W. Snyder, W. Paterson. Jr., H. Denne, J. Edwards, T. Bradburn, Jas. Hope, J. Carnegie and a number of others from Peterborough.

On motion Mayor Lundy was called to the chair and Mr. H. T. Strickland was appointed secretary pro tem.

M. BOYD, Esq., Bobcaygeon, moved, seconded by C. FRANCIS, Reeve of Trenton,—That a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Hon. Sir Chas. Tupper, Minister of Railways and Canals, at Ottawa, to press upon his notice the importance of the Government undertaking the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and that each municipality along the line of the canal be invited to send a representation, and that the deputation, or a portion of it, call a public meeting in Montreal and explain the project, and invite co-operation.

In moving the motion, Mr. BOYD said they had not come there to make speeches on the merits of the canal, but to take practical steps to secure its construction, he would therefore content himself with moving the motion. The motion was carried.

Mr. BICK, Reeve of Bobcaygeon, then moved, seconded by Mr. FAIRBAIRN, Reeve of Verulam and Warden of Victoria, the appointment of a Committee to forthwith draft a form of memorial for presentation to the Government, which after discussion was adopted unanimously in the following form, viz.:—That Messrs. Keeler, Burnham, McCarthy, Cameron, McQuade, Hilliard and Brown, M.P's., with Messrs. Boyd, Carnegie, Logan, Francis, Lundy and Smith be a Committee to prepare and have printed for distribution among the various municipalities, memorials to be presented to the Governor-General in Council and the Dominion Parliament, praying for the early construction of the Trent Valley canal as a public work of the Dominion.

Mr. BOYD handed the Chairman the following letter from H. Cameron, M. P. for North Victoria, which was read, viz:—

TORONTO, 13th Oct. 1879.

MOSSOM BOYD, ESQ., Bobcaygeon,

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

MY DEAR SIR,—I received your letter of the 30th July on my return from England, but have delayed a reply to it in the hope that I might meet you at Lindsay or Peterborough, so as to have an opportunity of talking over the matter with you. As I have not been so fortunate, and as I learn that a meeting on the subject is to take place at Peterborough this week, though I have not had any personal notification of it. I now write to say that as the representative of North Victoria which is so vitaly interested in the scheme, it will be my duty to render every assistance in my power to the success of the project, both in Parliament and before the public. Its importance to the whole country cannot be exagerated. Montreal and the shipping trade of the Dominion are especially interested in providing the cheapest and shortest water route from the great west, both of our own country and of the North Western States to the seaboard, and this canal would, I believe, provide that. The scheme must be considered and discussed from two points of view: 1st as to its practicability and cost as a work of engineering. 2nd, as to its probable success and profit as a business undertaking. On the first point, engineers must give their opinions, and especially as to the sufficiency of the water supply at the highest point in Balsam Lake, as to which I have heard that a doubt formerly existed. From what I have read, I believe the Ontario and Huron Canal scheme is impracticabe except at an impossible cost. If the Trent Valley Canal can be built at a cost of not over $3,000,000. The next point is will it pay if built? On this subject we are told that canals cannot even complete with railways, and that the enlargement of the Welland Canal rendered it useless for the Dominion to build a competting canal. I believe that the west will in a few years produce enough to occupy all the railroads and canals in carrying it to the sea, and that grain and lumber can be carried by water so much cheaper than by land, that it would pay us to build a canal such as this through our country if it be practicable at such a comparatively small cost. It would be very important to collect the statistics as to the freight still carried by the Erie Canal with the N. Y. Central and other railroads competing with it and also as to the relative distances from Chicago, Indianapolis, Detroit, Thunder Bay and Winnipeg by rail and by water to New York and by the Trent Valley Canal to Montreal. I enclose an extract taken from the Montreal Gazette of Saturday, written in the interest of the Canada Central railroad, as to these distances, but it must be born in mind that that route would carry all the business of the west past us far to the north without any benefit to this part of the country, and without utilizing the St. Lawrence Canals on which Canada has spent so much money.

In conclusion, allow me to assure you that my voice and any influence I possess, will, at all times be used to advocate the success of the Trent Valley Canal. Believe me &c.

Mr. CARNEGIE said with reference to the relative quantities of grain carried by the Erie canal and the railways competing with it he observed that out of 3,500,000 bushels of grain received at New York during the last week of September, 2,500,000 bushels thereof came by the Erie canal, and only one million by all the railways combined.

A telegram was also read from the Mayor of Lindsay, regretting his inability to be present, And one from Mr. Cameron, saying that he had only just received the invitation sent him to attend this meeting.

Mr. BURNHAM, M.P., said in addition to what had already been provided for, he thought a pamphlet, setting forth in detail the advantages of this route, should be prepared and published, as it could be done at a small expense, he therefore moved, seconded by Mr. BOYD,—That the committee appointed to draft a memorial be also requested to draft a pamphlet, shewing the length and cost of the canal and all information, shewing the advantages of its construction, and to have the same published with map showing the different routes by canal and railway from west to east, and distribute the same as largely as possible.

This motion gave rise to a somewhat lengthy discussion as to the best mode of raising the necessary means for carrying out this and the previous resolutions, whereupon, Mr. Burnham's resolution having been carried, it was moved by Mr. FRANCIS, seconded by Mr. BOYD, and unanimously resolved,—That the General Committee appointed at this meeting, as soon as practicable, form an approximate estimate of the necessary expenses to be incurred in publishing pamphlets, &c., and of the deputation to Montreal, and request the municipalities interested to contribute their respective quotas to pay the same, which sums are to form a fund for the purposes above named, and that said fund be placed in the hands of a treasurer to be appointed by said committee and accounted for to the several municipalities contributing.

The meeting then adjourned.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

Immediately after the adjournment of the above meeting, the committee appointed thereat assembled and organized by appointing Mayor Lundy permanent chairman and Mr. H. H. Smith permanent secretary. The matter of the memorial was discussed and referred to the members of the committee residing in Peterborough to put in shape. The financial question was also considered and the same members instructed to prepare an estimate of the amount required, and the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

Few people have any idea of the rapidity with which the National Policy is restoring to us the direct trade of the West Indies, so completely cut off by the fiscal policy of the late Government. Since the opening of navigation forty-five vessels, with a tonnage of 20,700 tons, have arrived at the port of Montreal from the West Indies with cargoes of sugar and molasses, against twelve vessels, with a tonnage of 1,200 tons, in 1878, and three vessels, with a tonnage of 700 tons, in 1877. This result is due entirely to the adoption of a fiscal policy which permits the refining in Canada of the sugar consumed by our people. As a consequence of the presence of so large an addition to the tonnage seeking freights at this port, the export movement via the St Lawrence has been very materially increased this year, and during the winter we may look for a considerable export movement from Halifax to the West Indies.—Montreal Gazette.

COTTON MANUFACTURING IN CANADA.

The Arrival of Machinery—What is thought of the Growth of the Industry.

The SS. Sarmatian last week brought about 380 packages of machinery, consigned to the directors of the Stormont Cotton Company for their new mills at Cornwall, and the preceeding steamer brought a large quantity also, while the remainder may be expected to arrive by the next incoming steamer of the Allan line. Considering the extent of these mills, the work of erecting the buildings and bringing them to their present state for the reception of the machinery, has been carried out with great dispatch. Although there are larger mills in the Dominion, none will be able, perhaps, to boast more perfect appointments for the manufacture of cotton frabric. There will be twelve thousand spindles and two hundred and fifty looms in the mills, and the whole, it is now expected, will go into operation on or about the first of December.

With the completion of those at Cornwell Canada will possess

EIGHT FIRST CLASS COTTON MILLS,

with the prospect of a ninth at an early date. The mills are as follows:

Valleyfield (the largest in the Dominion)	1
New Brunswick	1
Hochelega	2
Cornwall	2
Thorold, Ont	1
Dundas, Ont	1
Coaticook	1
Total	8

The ninth is about to built at West Farnham. The municipality of that township lately offered a bonus of $25,000 to encourage the formation of a company and a substantial one has since been organised, a large portion of the stock being already taken up.

With all these mills it need hardly be hinted that the profits of cotton manufacture must become materially less. The question is asked by many interested, is there not a danger of the cotton interest being overdone in Canada as a the woollen interest? A gentleman conversant with the trade assured our reporter to-day that all the mills are at present holding heavy stocks, and will find it difficult to place their products, and that goods are cumulating for which they cannot get a market. Manufacturers are endeavoring to maintain present prices, but in view of recent reductions by American manufacturers it is possible they will have to submit to lower prices. 'The 'National Policy' is on its trial," our informant remarked, "to the fullest extent in the matter of cotton, and it will soon be seen whether in that trade it is a benefit to the country or not."—Montreal Witness.

THE LATEST MONEY MAKING DODGE.

How Runaway Slaves Were Hunted Down—Thrilling Scene in Fleetwood Park.

The way runaway negro slaves were hunted down by ferocious dogs and brought back to their masters in the antebellum days received an illustration at Fleetwood Driving Park yesterday. Of course the illumination was only play; but the terror of the fugitive, the rapacity of the bloodhounds that unerringly followed upon his track, and the escape from the dogs at the last moment by climbing beyond their reach, were portrayed so vividly that it required no considerable stretch of the imagination to believe the incidents real. The playing at "nigger hunting," however, had one element of danger which needed to further realism, and that was the certain fate of the negro if he should be caught.

The occasion was the rehearsal of a scene to be witnessed to-day at Fleetwood, when Thos. Butler, of Hamburg S. C., will show all spectators just how negroes were tracked in the days of bondage. Having brought the pursuers—twelve well-trained dogs—he has also brought the thing to be pursued—a negro black as coal, of great endurance and speed, who yesterday ran a mile in just five minutes and a half, and who years ago ran an equal distance in even quicker time—his life then depending on his speed.

That is, Mr. Butler controls his dogs by the blasts of an old cow-horn, polished into decency and possessed of the tones and compass of a hooting owl.

The negro was started from the stables back of the club house on horseback. He rode down the hill and partly around the track; and then, springing from the saddle, dashed at a high rate of speed through the centre field, over stony ground and ankle-deep in the morass, to the track on the other side. There he climbed on a fence and made his way on the top rail for 30 or 40 yards. Alighting once more on the track, he fled around it as if frightened by despair, covering half a mile in three minutes. He was then more than a mile in advance of the dogs, who were held in check by the master, who now called out, "Nigger, catch on!" The brutes, led by Dennis, a white and black spotted animal, rushed pell-mell out of the stable, and following the the track of the horse, ran rapidly and silently to where Sam had dismounted and taken to the field. They then gave cry and rushed frantically after him, with noses close to the earth and ears errect. Reaching the place where Sam had climed the fence, they separated and the howling was hushed. They had lost the scent. Presently Dennis found the trail again, and resumed the pursuit, the rest in full cry and close upon his heels. By this time Sam had regained his horse on the race track, and, clambering to the saddle, he struck out at a wild gallop around the course. The dogs were then coming on to the home stretch of the course, and had not yet seen the negro. But their instinct did not fail them when they came to the place where he remounted, and they did not, as as might have been expected, take up the trail they had gone upon at the outset, but followed in the footsteps of the fleeing poney. The little horse ran the circle in about 2.20, and as he came past the stand the hounds were so close upon him that they seemed to have almost jumped upon his flanks. A gate with a high stringer from post to post is near there, and to this place the negro rode, and, seizing the beam, swung himself out of reach of the dogs, and the pony dashed on. Then began a howling to which all the other canine noises were as silence. The dogs barked and yelped and jumped high in the air in vain endeavor to reach the panting man, stretched out in safety on the beam above them and fought to get at him. Mr. Butler came up and with a few blasts of his horn silenced the pack, and Sam descended among them in safety. Sam then took another run and reached once more the place of safety where a great limb of a tree had been placed. With this he beat the dogs away, but they would not relinquish their attempts, and their ardor was not abated by the blows that felled them to the earth.

During the wild pursuit the negro ran through a crowd of gentlemen, who, by Mr. Butler's assurance of safety, had been induced to come upon the track. The hounds dashed through the party without apparently noticing that any one was there. Some of them less swift than others in running around the track, would put across lots to come out near the leader. To-day the hounds will trail the negro from three o'clock till dark. Mr. Butler proposes, he says, "to show that hunting down negroes with hounds is not the cruel thing it is believed in the North to be, and, ("he smiles") incidentally to make a little money."

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

THE M'CABE CASE.

Two men Charged with Murdering by Poison—The Evidence for the Prosecution.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 15.—To-day, before Mr. Justice Galt, the charge against George McCabe and Thos. Bowers of having, on the 21st Dec. last, murdered Elizabeth Ann McCabe by poisoning, was gone into. The charge was tried at the last Spring Assizes before Chief Justice Wilson, but after a four day's trial the jury disagreed; hence the present trial.

Mr. Ball, Q. C., County Crown Attorney, and Mr. H. B. Beard, Q.C., conducted the case on behalf of the Crown, while Mr. A. Fletcher defended McCabe, and Mr. C. Norris, Dr. Bowers. The jury pannell was exhausted, and twelve jurors had to be added before the full complement was secured.

Mr. Ball opened the case, stating that the deceased had been possessed of a valuable farm worth $6,000 and something like $4,000 of other property; that McCabe had been married to her about two years before her death; that soon after marriage he expressed a wish that she was dead, and altogethor did not live happily with her; that on or about the 18th December last Dr. Bowers was called in to attend her during an illness; that on the 18th the doctor procured five grains of atrophine, and on the 19th he procured 5 grains of aconitine; that he was called in to attend a woman in childbirth on the evening of the 18th; that while calling at this person's house he said he had been in attendance on Mrs. McCabe, and that she was certain to die; that the woman did die on the morning of the 21st of December, exhibiting symptoms of poisoning, such as would be produced by aconitine; that on the night of the 20th Dr. McCausland was called in to see Mrs. McCabe by Dr. Bowers; that when Dr. McCausland arrived there the woman was in a state of collapse, and a will in the handwriting of Dr. Bowers was at the time taken from a table by the latter; that the will had then the signature "E. A. McCabe" to it, purporting to be the signature of the dying woman; that Dr. Bowers, as the woman was unable to speak, asked her to signify if that was her signature by putting her hand on it, and that the hand was put on it, but whether with assistance or not, Dr. McCausland could not say; that Dr. Bowers and Dr. McCausland then signed as witnesses, and in five minutes afterwards the woman was dead. A day or two afterwards Dr. Bowers called at the drug store where he had been supplied with the aconitine, and produced a parcel, representing it to be the aconitine he had procured there on the 19th of December, and requested to have three grains of it weighed out and put in a phial with an ounce of water. This was was done, and the residue, which he had represented to be aconitine, was four grains. Since that this residue had been found not to be pure aconitine such as he had been supplied with, but was adulterated with some other substance.

The evidence to-day was principally directed towards proving malice aforethought on McCabe's part. Mrs. Mary Rivers, a sister of Mrs. McCabe, living within five miles of the latter's place, had not been called to see her sister when she was sick; before she died McCabe had told her Mrs. McCabe had been offered $8,000 for the farm; her sister was a healthy, industrious woman.

John Thornton met McCabe at Mrs. Wood's funeral about two years ago; on that occasion McCabe was praising Mrs. Wood, and said he "wished to God" it was his wife that was dead at that time; Thornton and McCabe were standing on a knoll overlooking Ingersoll, and the latter remarked that he would give all he could see, if he owned it, to be rid of his wife. Thornton advised him to leave her, but McCabe said he had joined the church, and he could not conscientiously do that, but he said also that he had at times been tempted to commit murder, and at other times to drown himself. He could not live agreeably with his wife.

Charles Dundas spoke of McCabe having told him of difficulty between his wife and himself. She insisted on managing the business. He would not leave her, although he had been advised to do so. He would stay with her if it was only to torment her, but that he would rather than $2,000 he was rid of her. Thos. Cowans was told by McCabe a day or two before the wife's death that she was sick. On being asked if she was dangerously sick, he said she was better that morning, but that he wished it was worse, and that he meant what he said. John Goble stated that about two years ago McCabe told him he had got married to that old maid, Ann Scott. On being told he had a good woman, he said he had not, and that he would give the best farm that ever lay out of doors, and $2,000 to be rid of her.

William Case, a boy 16 years old, had worked for Mrs. McCab for a about a month before she died. On the evening before she died he was at her place about six o'clock. He then drove the cows and she tied up eighteen cows. When he left she was sitting near the stove, complaining of being chillly. Next morning about six o'clock, McCabe told him of his wife's death. John W. Stone gave evidence to the effect that on the evening of the 18th December last he called at Dr. Bowers' office to get him to attend to his wife. The doctor told him that McCabe was then waiting for him to go and see his wife, who was dangerously ill. The doctor told him that Mrs. McCabe was dying, and nothing could save her. He urged the doctor to go with him as there were two valuable lives to be saved. Notwithstanding this he went away. Mrs. Mary Holden corroborated Mrs. Stone's testimony. Dr. Bowers said he had been attending Mrs. McCabe for two or three months, and that she had heart disease, and could not be saved. Mrs. Stone said the doctor told her he had been attending Mrs. McCabe for three months, and that she had heart disease.

Robert Kneeshaw, druggist, Ingersoll, stated that on Saturday, the 21st of December, Dr. Bowers told him of Mrs. McCabe's death; on that occasion the doctor produced a paper and asked him to weigh three grains of aconitine out of it, and put the poison into an ounce phial of water; that this was done, and that the doctor took the phial and the residue of the crystaline substance—which he said was aconitine—away with him.

John Gayfer, druggist, gave evidence as to having delivered a phial, said to contain aconitine and water, to Professor Croft, at Toronto, on the 2nd September last.

James Canfield and A. S. Ball recognized a cigar box containing some phials and papers, which were produced during the progress of the last trial.

Angus Mackay, M. D., gave evidence as to the inquest held by him on the remains of Elizabeth Ann McCabe, and as to the post mortem examination. The stomach had been removed, and the contents sent to Prof. Croft at Toronto. This witness is to be further examined as to the post mortem to-day.

Prof. Croft gave evidence to the effect that there was no very reliable tests known to chemists by which the presence of aconitine or atrophine could be distinguished; both were deadly poisons; he examined the stomach and tested for mineral poisons, but found none, and from the small quantity of alkaloid he found in the stomach it was impossible to tell from what it came; the interior of the stomach was of a dark brown colour; his opinion was that this could not be produced by synaconitine or quinine being administered as medicine; he weighed the remains of the parcel of poison, and found that the paper he had got, and which was now in Court, did not contain pure aconitine.

John E. Platt and Wm. Webb, druggist's assistants, from London, gave evidence as to the putting up of the aconitine and its being sent to Ingersoll to Kueeshaw, the druggist. Mrs. Jane Cuthbert was called by McCabe on the morning of Mrs. McCabe's death; when she reached the house she found Dr. Bowers and Dr. McCausland there; Dr. Bowers told her that Mrs. McCabe was dead; McCabe shortly after drove Dr. McCausland home and then came back to the house where the dead woman lay; afterwards, when Dr. Bowers was about to leave, she saw McCabe go to a bureau drawer in the front room and take something out, he afterwards handed Dr. Bowers something which she knew to be money, as she saw the print on the bills which were half rolled up. Peter Cuthbert was at Mrs. McCabe's the day before her death and then found her very low; she said she had taken some medicine from Dr. Bowers the day before; she felt very bad after taking it and vomited it all up; that day her throat felt sore as if she was taking diphtheria.

Geo. Hugel, druggist's assistant, sold five grains of atrophine to Dr. Bowers on Wednesday, the 18th December, last, and on that day ordered for him five grains of aconitine from Mitchell & Sons, of London; the aconitine arrived on the 19th in the afternoon, and was delivered to Dr. Bowers on the morning of the 20th; Jos. F. McDonald, barrister, of Ingersoll, knew the deceased, Mrs. McCabe by sight; on the 5th or 7th of Debember last McCabe, the prisoner, had requested him to draw up his wife's will, leaving everything in case of her death to her husband; on the 18th of December McCabe came to him with the will now produced in Court, which is all in the handwriting of Dr. Bowers, and requested him to look it over to see if it was exactly the same as one previously drawn by the witness; he found that there was one word in the attestation clause left out, and advised McCabe he had better get it inserted in the same handwriting; McCabe told him that his wife had executed the will drawn by the witness, and that it lay in a drawer for some time; that she found out it had been dated on the day it was drawn, and not the day she executed it, and thinking it would not do she asked him to get Mr. McDonald to draw another; that he, McCabe, had called at another office, and Mr. McDonald's partner had told him anybody could copy the will, and that he had got Dr. Bowers to copy it.

Mr. B. McCausland, M. D., was called by a note from Dr. Bowers to see Mrs. McCabe at four o'clock in the morning of the 21st of December last; he found her in a state of collapse, a cold, clammy sweat on her face, her pulse remarkably quick and intermitting, and extremely feeble; he did not consider her perfectly conscious then by any means; she did not speak or moan even a word while he was there; he did not notice any convulsions; he told her at once that she had but a few minutes to live, to which she made no answer; he recommended the administration of some aromatic spirits of ammonia or some other stimulant; Dr. Bowers prepared some, but she closed her mouth and did not seem to want to take it; Dr. Bowers said to her, "You hear what the Doctor says; you see he agrees with me in my opinion"; Bowers then went to the table and brought forward a document, and said to witness:—"Dr. McCausland, here is a will that Mr. McCabe requested me to present to her for acknowledgment in the event of her dying"; Dr. McCausland said to him, "I do not think it is any use for us to do that, the will is signed"; the will at this time had the name "E. A. McCabe" written on it as it now stands; the name was not signed in his presence he told Dr. Bowers that he did not believe that was law, or that it would be right to do that sort of thing, the person being in articulo mortis; he did not think it was right, and ten chances to one there would be a row over it; Dr. Bowers took the will and presented it to Mrs. McCabe and said, "Will you acknowledge this to be your signature?" he was not sure whether he put it on a book or laid it upon the chest of the dying woman; Bowers said "If you acknowledge it to be your signature"; then Mrs. McCabe put her finger on the signature; he (Dr. McCausland) would not swear that she was or was not assisted by Dr. Bowers to put her finger on the signature.

The Court at this stage, six o'clock, adjourned until to-morrow morning at half past nine.

From New York to Philidelphia he road on an engine at night unobserved. The next night he reached Baltimore in a similar way. Then Washington, and the fourth day found him in Richmond. All this time he kept close friends with his box brush and blacking, using them in the daytime to earn the money to buy his bread. In Richmond he was discovered while buying a New York pictorial story paper, with which he had no doubt been familiar at home, and when he had finished it he made a trade with the newsdealers for another story paper, offering two cent in exchange. When he had read the second paper he was ready to do business.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Vice Chancellor, S. P. Blake, will address the people of Peterborough on the subject of Temperance and Prohibition at the George Street Methodist Church on Thursday evening, October 23. This lecture is given under the auspices of the Dominion Alliance.

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: increasing, south-easterly to south-westerly winds; cloudy weather with rain, followed by westerly to north-westerly winds, and cooler weather to-morrow. The wind has been south-easterly all the morning, changing to southerly, cloudy and cooler.

Announcement Extraordinary ?

MISS E. DELANEY begs to announce the purchase for cash, at a large reduction off manufacturer's price of a wholesale stock of Wool Fringes, Beaded Fringes, Gimps, Braids, Mantle Frogs and Ornaments, Plain and Colored Galoons, Dressmaker's Trimmings, which she will offer to her customers at prices that will defy any competition in Canada. Dressmakers will do well to inspect these goods. George Street Peterborough. 2w42-3d91

The Grain Market.

This morning the grain market opened strong and active. Wheat is coming in more freely to-day and $1.18 @ $1.20 is being paid for Fall and $1.15 @ $1.17 for Spring. No change to note in the price of flour. The feeling on the market is that wheat will go no higher, as there are now several million bushels in transit from the Atlantic, Pacific and other ports, to meet the home grain in England and France that are now coming in. Barley has another turn upward in the market. Several loads were sold this morning at 69c., and all first-class white barley is readily taken at 67c. @ 68c. It is thought this will continue through the day. Barley is coming forward rapidly. There is much of the barley that is discolored and the range of price is considerable.

A Narrow Escape.

Last evening about 8 o'clock a stranger, evidently under the influence of strong drink, was driving along Rubidge Street at a rapid rate from Brock Street north, and directly towards the dangerous bank that abruptly terminates at Murray Street. The instinct of the horse caused it suddenly to turn west and down the bank on Murray Street, a spot almost as dangerous. The horse was brought to a stand by coming in contact with the tree-boxes and the broken bank, throwing the driver out, with his head jammed against the fence and his feet through the spokes of the wheel. His body was completely doubled up. Mr. Sherlock, living near the spot, observed the horse as it passed, and hearing the grating sound occasioned by the sudden turning, rushed out just in time to reach the scene as the horse was brought to a halt. Mr. Sherlock's son held the horse while his father extricated the man from his perilous position as he came to his senses and wanted to know what it all meant. If the horse had gone six inches further to the north, both buggy and horse would have been overturned towards the stream, and probably man and horse would have been killed. This is one of the most dangerous spots in town to strangers. Stewart Street is also dangerous at the corner of Murray Street, although not so much travelled. There should be some protection all the way from the Home round to the westerly corner of Rubidge Street.

POLICE COURT.

SELLING LIQUOR ON SUNDAY.

FRIDAY, Oct. 17.—At the Police Court this morning, Mr. John Sullivan was brought before the Magistrate, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, Oct. 5th, without a requisition therefor. Mr. Sullivan having investigated the matter, finding that the sale had been made, pleaded guilty to the charge. The Magistrate fined him $20.00 and $2.70 costs, to be paid on or before the 24th inst.

ASSAULT CASE.

Mrs. Bowman laid a complaint against her husband, charging him with assaulting her in her own house. The defendant denied the charge.

The complainant upon being sworn said that her husband had turned her out of the house; he had taken her roughly by the arm and pushed her out of doors, leaving marks on her arms; he put his hands round her neck and nearly strangled her till she was black in the face, it was about half past six o'clock on the fifteenth; he had so often abused her that she could not live with him any longer; he did not furnish anything for her or her children's support.

The defendant being sworn said that at the time of the alleged assault he was not at home; he left the house in the morning and did not return until between 9 and 10 o'clock at night, and found his wife, her mother, the children and Mr. G. B. Sproule sitting upon the front steps; he and Mr. Sproule had words and he was struck by Sproule, who left; witness followed him some distance, and upon his return his wife and her mother with the children were all gone.

The complainant had no witnesses to substantiate her charge.

The Magistrate dismissed the case with costs, $2.70, to be paid on or before the 24th.

CHAFF.

WHEN Shakespere wrote about patience on a a monument, did he refer to doctor's patients? "No." "How do you know he did not?" "Because you always find them under a monument."

"MY brains are on fire!" exclaimed an excited lady to her husband. "Well, my dear," said the unfeeling man, taking a revolver from a drawer, "just hold still a moment and I will blow them out."

A NEW YORK lady was examining an applicant for the office of maid-of-all-work, when she interrogated her as follows:—"Well, Mary, can you scour tinware with alacrity?" "No, ma'am, I always scour it with sand."

WHEN Lord Eldon, many years ago, brought in his Bill for restraining the liberty of the press, a member moved as an additional clause that all anonymous works should have the name of the author printed on the title-page.

AT a party, while a young lady was playing with peculiar brilliancy of touch, a bystander bachelor exclaimed, "I'd give the whole world for those fingers!" "Perhaps you might get the whole hand by asking," said the young lady's observant mamma.

A KENTUCKIAN stated at a temperance meeting in Louisville that he wasn't much on drink, "but," he added, "I allow that I've chewed nigh onto a ton of tobacco, as nigh as I can calculate, during the past fifty years, and I begun to chew the weed when I was 'leven years old."

"I WOULDN'T marry the keeper of a crockery shop if I were you," said a young lady to a friend, who was engaged to one of that respectable class of citizens. "Why not?" "Because your husband would never be at home, as he'd always be dealing in China." The wedding preparations went on just the same.

IN Galloway large crags are met with, having ancient writings on them. One on the farm of Knocklehy has cut deep on the upper side. "Lift me up, and I'll tell you more." A number of people gathered to see this crag and succeeded in lifting it up, in hopes of being well repaid; but instead of finding any gold, they found written on it, "Lay me down as I was before."

A YOUNG gentleman was frequently cautioned by his father to vote for "measures not men." He promised to do so, and soon after received a bribe to vote for Mr. Peck. His father, astonished at his voting for a man whom he deemed objectionable, inquired his reason for so doing. "Surely, father" said the youth, "you told me to vote for measures, and if Mr. Peck is not a measure, I don't know what it is."

THE queerest object in nature is a Spanish beggar, for these beggars get on horse back; and it is an old thing to see a man riding up to a poor foot passenger asking alms. A gentlemen in Valparaiso, being stopped by one of these mounted beggars, replied. "Nay, sir, you come to beg of me who have to go on foot, while you ride on horseback!"—"Very true sir" said the beggar, "and I have the more need to beg, as I have to support my horse as well as myself."

MISCELLANEOUS.

OVER 40,000 pound of glycerine are used annually in the United States for mixing with beer.

THE preface to Mark Twain's last work says: "Written by one loafer for another loafer to read."

AT Tuscaloosa, Ala., there is a negro who came out of the war with $114, and now owns a farm, stock, crop, &c., worth $20,000—all made by legitimate farming.

A MORTGAGE on 1,800,000 acres of land in New Mexico, including some immense gold mines, is about to be foreclosed. The amount of money involved is $7,000,000 including accrued intrest.

A PORTION of the marriage ceremony of a coloured couple in Alabama consisted in stripping both groom and bride and giving them forty and twenty lashes each. It was regarded as part of the regular proceedings and submitted to without a murmur.

TALMAGE, says the New York Graphic has nearly restored the balance of trade between legs and brains. He talked in England, and returned with nearly $25,000; Rowell walked in New York and pocketed that amount of money. Legs and brains are equalized.

GRACE GREENWOOD relates as an instance of the extravagance of New England humour, that when a young farmer's wife made her first boys pants precisely as ample before as behind the farmer exclaimed:—"Goodness, he won't know whether he is going to school or going home."

THE Memphis Avalanche proposed that the old town be entirely depopulated and destroyed, and that a new Memphis be built at a place known as Bartlett, eleven miles distant. It suggests that "half a dozen railroad tracks" could do all the transporting between the new city and the river.

The piquant and charming actress, Miss Marian Mordaunt, of the Broadway Theatre, New York, was taken suddenly with a severe hoarseness—was unable to perform; a friend recommended Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia; the cure was rapid and complete.

FARM AND GARDEN.

BLACKBERRY and raspberry bushes should be planted in the fall, as they make such an early start in the spring that the shoots may get broken.

PRUNE currant and gooseberry bushes as soon as the leaves fall Cuttings may be made at the same time, and planted at once in rows a few inches apart.

ANY good food that a cow will eat with a relish will make good milk, and the quantity will within certain limits bear a close relation to the quantity of food consumed.

GOOD feed, whether it be grass in summer or good hay and grain in winter, with pure water always within reach, will always give good returns, whether the outcome expected be meat, milk, butter or cheese.

GARDENING is regularly and practically taught in more than 20,000 primary schools in France. Every school-house has its garden, and teachers must be not only good gardeners, but qualified to teach horticulture, or they cannot pass examination.

IT is said that a certain and speedy remedy for burdocks has been fonnd in kerosene oil. A small quantity poured into the hearts of the plants directly after cutting leaves no trace of their existence save a small hole in the earth where they stood. Refined or crude oil will accomplish the purpose just as well.

SCRAPING hogs by machinery is one of the innovations adopted by the packing houses of Chicago. As the animals pass over revolving flukes they are scraped clean at the rate of ten hogs per minute. This process occasions an immense saving of time and of manual labor, while the work is done quite as thoroughly.

PLENTY of barley meal, grass and water are the requisites in raising and fattening geese. If they cannot have a range in the fields, let the floor of the house where they are confined be liberally supplied with litter. They should be fed on cut grass, cabbaue, lettuce, &c., and not be deprived of a wash-basin in which they may plunge every day.

IT IS CUSTOMARY to keep apples in barrels during the winter, but for home consumption it is much better to have them spread on shelves of a convenient width to reach across. This facilitates the selection of just such specimens as are wanted, and, what is of greater importance, the fruit can be gone over whenever needed for the separation of all that is decayed. It often happens that the greater part of a barrel of choice fruit is spoiled by decay, one or two decaying apples rapidly spreading the disease to those around. When spread on shelves, such can easily be detected and removed. The place in which to keep fruit should be a dry, frost proot room or cellar, with an even temperature of about 45° F., if possible, and with means of ventilation whenever necessary. It is a very shiftless and negligent method to leave fruit in heaps in the orchard for two or three weeks after it is picked, exposed to the weather, to marauding animals and a temptation for thieves.

SUMMER PEARS and apples should be gathered at least a week before they are ripe; if left on the trees till perfectly ripe, they not only become very liable to injury in packing and shipping, but many of them, especially those of a mealy texture, will be perfectly worthless. Winter apples and pears should remain on the trees until danger of frost. All kinds of fruit should be gathered only when it is perfectly dry; if a shower should come up while the work is progressing, the gathering must be suspended till the fruit has again become dry. Furthermore, the gathering should all be done by hand, and in baskets of a convenient size to be carried up the ladders and in the trees; the branch should be held with one hand and the fruit gathered with the other, being careful not to tear off the leaves or spurs from the tree or the stems from the fruit. In emptying the basket, the fruit should not be turned out, but carefully taken out one by one and at the same time classified into two or more grades, according to size and soundness. Winter fruit should then be brought under shelter in a fruit-house, dry cellar or similar place where it may be laid in heaps sour or five thick for two or three weeks in which time a large portion of the "sweat" or superfluous moisture will pass away; it can then be packed and shipped for the market.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The present warm weather is unprecedented in twenty years, but the health of the city was never better. The drouth in the adjoining counties is severe. The Health Board yesterday intercepted a cargo of milk from an adjoining county and dumped overboard all that was impure and diluted. In one can a live frog was swimming.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Herald's Mayville despatch says that Brister states that he has cut loose entirely from Courtney, and will have nothing more to do with him. There has evidently been a quarrel in Courtney's camp, and there seems very little chance for him hereafter to win or decline matches or purses. The feeling is very bitter against Courtney. His refusal to come forward face to face with Ward, Davis, and Coulson, and to reiterate his charges of attempted bribery has made a bad impression. This fact, coupled with the statement of Brister, in which he contradicted some of Courtney's allegations, deepens the feeling that the mutilation of the boats was simply a dodge to avoid rowing and losing. It is stated that in a trunk that went east from Courtney's headquarters yesterday a fine saw was seen. An attempt will be made to intercept the trunk. It is also reported that sporting characters had been seen driving at night to Courtney's quarters. The Herald's Rochester despatch says that a good authority states that Soule agreed to give Courtney, before the final arrangements were made, two thousand dollars if he would row, whether he won or not. With regard to Hanlan's time there is a great diversity of opinion. Some watches from Rochester made the time as given, but most chronometers recorded the time as forty minutes. The opinion of the majority of those at the Lake was that Courtney's boat was sawn without the privity or consent of either Courtney or Hanlan, but that it was done as part of a deep laid plan. Courtney certainly felt very bad over it.

THE MONEY RETURNED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The book makers and pool sellers in this city by common consent have resolved to pay back all money staked on the Hanlan-Courtney fiasco. The amount bet was probably over $200,000.

His left leg was run over, and after he had been removed to the university hospital the limb was amputated. He was also dangerously wounded about the head.

FALL OF A BRIDGE.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18.—The new bridge over Big Walnut Creek for the Sunday Creek Valley Railway, about ten miles from this city, fell last evening with a terrible crash, a distance of forty feet into the water. The Afghan regiments, which left Ghuznee to join the mutineers, were dispersed twenty-five miles from Cabul, leaving 12 guns behind. Eighty-five guns and morters and a quantity of ammunition for artillery and small arms were found in the Bala Hessar.

UNITED STATES INDIANS.

Another Massacre Near Hillsboro'—Men Killed and Women Outraged.

RAWLINS, Oct. 16.—The troops expected at Rock Creek reached here to-day, but the snow was so thick that it was impossible to load the animals on the cars. Increasing in velocity, the wind is now blowing the snow at a rate that prohibits all travel. Should the storm continue the attempt to furnish Merrit with even the temporary supplies he needs would be seriously impeded, and other storms may be expected any day.

DENVER, Oct. 16.—A despatch from Santa Fe indicates that the Apache Indians, under Victoria, have not been completely whipped. On Tuesday news came of a massacre of citizens near Hillsboro', the scene of former difficulties. A despatch states that the Indians made their appearance in the Mesilla valley on Saturday, and continued murdering and fighting on Saturday and Sunday. A party of thirty men attacked by about one hundred Indians, and so far but one escape is reported. Nine men and two families with the exception of two persons were killed at McEver's Ranch, fifteen miles from Hillsboro'. Woman have been outraged previous to being killed, and the bodies of men burned. Lord's Ranch, near by, was burned, and several Mexicans killed. It is believed the Indians scattered before the advance of the soldiers, and again consolidated in the rear, committing the depredations reported.

The exports of flour and grain from this Continent to the United Kingdom from September 18 to October 11, 1879, from New York, Boston, Montreal, and other Eastern seaports, at New Orleans to the 8th inst., and at San Francisco to the 2nd inst., was as follows :—Flour, 881,436 bbls., v. 209,537 last year ; Wheat, 16,650,340 bushels, v. 10,767,920 bushels ; Corn, 7,063,450 bushels, v. 7,882,859 bushels ; and Rye, 136,332 bushels, v. 71,043. Exports to the European continent, same time, comprised : 12,458 bbls. of flour, v. 27,675 bbls. last year ; 18,385,154 bush. wheat, v. 13,637,506 bushels last year ; 1,655,230 bushels corn, v. 341,245 bushels last year ; 827,518 bushels rye, v. 702,452 bushels last year.

A new use for Monkeys.

The newest service rendered by monkeys to mankind was recently illustrated in London. In one of the school districts too many parents reported no children in their families, and in order to ascertain the real number of children in the district, the school officers resorted to an ingenious measure. Two monkeys were gaily dressed, put in a waggon, and, accompanied by a brass band, were carried through the streets of the district. At once crowds of children made their appearance. The procession was stopped in a park, and the school officers began their work ; distributing candies to the youngsters they took their names and addresses. They found out that over sixty parents kept their children from school. The ingenious measure brought to the schools about 200 boys and girls.

FREE TRADE FOR THE EMPIRE.

IN his Belfast address Sir A. T. Galt said: "He believed Canada would be glad to come to such and understanding with their fellow subjects on this side of the ocean as would form a common partnership between them," and a number of the Dewsbury Chamber of Commerce having asked for further explanation, as to his meaning Sir Alexander has replied that he "thinks the time has arrived for establishing the trade relations of the Empire on the footing of free trade as nearly as possible amongst ourselves, with discrimination against foreigneers who will not treat us fairly. In the colonies we cannot absolutely do without customs duties on goods, as it forms our principal source of revenue; but there is no reason why we should not have a much lower rate on English than on foreign goods, and this practically gives you the supply of our market, except for such minor articles as we can make at home. A very inconsiderable duty on foreign breadstuffs and cattle would at once benefit the farmers here, and would rapidly people our almost inexhaustible wheat and pasture lands in Canada. These fertile plains will never become manufacturing districts, and the sooner the poor tenant farmers of England can be induced to occupy them, the better both for them and the home manufacturer." Thus it is that the ball keeps rolling in the right direction.

TRENT HURON CANAL.

From the Trenton Courier.

At the Murray show we met Mr. Keeler, representative of East Northumberland in the House of Commons and interviewed him on the proposed Canal. He said the sending of Mr. Starke to survey and report on the Trent River works was in answer to his motion last session. For the last eighteen years when he first represented the riding he kept the Trent works on the Government roll. Mr. Biggar never did anything towards having them improved and he was determined not to stop till that canal was built. He knew that the survey was only to get facts to justify the rescinding of the transfer of the works to Ontario, but he thought the construction of the canal had claims which if properly presented the Government could not consistently with their desire to benefit the whole Dominion and regard justly the claims of Ontario, resist. The work is one of vital necessity and it would have his hearty and energetic attention.

We also interviewed Mr. Ferris who represents the riding in the local house, on the same subject. He said it would be a good thing if the Dominion Government would build it. He, however, had no faith in the work being built, and was of opinion it was only an effort to undo the transfer of the works to Ontario. If the Government would undertake the canal it would be folly for Ontario to propose the scheme.

Our interviews with these gentlemen, both leaders of the people, both representing the same riding in the Dominion and Local parliaments, assure us that the claims of the canal and its necessity as a connecting (almost inter-oceanic) link and immediate necessity as a public work, are acknowledged by all. If the Dominion Government do not feel able to undertake the immediate construction of the work, it would be a gracious act to offer a bonus in land or money to the company organized by Mr. Boyd as an inducement to a private company to undertake the work. The Ontario Government also, now that the works are theirs, could afford of so much per mile to the canal as well as it can to a railroad, and with such a foundation the success of the undertaking would be secured. Chicago, Milwaukee, and the North Western States are interested in cheap transportation and could be induced to assist by taking stock, but the necessity of our own hundred millions of acres of wheat bearing land in the North-West must have an outlet such as only a canal can supply or they will be burning grain for fuel and stunt the growth of the Dominion. To-day the key note is being struck in Peterborough. We hope it may be the appearance of the small cloud of enthusiasm that will carry forward the enterprise to a successful issue.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

Full Particulars of the Grand Fiasco—How the Boats were cut—Who is Suspected—Hanlan's Fastest Time on Record.

The Globe's correspondent sends the following account of the great international boat race which was to have come off but didn't:—

MAYSVILLE, N. Y. Oct. 16.—The day of the great race has come and gone, and the great international aquatic contest has ended in a fizzle of the biggest kind. Brief despatches during the day have given the public an idea of the events that have taken place, but columns could not faithfully portray the scenes that have been enacted here since the rumour first became current that Courtney's boats had been sawn in two. The working-boat was sawed through, except a small portion of the deck, and about half an inch of the gunwale, six feet four inches from the stern; and the racing-boat was cut two-thirds through, twelve feet ten inches from the bow. All sorts of opinions were prevalent and the wildest talk was indulged in, but by far the majority appeared to hold to the belief that Courtney's own friends had done the mischief for the sake, if possible, of securing a draw in their pool tickets, and of letting the American down as easily as possible. In the meantime crowds came swarming into the village by the incoming trains from both ways, while as the afternoon advanced almost as many swarmed the outgoing ones.

THE BOAT CUTTING.

Courtney's friends had very little to say. The men left the boat-house at six o'clock last night and went to tea, and did not return till half-past eight. At the last mentioned hour Bert Brown and Larmon returned and found that the front door had been tampered with. They then found the boats cut as described. Hitherto Frenchy Johnson and others have been in the habit of sitting up all night with the boats, and people say that it is absurd to suppose that they would have left the boats for two hours and a half on the eve of the race. It is further pointed out that had an enemy done the damage, he would not have taken the time to saw through them deliberately, but rather have smashed them with his foot, or cut them with a knife. The bottom of the boat house floor, which is over the water, is three feet or more above the surface of the water, and the hasp, which is on the inside of the door, had its fastenings broken. The manner in which it was done would indicate that it had had been done from the inside.

Courtney refused to row in Johnson's boat, the points of difference between which and his own are as follows:—

The front gear is between two and three inches further ahead in Johnson's boat than in Courtney's. From the top of the footboard to the beginning of the slide the difference is 2¾ inches, and at the bottom an inch and three-quarters. Johnson's outriggers will not do, and Courtney's outriggers will not fit Johnson's boat, making it impossible in Courtney's opinion for him to do himself anything like justice should the race come off this afternoon.

A Michigan man offered to lend Courtney a boat of the same dimensions and lines as his own, but Courtney would not listen to the proposition. The boat in question could have been brought here in time for a race to-morrow. It is stated definitely that the boats were not out last night or early this morning, but that the rumor started before the boats were cut. A Toronto gentleman told me that he heard the report and went up to see, and found the boats whole. It is certain, however, they are cut now, as I saw them myself. Hanlan offered Courtney a choice of his boats, but the offer was not accepted.

NEGOTIATIONS.

After a long time spent in consulting with Courtney's friends, Mr. Blaikie, the referee, drove down to the Mayville House to meet the Hanlan party, who had only a few moments before been apprised of the mishap by a gentleman who had seen the damaged boats at Courtney's boat house. After a brief consultation between Brister and others of Courtney's friends on the one side and Hanlan's friends on the other, the referee stated that he would be on hand to give the word, as the parties were not able to come to any agreement relative to a postponement.

The business of the day would, it was announced, come on in the usual way, and it only remained to learn whether the giant from Union Springs would face the music in Frenchy Johnson's boat or remain locked up in his quarters. It was certain that Hanlan would be on hand at the appointed hour, and as he had announced his intention of beating the fastest time on record, not a little interest would attach to his performance should it result in a walk over.

At about half-past three the referee and party went on board the Olivia, a small steam yacht and travelled up the course to the starting flags and thence to Courtney's boat-house, where after waiting a for few seconds the door opened, and Bert Brown, the caretaker, appeared. The referee said:—"As yet no one has come aboard the boat to look after Mr. Courtney's interests; please tell him to send some one to act as judge for him on board the tug, and tell him also that I have been unable to find Mr. Blister, who was to act as his judge at the start and finish. Say to him that I would like to see him come out and row in any sort of a boat that he can get, even if he should be beaten a mile."

A messenger was despatched to consult Courtney, and very soon a message came back, saying that he declined to row, and that it was not necessary to have any judges to act for him. The Olivia then steamed down to the starting flags, where Hanlan was sitting in the Toronto ready to start. The Champion was dressed in his blue sleeveless shirt and bareheaded. After a few moments' conversation with him the referee ordered the captain of the Olivia to steam up and clear the course previous to starting. The referee requested Mr. Charles M. Calvin, of the New York Clipper, to act as judge for Courtney, and the gentleman in question accepted this position.

At about half-past four the Olivia took her place at the starting flags, and all being in readiness, Hanlan took his place at his starting flag. The official timer General Duncan, of New York, stood with watch in hand ready to take the start, and Ward and Douglass sat in the starting boat ready to send him off. Once more the Olivia had to steam up the lake to clear the course. She then steamed back to the starting flags, and at ten minutes to five, all being in readiness, the referee called out

"ARE YOU READY? GO!"

And Hanlan, catching the water as promptly as though a keen rival was beside him, swept away with a long clean 35 to the minute slip. He appeared to pull in the same easy, nonchalant manner he assumes in all his races, and presently dropped to 34. In two minutes and forty-five seconds he passed the half mile flag; still rowing 34. He then pulled 35 for a few seconds, and soon stopped to look around at some boats that were in the way, to the occupants of which the referee was shouting "Clear the course." He then dropped to 31, and stopped again. Those on the referee's boat now thought that his boat must be filling, but they were mistaken as Ned was only taking it cooly. On he went in this way, finishing the first mile in 5.28, and the mile and a half in 9.36, frequently stopping and looking around or wiping his face with his handkerchief. Those who did not know the beautiful time he was making supposed that he had given up all idea of beating Ward's hitherto unparalleled, but unofficial, record of 35.10; but Hanlan's fine lined shell was creeping through the water at a much faster rate than any one supposed, and he finished the two miles with 25 strokes to the minute in 13.02. Here he was washed by the swells of a large steamer that had, in spite of the injunctions of the referee, ventured to near the course. This did not appear to embarass the plucky fellow, however, and he pulled bravely through the big swells as though he had been in calm water, never missing a stroke, or even looking around. He was now near the turn, without quickening his stroke and swinging rather wide of his buoy, made the turn in 16.32½ from the time of starting.

ON THE HOME-STRETCH

he pulled close to the Olivia, and smilingly nodded a reply to the cheers of the ladies, who appeared completely won by the gallant little fellow, who was cutting down the fastest time on record, "just for fun." "Good boy, Ned!" shouted Mr. George Williams, of the New York Harald. "Thank you, sir," replied Ned, cheerily, and spurted for a few strokes just to show what sort of a boy he could be when he tried. The little bell jingled for more steam, and the Olivia shook, snorted, and groaned to keep pace with the Champion. Three miles were finished in 20:27¼, and still Hanlan showed no signals of distress, and was rowing well within his speed, still pulling 34 to the minute, and stopping occasionally to look around as before. Three miles and a half in 23:50 was the record at the next flag, and Hanlan was still seemingly as fresh as when he started. From this to the finish Hanlan pulled very leisurely, showing at different times 30, 31, 33, 32, 31, and 30, finishing as fresh as a daisy the five full miles in 33:56¼, official time.

Mr. Blaikie then declared to those present that the race was won by Edward Hanlan in 33:56¼. He said nothing about pools and bets.

THE PRESS MEETING.

In the afternoon a meeting of pressmen was held, at which the Hop Bitters man was present, and stated that he would not give up the cheque for the $6,000 till Hanlan and Courtney both rowed a race, that this walk-over was not a race, and that Hanlan would not receive the money for it.

Of course it is easy to see that the objection is frivolous, and that the cheque will have to be handed over. One thousand dollars is offered as reward for the discovery of the miscreant who cut Courtney's boats.

It would be impossible to publish half the stories here concerning the cutting of Courtney's boats, but as to the instigators of the job there can be but little doubt. Hanlan has shown that he could row a very fast five miles to-day—much faster than he did row it—and the public will be loth to believe than when he could row such a fast race, his friends, after putting their money in the pool box at odds, should instigate an act which would prevent their getting an issue for it. Had Hanlan been unable to row well to-day his enemies might have said that he became sick, and the crime was committed to save investments of his friends. Courtney, though professing to feel, may not have felt all right, and at all events he has never been able to beat Hanlan or the time which he made "just for fun," in his walk-over to-day. That he should have gone into this thinking he could win is perfectly natural, as Hanlan showed that he was badly off at Barrie. Of late he has come around very rapidly, and Courtney, knowing this, and finding that the race could not be bought for him, probably "funked," and decided to fulfil the promise Brister made for him to "play sick or break his boats."

There is only one other man who could possibly have an interest in the commission of this dastardly crime. The medicine man who promised to give the purse for this race had accomplished his purpose. Though taking high moral grounds, he was not above taking percentages from the gamblers and railroads. He could, by having the race result in a fizzle at the last moment accomplish his object and yet have a retreat for holding on to his money. Is it not possible that this man bribed Frenchy Johnson and Bert Brown to the commission of the dastardly act? Should this be true, the extraordinary conduct of Brown and Larmon in concealing the crime from half-past eight last night until this morning would be explained. Had the cutting of the boats been known soon after it was discovered, thousands who came here to-day would never have come, and the shrewd Yankee would have lost his commissions on their railway fares, as well as their admission to the observation train and their contributions to the coffers of the skin gamblers, in whose prosperity this long haired, high-toned moralist himself was interested. The facts are before the public, however, and it is to be hoped the blow will fall where it belongs.

At a meeting in the evening it was a noticeable fact that while Ward Davis and Coulson replied to the questions put them in a prompt and straightforward manner, it was equally striking that Brister hesitated and "hemmed and hawed" a great deal in giving evidence, creating a great deal of amusement among the spectators. When Brister came to the point where he flatly contradicted the statement by Courtney to the committee, it fell like a bombshell among the friends of Courtney in the room.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN EUROPE.

Relations of the Great European Powers—Great Britain and Russia.

Special Despatch to the Globe.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Herald's London special of the 15th says that the various rumours which have been floating about in political circles during the past few weeks now seem to take on a more definite character. The correspondent says:—

The following summary of the political situation, is based on information which I have succeeded in obtaining from very good authority Prince Bismarck, during his sojourn in Vienna, succeeded in securing a secret defensive alliance between the German and Austrian Empires. This alliance is strongly approved by England, though she is not actually a party to the understanding.

The relations between England and Russia are at the moment almost critical. The friendly interchanges between the two Powers which were recently observable have given way to evidences of jealous diplomatic questionings. England has been watching with no little anxiety the progress of the Russian expedition against the Tekke Turcomans, and the question of a possible Russian occupation of Herat has been discussed in all its bearings. On the now absorbing Central Asiatic question the Russian journals urge the Czar to extend his territory in Central Asia down to the Hindoo Koosh and to secure Herat.

On Monday last Count Schouvaloff, the Russian Ambassador, had an interview with Lord Salisbury, when he was instructed to broach the question as to an arrangement respecting Afghanistan. Schouvaloff proposed that Russia shall have jurisdiction of the western part of Afghanistan, while England shall take possession of the eastern part as far as the Hindoo Koosh. Salisbury declined in the most emphatic, even harsh terms, saying that England would not allow Russia to meddle in any way with the question. He said the future of Afghanistan has to be settled by England exclusively. Schouvaloff persisted in advocating the plans suggested by his Government, and seeing, Salisbury's stubbornness he proposed various other plans of settling the Central Asia difficulty, but Salisbury refused to consider these proportions. Thus the interview terminated.

Count Munster, the German Ambassador, at the Court of St. James, has had several interviews with Lord Salisbury during the past two weeks, and it is believed that his explanations respecting the present political situation on the Continent influenced Salisbury in his unusually emphatic language to Schouvaloff.

It is also rumored that the English Government has lately succeeded in obtaining certain assurances from the Shah of Persia of such a nature as to satisfy Beaconsfield that in event of complications arising beeween England and Russia Persia will not side with the latter power. The Shah's assurance, it is thought, may have resulted from his knowledge of the bad plight of the Russian expedition against the Tekke Turcomans, and Lord Salisbury's emphatic lanquage is probably based on the certainty that in a race for Herat the English troops could undoubtedly first reach the goal.

NORWOOD.

AT DRILL.—The Register says:—About fifty pupils of the Norwood School, under the instruction of Mr. Fraser, of the High Sohool, are now regulary undergoing military drill, and have been at the extension motions, and, what is termed in military parlance, "setting up" drill, as wall as through their "facings." The lads are making good progress, and appear to like the new departure immensely.

PORT HOPE.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—The Guide says the saddest accident that has occurred in this immediate vicinity happened on Thursday evening, near Welcome. A young son of Mr. Wm. Henwood, about 9 years of age was leading a large horse by a halter through a field on his father's farm, and it appears the halter shank, which was a long one, became entangled about him, when the horse pulled him down and ran away with him across the fields, jumping several low bars on the route. The screams of the poor boy first attracted attention of his father to the accident, who with another gentleman tried to stop the mad career of the horse. The victims' head was badly bruised. When taken up, he was in a state of unconsciousness and remained so until he died a couple of hours after. What adds to the melancholy nature of the affair, Mrs. Henwood, the deceased's mother has been away to the Western States on a visit to some friends and is on her way home, being expected to-day.

The kidneys are subject to a variety of dangerous and painful diseases, arising from various causes. By the judicious use of VICTORIA BUCHU and UVA URSI, these affections may be cured. Bright's disease, diabetes, and all female complaints, are successfully combatted by this popular remedy, which is for sale by all dealers. Price, $1 per bottle.

THE McCABE POISONING CASE.

Conflicting Medical Testimony—The Prisoner Acquited by the Judge's Direction.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 16.—The Court resumed today at 9.30 a.m.

Dr. McCausland continued his evidence. He said he found the brain and the puncta vasculosa congested; the blood was fluid; the heart was abnormal and flabby; there was no blood in the right side of the heart; the intestines were congested; there were inflamed spots on the duodenum and jejunum; the symptoms found after the death of Mrs. McCabe were not incompatable with poisoning from aconitine.

To Mr. Fletcher—Deceased had no frothing at the mouth before death; she had no convulsions; I think she could see; there was nothing that excited my suspicion in the least; I found no one organ in her body sufficiently diseased to account for death, I think she died from congestion of the lungs produced by a chill.

John E. Shelby, sworn—Had a conversation with McCabe a few days after the death of his wife; I asked what his wife died of; he replied heart disease; he said that she had taken some powders from Dr. Bowers and had vomited them.

Dr. Williams, sworn, said—Was called upon to make a post mortem examination on the body of the late Ann McCabe; Drs. Bowers and McCausland were there part of the time; my opinion on putting all the conditions together, is that death was caused from a narcotic irritant poison; I believe that aconite or its preparations would produce the conditions found; 1-50th of a grain of the English preparation of aconite is dangerous; the German preparation is much weaker; the spots were caused by inflammations of the interior parts of the intestines, it being so severe that it extended through; aconitine is a deadly poison; I have seen a case of aconitine poisoning; the conditions were similar to those found on deceased.

Dr. McKay, sworn, corroborated the evidence of the last witness, and agreed as to the conditions found; these led him to the opinion that death was caused by a narcotic irritant poison; there is no one disease that would produce the conditions found; there would have to be a complication of diseases to produce the conditions found; the heart was not so small as would affect vitality.

Dr. H. H. Scott, sworn—Concurred in the evidence of Dr. Williams; death in this case resulted from asphyxia, which is death from the lungs; he would not swear that death in this case was the result of aconitine or any other poison—the woman might have had a chill, but he did not think it would cause the conditions found.

At this juncture, the evidence of prisoner McCabe, taken at the corner's inquest, was read to the court.

Mr. Robertson, sworn, said—I have seen Mrs. McCabe write several times; (Witness identified her handwriting); McCabe called at my office in the latter part of November and asked me if I had his wife's signature; I said "Yes"; he wanted me to allow him to take away the papers on which her signature was; I objected, but at last I allowed him, and told him he must return the papers.

The will was here produced, and witness was asked if the signature to it was that of deceased; he replied that he did not think it was.

Wesley Scott, sworn, said—I have known deceased (Mrs. McCabe) for about forty years; knew her signature well; that on the will was not written by her; her health was generally good; was not informed of her late illness; prisoner McCabe knew where I lived.

Daniel Hevner, sworn, stated—Have known deceased for thirty years; have not seen her write for two years; have seen her write frequently; have never caught the woman in bed (laughter); I consider deceased to have been healthy; had a conversation with McCabe in the last week of February last; I asked him what was the matter with Ann that she died so suddenly; he said, "I sent for Dr. Bowers, and he gave her a powder, but she threw it up; Dr. Bowers left, but left another powder; deceased became worse on Friday, and then I gave her the other powder; she did not throw this one up, but in the middle of the night she woke me up, and said she had cramps in her stomach; I then went for doctor Bowers, and he came."

THE DEFENCE.

For the defence the first witness called was

W. Sage, who deposed as follows:—That six months before her death he had a conversation with Mrs. McChbe in Ingersoll, and she complained about her health.

Emily Gibbs sworn—Knew deceased, and saw her frequently in my store; saw her four month before she died; she complained of a pain in her side, and she was taking patent medicines; saw her again two weeks before her death; she was ailing.

Z. Sage sworn—Knew Mrs. McCabe for a long time; she complained of her health; she worked very hard in and out of doors; she was a spare woman, on November 13th was the last time I had any conversation with her; she said she had a terrible pain at spells.

John Eyeres sworn—McCabe came for me to work for him on the 9th July; deceased and McCabe were on friendly terms; sometimes deceased would be bad, McCabe advised her to hire a girl, as she was killing herself with hard work.

After the medical evidence of to-day Judge Galt decided that there was so much contradiction that it would not be safe for the jury to convict, and directed them to enter a verdict of acquittal, which was done without leaving the box.

SMOKE ON THE ST. LAWRENCE.

Serious Obstruction to Navigation—The Entire Grain Trade brought to a Standstill.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—The smoke on the river has been thicker than on any previous one this year. There is no longer any doubt but that the bush fires which had caused the smoke are on the Canada side. Close enquiry would indicate that the fires now raging are in what are known as "Cot au flats," a tract of partially dried marsh 40 miles long on Lake St. Francis, a few miles from Cornwall.

The entire grain trade is brought to a standstill. The Montreal Forwarding and Transportation Company have had twenty barges containing 400,000 bushels of grain lying during the last three days at the mouth of the Beauharnois Canal unable to move. The same company have ten more barges of grain at other points between this city and Kingston with valuable cargoes for transhipment here. The president of a leading forwarding company this morning stated that the loss to the grain trade alone by detentions during the last five days would not be less than $500,000.

The steamship Sarmatian, which left yesterday afternoon for Quebec, after a prolonged detention through the smoke, only got some forty miles down the river, and lies at anchor there. It is doubted if the Princess Louise and suite may not have to remain over at Quebec for some days awaiting the Sarmatian's arrival.

In the infected vessel John Welsh at Memphis, was shut up two dogs, two cats, one monkey, two rabbits, three Guinea pigs, two geese, three chickens; and the animals all escaped infection except one dog, who had a sharp attack of fever with delirium and pains. He recovered however, and the doctors are in doubt whether the dog had yellow fever after all.

Commercial.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

SATURDAY, Oct. 18.—The market this morning was again well attended. The rain at early morn did not seem to have deterred the farmers from venturing into town, and the platform was completely surrounded with farm and garden truck waggons. The apple market was abundantly supplied, and there was a wide range in prices. Ordinary cooking apples were selling at 40 @ 50c per bag. Eating apples at 50 @ 60c. One lot of fine Kentish Beauties, grown upon the farm of Mr. Jas. Sisson, township of Cavan, were sold at $2.25 per bbl. They were very cheap. Potatoes were scarce and prices firmer. There seems to be a disposition to hold potatoes for a rise. The recent shipments of potatoes to Europe has created an impression in the minds of some that there will be a drain created in this country. We quote at 50 @ 60c per bag and firm. Onions in full supply at quotations. Tomatoes continue to come in bright and attractive, and are selling at 80c @ $1.00 per bushel. Turnips are scarce, none in the market. Beets, large and fine, 10c a doz. Carrots and parsnips, 3 @ 5c per bunch. Cabbages are fine and large, selling from 3 to 8c per head. Mr. Bell exhibited a large number of very fine heads, for which he realized from 6 to 8c each. Mr. Soanes exhibited a fine lot of cauliflowers, large clean and white, which he offered at 5 @ 10c per head. Butter is in request, and prices are firm. Eggs have advanced under a demand for shipment. We quote them at 12 @ 14c. Chickens, Ducks, Geese and Turkeys are moderate in both supply and demand. Other commodities remain as before quoted.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, (ROMAN CATHOLIC) Hunter street west.—Rev. M. Lynch, Priest. Mass, 10 a.m.; Vespers, 3 p.m.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM is composed of the most healing balsams and gums. The Balsams, which enter into its composition, were used by the natives when America was first discovered, and are combined with other vegetable tonics, so blended together, that it is a specific for all affections of the throat and lungs. Thousands of bottles are used annually, and it is considered one of the standard preparations of the day.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preemiently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

A little girl, the child of Mr. John Strain, strayed from her home in Englishtown this morning. Her description will be found in our advertising column.

Off for a Hunt.

Constable John McGhee starts on Monday next for a week's shooting up the back lakes. He has a leave of absence and proposes to make good use of it in a hunting expedition.

Cross Cut Saws.

The St. Catherine's Saw Works are sustaining in their reputation for the best cross cut saws, especially the Diamond, Hanlan and Champion saws which are greatly in demand and give general satisfaction.

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: Lake district, brisk to high, south-westerly to north-westerly winds, partly cloudy, cooler weather. In Peterborough to-day, high southwesterly winds and clear, cooler, weather.

A Dangerous Sign.

The heavy sign stretched across the sidewalk in front of the Times office was nearly blown down by the high wind of to-day. The Mayor and Councillor Cahill secured it as well as possible for the present, but should the wind increase in violence the sign will undoubtedly come down.

A Hunting Excursion.

We learn that Messrs. H. B. Merrick, R. A. Morrow, H. Winch, James English and A. Sawers leave town to-day for Gull and Gold Lakes on a hunting excursion. Messrs. J. J. Lundy, Esq., and D. G. Hatton will join the party on Wednesday next. They expect to be away for two weeks. We wish them good weather and a successful hunt.

A Woman Attacks a Man.

On Wednesday last as a young farmer was driving from Otonabee to Peterborough with a load of barley, he was attacked by a young woman. The story is, that the young woman lay in wait for him by the road side, and as he passed she ran out and springing upon the waggon from behind, managed to reach him, when by a sudden movement she pitched him off the load. He was considerably bruised. She threatened his life.

Dressmakers will do well to inspect these goods. George Street Peterborough. 2w42-3d91

Ruri-decanal Meeting.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Ruridecanal Chapter of Northumberland, will be held at Peterborough on Tuesday and Wednesday 21st and 22nd Oct. Divine service in the parish church on Tuesday 21st at 7:30 p.m. Sermon by the Rev. C. R. Bell, Mus. Bac., Incumbent of Lakefield. Holy Communion on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Essays by the Rev. H. D. Cooper, and Rev. E. Soward. The routine business of the Chapter will be transacted in the afternoon.

The Frights Traffic.

Another special train left last night for the front. Two days ago there were some 30 cars at the station, owing to the lull in shipping they were not needed, but the tracks being full they were sent to other points, and now there is pressing demand for them. Every car now at the station is loaded and shippers are awaiting cars. The Railway Company would have held the extra cars if they could; but the absence of sidings prevented it, and Peterborough has to suffer thereby. Seven platforms came up this morning for lumber.

The Volunteers.

Company No. 1 of the 57th, under the command of Captain Edwards, met for drill last evening, with full ranks, and they begin already to show improvement. This company is composed mostly of young men, and although their young blood may at times effervesce, they mean no harm and will not be likely to disturb the sensitive nerves of the quiet citizens in their slumbers, as they return home after drilling. They are enthusiastic, but they behaved very quietly last evening, and merrited the praise they received for the improvement they already show. Company No. 2, under Capt Langford, is also full and they are now ready for drilling when they receive their rifles. Company No. 3, of Ashburnham, is rapidly filling up and its ranks are now full. Capt. G. C. Rogers will drill the men as soon as they have completed all the necessary arrangements.

The Wheat Market.

The wheat market under telegraphic reports from Europe yesterday evening became feverish and a sharp advance was effected. In the excitement $1.28 was paid for one load. This morning the market opened at an advance on yesterday's quotations when $1.20 @ $1.22 was paid for Spring and $1.22 @ $1.25 for Fall. There is an increased supply to-day. Barley participated somewhat in the excitement of the wheat market, and prices became firmer. No. 1 bringing 68 @ 70 cts., being a slight advance upon yesterday's market. For inferior grades the price is 40 @ 55 cts., a wide range, and necessarily so, as there is a wide difference in the quality. There is not so much coming in to-day, more attention being paid to wheat by the farmers. Shipments continue to be large. The millers are in want of cars to send forward the flour which participates largely in the excitement. Rye is coming in slowly. The demand is very light, and no advance is made from our former quotations. Beans are not coming forward; $1 is being paid for firsts. Peas 55 @ 60 cents.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

SATURDAY, Oct. 18.—In the Police Court this morning the case of Nicholas Lundergan vs. Dennis Garvey came up for a hearing. The charge was for an assault said to have been committed on the 14th October. The complainant failed to appear, and the case was dismissed.

MATRICULATION

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—We notice in your issue of the 15th instant the statement that Master W. A. Campbell, of Peterborough, took the first position in Classics at the recent matriculation examination held in Cobourg.

Now, Sir, in justice to other matriculants from other schools, we would just like to ask Master Campbell to produce the proofs upon which this statement is founded. This, we fear, would prove rather a difficult task, simply because the order in which matriculants stand is known only to the Faculty of the College.

Certainly Master Campbell did take first-class honors in Classics, but to affirm that he took first position on the honor list is making a most sweeping assertion, which, we fear, is hardly capable of support. The only proof that he can produce is the fact of his name standing first on the list, but this does not prove that he has taken the highest marks, for it was plainly stated on the face of the report that names were placed in alphabetical order. And then, also, we must take into account the advantages which Master Campbell has had in pursuing the study of Classics. He has been, one might say, all his life-time under the training of his father, who is acknowledged all over the Province as one of the most thorough and successful Classical masters in the country.

Hoping, sir, that you will, in justice to other matriculants, publish this, I am, yours, &c.,

MATRICULANT.

LAKEFIELD.

VOTERS LIST COURT.—Deputy Judge R. H. Dennistoun held a Court for the Revision of the Lakefield voters lists for the present year, when the following names were added to the lists, Richard Foster, William McLennan, A. P. Poussette, and the following names wer struck off, John Agnew, Peter Bullock, Hugh Duff, James Graham, and the following names were reserved, W. D. Thornton, Thos. Jas. Bird.

IRELAND.

OF the 559 congregations in the Irish Presbyterian Church all but 72 are in the Province of Ulster.

THE number of paupers in the South Dublin Union Workhouse is 270 more than at the corresponding period last year.

JOHN MACPHERSON, proprietor of the Tuam News, will contest the representation of Roscommon as a National candidate.

IT has been resolved at the meeting of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society to hold the show for 1880 at Colonmel. Killarney was the only other place from which there was an application.

A LETTER has appeared in the Dublin papers from the Duchess of Marlborough, in which her Grace expressed her desire to do all she could to encourage the Irish poplin trade, and alluded to the use of poplins in furniture work and draperies.

A NUMBER of breechloading guns of the Armstrong pattern, and of the larger kind suitable for coast defences, are being sent to Ireland from the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, where they have recently been taken out of the category of obsolete stores, and after a long interval brought forward again for service.

THE recently-consecrated Bishop of Jerusalem is the only son of the late John Barclay, of Mourne Lodge, County Tyrone. When a mere child young Barclay showed an extraordinary interest in the Jews. He often said, "When I am a man, I will be a clergyman, and go and preach to the Jews, and try to convince them that Jesus of Nazareth was the true Messiah." He kept his promise.

A LETTER from the Earl of Egmont, in reply to a resolution of the Board, was read at the meeting of the Kanturk Board of Guardians, on September 25th, in which he offered to give a sum of £200, to be followed by a second donation of the same amount, for the purpose of providing employment for the unemployed poor of the town, provided the residents also subscribe. The Chairman (Colonel Aldworth) expressed his sense of the handsome manner in which the Earl acted. He was sure the other landlords would not be behind hand when the time came for subscribing. The other guardians concurred, and it was decided to consider the matter specially at their next meeting.

The DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents per week.

THE TURNER ASSAULT CASE.

Continuation of the Inquest at the General Hospital Important Evidence Promised.

The inquest in the Turner assault case was continued at 7.30 last night at the General Hospital. The prisoner, Lawrence Smyth, was again present. Messrs. Dalton McCarthy and A. M. Macdonald watched the proceedings in his interest.

Mrs. Margaret Croney, who was examined at a former session, was recalled, and stated in evidence that the man whom she saw chopping wood on the back platform of Mrs. Smyth's house on Hope Street on the morning of the 26th September last wore a dark suit of clothes, and was dressed better than a labouring man at his work would be.

Arthur Fisher, advertising agent, living at 32 Duchess-street, sworn, said—I am acquainted with Lawrence Smyth, and have known him for eight or nine years; I saw him on Saturday, the 27th September; we went to Guelph together that day; while in my company he did not say anything to me about his trouble with Turner, nor did he tell me he had struck Turner; we never had any conversation together about Turner, Smyth did not tell me he had broken his stick over Turner's head; four or five days before the occurrence in question is said to have taken place Smyth told me he had quarrelled with a man and struck him; he did not mention the man's name; I would not swear that he said he had broken his cane; I did not tell anyone that between the 26th September and the day on which Smyth was arrested he had told me he had broken his cane over someone's head; I recollect having a conversation with a policeman about Smyth's arrest—I think the night on which the arrest was made; I was surprised at not hearing of the trouble Smyth is said to have had with Turner, knowing Smyth as well as I did; I never told the police officer that Smyth had said to me he struck Turner over the head with his stick; I told the police officer the prisoner had said to me he struck a man with a stick; I do not know which policeman I said this to, I know so many on the force, and have spoken to them abont it; I had a conversation with Inspector Stewart the night of Smyth's arrest, when I took the prisoner's supper to the Central Police Station; I do not know what the conversation was; Stewart expressed sympathy for Smyth, and of course I did also; I am pretty sure I did not tell Inspector Stewart that night that Smyth had said to me he had broken his stick over a man's head; I may have told Inspector Stewart that Smyth had some trouble with a man and struck him; I was excited at the time, and will not be positive of the exact words I used in the conversation; I think it was Monday of the week on which we went to Guelph Smyth told me he had some trouble with a man and struck him with a stick; he did not state what the trouble was abont.

Henry A. Knowles, druggist Yonge street, sworn, said—I know the late Robert William Turner; he was in my employ about a month in the summer of 1877; I saw a lady once in the store who came to see Turner; She did not buy anything; I discharged Turner for neglecting his business; he absented himself from the store without my consent; I do not know of any lady bringing a baby to the store and leaving it with Turner; I did not discharge Turner because of a woman coming to the store to bother him.

The coroner said he would have to adjourn the inquest for a short time to await the arrival of an important witness. The jurymen were allowed to leave the Court-room.

At nine o'clock Coroner Riddel received a telegraphic message from an officer of the Crown ordering an adjournment of the inquest till some other time, when a material witness who had been procured might be heard. The jury was called in and the message read to them, but neither the name of the signer or the place from whence it came were disclosed. The inquest was adjourned at 9:20 till 7:30 this evening.

TRIAL OF THE PRESIDENT FOR MAKING FALSE RETURNS.

The Judge's Charge—Hon. Sir Francis Hincks found Guilty—Arrest of Judgment applied for and Granted.

By Special Telegram to the Review.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—The Trial of Sir Francis Hincks was resumed this morning.

Consel having addressed the jury, Mr. Justice Monk, in opening his charge, said that he did not know if the case puzzled the jury, but he confessed it puzzled him. This was the most painful case that had ever come before him, and the jury must cast aside all prejudice in the matter, and render a verdict according to the evidence.

His Honor delivered a lengthened charge, its tendency being strongly against the venerable accused.

The jury retired to consider the verdict, and after an absence of an hour and a quarter, returned with a verdict of "guilty."

Sir Francis was present and received the verdict without emotion.

Counsel for Sir Francis Hincks applied for arrest of judgement which was granted.

KINGSTON.

There was a "scene" at the Police Court this afternoon while the case of Dr. Stewart against Mr. Britton, for perjury, was in progress. Dr. Stewart, in making some remarks, ridiculed the idea of a Police Court being a court of law. He said it was a Court of "Police Just-asses." The Police Magistrate, addressing the police, shouted vigorously, "Put him out! put him out! put him out!" and turning to Dr. Stewart, said, "I'll commit you." He then adjourned the case, and the doctor left the court-room.

Efforts are being made to put off the sale of 11,000 acres, embraced in the Montank Indian reservation. It is rumored that Tilden is endeavoring to purchase the property, and that it will be made a great watering place and port of entry for ocean steamers, so that passengers might reach New York several hours earlier by rail.

AN EXTRADITION QUESTION.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 20.—Milton Reed, counsel for the American Linen Company, and Assistant Marshall Pierce returned to Quebec this morning to be present at the arraignment of Walter Paine to-morrow. Paine's counsel moved for his discharge on Saturday on the ground that the United States Government declined to ask for his extradition. The court refused until to-morrow, when the writ is returnable, affording time for the arrival of parties from this city.

CONCILIATING THE UTES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A Washington special report to the Herald says that nothwithstanding positive assurances that under no circumstances would the army be interfered with in its operations against the Utes, the entire plan of the campaign has been suddenly changed. Special agent Adams, it is said, will be able to secure all the satisfaction the Government requires through the co-operation of the Indians at Los Pinos agency, and the presence of soldiers in the White River country would only aggravate the difficulties. The War Department must be subordinate to the Interior Department in matters relating to the Government of savages, consequently all Merritt's command have been ordered to their stations, leaving a small number of troops at the White River agency to guard the supplies. The instruction of Agent Adams are said to be of a wholly conciliatory nature.

PARNELL FOR AMERICA.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Parnell, speaking at the Newry meeting, announced his intention of going to America.

ELLIOTT, BOYD, AND HANLAN.

Elliott makes a statement, in reply to Boyd, to the effect that it must be distinctly understood that Hanlan's backers have deposited money for a match with Elliott; therefore it is only fair to Hanlan that a contest for him should be assured. Elliott considers Boyd bound in honor to go on with the Boyd-Elliott match on the conditions and articles drawn up by Elliott. Elliott will ignore Boyd's claims, and devote his whole attention to arranging a meeting with Hanlan.

His identity with the United States navy defaulter and California forger has been completely established. The request of the Bank of England solicitors, that the United States should apply for Cooper's extradition, if he was wanted on the old charges, has been again submitted to the American legation and declined, on the ground that the American Government would be put to unnecessary expense.

The Secretary of the Commission read a resolution adopted at a meeting held on the 5th inst. M. Fourchier de Careil insisted upon its importance as inviting the French Government to take steps deemed necessary by the Congress of the United States for a treaty of reciprocity. President Grevy stated that he himself personally and the Government felt the greatest desire to renew commercial relations with the United States, and France attached great importance to the movement, looking to extend her relations with the great American Republic. In dismissing the delegation, the President said, "We are henceforward going to labour in concert to obtain the object you pursue."

C., Oct. 18.—Persons arriving from Chunky Gal Mountain report that indications of an earthquake disturbance began on Thursday and the earth seems to be giving away and the mountain sinking. IRISH LAND TROUBLES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The exciting news received from Ireland within the last few weeks about the land troubles has aroused considerable feeling among the Irish people in this city. The trustees of the Irish National Fund held a meeting last night and adopted an address to the Irish people of this city. The paper is significant, inasmuch as it contains direct threats of vengeance in case acts of cruelty should be perpetrated by the Irish landlords or massacres by the English troops.

JAIL-BREAKING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Five prisoners escaped from gaol at East Cambridge on Saturday night. They gained the corridors by false keys and escaped through a window. The bars of which were sawn. Two were indicted for murder, and the others for minor offences, but are old offenders. No clue.

SELL YOUR WHEAT.

The advice contained in the above words is of course addressed to our farmers and to them alone. And when we say sell your wheat we mean sell at once, or as soon as possible. Farmers are continually asking the question, "When is the best time to sell grain?" by the "best time" meaning, when can they sell with the best chance of having reaped the greatest profit. But they sometimes make the mistake of supposing that the greatest profit is synonomous with the highest price, no matter how long they may have waited for it after their grain was ready for market. Now that this is a mistake we will show hereafter, but first we would say that if he considers for a little, the farmer must come to the conclusion that the time for him to sell is just as soon as his grain is ready for the market. Farmers will almost always find it most profitable to stick to their own proper business, that of farming. Thousands of business men owe their ruin or want of prosperity to their indulging a weak desire to try some other business in connection with their own. They tell you that they got too many irons in the fire, and that they could not attend to each properly. It is much worse when the extra care taken upon them is not, properly speaking, business at all, but merely speculation. Yet this is what our farmers do when they determine to hold their grain after it is ready for market, in the hope of obtaining higher prices. They combine their own proper business of farming with that of speculating, for speculating it is and not the less so because they have bought the grain they hold with the sweat of their own and their children's brow. We strongly advise farmers to avoid the risk of trying with imperfect knowledge or no knowledge at all to make money by a process which almost invariably proves ruinous to those who attempt with all the knowledge that can be obtained by careful training and by unlimited expenditure to secure the latest information, and to sell their produce as early as they can with convenience to themselves. But apart from those reasons, viewing the question from a speculator's standpoint, it is for the farmer who holds a certain quantity of grain every autumn by far the most profitable in the long run to sell out during the fall. Of course in Canada, owing to enhanced cost of freight in winter, buyers of wheat are compelled, other things being equal, to pay the farmer lower prices than he could afford to do when navigation of our own rivers and canals was open, and therefore farmers who do not sell in the fall often hold over until the following summer. We are aware that in some back townships farmers find it advantageous to wait until winter, and by employing their otherwise idle horses, gain two or three cents extra; but still if they compare notes with their friends at the front they will find that by the extra work they have only at the best got even with them. But this does not affect the general proposition that the bulk of the grain not marketed in fall must be held over by some one till the following spring. We have before us a table showing the price of wheat on the first and sixteenth day of every month from 1872 to 1878 inclusive. This table shows that comparing those six falls and springs following, only one fall, that of the year 1876, would it have paid the farmer to have held his grain until the following spring, and the other four years it would have been a positive loss, even without making allowance for storage, loss by shrinkage, loss of interest, &c. But the loss by shrinkage is in itself very great, and is very seldom calculated upon by farmers. The cost of storage he does not count. The loss of interest, however, should always be calculated, as our farmers do not lend money which their wheat represents, without bargaining for the interest. English speaking farmers do not keep their money in an old stocking, at least when their money is represented by coins or bank bills, but they often do when the money is represented by wheat. For that is what it means. The granary becomes an old stocking. But in addition to all reasons which may be set forth as convincing any fall, there are special reasons why the farmer should sell his grain this year at once. The price of wheat is now higher than it has been during the fall of any year since 1872, and how much further back we do not know. It is higher than any one could, with any reason, have hoped for some months ago. It will ensure a splendid profit. It is, therefore, discreet and wise to sell. We can see no reason to suppose that the present high prices will be maintained. The crop in Europe has been poor we know, but how much below the average cannot be certainly estimated, and there can be little doubt that the loss has been fully realized. On the other hand the American crop has proved a very heavy one. That it will be moved without breaking present prices seems impossible, though it may be the case. It would therefore seem to be by far the best policy of the farmer any year, but particularly this year, to sell his grain before the end of the month. By doing so he will, at all events, have nothing with which he can justly reproach himself, as he would if he should neglect to manifest an apportunity of realizing at a high price. Some of our farmers know by experience what it is to have held grain till just after the highest price has been reached, and then, in the vain hope of yet making it up, holding even over two or three years, and being then forced to sell at a much lower price than they might have had. They may not count loss by interest, shrinkage, vermin, casualties, &c., but they will feel it all the same.—Montreal Witness.

WEST INDIA TRADE.

The reopening of trade with the West Indies, owing to raw sugar now coming direct to Canadian ports, has stirred up Pictou colliery owners to the advisability of finding a market for their coal in those islands, and they have asked for a reduction of the freight rate on the Intercolonial Railway to Halifax, so that the f. o. b. price may be put as low as possible.

During the present season of navigation no less than 45 vessels, measuring 20,700 tons, have arrived at Montreal from the West Indies with cargoes of sugar and molasses. Last year only seven vessels arrived at that port from those islands, and in 1877 there were but three. The restoration of this direct trade adds largely to the amount of tonnage available at the port, and assists the export movement of breadstuffs. —Monetary Times.

ATROCITIES OF THE RUSSIAN POLICE.

Horrible Treatment of a Lady for giving Gratituous Education.

Another terrible narrative of the atrocities perpetrated by the Russian police authorities under cover of the "state of siege" has just been published in the shape of a lengthy statement made by Olimpiada Kafiero, formerly a provincial schoolmistress in Russia, detailing the manner of her treatment at the hands of the "Third Section." Early in the year 1877, Mdlle Kafiero opened a school in the district of Wyschnyi-Wolotschok, belonging to the Twer Government, and taught the peasant children for two consecutive years without exacting any school fees from their parents. On the 16th of last June she was arrested without any previous warning, and thrown into prison. Her narrative from this date may best be recounted in her own words. She writes as follows:—

"After I had lain for a few days in the gaol of Wyschnyi-Woloschok, the Governor of Twer, Sorrow, entered my cell one morning and acquainted me with the cause of my arrest and imprisonment. according to his statement, my offences consisted in having imparted instructions to peasant children, which is only permitted to male teachers, and in having, fifteen years ago, been seen in a boat with several students. For having committed these crimes it was the intention of the authorities to send me across the frontier. From Wyschnyi-Wolotschok I was conveyed to St. Petersburg, where I remained for a whole week in gaol. Thence I was transported by rail, with fifty other prisoners, to Wilna. From the Wilna railway station we were all marched, late at night, to the prison, where, admission being refused to us on account of the lateness of the hour, we were compelled to stand all night long in an open courtyard under incessant torrents of rain. Next day we were lead into a totally dark corridor, and subjected to an examination of our clothes and persons. The women, of whom I was one, were searched and stripped by gendarmes, who committed the vilest atrocities upon us. When any one of us ventured to protest against their abominable outrages, she was struck and kicked with such brutal violence that blood followed the blows and kicks. This so-called 'visitation' of the women lasted several hours, amid the laughter and mockery of the soldiers. I fell into a deep swoon under their atrocious cruelties; and when I came to my senses I found myself lying on the stone floor, between two fallen women imprisoned for theft, who were doing their best to revive and comfort me in my affliction. Shortly afterwards we were handcuffed and carried off to Kowno, where we were received at the Female Penitentiary by the gaol matron, Pavolyna, whose first greeting to us was a furious threat to smash all our teeth in should we venture to attempt either to read or write a word whilst in her prison. There I remained a whole week long, amongst convicts, murderesses, and thieves. We got scarcely anything to eat. At last I fell ill, from the sheer exhaustion of hunger. Seeing my miserable condition, one of my fellows gave me a morsel of bread, but was espied in the act of so doing by the matron, who rushed at me and abused me in such language as you would scarcely expect to hear from a drunken and infuriate moujik. At the expiration of this horrible week we were again handcuffed and marched off from Kowno on foot. A three days' march in frightfully bad weather brought us to Marianpol. My feet were covered with wounds—my shoes full of blood. During the journey I had repeatedly complained of my sufferings to our escort, and piteously begged to be allowed to rest, as I could go no further. Their only answer was, "Then we must drive you, you——!" At Marianpol I was taken to the station master, as I could hardly stand, that he might decide whether I should proceed on foot or be sent on by rail. I showed him my bleeding feet, and implored his mercy. All he said was, "You have managed to walk for three days, and you will have to hold out for the fourth." On the fourth day we reached Wolkowyski, more dead than alive, whence we were to be conveyed across the frontier into Prussia. Meanwhile they locked us up in a guard-house, men and women all in one room. There was neither bench nor stool—no, not even a wisp of straw to lie down upon. We had to stretch ourselves out, all together, as best we might, on the damp and filthy clay floor. The stench and vermin were intolerable, quite beyond description. During the night they turned in amongst us all the prostitutes picked up by the police in the public streets, as well as drunkards, thieves, and a stark-naked madman. Some of the prisoners at once commenced worrying and irritating this unfortunate lunatic, who began to foam at the mouth, and struck out in every direction, knocking us about with the most savage fury. From this den of inconceivable horrors I contrived to get a letter conveyed to General Gourko, who promptly sent an order to the Prison Inspector that I was to be forthwith transported to the Prussian frontier. At Eydtkuhnen I was handed over to the Prussian police, who at once set me at liberty. I travelled straight to Paris, and thence to Geneva, where I slowly recovered my health, and now write this my miserable story."

"AN UNJUST DEFENCE."

A Peterborough Insurer's Successful Claim —An Opinion From the Bench.

When from his high position on the Bench, the Chancellor twice characterizes a defence as unrighteous, refusing the defendant's costs "by reason of the unrighteous defence which they have set up," a more than ordinary interest is attached to the nature of it. The particulars of the case are prosy enough. It was the technical objections which were raised by the defendant's in the case of Butler vs. the Standard Fire Insurance Company, which occasioned the approbrious term made use of by the judge.

Hannah Butler, the wife of Charles Butler, had had a stock of goods left to her by her brother M. Collins. At the time of his death, after payment of all debts, including funeral and testamentary expenses, they were worth about $1,800, and on the second of Nov. 1877 following, she sured them for $1,000. Her husband, who, up the death of Collins had managed the shop, had been appointed his sole executor. He therefore obtained probate and assumed the administration of the estate, carrying on the business, using the same books of account, and placing his own name over the door. It did not appear that there had been any agreement between the husband and wife on the subject, but it seemed that she was aware that he was continuing the business in his own name using her goods for her.

On the 28th Feb., 1878, the goods were destroyed by fire, and the insured made her claim for the amount insured according to legal form. But her claim was resisted by the insuring company, under certain conditions of insurance, statutory and non-statutory, (variations therefrom), the defendants alleged that that she was not the sole owner of the goods at the time of the fire, for her husband had not formally assented to the bequest of her brother, and in the course of business had disposed of the greater portion of the original stock; purchasing other goods with the proceeds, and in this way, by careful husbandry, increased the stock. These are the salient points of the technical objections raised by the defendants.

The Statutory condition (if any person insure his property, and cause the same to be described otherwise than it really is, to the prejudice of the Company, such insurance is of no force), was held to be ineffective. The absence of her husband's assent to the bequest by her brother, the learned Judge held, was not a circumstance to the prejudice of the Company. There could be no possible object in representing the ownership of the goods to be other than it was; all the material points, such as the nature of the goods, their value and position, had been taken into account by the Company when it accepted the risk, and in strict law it was a matter of indifference whether the property was owned by the husband or wife. The defence that had been set up was based upon a non-statutory condition, on the policy of the defendants, which the Chancellor, by virtue of the Ontario Statute in that behalf, held to be unjust and unreasonable.

Before defending a suit on a fire insurance policy it would be well that the defendants should consider whether the defence was an honest one or not; and so escape not only a rebuke scathing as that administered by the Chancellor in the case cited, but judgment against them with costs. If the Company had no stronger defence than the technical points they raised, it would have been vastly better for their reputation to have paid the claim at once.—Monetary Times.

A BIG HAUL.

A Newly Arrived Scotch Doctor is Robbed of $15,000.

Dr. N. C. MacLean, a wealthy physician of London, arrived in New York a few days ago and went with his wife to the Continental Hotel, on Twentieth street and Broadway. He had with him a large lot of luggage contained in several trunks. The hotel people were not able to give him the accommodations that he wanted at once, and sent him to 34 East Twentieth street, a first class boarding house, where apartments, such as he desired, were obtained. Last evening Dr. MacLean and his wife left their apartments about 8 o'clock and did not return until after 10. When they entered their room they saw much to their surprise, that it had been invaded by thieves. A stout trunk in the room had been broken open and part of its contents had been scattered over the floor. It needed but a glance to show Dr. MacLean that articles of great value had been stolen. Among the articles which the trunk contained was a cash box made of metal and fastened with a peculiar key in which had been placed 1,250 pounds in Bank of England notes. Besides the notes were several diamonds of great value, the largest of which was nine karats in weight. The cash box lay near the trunk broken and empty. The thief had not waited to tamper with the lock of the box, but had smashed in the lid and had gone off with the notes and diamonds. Apparently very little else in the room had been stolen. Shortly before noon to-day Dr. MacLean called at the Police Central office in company with Captain Williams, of the 29th Precinct, and consulted Superintendent Walling and Captain Kealy, of the detective force, concerning his loss. He said that he suspected a

CERTAIN MAN OF HIS ACQUAINTANCE

as being the thief, and after he had explained his reasons for suspicion, the officials concluded to put a close watch upon the man at once. The man is well known to the police and cannot escape from the city. If the circumstances point more closely to his guilt he will be arrested at once. Superintendant Walling inquired of Dr. McLean if he knew the number of the stolen bank notes and the Doctor said he did. Superintendant Walling advised him to go to Wall street at once and have word sent over the wires to all the brokers giving the numbers of the notes, and asking that they be stopped if presented. Dr. McLean drove away and proceeded immediately to Wall street.

DESCRIPTION OF THE STOLEN JEWELRY.

The following description of the stolen jewelry was furnished by Dr. MacLean to the police today: One solitaire diamond, unset, square cut, 9 karats weight, valued at $1,000; one solitaire diamond, round cut, $800; one solitaire diamond $150; one solitaire diamond set in ring $450; one solitaire diamond set in plain band, $200; one solitaire diamond set deep in gold band, $250; two ladies' diamond rings, $400: one carbuncle ring, $30; one sapphire ring, $50.

SONG—THE WOOER'S TRYST.

The gloaming glories o' the lift hae dwined awa' to grey,
And clachan lichts begin to blink ayont the mirkning brae,
I' th' abbey's mullioned winnock glowers the braid, red rising mune,
To tell the sangsters birdies their daily darg is dune.
The vesper bell is ringing, sae pawkily and slee,
To monie a listening lad and lass by muirland, holm, and lea,
O' trysts to bide at gloaming hour by burnie, bower, and glen,
To breathe the auld, auld story that wooers only ken.

My minnie's glow'ring owre me, and I canna win awa'
To meet my ain deer lover doon in Craigentinny shaw;
Oh! weel I ken he's waiting there, sae loyally and true,
To fauld me in his manly airms and pree my willing mou'.
My tittie flytes me sairly, and jeers me ear and late;
My daddie's plans alarm me wi' bodings o' my fate;
The donnert laird o' Restalrig, he winna let me be—
They've sauld and coft me ben the house, and ne'er spier'd leave o' me.

I daurna gang to market, and I daurna gang to kirk,
Nor watch the fauld at butching time i' th' lanely hill-side lirk;
For sure as shadow fallows the sunshine owre the swaird,
Sae surely I'll be fallowed by the auld tormentin' laird!
He weel micht be my gutcher, wi' his locks o' drift white snaw,
His clocherin' hoast, and wheezlin' voice, and body fal't in twa;
Wi' rheumy e'e and palsied mou' he simpers words o' luve,
And howpes wi' a' his gowd and gear my faithfu' heart to muve.

But Restalrig, nor Inverleith, wi' a' their acres wide,
Nor muckle ha' aboon the lock in brave baronial pride,
Wi' 'scutcheons, crests, and monograms, displayed wi art-like care,
Sall tempt me frae my plichtit troth or Jamie ever mair.
Foul fa' the weary siller, oh, that gies sae meikle dule,
And wae betide the the lacking o't, to gar us baw and snool;
Deil tak the wud ambition, make parents' hearts like stane—
To smoor for its puir toom joys the life o' their ain bairn!

For what care I for wealth or rank, or vauntit noble bluid?
Leal hearts are wealth, and nobleness is only being guid.
The lord is but a beggar loon if destitute o' these,
And gaberlunzie is a lord possessing guid, God gies!
But I'll be true to Jamie yet, though puir the lad may be;
Though lichtlied by my kith and kin, he's a' the warld to me.
Sae let them flyte and ban till doom, I'll doon the whinny shaw,
And bide my tryst wi' him I lo'e, whatever may befa'!

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION.

Colds are the fruitful causes of many maladies which bring acute sufferings and sometimes death in their train. Beautiful as the autumnal weather is, with its radiant skies and rich coloring, the cold nights and mornings make special care necessary if we would keep in perfect health. The ounce of prevention is better than the pound of cure, says the homely proverb with which we have always been familiar. How can we apply it in our own cases?

So far as our homes are concerned, first, by having a little fire, morning and evening, to change the air pleasantly and take off the chill, which is not sharp enough for cold, yet which subtly creeps to the marrow of one's bones. Romance and poetry apart, a fire on the hearth in October is the sworn foe of rheumatism and malaria. It will save ten times its cost in doctors' bills and medicines. Every house should have the opportunity of lighting it, but if you have only the stove or the kitchen range, manage to utilise that so as to avoid a shivering fit at the beginning or ending of the day.

Blankets on the bed at night are in order now, and warm wrappings, overcoats and shawls, belong to the economy of all prudent persons. It is surprising to notice how many young ladies wear shawls under protest, and persist in going out in the evening with a graceful little cape of the thickness of two folds of cashmere when a good woollen plaid would be far more sensible. Young gentlemen too are rather obstinate and resentful of the good advice to take proper care of themselves. "Harry," says mother, "you will need your overcoat before you come home." "Oh no!" he responds cheerfully. "I don't want to put it on too soon; when once I begin wearing it, I shall have to keep on." That reason with many men, both older and younger, seems to be potential, and so they are uncomfortable for two or three weeks of changeable weather while waiting for the cold weather to come in earnest. The climate is capricious, and it is well to be armed against it, particularly if one's outdoor business necessitates rides in the open cars, which are both delightful and dangerous.

The ounce of prevention includes the wearing of woollen or silken underclothing as a matter of course. It is time now to be well protected about the chest and extremities, by heavier underclothing than the gauze merino which was sufficient in the summer. Warmer stockings, too, and thick, broad soled shoes, with stout uppers, will do much towards making you well and happy. One needs to possess the grace of a saint to be happy when neuralgia is attacking the most sensitive parts of the body with barbed and poignant arrows, or to be patient when shaken with chills, burning up with fever, or drenched with despairing perspiration. We have seen people endure these distresses with martyr-like resignation and angelic calmness, and have admired and loved them the more for their fortitude, but we must all admit that it is a duty to be well if we can. So far as lies in us, let us do what will keep this complex machinery of the body in good working order, and thus our usefulness will be increased and our amiability promoted.

Little children would be saved from many sudden attacks of illness if they were brought up in accordance with the laws of health, and if they were dressed always warmly enough. "Please don't say 'squills and ipecac' to me this year, auntie" exclaimed a croupy little victim, in our hearing the other day, and the auntie resolved that if flannel and fresh air, and other prudential measures would keep the fiend away, her boy should not be menaced by the dreaded dose. Less frequent restoring to the family medicine-chest might be practicable if we were thoughtful in time. One does not often see now, as a score or so of years ago one saw constantly, little bare arms and necks and little fat legs exposed to the nipping cold. The laws of hygiene are better understood. Yet, one sunshiny Saturday in the park, not long since I observed many children whose garments though very tasteful, were too summery for the time of the year. June and October are very dissimilar in their blandness, and the first being the usher of the crowning heats of the year, and the last heralding the event of the inclement storms and rigors of the winter. A little shirt-waist is not enough for the little seven year old boy at five on an October afternoon, nor is an embroidered muslin dress sufficient for a little girl. Sacques and jackets have their uses in the wardrobe of the comfortably appareled child.

The ounce of prevention requires that we should eat nutritious food, and enough of it, at proper intervals. Habitual sleeplessness is another perilous symptom which should be combatted. Such troubles as insomnia and loss of relish for food are usually best treated on consultation with the family physician. It is not a good thing to carry the prevention theory too far here, because mischief is already done, and we must have the cure. Better the judicious advice of a friend, the doctor, than the blind purchasing of remedies which advertised, but which may or may not serve our case.

God gives us these wonderful bodies, the beautiful and fit homes of our immortal souls. It should not be forgotten that to care intelligently for what He has has chosen to make His temples while we tarry here on earth is only a reasonable service.

PRACTICAL ADVICE TO STUDENTS.

Mr. Goldwin Smith addressed the students of University College Toronto as follows, on the occasion of the annual convocation which took place on Friday last:—

At the conclusion of the distribution of the prizes, Mr. Goldwin Smith was called upon. It was, he said, of course very interesting to one who was himself once engaged in similar university competions to be present on an occasion of this kind. It recalled to his mind the days when he stood in trembling expectation at the doors of the examination rooms at Oxford, and saw the examiners come forth with the honour lists in their hands. A good deal had of late been said against this system of competitive examinations and prizes, and a good deal had been said with truth. It has been said that the system was defective as a test. No doubt it was. All tests were more or less defective. But he did not think examination or prize tests, if well used, were more defective than tests in general. In his own experience, at least, the results of examinations generally corresponded with the previous reputations of the students. It was also said that men were overstrained by these competitions. Sometimes, no doubt, they were. He did not think they were more often strained by competitions in examinations than by athletic competitions. Far more than health was endangered by voices which wait on idleness. He did not think any man who had a tolerable constitution need injure himself by competitive examination, if he would only manage himself well and abstain from habits which, under 'any circumstances,' would be injurious to his health. If a professor found one of his pupils breaking down he would do well to enquire whether he was reading too much; but he would also do well to enquire whether he smoked too many cigars or read too late at night. (Applause and laughter.) Reading late at night, he was convinced, had been the occasion of many a physical collapse, while on the contrary, a great deal more work might be done without injury to the health by reading early in the morning. He remembered once meeting the late Lord Westbury, who was then Sir Richard Bethel. He was at the time the Attorney-General of England, with a tremendous amount of professional work during the day, and obliged to attend in Parliament at night. Sir Richard neverthless looked perfectly fresh and healthy, and he (Mr. Smith) complimented him on his appearance. "Yes," said Sir Richard, "and I owe it to this, that I have always worked early in the morning and not late at night." He added, with a sort of complacency, "I set out in life with many dear friends who have worked late at night, and I have buried them all." (Laughter.) Far be it from him to say that reading for examinations or prizes was the highest motive for reading. Love of study and a sense of duty were higher motives than competition, and the more they could dispense with the latter and substitute the former, the better. But they could not do that always. He was glad to see the list of matriculated students increasing from year to year. He was one of those who believed Canada would see that in the end it was better to have one great university than a number of small ones—(loud applause)—that we learn that instead of scattering our resources, we should concentrate them, and concentrate them there. (Renewed applause.) He hoped also that the time was not far distant when the University would become the real centre of our whole educational system. Among the questions agitated in England, when he was last there, was the one to which he had alluded—the question between the strengthening of the old centuries of learning and the multiplication of universities; and also Owen College had been established successfully. He thought the multiplication of universities was likely to stop there. He found also the disposition to place the educational administration beyond the sphere of politics. He had great respect for our educational administrators, and the excellent Minister of Education we had in particular, but he believed the interests of our national education should above all be kept clear of politics, and it appeared to him that public thought was tending in the direction of centralizing our University system there. (Applause.)

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties would be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA, is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

LOCAL NEWS

The Town Council.

There will be a meeting of the Town Council this evening in the Council Chamber.

The Mills.

Some of our flouring mill men were compelled to shut down several hours last week for want of cars to remove the flour awaiting shipment. The mills have been running day and night.

I. O. G. T.

Peterborough Temple No. 340 meet this evening, at the hall on Water Street. The literary programme will be interesting, all Good Templars are invited to participate.

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: Moderate to fresh south-westerly winds; clear to cloudy weather. The above is correct for Peterborough, except the cloudy weather. The day is clear.

The Cold Snap.

There was a heavy frost on Saturday night and Sunday. The wind coming out from the north-west and north on Saturday gave us a cold wave which was broken last night by the wind changing to the south-west, making this, Monday, morning one of the loveliest of the entire year. The cold snap was of short duration.

Estate of Mr. W. G. Thompson.

We understand that the stock of Dry Goods &c. of the insolvent Estate of Mr. W. G. Thompson, was sold in Toronto, on Friday to Messrs. N. B. Gould & Co., of Norwood, for 55 cents on the dollar. The purchasers are now making preparations for a thirty day's sale of the goods, at the store formerly occupied by Mr. Thompson.

A Broken Rib.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. B. Green, buying grain on the market, met with an accident while examining a load of barley. He stepped upon the wheel of one of the farm waggons, when his foot slipped and he fell across the waggon body, breaking one of his ribs. Although he is able to be about he cannot mount the the loads to inspect the grain and he has an assistant to do this for him. He is looking a little pale to-day

Freights from Peterborough.

The Midland Railway did a large business from Peterborough last week. On Saturday night 30 cars were hauled away, making 350 for the week. With proper yard room and sidings nearly double that number could have been handled. This business only embraces the town of Peterborough, including Hilliard's mills. This morning the track was entirely free, and shippers were at the station awaiting the arrival of the morning train, which brought up five box cars. These were soon filled.

Another Accident.

On Saturday evening last at about half-past seven o'clock, H. McGill, driving Mr. A. Hall's express wagon, attempted the daring feat of crossing the mill stream at Rubidge Street heights, and did not discover his mistake until his horse and waggon were overturned down the bank. He had on the express waggon a barrel of oil which was scattered over the ground. But for the shrubbery all would have been precipitated into the stream below. As it was McGill was badly bruised and shaken, the waggon was considerably damaged, the oil was lost and the horse scratched. By aid of the residents in the neighborhood McGill, was released from his perilous position. It was sometime before he could move. This is the second accident at this dangerous point within a week.

Still Another Accident.

On Saturday evening last at about 8 o'clock a farmer with a partially loaded waggon turned the corner of Stewart and Murray Streets going west. Not knowing what he was to encounter he drove directly off the broken bank and would have been thrown down some 25 or 30 feet, had it not been for McGill, who had not yet been able to leave the spot after his mishap. He called to the farmer, but not until he had driven down to within a few feet of the broken bank. The neighbors living in the immediate vicinity, who had been aiding McGill came to his rescue, and by means of a plank were enabled to pry the waggon back into Rubidge Street. This makes a list of three accidents at these heights within a week. It is all very well for a town officer to say "they ought to see where they are going," but when the town has a bill of costs to pay there will be some sort of protection thrown about this spot.

The Grain Market.

The grain market this morning opened at $1.25 for No. 1 Fall Wheat. Little is coming in as is usual on Monday. We hear of no sales above $1.25 to-day. On Saturday afternoon there was great excitement, and as high as $1.30 was paid. It was reported that one house paid as high as $1.35, this, however, is positively denied. The buyers generally held off and forced others to pay a high figure. This kind of business was not indulged in to-day, and the market has again become steady at quotations. Barley is steady at Saturday's quotations; 70 cents was freely paid for No. 1 white. Discolored sold all the way from 40 to 60 cents. The price for barley was lower in Montreal on Saturday than in Peterborough.

HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

The American Press on the Boat Race The Referee Speaks out Plainly Courtney Condemned.

The New York Herald, on whose staff is Mr. Blaikie, the referee in the race, boldly charges Courtney with breaking his own boats and gives the palm to Hanlan. It says in yesterday's issue:—The whole thing is a disgrace to professional sculling, and may be considered the end of Charles Courtney's racing career. The fact that Hanlan made such fast time settles the question of his superiority over his American opponent as an oarsman. Disappointment and chagrin is the universal feeling, and the few thousands who came here in hopes to see a good race go home feeling very sore at the suspicious work accomplished in Courtney's boat-house. Neither the Canadians nor the Americans feel satisfied; for Hanlan is made to feel some of the odium as well as Courtney. It was a most miserable end to what promised to be a notable race, and will do great harm to boat-racing for some years to come. The best thing Courtney can do is to break all his boats at home, and hereafter stick to his carpenter shop, for sporting men cannot have much confidence in him or his intimates.

HANLAN SURPRISED.

When the Herald reporter called upon Hanlan with the news of the breaking of the boats, the latter was surprised evidently. He says:

I started to return to the depot, to note the public pulse, and on my way down called at Hanlan's quarters. I found Mr. Coulson at the door as I jumped out of the carriage; when he exclaimed, "Have you heard this rumor of Courtney's boats being cut or smashed? What stuff they do get up!"

"It's no rumor, Coulson, but too true, for I have seen the boats," was my response.

Without uttering a word, Mr. Coulson took your correspondent's arm with a sharp grip, and unceremoniously dragged him into the dining-room.

"Ned, Mr. — says it's true about the boats," said Coulson, as we entered the apartment. Hanlan jumped up from the table, and Mr. Ward pushed back his chair in genuine astonishment.

"Are you really in earnest," said Hanlan to me, "or are you joking?"

"It's no joke, Hanlan, the boats have been sawed nearly in two, and I have seen and examined them," was my reply.

"The confounded duffer, he's afraid to meet me. I now believe he always was afraid of me, and I don't care who knows it." Then, looking at his hardened hands. "And so all that work was for nothing, after all."

PROFESSIONAL OARSMEN INTERVIEWED.

Finding Fred Plaisted, Evan Morris, John H. Kennedy and a few other oarsmen standing in a group near the depot, your correspondent joined them.

"Well, Mr. Morris," said I, "what do you think of this boat cutting and sawing?"

"Think of it? Why, what can you think of it? I agree with what a Hanlan man said just now—the Courtney crowd are afraid to row Hanlan and cut the boat themselves; that's what I think!"

"What is your opinion, Mr. Kennedy?"

"Well, I am not disposed to say anything. I came here to see a race, and now I suppose we shall all be disappointed. I wish to express no opinion for the public."

"Mr. Plaisted," said I, turning around to Fred, "what have you to say?"

"Just this, sir, and I don't care who knows it; I believe Charley Courtney either cut his boats himself or knew of its going to be done. We all think so He's afraid to row Hanlan."

DOESN'T PAY SPECTATORS.

The Lake Chatauqua correspondent of the N. Y. World wrote after the race:

"I think I will express the sentiment of the average excursionist here to-day when I assert that it does not pay to attend professional boat-races. Nothing but the really wonderful solitaire performance of Hanlan reconciles these people to the loss of their money in this vain attempt to see a boat-race. Hanlan, left to himself, rowed over the course so fast as to beat the best record for five miles, and the treat in a measure appeases the public. Hanlan is, of course, the darling of the people to-night. Courtney is an object of derision and abuse. All facts are overlooked save the one damaging fact that he failed to come to time. I do not see any possible means by which Courtney can ever right himself in the public estimation unless the detectives who, it is said, have been engaged to enquire into this case succeed in finding out and bringing to light all the facts of this dastardly outrage."

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE last half-year report of the Great Western Railway shows a continuance of revenue deficiencies. The directors, however, are hopeful of better results for the current six months.

HEAVY floods in Spain this week have resulted in great destruction to property and serious loss of life. In one district alone the number of lives lost is said to exceed 300. The flood continued two days.

FOR the past nine months the number of failures in the Dominion has been 1,484, with liabilities of $24,424,000. This is an increase in number of 242, and in liabilities of $6,000,000, over the corresponding period of 1878.

Is it Prof. Wise's Balloon?

Mr. Ernest Gagnon, of St. Paul Que., writes that on the 3rd inst., about 5 a.m., a balloon passed that place driven by a strong south-west wind, and thinks it might have been Prof. Wise's balloon. Another person nine miles from Baie St. Paul, is said to have also seen the balloon. The balloon appeared as large as a puncheon and was going very fast.

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

THE REPULSE AT ALI KHEYL.

SIMLA, Oct. 18.—The following details have been received of the attack on the camp at Ali Kheyl by the Afghans on the 14th. Four thousand Afghans made a desperate attack upon the British camp, but were repulsed at the point of the bayonet, leaving on the field forty killed, 200 wounded, and two standards. The British pursued them two miles. The British loss was two killed and fourteen wounded. The latest intelligence is that the combined frontier tribes are retreating.

BRITISH OFFICER MURDERED.

SIMLA, Oct. 19.—A British Deputy Commissioner in the Nagahills was murdered by Nuzema Nagas on the 14th inst. The assailants were subsequently dispersed by the British detachment. An attack on Kohunga is expected by the troops sent there from Golaghat and Wokha.

WISHING TO ABDICATE.

The Ameer, Yakoob Khan, announces his determination to abdicate, and states he intended to abdicate earlier but was dissuaded. General Roberts advised the Ameer to reconsider the matter, but the Ameer firmly adheres to his resolution. General Roberts is in consequence making arrangements for maintaining order in Afghanistan, and carrying on the administration.

CUTTING THE TELEGRAPH LINES.

The Ghilzais in the neighborhood of Shutargardan are still markedly hostile. Ten miles of telegraph line have been cut and carried away between Peiwar and Shutargardan, stopping communication with General Roberts.

POWDER MAGAZINE EXPLODED.

ALIKHEYL, Oct. 19.—A magazine at the Bala Hissar, containing 820,000 shot and shell and six tons of gunpowder, has been blown up. Twenty-seven British and many Afghans were killed.

FIGHTING RENEWED.

Fighting has been renewed at Sirkai. The Katal position was held by 90 Sepoys against heavy odds. The enemy left 25 dead.

WINTER QUARTERS.

CABUL, Oct. 19.—Gen. Hills, military Governor of Cabul, has reported the advance of three Afghan regiments of cavalry and six regiments of infantry from Turkestan. There is one case of cholera at Cabul. The British troops will probably be quartered during the winter in the Bala Hissar, and Thirpur cantonments.

By Telegraph to the Review.

EFFECT OF THE EXPLOSION.

ALIKH, Oct. 20. The cause of the explosion of the Magazine of the Bala Hissar is unknown. The first explosion occurred at half past one o'clock on Saturday and the second at four. Further explosions are apprehended. The magazine, it is believed contained 820,000 shot and shell, a large number of Snyder rifles and 6 tons of powder. One soldier, 21 Gorkhas, six camp followers and many Afghans were killed.

THE WISEST PLAN.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A Simla correspondent says that abdication is probably the wisest plan for Yokoob Khan. We may now place on the throne a man fit for the position, and on whose friendship we can rely.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parent trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1

The piquant and charming actress, Miss Marian Mordaunt, of the Broadway Theatre, New York, was taken suddenly with a severe hoarseness—was unable to perform; a friend recommended Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia; the cure was rapid and complete.

VICTORIA CHEMICAL COMPANY, TORONTO,

Gentlemen,—Confirming my statement a short time ago, as to the satisfactory results from the use of your COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES, I will further add that fresh proofs of the genuine benefits conferred on patients requiring it are constantly coming under my observation; parties to whom I have recommended it, have in a short time, with the deepest thankfulness, acknowledged the relief they have experienced, and in some cases have asserted that it, and it alone, have saved their lives. It gives me much pleasure to assure you that I consider your Syrup, the VICTORIA HYPOPHOSPHITES, the best preparation of any which has come under my notice for Debility and all Pulmonary Complaints, Bronchitis, Coughs, &c., and believing this, I constantly recommend it before every other Compound.

IT having come to our knowledge that certain travellers for Paper Bags have been offering to sell to Peterborough merchants at various percentages lower than our quotations, in the hope of damaging our business in this Department, we have determined to make the following

NAMELY:—

☛ We will sell our Paper Bags CHEAPER than the very best bona fide offer made to any Merchant in Peterborough, FREE of Freight or other Charges. ☚

Our trade in Paper Bags and Wrapping Papers has gradually grown to an extent which has made it hardly worth the while for travellers to come to Peterborough. And the result has been to make them jealous of our success and annoyed at their loss of sales.

From the Morning Papers.

QUEBEC.

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE sailed for England by the SS. Sarmatian at 9.30 this morning. The Grand Trunk Railway train with the Vice-Regal party on board arrived at Levis at 7:15, where a detachment of B. Battery, under command of Colonel Montizambert, was drawn up as a guard of honor. The Vice-Regal party were met at South Quebec by General Sir Patrick McDougall and staff, Colonel Strange, Lieutenant-Governor Robitaille, Sir John A. Macdonald, the Hon. Messrs. Langevin, Pope, Baby, &c. After breakfasting on board their private car, the Vice-Regal party, amid the booming of cannon from H.M.S. Tourmaline and the Citadel, took passage by the police steam yacht, Dolphin, handsomely fitted up for the occasion, for the mail steamer anchored in the stream. Half an hour later the Tourmaline and Sarmatian steamed out to sea and His Excellency was brought ashore by the police yacht and drove to the citadel. At 11.30 a.m. he left in company with Sir John Macdonald and the other Ministers who were here by North Shore train for Ottawa. So dense was the fog that nothing could be seen from the city of the vessels' movements.

TORONTO.

THE TRIAL OF THE DEAL BROTHERS, for kidnapping, opened at the Criminal Assizes Court on Friday. The Court room was crowded to the doors. Mr. Jaffray was examined, and testified to having been kidnapped, as related some few weeks ago; he identified Deal as one of the kidnappers, but could not swear to Jno. Deal being another of them. John Adams testified to Robert Jaffray coming to his house on the Don Flats about twelve o'clock on the night the kidnapping is said to have taken place; witness heard, about two weeks before then, there was a cave being dug in the vicinity of his house. A herd lad said he had seen the prisoners employed working at a cave on the Don Flats some time before the 21st August. A teamster stated that he had delivered timber for the prisoners, with which to build what he thought was a root-house in a secret part of the Don Flats.

THE TURNER HOMICIDE.—At the conclusion of the evidence in the Turner case, the jury returned a verdict in effect that Robt. W. Turner came to his death from an abscess in his head, which was caused by a blow, but how inflicted they could not tell. Lawrence Smyth is still held prisoner, having been remanded by the police magistrate on a charge of assaulting with intent to murder R. W. Turner.

The Baltimore Presbyterian says:—Hugh Miller, hewing into shape the rough granite—Ferguson, the astronomer, viewing the stars while tending his flock—Farady, searching out mysteries as a poor book-binder—Franklin, solving problems at the case and in his gloomy sanctum—these and many such as these, out of their gloomy surroundings, poor and unknown, have wrought great and noble results that have left their empress on the ages, and placed their authors among the world's great teachers. Oatmeal and Water.

The late eminent Dr. Parks in his book on the "Personal Care of Health," states:—When you have any heavy work to do take no beer, cider or spirits. The best drink is thin oatmeal and water with a little sugar. The proportions are a quarter-pound of oatmeal to two or three quarts of water; it should be well boiled and then one ounce or an ounce and a half of brown sugar added. Shake up the oatmeal well through the liquid. In summer drink this cold in winter hot. You will find it not only quenching thirst, but will give you more strength and endurance than any other drink. If at any time you have to make a very long day, and cannot stop for meals increase the oatmeal to half a pound, or, even three quarters, and the water to three quarts. If you cannot get oatmeal wheat flour will do, but not quite so well.

THERE is no remedy for female complaints so good as VICTORIA BUCHU and UVA URSI. It is an excellent remedy for quinsy, influenza, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, etc. For sale by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

FROM THE STATES.

The very patriotic Reform journals have been abusing Lord Beaconsfield because he spoke, as they assert, too favorably of Canada. Sir John Macdonald also comes in for a share of the abuse because, without any evidence, they choose to assume that the English Premier's information was derived from him. The chief point of attack was Lord Beaconsfield's statement that there was a very large emigration from the United States into our North-Western Provinces, and that this movement was likely to increase. Even if there was some exaggeration in the language, it was well known that there was much foundation for it, and to-day we have fresh proof of this in the news we publish from Winnipeg, that 2,000 immigrants have entered the Province from the United States this season through one agency alone. When we find the United States Consul there asserting publicly that two-thirds of the wheat land of North America lies within our boundaries, we cannot wonder at the growing influx from the south in spite of the efforts of the Globe and its conferes to disuade them from coming to our Dominion.

USURPED AUTHORITY.

The New York Times gives briefly and forcibly the main facts of the Quebec coup d'etat in the following paragraph :—

"Mr. Letellier's fault was his assertion of authority in opposition to the only authority recognisable in a Parliamentary system—that of responsible Ministers backed by a Parliamentary majority. It was the setting up the will of one man against the responsible exponents of the electoral will. Plainly stated, this is usurpation, the moral guilt of which is not diminished by the usurper's subsequent toleration of the corrupt means whereby a Ministerial minority was converted into a Ministerial majority of one."

LITERATURE AND ART.

George Sand is to have a statue near her Chateau de Nohant.

"Moondyne," by James Boyle O'Reilly, has reached the third edition.

Paul H. Hayne, the Southern poet, thinks of making his home in the North.

A volume of poems by Theodore Tilton is announced by R. Worthington as in preparation for issue this fall.

Prof. Galachoff has in the press a work on the "History of Russian Literature," which will be published during the present month.

A bust of the late Australian sculptor, Summers, is to be placed in the shire hall of Somerset, of which county in England he was a native.

The brother of Wm. H. Hunt has undertaken to write the life of the deceased artist. The materials are abundant for a brilliant and instructive book.

The season being over in London, and society gossip somewhat dull, Milton's divorce from his wife in 1643 is a subject up for animated discussion in the literary papers.

Mr. Ivan Tourguenieff proposes to spend the winter in Russia, with a view to becoming more intimately acquainted with what is going on there than a resident of Paris can be.

John Hay, the poet, who wrote "Little Breeches," who was one of Lincoln's private secretaries, and who married a very wealthy Ohio lady, has gone into politics in that State.

A new volume of selections from Thoreau's manuscript, with notes by Mr. F. B. Sanborn, is in preparation. It will probably do service in a magazine before it is put between covers.

It is stated that Mr. Herbert Spencer's health, which has always been precarious, has almost suddenly improved, so that he is better than he has been for 15 years before. He is now 60 years old.

A. S. Barnes & Co., are about to publish "Ancient and Medimval Republics," being a review of their institutions and of the causes of their decline and fall, by a new writer—Mr. Henry Mann. It is an octavo of 600 pages.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

A GREAT DEAL OF TALK AND NOT VERY MUCH WORK DONE.

A Public Park Wanted - The Snow By-Law Again Shelved - Councillor Rutherford's Drain - Hunter Street Bridge Contract.

The Council met on Monday evening, October 20, pursuant to adjournment. Present :—The Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, Buller, Paterson, Rutherford, Yelland, Denne, and Griffith.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Dennistoun Bros. & Hall, on behalf of the property owners west of Bethune street and north of Murray street, calling attention to the alteration of the water channels there, and the probability of damage from flooding in the next thaws.

From the Provincial Secretary, stating that on June 30th the Inspector was instructed to pay the Treasurer $715, the town's proportion of the license duties, and on the 11th September to pay a further sum of $2,884. The Department did not know the cause of the delay, and thought the money had been paid. Fresh direction to pay would be given at once, and a report was requested if payment was not made at once.

From James Edwards, Town Treasurer, enclosing a statement of the receipts and expenditures for the month of September. Referred to the Finance Committee.

From G. W. Ranney, stating that he declined to give a certificate for the Hunter street bridge as the work was not in accordance with the specifications. A claim for extra work should be favorably considered.

From J. Carnegie, Secretary of the Town Trust, asking for the issue of two debentures to the amount of $400 each. Referred to the Finance Committee.

From W. Toole, in regard to the building of a culvert across Murray street to carry off the water into the creek. This would save the keeping up of two bridges. Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From John Doherty, Market Clerk, asking to have the Market Square put in order.—Granted.

From John Frith and A. Macpherson, as to their payment for their contract for the Hunter Street Bridge. After a long and rather angry discussion, a motion to refer the matter to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act was put and lost.

LIQUOR LICENSE MONEY.

Councillor Denne moved, seconded by Councillor Griffith,—That the Clerk be instructed to ask the License Commissioners for the interest on the amount now due—if not paid to be placed in court for collection.—Carried.

FINANCE REPORT.

Councillor Cahill brought in the report of the Finance Committee, as follows :—

The Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

Wm. Beavis, fitting Council Chamber	$25 61
Wm. Hamilton, material for same	15 00

As to the petition of Mr. Wm. Chapman, your Committee recommend the Council not to interfere in the matter of his taxes, as this should be settled between himself and his landlord. His complaint about being being assessed for dogs, which he did not possess, will come under the general recommendation made in reference to this matter.

In the matter of Mr. Thos. Billington, your Committee recommend that his assessment be fixed at the average amount of the last two years.

In reference to persons applying for remission of taxes on dogs which they allege they did not possess, your Committee recommend that they may be exempted from payment of same upon making a statutory declaration before the Town Treasurer that they had no dog or dogs during the present year.

The report was adopted.

PUBLIC PARK.

Councillor Smith moved, seconded by Councillor Cahill,—That whereas the recent Central Exhibition has demonstrated that the premises at present used, and leased by the Agricultural Society are unsuited for the purpose for which they are used; whereas it is desirable that more commodious grounds should be obtained which besides being used as Exhibition grounds might be used as a public park, cricket and lacrosse grounds: Be it therefore resolved that the Mayor and the mover and seconder be and are hereby appointed a special committee to confer with the Warden and members of the County Council with a view of securing their consent to the sale and disposal of the present Exhibition grounds, the proceeds derived from the sale thereof to be applied in the purchase of suitable Exhibition grounds and the erection thereon of all necessary buildings, which might be obtained sufficiently large to be used as a public park, cricket and lacrosse grounds.—Carried.

THE RUTHERFORD DRAIN.

Councillor Denne moved, seconded by Councillor Griffith,—That the Mayor, on behalf of the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, do sign a notice compelling Arthur Rutherford to restore the road and drain situate on Downie street, between Dublin and Edinburgh streets, within one month from this date into its original position, such as it was before he was Inspector of Streets and Bridges of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1876, and in default of his not complying with this said notice, the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough shall complete the same, and all costs and charges made in the execution of this work shall be collected from the said Arthur Rutherford, as the law requires, and that Mr. Macdonald, the Town Clerk, shall prepare the notices, one to be kept, and the other to be served on Arthur Rutherford by the Constable of the Town of Peterborough, according to this resolution.

Councillor Smith asked for it to be left as a notice of motion till next night, as it was a very serious matter, and it would be safer to get further information.

Councillor Denne said he was quite willing to let it stand till next night, but something should be done shortly, as the town might become liable for damage. He did not say that Mr. Rutherford was responsible.

SNOW BY-LAW.

Councillor Rutherford moved,—That the Council go into a Committee of the Whole on his Snow By-law. Several ratepayers had asked him to press the matter. It seemed absurd that they should build sidewalks to have them covered up for a great part of the year. Those who removed the snow complained that their neighbors did not do so. He would make the district effected a small one at first, and it might be extended.

Councillor Cahill objected to the By-lay, which was not asked for by the ratepayers, and had been voted down by the Council.

Councillor Denne, who had seconded the motion, said a hundred ratepayers had asked him to press the by-law.

The motion was carried, and the Council went into a Committee with Councillor Taylor in the chair.

The first clause compelling the removal of snow from the sidewalks, &c., within the fire limits, was carried.

After a long discussion which ensued, a motion was carried that the Committee rise.

HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

Councillor Paterson, after a reconsideration had been carried, moved that the Hunter Street Bridge Committee be referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

Councillor Denne moved, seconded by Councillor Griffith,—That when the work on Hunter Street Bridge is passed by Mr. Ranney, who was employed for same work, the amount be paid to the contractors.

Councillor Cahill moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor Taylor,—That the matter of the Hunter Street Bridge be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee, with Mr. Denne's name added, with power to act, and take Mr. Ranney's opinion in the matter.

Councillor Paterson withdrew his motion, and after a long discussion Mr. Cahill's amendment was carried.

THE TOWN CLOCK.

Councillor Paterson moved, seconded by Councillor Smith,—That Mr. Joseph McClelland be appointed caretaker of the town clock, in the place of Mr. Malcolm, resigned, at the same salary as before.—Carried.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Councillor Paterson moved, seconded by Councillor Rutherford,—That the Clerk ask the Midland Railway Company for the interest on damages on Bethune Street north of Hunter Street.

Councillor Denne said the Railway Company should be encouraged as much as possible.

The motion was carried.

THE MONAGHAN DRAIN.

Councillor Cahill moved, seconded by Councillor Taylor,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to proceed to expend the amount appropriated for the Monaghan drain, or any less sum that will be sufficient.

Councillor Denne objected to the street appropriation being exceded.

Councillor Cahill said it was not yet expended. He urged the necessity for the work, and the claims of that portion of the town.

The motion was carried.

THE AUBURN MILLS.

Councillor Denne moved, seconded by Councillor Griffith,—That $15 be allowed to be spent by the Street Inspector in the neighbourhood of the Auburn Factory.—Carried.

CEMETERY ROAD.

Councillor Paterson moved, seconded by Councillor Denne,—That Mr. Corby be instructed to put one log more on the Lake shore crib work at a cost of $17, and that the Street Inspector be instructed to have the crib work filled from the hill adjoining the cemetery.—Carried.

NUISANCE.

Mr. Green was allowed to address to Council as to a nuisance on the river bank. The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

A STREET SCENE.

A wee laddie ran by his mither's goon,
His facie was white, an' his wee backie roon';
A puir little humphie, his big wistfu' een
Micht hae meltit tae pity a heart made o' stane.

He ran thro' the market, jeered at by the weans,
Wha thochtlessly lauched at his puir croukit banes,
Tho' some turned in pity to look in his face,
Sayin', "Losh, what a waesome-like laddie that is!"

On a stand 'mang the rest, in a neatly-spread raw,
Some floo'rs tied in nosegays bloomed bonnie an' braw;
Oor wee laddie sees them, an' claspin his hands
In a half-breathless ecstasy, speechless he stands.

"O look at the bonnie wee floo'rs, mither, see
At this bonnie wee bunchie, ye micht buy't tae me;
O buy't tae wee Johnnie, my ain mither dear,
An' I'll no seek anither thing oot o' the fair.

He wad hearna a nay-say, but pleadit the mair,
Till his puir mither bocht what he wantit sae sair,
Then I fearna to say that the Queen of the land
Was nae prooder than he wi' the floo'rs in his hand.

He glowers in awe at the half open buds,
As ane micht at a fairy new fa'en frae the cluds;
Syne he tenderly kisses them, trembling wi' glee,
While he slowly gangs hame, leavin' tears in my e'e.

In a wee garret room, on a beddie fu' sma',
Lies the puir humphie laddie, his life near awa';
His wee facie pinched, an, his een burnin' bricht
As twa stars, wi' an eeriesome, far awa' licht.

"Oh mither, come here; I've been dreamin' again.
I was dune, dune at last, wi' this wearifu' pain;
An' the places I've been, an' the ferlies I saw—
Oh, mither, I wish I'd ne'er waukent ava.

"A'thing that I saw was like gowd to my sicht;
An' there wasna a sun, an' yet a'thing was bricht;
While the floo'rs that ye gae me yon day at the fair—
Oh, mither, I saw them, they're growin' up there.

He lay for a wee in motionless peace,
Syne a joy inexpressible shone in his face—
"The floo'rs; on, the floo'rs!"—he had thrown off his load,
And the wee humphie bloomed in the Garden o' God.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

PLUMS.—PEACHES.—GRAPES.—These fruits may be pickled by placing with them in a jar, muslin bags containing spices broken fine with sufficient cold vinegar to cover them.

TAKE from six to ten drops of solution of chlorinated soda in a wine glassful of water every morning. It is one of the best remedies for an offensive breath.

To strengthen and tighten the gums, wash the mouth three or four times a week with a little tincture of myrrh in cold water. About one part of the former to three parts of the latter.

WHEN a young lady is formerly engaged to a gentleman, and he dies before the marriage, she may with propriety wear mourning for him; but it is not necessary. It being pure matter of feeling, rather than of etiquette, there is no precise rule for the time the mourning is to be worn.

FOR hoarseness beat well the whites of two eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of white sugar, grate in half a nutmeg, add a pint of lukewarm water, stir well and drink often. It is very simple, cannot hurt any one, and sometimes acts upon the throat like a charm, banishing all hoarseness.

WHEN removing hairs from any part of the body take quicklime, ten parts; starch, ten parts; hyposulphate of soda, three parts. Rub in a mortar and mix well into a powder. For use add a little water to enough of the powder to form a paste, which lay on the hairs for two or three minutes. Scrape off with a wooden knife or anything dull, and the hairs will be removed.

CRAB APPLES.—No jell can exceed in looks or flavor, that which is made of crab apples. Some may not know that by taking out the core, the jelly will be far nicer looking. A nice dessert can be made by stewing cored crab apples in sugar very slowly, with a lump of butter. Extract of lemon may be added. Placed on a platter or covered dish, it has a very appetizing appearance. If steamed and sprinkled with sugar, or laid in a sauce dish of sirup, they make a nice sauce for tea.

SEED BISCUITS.—Take seven pound of flour, one pound of moist sugar, one pound of butter, four ounces of volatile salt, half an ounce of carraway seeds, one quart of milk or water. Do not work the dough more than necessary to combine the ingredients well together, roll it into thin sheets one-tenth of an inch in thickness, cut them into form with a large round docker, dock them with holes on both sides, wash over the tops with egg or milk, and bake on buttered tins in a quick oven.

EGGS FOR WINTER USE.—About this time farmers' wives begin "laying down" eggs—or rather standing them up for winter use. As good an article as I ever tried for the purpose, is fine sand, which will keep cool if placed in the cellar, bran, oats, etc., are apt to heat. Place them so as not to touch each other on the smallest end. The philosophy of this is, I suppose, that if placed on the smallest end, the yolk will not settle and stick to the shell, which causes the egg to become unfit for use.

TOMATO FIGS.—Take pear shaped or small single tomatoes, scald and skin them, then to half a peck, or eight pounds, take three pounds of brown sugar cook them without water until the sugar penetrates and they are clarified. Take them out and spread on dishes, flatten them and dry in the sun. Sprinkle on them a little syrup while drying. When dry pack down in boxes, treating each layer with powdered sugar; the syrup that is left over may be boiled down and bottled for use. They will keep from year to year, and retain their flavor, which is very much like that of figs.

TO REMOVE GREASE.—The collars of coats become soiled very quickly from contact with the hair, but chloroform will clean them very well without any bad odour. Potato starch water, made by grating potatoes in a little water and letting it settle, then pouring it off and rubbing it with a sponge, will also take off the grease and spots. Ammonia in water rubbed on with a flannel or sponge will answer the purpose. In all cases brush thoroughly in the first place. To remove grease from carpets and restore colours, take a handful of crushed soap bark (quillaqa) to a pail of water. Scrub the spots and sponge the carpets all over.

CELERY FOR RHEUMATISM.—Celery cooked is a very fine dish, both as nutriment and as a purifier of the blood. Rheumatism is impossible on such diet. Cold or damp never produces rheumatism, but simply develops it. The acid blood is the primary cause, and sustaining power of evil. While the blood is alkaline, there can be no rheumatism, and equally no gout. Cut the celery into inch dice; boil in water until soft. No water must be poured away unless drank by the invalid. Then take new milk, slightly thicken with flour, and flavor with nutmeg; warm with the celery in the saucepan; serve up with diamonds of toasted bread round dish, and eat with potatoes.

WATERMELON PRESERVES.—Select the rine from a ripe melon but one not soft, pare off the outer skin and cut into strips. Let stand over night in water sufficient to cover, in which a teaspoonful of alum to a quart of water has been dissolved. In the morning set over the fire and let come to a scald but not boil. Draw to the back of the stove and in an hour or so turn off and pour over boiling water to rinse off the alum flavor. Then throw the pieces into cold water. When cold, drain, weigh and measure out a scant pint of white sugar to each pound of fruit. Make a sirup by adding a half pint of boiling water to each pound of rine; boil, clarify and add with the melon the juice and thin peel of three lemons. Boil until the rine looks clear. Take out into jars, boil the sirup until quite thick and pour over. If the flavor of ginger is liked, a little of the root may be boiled with the sirup.

FORBES ON THE LASH.

In the new number of the Nineteenth Century Mr. Archibald Forbes denounces the factious conduct of the "obstructionists, humanitarians, claptrapists and what not," whose presistent and unpatriotic opposition to the flogging clauses of the Army Discipline bill has produced an act that can have no other effect than to diminish the efficiency of the British army. Some of the arguments of the opponents of corporal punishment he meets with opposite instances. For instance, with reference to the contention that the consciousness of a liability to be flogged does not act as a deterrent, Mr. Forbes reluctantly adduces his own experince:—"Twenty years ago I enlisted in a cavalry regiment. Young, full of spirits and vigor, not destitute of money, and having no experience of discipline, it must be said that not in every respect was I a model soldier. For offences of light-heartedness I was somewhat scandalously often in trouble. At length, for an escapade on the line of march from Liverpool to Sheffield, I was tried by a regimental court martial and underwent 28 day's imprisonment, on the most strictly farinaceous food, in tho Sheffield 'garrison provost.' Emerging from confinement, with a head shorn so bare that it resembled an affable turnip, my light-heartedness was not long in re-asserting itself. Brought as a prisoner before my commanding officer, I stood at attention in the orderly room before him, when he asked me the question, 'Do you know, sir, that your are now a second-class man?' I had not studied those niceties of military grades, and failing to see the drift of the question, I simply replied, 'No, sir.' The manner in which he pursued the subject was not wholly agreeable. 'Well,' said he, 'you are, and as such liable to be flogged, and, by God, the next time you come before me I'll flog you!' I did not want any more of that topic. He never saw me again as a prisoner, and when I left the regiment it was with a good character. I simply adduce this personal example to demonstrate how effectual a deterrent from military crime it is to be brought in this unpleasant manner face to face, as it were, with the lash.

PRESERVATION OF EGGS.

However compact and close she shell of an egg may appear, it is nevertheless perforated with a multitude of small pores, too minute to be seen by the unassisted eyes. The effect of these, however, is evident, by the daily decrease of moisture of an egg, through evaporation, and the air taking its place, which operates in effecting its alteration. From the time of its being laid, when the egg is quite full, a fluid is constantly perspiring through the perforations of the shell, which occasion its decay; and this proceeds more rapidly if warm than in cold weather. Although an egg quite fresh is proverbially "full," yet in all stale eggs, there is some vacancy, which is in proportion to the loss they have sustained through evaporation. If the end of a fresh egg be applied to the tongue, it feels cold; but that of a stale egg feels warm, because the white of the former being in contact with the shell, abstracts the heat from the tongue more rapidly than the air bubble in the latter.

TO PRESERVE EGGS FOR WINTER USE.—Put fresh slacked lime in water in the proportion of one pound to every gallon; add half a pound of salt; let it stand twenty-four hours; stir it up and pour it over the eggs. We know of no other mode as effectual as this; eggs thus preserved are quite good for pastry purposes for five or six months.

PICKLE FOR EGGS.—Take forty quarts of water, two ounces of saltpeter, two pounds of salt, twelve tablespoonfuls of quicklime. The next day put in your eggs, or you can collect them daily, and so put them in quite fresh from the hen-house. Keep your vessel covered, and in a cool place they will keep seven years.

METHOD OF KEEPING AND SHIPPING GAME EGGS.—Dissolve some gum shellac in a sufficient quantity of alcohol to make a thin varnish, give each egg a coat, and after they become thoroughly dry, pack them in bran or sawdust, with their points downwards, in such a manner that they cannot shift about. After you have kept them as long as you desire, wash the varnish carefully off, and they will be in the same state as they were before packing, ready for eating or hatching.

This plan would be a little trouble, but still would not be very much to prepare all that retailers would wish to sell through the winter; as the convenience of having them in a condition to ship would be one inducement to this method, for with the other methods they must be taken out and packed in oats or something of that sort, to ship; with the above method they are always ready; and weather permitting, about Christmas and New Year's fresh and good eggs in cities always command sufficient price to pay for all the trouble and expense in the preservations and shipment.

FRENCH METHOD OF PRESERVING EGGS.—Into a cauldron of boiling water a colander containing a dozen eggs or more is plunged, and kept in it during a minute. This short immersion coagulates a thin layer of albumen, which, attached to the interior of the shell, constitutes an impermeable lining.

TO KEEP EGGS FRESH.—Procure shallow baskets which are rather coarse or open [they should hold about eight or ten dozen eggs], hang them on nails or hooks driven into the beams of the cellar. The lighter and more airy the cellar is, the longer the eggs will keep good.

TO KEEP EGGS.—To four quarts air-slacked lime, put two tablespoons of cream tartar, two of salt, and four quarts cold water. Put fresh eggs into a strong jar, and put this mixture over them. This will keep nine dozen, and if fresh when laid down, they will keep many months. If the water settles away, so as to leave the upper layer uncovered, add more water. Cover close, and keep in a cool place.

TO PRESERVE EGGS.—Bore a number of one-and-one-fourth inch holes in a board; place the eggs in them, points downwards. They will keep fresh for six months.

TO TELL GOOD EGGS.—If you desire to be certain that your eggs are good and fresh, put them in water; if the butts turn up they are not fresh. This is an infallible rule to distinguish a good egg from a bad one.

THE VALUE OF HERAT.

The Moscow correspondent of the Cologne Gazette writes:—"Of late the question of fixing the limits of the power of England and of Russia in Central Asia has been brought forward for discussion. It would in any case be desirable if the two Powers, whose real interest, have to suffer through their mutual distrust could come to some agreement on the Central Asiatic question; but to calculate seriously on their doing so would seem to be like assuming an impossibility. Under the exceptional conditions of the situation of Middle Asia, an attempt to mark out even approximately the sphere over which the two Powers should severally exercise a predominant influence is impracticable. Asia is very different from Europe. The inhabitants of Bokhara, the Turcomans, and even the Persians will recognize two masters in Asia at the same time, and according to an understanding between Russia and England would be idle, as its object, the assurance of tranquility in Central Asia, could not be attained.

It is, however, more than doubtful whether the two powers are troubling themselves at all about this object. They each, on the contrary, pursue their special aims and interests, which are diametrically opposed. England in her policy goes to work, at any rate, more openly; she does not conceal her hostile attitude in Asia as regards Russia under the cloak of human principals and afforts at civilization, but openly takes up her ground as the enemy of Russia in all respects. Each of the two Powers is exploring unknown regions of Asia under various pretexts of scientific research, and each of them keeps its own agents; and if Russia is slowly making efforts to undetermine England's power, none the less is England keeping herself prepared to strike a decisive blow at Russia's influence in Central Asia. According to appearances, the Afghan war was the first step in this direction. It would almost seem as though both Powers had met one another upon a neutral field, with like aims, but, nevertheless, almost equally unprepared. Russia, who in many respects was the cause of the war, found herself compelled to let the war take its course, resolving to make up for it in another way, and to check mate England's success in another quarter—that is, by the expedition in the Akhal-Takke Oasis. England at present can only attempt to put obstacles in the way of the Russian expedition and hinder her from taking Merv. In our opinion no understanding can be arrived at between the two Powers, even in case the English held Herat and left Merv to the Russians. England would, in these circumstances, manifestly be at a disadvantage, for Russia would have the way open to Herat on both sides—from Merv and from Bokhara; while by the occupation of Herat England would not only break the treaty concluded with Afghanistan, but would also injure the interests of Persia as well as Russia. England is perfectly conscious of the difficulties of her position, and first tries other means of putting obstacles in the way of Russia's advance, contenting herself with not withdrawing her troops from Candahar. The intervening space separating the two opposed Powers has grown much narrower within the past ten years. The two points about which the solution of the question of Central Asia—a question equally important to each of the two opponents—depends are Merv and Herat. Merv is a question of life or death for Russia. On the other hand, England would not allow Herat to pass into Russian possession without a life and death struggle."

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSTON & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

LOCAL NEWS

Wood on the Market.

Wood made its appearance on the market today, one cord of black ash being offered a $2.00; $1.50 was bid.

Game.

Woodcock and Partridge are on sale at Chamberlains. The change of weather, it is said, will bring a large amount of game, and Chamberlain will get his share of it.

Snow By-law.

Mr. Rutherford's snow by-law was once more before the Council last night, but met with its usual fate for the time at least. There is certainly need of some such provision for keeping our sidewalks clear in the winter.

The Foot Ball Club.

The Peterborough Foot Ball Club are practising this afternoon on the Cricket Ground at Ashburnham, and will continue to do so every afternoon this week. On Saturday they will play the return match with the Trinity College School Club, of Port Hope.

A Long Carrot.

We were shown a carrot yesterday afternoon grown on the land of Mr. Brickl ys at the lower end of town, one inch in diameter, and two feet eight inches long. It was quite a curiosity, and was exhibited to a large number of persons.

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: moderate to fresh, south-easterly to south-westerly winds; partly cloudy weather. The weather in Peterborough has been very fine. There was a light frost this morning. The day has been clear to partly cloudy, with the appearance of rain.

Good Work.

Mr. Robert Moore, well-digger of this town, has just finished sinking an open well in Port Hope, forty-seven feet deep, which he completed in three days, working nine hours each day. Mr. Moore did all the picking and shoveling himself, averaging about sixteen feet each day. This is certainly good work, and can be vouched for by Mr. William Johnston of Cavan, for whom the well was sunk. During the time Mr. Moore also assisted in cribbing the well.

Accident at the Nassau Mills.

Yesterday afternoon at about 5 o'clock Mr. [illegible], a young man employed at the Nassau Mills, met with a painful accident by having his foot caught in a frog of the track used in removing slabs from the mill. In attempting to save himself from being crushed by the car, he was compelled to chance the foot being crushed. He was fortunate enough to get off with only a painful dislocation of one of the bones of the ankle. He was conveyed to town by Mr. B. Ostrom, who happened to be in the neighbourhood, calling on the way for Dr. Esmond, who accompanied them to Mr. Parson's home, in the South Ward, when his ankle was set and his wounds dressed. The young man is doing well.

The Grain Market.

The wheat market opened dull to-day, with a drooping tendency. Receipts are very light. Farmers who have been holding back for higher figures will no doubt regret having done so. The foreign markets all seem to have assumed a duller tone, and buyers are holding back, fearing a retrograde movement. Our own market of course sympathizes with the other markets, hence a noticeable dullness. Spring wheat is weak at $1.20 @ $1.22; White Fall is scarcely more firm at $1.22 @ $1.25. Barley is in sympathy with wheat and instead of maintaining the top figures of last week, it has receded to 65 @ 67 cts., although one load of very choice barley was sold at 72 cts. We do not change quotations, preferring to see what to-morrow's market may effect.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

TUESDAY, Oct. 21.—The case of Francis Sloman vs. Mary Jane Baxter, came up for a hearing before the Police Magistrate this morning. The assault is alleged to have been committed in the township of Otonabee on Wednesday Oct. 15th.

Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for the complainant and Mr. D. W. Dumble for the defendant.

EVANS INGRAAM was sworn and said,—He remembered the 15th of October, inst. He saw the complainant and defendant. He was in his field in the township of Otonabee. His attention was called to a team which he thought was running away, there were two persons in it. One of whom was sitting down, and the other appeared to be slapping him. One was sitting. He thought they were in play—then he saw one of the persons fall out of the waggon and he was dragged along the road. He did not know up to that time who the parties were, or the sex of either. The complainant after he got up followed the horses a pace and then sat down in the corner of the fence. Witness went and spoke to the complainant, and while speaking to him defendant came up. He did not know it was defendant who was in the waggon. When defendant came up she said to complainant, she would be the death of him yet, that he should never leave there alive. She said some other things which the witness did not remember. He told her she had better go home. The witness could not distinguish that it was the defendant who was striking the complainant while in the waggon. The complainant looked bad enough, he complained of his injuries—his knee was very much chafed. He saw him coming along after the waggon as if dragged along. He had other marks upon him—he was chafed under the arm, and he had a cut on the right side of the face near the eye. Cross-examined by Mr. DUMBLE, witness did not see where the rope was bound around complainant.

FRANCIS SLOMAN, complainant was sworn and said;—He lived in Otonabee, rembered last Wednesday. He was sitting on the bags in the bottom of his waggon, when he was going home, he had the lines around his legs. The horses started to gallop and he turned round and saw a woman getting into the back part of the waggon—it was the defendant. He tried to stop the horses, when he saw a piece of board striking at him—it was in the hand of the defendant. She struck him on the side of the head and cut him. He pushed her down into the bottom of the waggon. The horses were running away at the time. He tried to stop the horses, and the defendant kept striking at him. He was trying to protect himself with his left hand. Defendant then threw herself against his breast and canted him out of the waggon. There was a rope he had for tying on the load which caught round his legs, and he was dragged along the road. He didn't think anything was said while he was in the waggon. He could only account for the horses running away by their being started by defendant coming out of the woods or some other place. The waggon ran over him and hurt the small of his back. He was dragged along the road about 10 rods. He was injured so that he had not been able to work since. The waggon was all smashed. The team was stopped a mile and a half or two miles from where he was thrown out. Saw Mr. Ingram and was talking to him when defendant came up to where he was talking and threatened him. She said two or three times that she would take his life.

Cross-examined by Mr. DUMBLE—He was 29 years old. He was a married man—was married this fall. He had a house-keeper before he was married. He didn't know where she was now. He had known defendant since he was a boy at school. He was never out walking with her. She never had a child while she was with him. He was aware she had sworn a rape upon him. He was not aware she swore a child on him, or that an affidavit was filed in the office of the Clerk of the Peace to that effect. Defendant had never asked him to support a child. She had asked him to marry her. He would not say if the stick the defendant struck him with was not in the waggon before. He did not know whether it was or not. The defendant struck at him several times. The rope must have caught round his leg by accident. The horses were going pretty fast when he fell out. There was a box on the waggon.

Re-examined by Mr. EDWARDS—The stick was a board about two feet long and about four inches wide. He didn't remember having such a piece of board in the waggon that day. He had some pieces of board in the waggon to keep the bags in, but they were from eight to ten inches wide.

The complainant prayed for summary adjudication.

The defendant did not offer any evidence in defence.

The Magistrate sentenced her to pay a fine of $10.00, and $3.20 costs, both of which were paid.

ENGLAND.

THE next suite of rooms vacant at Hampton Court Palace, it is understood, will be given to Lady Cavagnaria.

EIGHT of the men forming the volunteer rescue party that explored the Abercarne Colliery, after the explosion in September, 1878, have been presented with Albert medals of the first and second class at a public meeting at Newport, Monmouthshire.

THE trial of the new mode of lighting the reading-room of the British Museum by the electric light was made recently. The light is shed from half a dozen lamps suspended in the centre of the great dome, and is again diffused by a series of reflectors. The success of the new system is considered assured.

UNLESS they were eye-witnesses of what is now for sale in London in the way of horseflesh (says a correspondent), the public could hardly realize the number of noblemen and gentlemen who are breaking up their hunting and driving studs. It is no exaggeration to say that there are now some hundreds of hunters, cobs, carriage horses, and hacks on the market. Many of these are to be sold by public auction, many have been already sold, but the greater number will be disposed of privately to any one who will make any reasonable offer. Were I to publish the list of noble lords and commoners who are about to reduce their studs it would cause no little amazement.

A CLOUD IN THE EAST.

RUSSIA OCCUPATION OF MERV—ANXIETY AT THE FOREIGN OFFICE.

An Anglo-Russian War Regarded as one of the Things that Must be—A Long Struggle Expected for the Key to India.

RUSSIAN OCCUPATION OF MERV.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A telegram from Peshawur, announces that the Russians have occupied Merv, after a desperate battle. This advance and victory renders the ultimate occupation of Herat by a Russian column only a question of time. The latter place is only about 250 miles to the south of the downbanks of the Wuryab. The English army in Afghanistan is not in a position to move forward to make any demonstration of resistance to the approaching Russian column. The news of the occupation of Merv is regarded with much anxiety and consternation at the Foreign Office. Severe comment is made in outside circles upon the alleged stupidity of the Government in not having long ago pressed on to Herat, which was known to be the true key to the position. Russia's policy is believed to be to push another column towards Herat, by way of Kaysch and Kohadjah Salih, and thence to capture the strong position of Maimeme.

AN ANGLO-RUSSIAN STRUGGLE INEVITABLE.

With the abdication of the Ameer, England will be left alone to govern the country, which she can only do by means of a large and expensive army of occupation. Her position in this event will be worse than it now is. Notwithstanding her frequent protestations that she had no designs upon Afghanistan, her present advance shows her purpose to guard the frontier without delay. With Russia at Herat and England at Cabul, under the necessity of moving on her ancient enemy, it is believed the coming contest between the two powers cannot be much longer delayed. The tone of conservatism in and about Downing street is flavoured with a sense of the inevitability of this result. Every move upon the chessboard in the East is held to hasten war between England and Russia, which under certain conditions will become general throughout Europe.

DECLINE ON THE EUROPEAN BOURSES.

The Government has just received the news of the capture of Merv in the Turcoman desert by the Russians. In all probability the intelligence of this pronounced Russian success was published in American journals which receive these despatches as soon as it is known in Downing street. In consequence of this depressing news there has been a decided decline in European Bourses. The assertion is openly made, not only by Radicals but by friends of the Ministry, that it is difficult to see how war with Russia can long be avoided, if England wishes to preserve, as it is conceded she is compelled to attempt to preserve, the advantages she has already gained in Afghanistan.

AN ANXIOUS FEELING.

The feeling is one of increasing apprehension and anxiety. The doctrine that a European war cannot occur so long as the Austro-Germanic alliance exists is losing what little popularity it had in sight of the present aggressive attitude of the Russian force, now advancing on Herat. Much anxiety is expressed as to what action the Government will take in the emergency, and but little confidence is felt in its being able to interpose a check in time to prevent the occupancy by Russia. By the position from which the latter will be able to dictate terms, in spite of the assumed assurance of the Foreign Office, popular expectation looks towards a long and possibly disastrous struggle for the possession of the key of British India.

THE KHYBER PASS.

LAHORE, Oct. 20.—There is much anxiety respecting the condition of transportation in the Khyber Pass, where the supply trains are completely blocked up. Three attacks have been made on the British by the tribes in the Kurrum Valley since the 12th. The Ghilzais, who were defeated on the 14th, are reported again preparing for hostilities.

A NEW AMEER.

It is expected that Yakoob Khan's son, aged five, will be recognized as the successor to the throne.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that sense, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1

This liberal course by the foremost man in the Empire will do much to break down prejudices.

TRADE WITH CHINA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The Consul at Foo Chow reports that there has been little direct trade with the United States from China since the destruction of our commerce by the rebel cruisers. The exports of tea from Foo Chow are about 85 million pounds to Europe, and about four millions to the United States. There has been a decrease of exportation to the United States since 1871, owing to the popularity of Japanese teas in the United States.

A STARTLING JUDGMENT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Graphic's Washington report says there was a sensation in the Supreme Court yesterday when Associate Justice Field read his dissenting opinion from the judgment of the majority of the court against the constitutionality of the Thurman Funding Bill. Field's opinion was a very bold assertion of the doctrine of States' Rights, and was full of politics. He took even more decided grounds than were assumed last session of Congress by the Democrats, and candidly charged his fellow members of the bench with a dangerous tendency to nationalism and centralization. He was so outspoken as to cause genuine surprise among his fellow justices, and the effect upon the bar was startling.

FIENDISH OUTRAGE.

GLADSTONE INTERVIEWED.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Regarding the reported interview with Gladstone, the Gaulois says Gladstone deprecated a contention with Russia about Afghanistan. He said he believed there would not be any, that India had absolutely nothing to fear from Russia, which has as much as she can do to hold her conquests in Turkistan. The Austro-German alliance was doubtless intended as a check to Russia, but the importance of such an alliance should not be exaggerated, as Bismarck would abandon it as readily as he had abandoned the parliamentary parties which had served his purpose. Gladstone thought France and England made a mistake in permitting Turkey to resume her privileges in Egypt by the deposition of the Khedive. It was also a mistake to exclude other European powers from sharing in the Egyptian control. England's road to India must be retained by keeping up her maritime supremacy. Gladstone said his recent visit to Italy satisfied him that the Italia Irredenta question would not prove a source of danger to the peace of Italy. He said he believed the next election in England would return a liberal majority. He pointed out Lord Derby's course as an important sign of the times. He expressed a flattering opinion of the present position and future prospects of France. He said he did not believe that such episodes as the election of Humbert were of any importance.

TREATMENT OF THE INDIANS.

MESCALERO RESERVATION, New Mexico Oct. 22.—Agent Russel says the recent foray of Victoria's band of Warm Spring Indians is probably due to the fact that against their earnest objection, they had been shifted by the Government from reservation to reservation, until about a year and a half ago they declined to submit to any more changes. Some of their leaders were imprisoned and finally Victoria agreed to settle on Mescalero Reservation. A Mescalero Indian who assaulted some Warm Spring Indians in the latter's camp, was killed, when the agent lectured both bands and declared that the disturbances must cease. Soon after this, Victoria's band left the reservation and commenced depredations. Seven hundred soldiers are now hunting Victoria, whose warriors are estimated all the way from 140 to 900.

ARMING THE ENEMY.

He says the outrages in Colorado have been been greatly exaggerated. A very small part of the Indians are responsible for them. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1879.

AN INCONTROVERTIBLE FACT.

THE Globe asserts that it is an incontrovertible fact that the N.P. is working very great injury to our farmers, because Toronto prices do not fluctuate with those of Chicago this year as rapidly as in some former years. We venture to dispute this incontrovertible fact so far as the N.P. is concerned, upon the following grounds, viz:—

1st. Our markets do not follow those of Chicago this year as closely as in some other years, because, we have a good crop, and consequently a surplus to export, and therefore look to the market whither it has to go, instead of to those from whence it comes, to ascertain its marketable value.

2nd. In other years, when we had a poor crop, and consumed more than we produced, the question was not the value of wheat and flour in Liverpool, but in Chicago, from whence we had to replenish our stocks.

3rd. Since the introduction of the National Policy our buyers know that they have a reasonable control of our own markets, and are therefore no longer at the mercy of the bulls and bears of the Chicago wheat market and its gambling operations.

*For these and other reasons, we, being "inclined to take a sensible view of the effect of the N.P. on farmers' prices," are compelled to declare it as our opinion that it is not "an incontrovertible fact" that the N. P. is checking the upward movement of prices, and to challenge the Globe to prove how an import duty on any article can reduce the value of that same article for export. And yet that is practically what the Globe in its unreasoning opposition to the N.P. has undertaken, although never attempted to prove.

"EMINENTLY SENSIBLE."

IF, as the Globe says, a recent article of ours was "Eminently Sensible," the article in that journal founded thereon was "Eminently," characteristic of the Globe. In a recent article, our readers will remember, we pointed out the extreme foolishness of both the Globe and Mail in adopting the line of argument which they were doing with regard the effect of the N. P. on prices, and the Globe seizes upon it for the purpose of having a fling at the Mail over our shoulders. Since the Globe has been kind enough to declare that we were "inclined to take a sensible view of the effect of the the N.P. on farmers' prices," and particularily that our statement that "clearly, if every rise in price which has taken "place in grain since the 15th March last is at-"tributable to the N.P. when falls take place, it "must be equally responsible," was "eminently sensible," we would venture to suggest that it should try its own line of argument by this "sensible" statement—a statement which was intended quite as much for the Globe as the Mail, although it seems to be conveniently blind to the plain statement to that effect, contained in the same article. That there may be no mistake this time about the applicability of this "emminently sensible" statement to the Globe's arguments with regard to the effect of the N. P. on prices, we beg to repeat it with the places of the words "rise" and "fall," exchanged for the Globe's special consideration. "Clearly, if every "fall in price which has taken place in grain "since the 17th September, 1878, is attributable "to the N. P., when rises take place it must be "equally responsible." Does the Globe see the point? Will it kindly try its own utterances by this "eminently sensible" statement. If it does, we venture to think that blind as it is to its own faults it will be forced to confess that the Grit "organ's foolishness" is quite as great as that of the "Tory's,"—that is, if the Globe can do such a thing as confess any fault.

AFRAID OF A SHADOW.

The Toronto correspondent of the Witness has the following naive remarks on the subject of Mr. Mowat's recent speech:—

"Mr. Mowat was perhaps a little fanciful in anticipating probable trouble in connection with the Governor to be appointed next year after Lieutenant-Governor Macdonald's term expires. It is not probable that the new Governor will attempt to embarrass the Ontario Premier. It would hardly pay in this province, and if Mr. Mowat does not go out until forced out, while in a majority, by a Tory Governor, he will be Premier for his natural life. The speech was hardly worthy of his general common sense."

Of course the explanation of Mr. Mowat's fears is easy. He judges the Conservatives by the action of the Reformers in Quebec.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The valley of the Saskatchewan is the point to which the old world is now looking as the source of its future food supply. It is as certain as anything in this world can be that the industrial population of Europe in another generation will have to be fed with food raised in the Canadian North-West. Therefore it becomes of the most vital importance that the cheapest possible means should be adopted for transporting wheat from the Saskatchewan to Liverpool. It is equally important that every available route should be utilized without delay. This being the position the project now under consideration, for constructing a canal from Georgian Bay to the St Lawrence, is becoming of the deepest interest, and should be received with great favour alike by Liverpool, Quebec, Montreal, Ontario, Manitoba, and the North-West. The construction of the canal shortens the distance between Sault St. Marie and Montreal by 250 miles, and furnishes the cheapest of all means of transport for the produce of the North-West on a considerable portion of the distance to be traversed. The Canal leaves the Georgian Bay, either at the Severn Harbor, or at the mouth of the Nottawasaga, and following a splendid chain of small lakes, connected by short rivers, runs into the Bay of Quinte at the head of the St. Lawrence. When this Canal is opened the wheat of the North-West will be carried by the Pacific Railway to Thunder Bay on Lake Superior. From thence large propellers will convey it to Georgian Bay. There it will be put into the Trent Valley Canal barges, carrying 500 tons each, or 15,000 bushels of wheat, and 20 of these barges will be towed in a string direct to Montreal, passing through the Trent Valley Canal and down the St. Lawrence. No large lake to traverse, no danger of wreck, no expense beyond that of the wages of one man to each barge to steer it. At Montreal large ocean borne vessels, or Allen's steamships, convey it to Liverpool. Can any means be found cheaper than this for the transport of grain? This journal is not an admirer of Sir Charles Tupper, nor can it forget that Sir John Macdonald has certain idiosyncrasies of character and peculiar views on the subject of Charters, but we are bound to acknowledge that the Government which Sir John leads, and the Department of which Sir Charles is the head, has shown a broad and statesmanlike capacity in dealing with this subject of the North-West, and the means of transporting its produce, which contrasts most favourably with that of their predecessors, who, however honest they may have been, never succeeded in projecting their vision a pimple's length beyond the end of their noses. The public movement in favour of the construction of the Trent Valley Canal now in progress, may have the most important influence on the future of the North-West, inasmuch as it will provide another, and cheap means, of transporting the breadstuffs of the great wheat belt of the west, to the hungering workmen of the industrial nations of Europe—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Growing Mountains.

These remarkable phenomena are found between Baku and Navagi, along the road, within a space of about fifteen versts. They are of various heights, never attaining any very great elevation. Their color is grey, they are devoid of vegetation, and their form is conical. The soil is argillaceous earth; each mountain seems to contain within itself a source of salt water, thick and slimy, which, ascending up to its summit, overflows when it reaches the edge of the opening. The deposit becomes petrified, and thus gradually increases the dimensions of the mountains. Some of these springs—those at the highest elevation—have been dried up, but others have burst forth from openings at the sides, and are continually spouting a thick slime. Not only in this locality—but in other parts of the country—"growing mountains" exist. Near the sea there is a mountain which is constantly emitting flames.—Hansteen's Travels in Siberia.

The Stinging Tree.

Though the tropical crubs of Queensland are very luxuriant and beautiful, they are not without their dangerous drawbacks, for there is one plant growing in them that is really deadly in its effects; that is to say, deadly in the same way that one would apply the term to fire; as if a portion of one's body is burnt by the stinging tree, death would be the result. It would be as safe to pass through fires as to fall into one of these trees. They are found growing from one to two inches high to ten and fifteen feet; in the old one the stem is whitish, and the berries usually grow on the top. It emits a peculiar, disagreeable smell, but it is best known by its leaf, which is nearly round, but having a point on the top, and is jagged all round the edge, like the nettle. All the leaves are large, some larger than a saucer. "Sometimes," says a traveller, "while shooting turkeys in the scrubs, I have entirely forgotten the stinging tree until warned of its close proximity by its smell, and I have then found myself in a little forest of them. I was only myself once stung, and that was very lightly. Its effects are curious. It leaves no mark, but the pain is maddening, and for months afterward the part, when touched, is tender in rainy weather, or when it gets wet in washing, &c. I have seen a man who treats ordinary pain lightly, roll on the ground in agony after being stung; and I have known a horse so completely mad after getting into a grove of the trees that he rushed open-mouthed at every one who approached him, and had to be shot in the scrub. Dogs when stung will rush about, whining piteously, biting pieces from the affected part. The small stinging trees a few inches high are as dangerous as any, being so hard to see, and seriously imperilling one's ankles. The shrub is usually found growing among palm trees."—Scientific American.

THE WILLIAMS-MEREDITH CASE.

Violent Assault Upon Capt. Chas. Williams on a Railway Platform.

The Toronto Telegram of Tuesday gives the following report:—

At the Court of Assize to day, Mr. Rich. M. Meredith, of London, was put on trial before Mr. Justice Burton and a jury, charged with having, on the 9th September, being the day of the military review here, committed an aggravated assault on Capt. C. H. A. Williams, of Port Hope.

Capt. Williams, captain of cavalry, stated that he had driven to the Union depot on the evening of the day of the review, in order to take the train for Port Hope; on boarding the train he saw Meredith walking very fast towards him, and tried to avoid him, but he jostled against witness with great force; Meredith asked witness to go behind the station, and on refusing, he struck him with his right hand in the face six or eight times; he also clawed witness's face, and brutally kicked him; he felt impelled to draw his sword, and drew it about four inches; he then struck at Meredith with the sword, but he did not know whether he struck him or not; he didn't know whether Meredith meant murder or not, so witness knocked him down, and the crowd that had meanwhile collected shoved witness on top of the accused; after that the accused attempted two further assaults; he felt the effects of the kicking for several days thereafter.

To Dr. McMichael (for the defence)—Had been drinking the same as any other day; may have taken two glasses of sherry that day; our first conflict took place in the Pullman car, and subsequently on the platform at the station; did not write the paragraph in the Port Hope Times, in which it is said that I had my hands full of parcels when Meredith attacked me, but that I gave him such a thrashing that he looked as if he had passed through a thrashing machine (laughter); I copied a part of it, but not that part about the thrashing machine; don't know why Meredith wanted to speak to me; hadn't spoken to him for two years; Meredith struck me so suddenly that I hadn't time to get up a guard; military men cannot be prepared for such sudden attacks; am quite sure I didn't strike him first; am not a scientific sparrer; it was near the arch at the depot that I knocked him down.

To Mr. Irving—As we had not spoken for over two years, I was unwilling to pass him; I saw him the day previous walking with my wife; had an intimation from Mr. Ince that I had better not go to the depot that evening.

Dr. Thorburn stated that Capt. Williams came to him on the 17th September, when he exhibited marks of violence on the face and person; he requested him to examine his wounds carefully, as there would probably be some litigation over it; his wounds might have resulted in erysipelas, which was rather a serious ailment.

Wm. Ward, cousin of the the prosecutor, stated that he had witnessed the kicking done by Meredith; after the commotion was over it took him ten minutes to staunch the blood running from the wounds on the captain's face; when Meredith kicked the captain he called him a brute; he spoke loud enough for witness to hear, though he was rather deaf.

Wm. T. McPherson stated that he saw Williams at the depot with blood streaming from his face, looking for a policeman; he then saw a man rushing at him, when Williams said to the crowd, "Will I hit him with my sword?" and the crowd shouted "No;" the two combatants then rolled over, and witness pulled one of them off, but didn't know which.

This being the case for the Crown, Dr. McMichael contended that "that no actual bodily harm," as set out in the indictment, had been proved, and that it was only a common assault.

His Lordship—I don't know what you call "bodily harm," I wouldn't like to be treated in that way. It is a matter for the jury to dedecide what kind of assault it is.

The evidence for the defence is now being taken.

The jury returned a verdict of common assault, and the defendant was ordered to pay a fine of $100 with costs.

A MAN named Ryan was engaged cutting grass at the Mosscalve Curling Pond—the water having been run off to allow the cutting. While at work Ryan saw about 50 large water rats approaching him. With great presence of mind he at once drew the blade of his scythe among them, cutting to pieces nearly two dozen of them; the others many of them being wounded, fled yelling widly.

THE WORLD FROM THE SIDEWALK.

Did you ever stand in the crowded street,
In the glare of the city lamp,
And list to the tred of the million feet
In their quaintly musical tramp?
As the surging crowd go to and fro
'Tis a pleasant sight, I ween,
To mark the figures that come and go
In the ever-changing scene.

Here the publican walks with the sinner proud,
And the priest in his gloomy cowl,
And Dives walks in the motley crowd
With Lazarus, cheek by jowl,
And the daughter of toil, with her fresh young heart,
As pure as her spotless fame,
Keeps step with the woman who makes her mart
In the haunts of sin and shame.

How lightly trips the country lass
In the midst of the city's ills!
As freshly pure as the daisied grass
That grows on her native hills
And the beggar, too, with his hungry eye,
And his lean, wan face and crutch,
Gives a blessing the same to the passer-by
As he gives him little or much.

When time has beaten the world's tattoo,
And in dusky armour dight,
Is treading with echoless footsteps through
The gloom of the silent night,
How many of these shall be daintly fed
And shall sink to slumbers sweet;
While many will go to a sleepless bed
And never a crumb to eat!

Ah, me! when the hours go joyful by,
How little we stay to heed
Our brother's and sisters' despairing cry
In their woe and their bitter need!
Yet such a world as the angels sought
This world of ours we'd call.
If the brotherly love that the father taught
Was felt by each for all.

Yet a few short years and this motley throng
Will all have passed away
And the rich and the poor and the old and the young
Will be undistinguished clay.
And lips that laugh and lips that moan
Shall in silence alike be sealed,
And some will lie under stately stone,
And some in the Potter's Field!

But the sun will be shinning just as bright
And so will the silver moon,
And just such a crowd will be here at night,
And just such a crowd at noon.
And men will be wicked and women will sin,
As ever since Adam's fall,
With the same old world to labor in,
And the same God over all.

COLD CLIMATES IN THE TREATMENT OF CONSUMPTION.

No subject perhaps has received a greater share of attention from the medical profession than that of the proper method of treating consumption; and a more important subject has never enlisted the consideration of scientific men; for, of all the diseases with which mankind is afflicted, tuberculous consumption is perhaps the most serious, and, excluding epidemics, causes the greatest proportion of deaths. Indeed, statistics show that of the 968,000,000 people inhabiting the globe, 3,000.000 die each year of this dread disease. In view of this fact, Dr. Talbot Jones has prepared and published in the current number of the New York Medical Journal, an elaborate paper to show that, of all the resources at our command in warding off this malady where a predisposition to it exists, or in combating it when once established, dependence alone can be placed on climate. When we begin to inquire into the character and comparative merits of climates, he remarks, we are at once struck with the fallacy of the docrine, which has obtained for generations, that the disease is more frequent in cold than in warm latitudes. Just the reverse of this is true. If there is anything with reference to climate which is definitely settled, it is the fact that phthisis is vastly more common in warm, tropical countries than in cold latitudes. Consumption is relatively as common in our own health resorts as it is in the corresponding warm countries in Europe.

From an extensive series of data, it has been shown that the farther we progress north the greater the immunity the inhabitants enjoy from the disease; and very far north, consumption is extremely rare or altogether unknown. In the bleakest, coldest, and most exposed portions of the globe, and where sudden and severe changes of the atmosphere hold to a maximum, consumption is very infrequent. Indeed, so true is this that we are forced to the conclusion that extreme cold is inimical to the production of consumption. The primary effect of a cold climate is an increase demand for oxygen; tissue changes take place more rapidly, together with the products of increased tissue metamorphosis. To meet this increased demand on the economy, more food is taken, the digestive power and appetite are increased, and all the processes which govern organic nutrition are improved. The processes of absorption, secretion, sanguification, assimilation, respiration, and circulation, are carried on much more actively than in warm climates. Cold, whether it be water or climate, is well known to be a powerful tonic. That increased oxidation of the tissues takes place in a cold climate is shown by the increased carbonic acid which is thrown off from the lungs. The most robust health is maintained where constructive and destructive metamorphosis of tissue is most actively carried on, and it is the fair balance of this process of destruction and reparation which constitutes the phenomena of life. The effects of heat on the system are much the opposite of those of cold. Heat is relaxing and enervating. Oxidation of the tissues is greatly lessened when the body is in atmosphere warmer than itself. The effect of humidity combined with heat is not only immediately harmful and dangerous, but is very likely even to give rise to the tuberculous cachexy through suppression of cutaneous transpiration.

Out of a vast accumulation of facts with regard to climate, there are some upon which the profession are agreed. Among these is that of altitude. Careful investigation of this matter made by competent and trustworthy men, both in this country and in Europe, clearly indicates the importance of altitude in the climatic treatment of consumption. There is much more ozone in the higher than in the lower strata of the atmosphere, and this is exceedingly valuable in the climatic treatment of phthisis is clearly indicated. Ozone possesses high oxidizing power and purifies the atmosphere by chemically uniting with the products of decomposition. It destroys organisms by combining with them. It also promotes nutrition and blood changes by supplying to the respiratory organs a most active form of oxygen.

A careful study of the facts adduced in his paper leads Dr. Jones to the following conclusions: (1.) No zone enjoys entire immunity from pulmonary consumption. (2.) The popular belief that phthisis is common in cold climates is fallacious; and the idea, now so prevalent, that phthisis is rare in warm climates is as untrue as it is dangerous. (3.) The disease causes a larger proportion on the seashore—the morality diminishing with elevation up to a certain point. (4.) Altitude is inimical to the development of consumption, owing chiefly to the greater purity of the atmosphere in elevated situations, its freedom from organic matter, and its richness in ozone. (5.) Moisture arising from a clay soil or due to evaporation is one of the most influential factors in its production. (6.) Dampness of the atmosphere, from whatever cause or in any altitude, predisposes to the development of the disease, and is hurtful to those already attacked. (7.) Dryness is a quality of the atmosphere of decided value. (8.) The most unfavourable climate possible for consumption is one of uniform high temperature and of high dew point (warm and moist). (9.) The effects due to change in the atmosphere are by no means so pernicious as are generally supposed, and upon this subject present views require modification.

In conclusion, Dr. Jones adverts to the influence exerted upon consumptives by the climate of Minnesota; and, after pointing out the various facts relating to its geographical position, altitude, geology, character and configuration of its soil, and other physical aspects, gives it as his conviction that those predisposed to the disease, or laboring under its first stages, are likely to be benefitted or cured by a residence in that State. Between the pleasant rolling prairie, the wooded lake region, and the dense pine forests of the northern section of the State, they can choose what seems most agreeable and best adapted to them; while the dry, bracing atmosphere will enable them to live much of the time out of doors without fear of taking cold, the latter feature being one of the greatest charms of the climate. The author strongly insists, however, on the inutility of sending phthisical patients to Minnesota who are in the advanced stages of the disease. Where the stage of ulceration and excavation has been reached, this climate does positive harm, although they are numerous exceptions to this rule.

MEDICAL AND SCIENTIFIC.

When people lose their appetites they should never try to find them again. If only let alone they come back of themselves.

For treatment of dysentery beat one egg in a teacup; add one tablespoonful loaf sugar, and half a teaspoonful of ground spice; fill the cup with sweet milk. Give the patient one tablespoonful once in ten minutes until relieved.

To prevent felons, when the finger is getting sore at the end, and continues to get worse, place a tin on the stove, with water warm as the finger can bear; hold the finger in the water, and keep it in as long as you can, which will be quite warm, as the gradual heating is not noticed; put it in again and again, until you are certain it is thoroughly heated, and this will scatter the felon, if it is done in time.

A simple cure for rheumatism is to boil a small potful of potatoes, and bathe the part affected with the water in which the potatoes were boiled, as hot as can be applied, immediately before going to bed. The pains will be removed, or at least alleviated, by the next morning. Some of the most obstinate rheumatic pains have been cured by one application of this simple remedy.

Queen of Puddings.—One pint white bread crumbs, one cup white sugar, one quart of milk, grated rind of one lemon, the beaten yelks of four eggs, one-half cup of butter, all to be mixed and delicately baked in a shallow pan; when cool, spread over with the fruit of peach preserves, drained free from sirup, or with very thick fruit jelly; then beat the whites to a stiff froth, sweeten with powdered sugar, add the juice of the lemon, spread over the pudding and brown, to be eaten cold, with cream. It is better without the cream.

The celebrated Dr. Field cured his patients by sulphur. He put a teaspoonful of flour into a wineglassful of water, and stirred it with his finger instead of a spoon. When the sulphur was well mixed he gave it as a gargle, and in ten minutes the patient is out of danger. Instead of spitting out the gargle, he recommended the swallowing of it. In extreme cases, when the fungus was too nearly closing to allow the gargling, he blew the sulphur through a quill into the throat, and after the fungus had shrunk he gave the gargle. If the patient cannot gargle, take a live coal, put it in a shovel, and sprinkle a spoonful or two of flour of brimstone upon it; let the patient inhale the fumes, and the fungus will die. Brimstone kills every species of fungus in a man, beast, or plant, in a few minutes.

How Yellow Fever Patients Die.—Many die easily, go calmly off to sleep, hardly having strength to raise the eyelids, but too many die a horrible death. The struggle is terrible. They have to be held down until the last gasp, and the scene after death is too horrible for description. Another peculiarity of it is when the patient is in a state of delirium and is prevented from getting out of bed. Often he makes a desperate effort to bite those holding him. I have a lively recollection of having to exert nearly all my strength to hold a yellow fever patient in bed and keeping him from biting my face. When he recovered his reason he wept with anger at not being able to get up, but at last said: "Hello! is that you? Let us lie down on the pillow and go to sleep." I was glad to do so, Entire families have been swept away. When the fever once enters a dwelling it seems almost impossible for any member of the family to escape. The dirtiest people often escape, and the cleanest are often stricken down.

Extraordinary Instance of Cunning.

A curious illustration of the practical good sense and ingenuity of some among our British birds is reported by a railway engine driver on one of the northern lines. He has noticed that certain hawks of the merlin or "stone falcon" species make use of the passing of the trains for predatory purposes. These creatures are not larger than blackbirds, but are very bold, swift, and powerful, and in the days of falconry were famous hunters of wood pigeons and partridges, which they would kill by a single stroke on the neck. It appears that, having laid their wise little heads together, they came to the conclusion that the railway trains might be made available for them as well as for the tyrant man, so they hit upon the following device:—They fly close behind a train, near the ground, partly hidden by the smoke, but carefully watching for the small birds which, frightened by the train as it rushes past, fly up in bewildered shoals. The merlins then, while the little birds are thinking more of the train than of lurking foes, sweep on them from the ambush of the smoke, and strike them down with ease. If they miss, they return to the wake of the carriage, and resume their flight and their hunt. They can, it seems, easily keep pace with an express train, and outstrip it when they please. Who put the merlins up to this clever little plan for making the "Flying Scotchman" a mechanical pointer for starting their game, no one can tell; but the fact that these birds utter a very harsh scream doubtless formed a point of attraction between them and the engine.

Adulteration.

Happy subjects of Queen Victoria! Thanks to adequate inspection laws fearlessly enforced, the frauds and perils of adulteration are no more; or they may, at least, be shunned by those who will. Every article of consumption is supplied to the market in a pure and wholesome state, and the purchaser may feel a reasonable certainty that what he receives is what he asked for. Dr. Hassall, in a letter to the London Times, says that "the public can now procure bread without alum; coffee without roasted wheat, beans, or even chicory; cocoa without fecula; bottled fruits, vegetables, and pickles without copper; potted meats without bole Armenian; mustard without wheat-flour and tumeric; cayenne without read led; vinegar without sulphuric acid; but milk still, unfortunately, often not without water."—Boston Watchman.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

Wednesday, Oct. 22.—The market assumed a more wintry aspect this morning. There was not much animation except in butter, which was sought after at the advance made on Saturday. Some of the farmers asked 20cts. others 18cts. It was currently reported that 20cts. was paid on Saturday last. This, however, we could not trace to any authentic source. The price for tub butter at the stores is reported at 14 @ 15c. At the market this morning 16 @ 18c. was paid for single pounds. We quote 14 @ 16c. Eggs were scarce; but not in demand and our quotations were maintained. Some store-keepers are buying for shipping which has caused the advance for summer quotations. Chickens were more plentiful, and sold readily at 25 @ 30c. Ducks were in fair request at quotations. Geese were plentiful for Wednesday and sold slowly at quotations, although some concessions had to be made by the seller. Turkeys sold well at 60 @ 70c. weighing from 10 to 12 pounds each. Potatoes have advanced to 55 @ 65c. few brought in. Apples were again plentiful for Wednesday, and sold at 50 @ 60c. per bag. The first field carrots were brought in to-day and sold at 15 @ 20c. per bushel of 60lbs. Mangles were also among the roots brought in to-day and sold at 20c. per bushel. Pork and beef were among the farm products to-day, selling at quotations. Several loads of hay was upon the stand this morning and sold at $7.00, one fine load brought $8.00, we continue to quote $7.00 @ $8.00. The market though slimly attended may be said to have been a good one, especially for the farmers. The dash of rain at 9 o'clock did not seem to interfere with sales.

CURIOSITIES OF FIRES.

At the recent meeting of the National Association of Fire Engineers, Mr. M. Bennett, Jr., delivered a very interesting address, from which we take the following:—

Of the 50 per cent of fires, more or less, not accounted for by incendiary origin, many undoubtedly originate from not yet understood causes. New hazards, from new or old processes, are daily developed, and some most curious facts in this connection have come within the range of my own personal observation.

Some months ago, in passing a prominent picture store in the city in which I reside, on a Sunday, my attention was attracted by the actions of a boy, which seemed to betoken lunacy. He would stand with his back against the large show window outside for a few minutes, then turn about and carefully gaze within; then again plant his back against the window. Curious to solve what seemed to be a case of idiocy in a bight looking boy, I asked the cause of his strange actions. Directing my attention, I discovered that the rays of the sun through the glass formed a focus in the middle of a large and valuable chromo, which just commenced to smoke at this identical point, and would evidently soon be in flames. The boy stated that he was a clerk in the store, but had not his key, and discovering the state of things, he planted himself as a patent living fire screen to protect the picture from the sun's rays.

A well-known Hartford adjuster, while recently sitting in his room in one of our finest business blocks, saw his silk umbrella, standing in the corner, quietly take fire and consume before his very eyes, and with no little difficulty he stopped the fire from spreading. Investigation proved it to have caught from the concentrated rays of the sun reflected from his graphoscope innocently resting on his table. Without a doubt, we do not understand many actual causes of fire, and numerous conflagrations are due to far different causes from those suspected or guessed at. In the case mentioned had the fire occurred during the absence of the owner, and the block consumed, as it might easily have been, it would have remained one of those unsolved mysteries which surround so many fires.

Animals also have played a most important part in the world's history. Romulus was the founder of Rome, but a wolf was the finder of Romulus. Rats saved New York (so the legend goes), geese saved Rome; but the cow Chicagoed all of us. The lion has been called the king of beasts, and the elephant the largest, but in our mutual profession the cow has played the chiefest role. Alas that the cow was ever invented, or, if invented, should have attempted, like many another calf, to have kindled fire with kerosene. If the cow had been kept out of the ark we would willingly have risked small pox and cheerfully accepted some substitute for milk as an eleven o'clock beverage; and really, with so much fresh water about us, we see no reason for Noah's taking her in. The fiddler also played his part, for history informs us that Nero fiddled while Rome burned. What tune, we regret to note, has not been handed down, for it would be a most appropriate selection for the bands at our firemen's tournaments. A long one it must have been, as Rome burned seven days.

Never Do It.

Never talk slang. Never say you have been dished, when you mean you have been disappointed. Never say you have been sold, when you mean you have been cheated. Never say a thing is "too thin," or "thats the worst I ever heard," or "tell that to the marines." Never say awful for very and try never to exaggerate. Never slam the door. Never lose your temper. Be calm, whatever happens.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' succesful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

I have used Dr. Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia from its first introduction in the Dominion; it performs wonders in my stables, where veterinary surgeons have failed; it has cured lameness and removed bunches.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take Scott & Bowne's Palatable Castor Oil as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d89-1m

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is pre-eminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. Rolston & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

LOCAL NEWS

Preparing for Repairs.

The Midland Railway Company are distributing new ties along the line through Peterborough preparatory to repairing the track.

The Little Lake Cemetery.

At a meeting of the directors on Wednesday morning, it was decided to have the lot recently acquired from Mr. Burnham at once enclosed with a wire fence, and laid out and planted.

Bridge Repairing.

Tht Street and Bridge Inspector is having the Brook street bridge repaired. It has needed it badly enough and the frequenters of that locality will be glad to know that it will no longer be a a dangerous spot.

The Weather.

The weather probabilties for this district, as reported from Toronto, at 10 o'clock to-day are: southerly to westerly winds, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with local showers. Peterborough enjoyed one of the local showers this morning, but not enough to lay the dust. The morning cloudy, afternoon clear and partly cloudy.

Great Bargains.

The first day's sale at the old stand of Mr. W. G. Thomson, whose stock has been purchased by Mr. N. B. Gould, attracted crowds of purchasers, who were anxious to avail themselves of the extraordinary low prices at which he is disposing of these goods. The sale will be continued for fifteen days, and the stock of dry-goods, millinery, &c., is well assorted.

The Grain Market.

The grain market opened more tamely this morning. There was a lack of energy exhibited by the buyers, although they were ready to take wheat at the same rate that has been paid for two days past. The receipts have been light so far this week. Barley dropped yesterday, falling off from 2cts. to 4cts. per bushel. The market does not seem to have rallied, and we alter quotations accordingly. There is considerable barley coming forward. A large grain operator was upon the market this morning, offering spring wheat at less than market quotations. We did not learn if a sale took place. Rye presented itself on the market this morning, and was sold at 60cts. No oats offering that we heard of.

Bible Society Meetings.

Meetings in the interest of the Peterborough Branch of the Bible Society will be held next Monday evening, as follows:—Stewart's School House, Otonabee; deputation, Rev. Mr. Torrance and Mr. John Walton. Boundary Line, Douro; deputation, Rev. Mr. Bell and Mr. D. W. Dumble. Baptist Church, Smith; deputation, Rev. Mr. Muldhern and Col. Haultain. Tully's School House, 2nd Line, Smith; deputation, Rev. Mr. Roberts and Mr. Edwards. Town Hall, Monaghan; deputation, Rev. Mr. Starr and Sheriff Hall. Nassau; Mr. Kingan and Dr. Taylor.

The prizes will be distributed this evening at the Drill Shed beginning at 7.30 o'clock.

PORT HOPE.

GRAIN AND LUMBER SHIPMENTS.—Business has been very brisk here this month, freights having advanced considerably. The Midland Railway, though doubling all the trains, have much more work than they can do. The exports of barley from this port so far this month are over 300,000 bushels, while fifteen million feet of lumber has crossed the lake. On Saturday last, eighteen vessels were reported inward and twenty outward. The harbor officials are called upon to supply all the storage space possible for lumber, and in consequence all those having coal, iron, unused lumber, etc., lying in the way, are ordered to remove them. So many vessels are in requisition now for the grain trade, that the lumber shippers have some difficulty in getting their cargoes forwarded. Mr. Stanley Patterson, the agent for the Montreal Telegraph Company, states that yesterday's business was the largest ever done since the office was opened here.

COBOURG.

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

THE EXPLOSIONS AT THE BALA HISSAR.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A despatch from Simla states that the explosions at the Bala Hissar continue. The fortress has been abandoned. Many persons additional have been killed since the first explosion of Monday. Owing to the confusion and fright into which the concussion and casualties threw the occupants of the citadel, no systamatic investigation into the cause of these disasters has been made. The explosions are different in power, and are not attributed to any visible source.

THE WORK OF RUSSIAN ENGINEERS.

It was stated in these despatches some time since that Russian engineers in disguise had been recognized in and about Cabul for some time previous to the advance of General Roberts' column, and that the Afghan officers were instructed by them in the art of planting and discharging military mines. Subsequent developments have confirmed this, and it is now believed by the British officers in Cabul that they are under obligations to St. Petersburg for the destruction of the Bala Hissar and the slaughter of so many of the force which was holding the fortress. The Afghans, under the direction of Russian engineers, had the time necessary to prepare their mines during the slow approach of the British troops. In the absence of any definite knowledge of the number and situation of the mines with which the capital may be surrounded, considerable apprehension is felt as to what may happen next. The severest punishment is threatened by Gen. Roberts to any and all parties who may be detected in causing these explosions, or who, it can be proved, have had any knowledge of dangerous explosives about Cabul, and have refrained from informing the commander-in-chief.

THE TRIBES UNEASY.

The mountain tribes, who were supposed to be scattered and subdued by the recent British victory, are again exhibiting signs of uneasiness, and stealthily gathering at their different places, of rendezvous among the passes south of Cabul.

YAKOOB KHAN'S RESIGNATION.

In view of the unexpected abdication of Yakoob Khan, much surprise is expressed among the leading officers, military and civil, in Afghanistan and India, that the home Government has continued for so long a time to repose confidence in a man whom events have since shown to be a compound of treachery and weakness.

YOUNG'S POINT.

WILD GEESE.—A large flock of wild geese flew over here, on their way south, early on Monday morning last.

GRIST MILL.—Mr. Wells is working early and late, with farmer's grists, his business is steadsteadily increasing and deservedly so.

FISHING.—There has been very good fishing here of late—both bass and maskinonge. A great many anglers have gone to the head of Stony Lake for salmon fishing.

PARTRIDGE.—There should be a law to prohibit partridge shooting for two or three years; they are becoming very scarce, also a law against the shooting of wild ducks for the same period.

From the Morning Papers.

WINNIPEG.

FROM THE UNITED STATES.—Prittie's last party of emigrants, which arrived on Saturday last, numbered about 300, of whom 100 were from the United States, 30 were from New York State, 23 were from Michigan, three families from Wilkesbarre, Pa., two families from Portage City, Wis., and one from North Carolina. Mr. Prittie says that out of 8,000 emigrants brought in by him this season, 2,000 were from the United States and with few exceptions were native American citizens.

BELLEVILLE.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—The Intelligencer says:—We understand that the Township of Seymour has placed the amount of their bonus given to the Grand Junction Railway, viz: $35,000, in the hands of Mr. Cockburn, of Campbellford, one of the trustees, with a certified copy of the by-law. The village of Hastings has also placed their debentures of $8,000, in the hands of Mr. A. G. Northrup, trustee. These amounts will be paid over to the company when the trustees are satisfied that the conditions of the by-law are fulfilled.

OTTAWA.

LAND REGULATIONS.—It is understood the Department of the Interior has had under consideration the existing land regulations, which have been considerably amended, and will probably be made public in the course of a few days. The exact nature of the amendments is not known, but is said that they will place intending settlers in quite as good a position, if not a better one, than they would be in the United States.

NARROW ESCAPE.—A woman named Connolly was crossing the river yesterday afternoon, when the boat was upset by the waves from a passing ferry steamer. No sooner did she find herself in the water than she gallantly struck out and swam ashore, a distance of 200 yards.

THE MILITIA.—In regard to the intended reorganization of the reserved force of Militia, it is the object of the Minister to have the force in reality easily to be reached in case of necessity, and not merely on paper. Other improvements in the Volunteer system are under consideration which will tend to instil a great degree of efficiency in the active volunteer class.

Ouray, Friend of the White Man.

The Denver Tribune says:—Ouray, the head chief of the Utes at the Uncompahgre, is an Indian of remarkable ability. He has made two visits to Washington, and, seeing the power and immense number of the whites, has become in every sense of the word a peaceable Indian. He lives in a house, cultivates some sixty acres of ground, has a large flock of sheep, wears the clothing of a white man, rides around in a covered wagon or carriage, and has largely adopted the habits and customs of civilization. He has learned to sign his own name, and was in the habit of sending letters direct to President Grant, stating his grievances and what he wanted. His influence has been all-powerful on the side of peace, and that there has been no collision between his people and the whites is entirely due to him. He is not, however, the hereditary head chief, but became some years ago through his force of character and the favor of the Indian agent, who acknowledged him as such. Frequent attempts have been made to assassinate him by the Indians themselves, especially those of the hereditory chieftain blood who are jealous of his power and dissatisfied with the change from the old habits and customs. The whites much dread that at some time or other these attempts may succeed, and then there will be trouble; there will be no retaining force, and the bad Indians will get control of the tribe. It will not be their numbers, but the scattered character of the mining population, the numerous mountain hiding-places, and the inaccessibility of the country, which will make them formidable enemies, and the war protracted and expensive.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene after careful study give us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchial affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and it taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d89-1m

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has [illegible] much pain [illegible]. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angel of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. [illegible]

REPUBLICAN SYMPATHIES.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The Telegraph reports an interview in which Gladstone is represented as saying that the present French constitution was well formed. The American constitution was likewise excellent for that country, and that since the civil war the American Government had given repeated proofs of wisdom. English thinkers, he said, have watched with great curiosity the spectacle of a great nation under a purely elective government.

WARNING AGAINST MORMONISM.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The head Constable of Liverpool has issued a notice to Mormon converts reciting that there is reason to believe that the system of soliciting persons to join the faith and emigrate to America extensively prevails reminding such persons that by the American law, polygamy is prohibited and those who practice it are liable to heavy fines and long imprisonment.

A CHALLENGE FOR HANLAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—James Kelly, the turfman, says, "I will match Courtney to row Hanlan a single scull race for three or five miles for $10,000 and the Championship. Hanlan's party claim that they will match him, and if they do not back out, there should be no difficulty in arranging a match. Hanlan is the Champion, and is about to meet all comers. If Hanlan refuses to meet Courtney in a fair match, the public will then thoroughly understand the Mayville fizzle." Mr. Kelly is well known throughout the country. He owns a first-class racing stable, and is acknowledged to be one of the heaviest betters on the turf. He made himself famous in the Presidential race between Hayes and Tilden by paying back $100,000 in pools after they were declared off, and not taking the pool seller's per centage. Mr. Kelly's offer will be telegraphed to Hanlan's backers, and an acceptance of the challenge will be eagerly looked for.

DROUTH IN CHINA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Consul at Ning Po, China, reports unprecedented drouth. The Chinese douth is a mark of the displeasure of the Deity, to propitiate whom the taking of life, even of a chicken or fish, was forbidden. Four men, in the meanwhile, were sentenced to death. Here was a dilemma, but a shower occurred just before the time of execution, which justified a temporary suspension of the order against taking life.

By Telegraph to the Review.

A RESIDENT AT CABUL.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—At the Cabinet Council yesterday, the Afghan question was discussed. It is stated that the plan submitted by the Governor-General of India met with general approval. It provides that an English Resident shall be placed at Cabul, and that through him the British Government shall exercise a direct influence over the fortunes of the state. A strong contingent of native and English troops will be maintained in the country.

A RUPTURE THREATENED.

Lord Salisbury's speech is said to have raised strongest resentment at St. Petersburg. Count Schouvaloff has definite instructions to remain here until Lord Beaconsfield has spoken at the coming Lord Mayor's Banquet. He will then probably leave unless the Premier's speech is pitched in another key. Matters are believed to have assumed a most serious aspect.

Hammering Away.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"It looks as if the Globe had determined to keep hammering away at the National Policy until it had disgusted every sensible man in the Reform ranks. It did pretty much the same thing in regard to the Pacific Scandal, which it kept shrieking in the ears of the people until they grew sick and tired of the whole thing, and whatever virtue the Pacific Scandal ever had as an election cry ceased to exist. If the people were sick and tired of the Pacific Scandal cry, they are infinitely more so of the National Policy, which they have had drummed into their heads night and morning, morning and night. If times were not so rapidly improving and giving the lie to the Globe's wearying tales of taxation and distress, the hospitals and the asylums would have been full by this time of demented and despairing people."

THERE is no remedy for female complaints so good as VICTORIA BUCHA and UVA URSI. After its use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

IF Demosthenes had not suffered, and by unwearied efforts overcome great obstacles, would he have become the greatest orator in the world? If our modern Demosthenes have a cough, cold, or tickling of the throat, nothing will relieve them so speedily as HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM. It is an excellent remedy for asthma, influenza, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, etc. For sale by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

A SEAT AT LAST.

AFTER much hesitation and delay, it seems Mr. Burke, M.P., for West Durham, has been at last "induced" to place his resignation in the hands of the speaker, and thus create a vacancy in that out and out Reform or rather "Grit" constituency for Mr. Blake, who has been seatless since his defeat in South Bruce. As it is desirable that both parties should send their ablest men to the bat, to use a cricketing phrase, the country will be the gainer by exchanging a Burke for a Blake, in the House of Commons, and as the constituency fairly belongs to the party of our opponents, and was won by them at the last election by a fair although much reduced majority, and as the present Government at Ottawa has all the voting power at its back, which any Government should have or ought to desire, we trust our good friends in West Durham will not exercise the privilege, which they undoubtedly possess, of opposing Mr. Blake's return by acclamation. Even were they quite certain of success, which they cannot be, it seems to us that a contest under such circumstances would be of very doubtful advantage either in the interest of the country or of the party.

Whatever our opinion of Mr. Blake's abilities may be, he is looked up to by many people as an able man, and by the major portion of his party as their coming leader. That being the case, his proper place is in, not out of Parliament, and his political opponents as well as political friends should rejoice that a member of his own party has been found to make way for him. No doubt Mr. Blake's chief, if not only ability, is as a "fault-finder," but still it is better for the Government that he should be compelled to do his "fault-finding" in the House where they can meet him face to face and expose the falacies of his rehtoric, rather than have him going about the country as one whom they feared to meet in manly debate, or whose criticism they dreaded sufficiently to desire to keep him out of Parliament. For these and other reasons, which could easily be enumerated, we think our political friends in West Durham will act wisely if they permit their political opponents to effect this change of representation without let or hindrance from them, and without involving the constituency in the excitement and expense of a contest.

A STRONG CONTRAST.

Sir. S. L. Tilley has been making a tour of investigation among the factories and machine shops at Hamilton, Dundas, St. Catharines and other places. His object is, of course, to become personally acquainted with the results so far produced by the operation of the National Policy. The interest manifested by Sir Leonard in the manufacturing industries of the country furnishes a strong contrast to the careless indifference of his predecessors in the Government who, when the manufacturers sent to them for relief, slammed the door in their faces and said the government was a mere fly on the wheel. That these are weak spots in the National Policy nobody will deny, for it is true. There may even be ground for criticism of the National Policy as a whole, for at best it is only an experiment, albeit the results so far are of the most encouraging nature. The likelihood is that Sir Leonard Tilley intends to perfect and improve his bantling next session, and that this is the meaning of his present tour of observation through the workshops and factories. Whatever may be said against the present Administration, it cannot fairly be said that its members are careless of the work set apart for them to do, or indifferent to the interests of Canadian industry.—Toronto Telegram.

THE SIR FRANCIS HINCKS CASE.

Surprise Expressed at the Verdict—Motion for a New Trial—Sir Francis' Position.

The Montreal correspondent of the Globe sends the following:—

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The Sir Francis Hincks case causes much discussion, and as the verdict of the jury becomes known more generally surprise is most freely expressed. A well-known lawyer said Sir Francis had had "law, but not justice," and asked, "What is the use of a jury without a heart, and which will act like a machine at the judge's bidding?"

Mr. Kerr's motion for a new trial will suspend sentence for a time at least, and should it be granted may result in the bringing together of a jury at a time when there will have been less excitement to bias men's acceptation of evidence.

Both morning newspapers have leaders on the trial.

The Herald says that the course of the jury raises a most disagreeable doubt as to the value of any information which bank managers vouchsafe to the public. It hopes there is no one in the city who will not regret that, whatever be the justice of the verdict, the jury found themselves unable to acquit the accused. It sums up that "The case is like that of the master of a ship who must be punished for her loss, even by his neglect of precaution, but does not lose is standing as an honest man."

The Gazette assumes the position to be still sub judice, on account of the motion for a new trial; but after quoting the action of a judge in Toronto at the Assizes the other day in postponing a trial because of a newspaper article against the prisoner, the writer says that the gentlemen of the Consolidated Bank were entitled at least to a similar consideration, and to have their trials postponed until time had removed them from the presence of a public excitement certain to weigh against them.

The Witness calls the the verdict a warning to all men who have the interests of others committed to them.

The verdict of the jury in the case was, it seems, arrived at by the jurors after but fifteen minutes' deliberation, and the principal agent in bringing them so quickly to their conclusions was that part of the address of Mr. Ritchie, Q. C., wherein he showed them the books of the Bank wherefrom the returns were made, coupled with their conviction that Sir Francis Hincks was too astute and clever a man to allow such matters to take place as the borrowing of a million dollars without knowing it.

Mr. Kerr, Q.C., will, I learn, move for a reserve case upon several points of alleged misdirection by the Judge in his charge; and it is also probable that he will press his motion for a new trial upon grounds which he has strong conviction can prove.

In 1855 Sir Francis Hincks was appointed Governor and Commander-in-chief of the Windward Islands, and subsequently was elevated to the Governorship of British Guinea. He retired from the latter position in 1869 on a pension from the British Government of £1,000 sterling. He was also at this time made commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George. A question much discussed is whether Sir Francis will or will not loose his pension and title, under an alleged law which dispossesses a felon of State emoluments; but the case is not yet thoroughly settled, and if a new trial were ordered and Sir Francis acquitted I believe it would satisfy the majority of the people, notwithstanding that it would undo a verdict than which there has been none hitherto so far reaching in its effects, and so beneficial to the public as this one promises to be.

The cases of the remainder of the bank Directors has been fixed for next term of Queen's Bench, and it is likely that the present extraordinary term will close at the end of the week. Four libel suits against newspapers, two persons tried for murder and one found guilty, and a baronet found guilty of a misdemeanour in falsifying bank returns, is a visitation which Montreal fortunately does not often have. Few will care about it being duplicated in the future.

STATE EDUCATION.

The New York Bulletin in an article on "the enormous cost of so called Public Education," says with much force:—

"The State ought not to undertake to teach anything beyond the ordinary English branches, and this for the following among other reasons: It is not equitable to the taxpayers, as a body; because the children of a small minority alone reap any permanent advantages from the ornamental branches. The attainment even of a common English education requires as much time and capacity as the average pupil can devote to it. An acquaintance with foreign languages, with chemistry and other sciences, and with music and other arts, requires special capacities, facilities and leisure; moreover, the value of those acquirements in many cases is, to say the least of it, doubtful. The State in no case has the right to perform the duties of a parent, save where there is a probability of such du... being wholly neglected. In a perfect commonwealth, parents should defray the expenses of education. Only the poverty and negligence of parents should justify State intervention at all. In making State education financially burdensome, it sooner or later becomes unpopular with large minorities. Finally, class distinction becomes so great that public education is regarded as eleemosynary, and one class pays for educating the children of another. In this way, the whole system must ultimately fall into disfavor, if it is not altogether set aside.

The examinations periodically held in this and other cities demonstrate that a majority of public school attendants are deficient at the age of fifteen (at which age most of them have to enter upon the active duties of life) in a knowledge of English grammar and orthography arithmetic, book-keeping, geography, American and general history. This is owing to the fact that only the more intellectual can attain such knowledge in the given time, and many of the intellectual pupils have their attention drawn to other and less useful studies. According to John Bright, "a man who could speak and write English correctly" is well educated. Arithmetic is very useful, and yet comparatively few pupils master even the serviceable rules. A knowledge of book-keeping is of the greatest importance to every man who handles money or who is engaged in business. An acquaintance with general history, the outlines of political economy, and the true principles of our Constitution would do much to counteract the growing influence of the professional politicians.

If the requisite branches, owing to various circumstances, cannot be sufficiently mastered by a majority of the pupils, the question is, is it wise to still further diminish the chances of success by the study of modern languages and the experimental sciences? At all events, we are quite certain that there is a growing conviction with thinking people every where that as soon as the rudimentary branches have been mastered, the pupil should devote himself to a study of the specialties which bear upon his future vocation in life, and should he be endowed with æsthetic tastes—music, painting, decalcomanie, &c. —he should be allowed to cultivate them during his evening leisure and at the sole expense of himself or family."

PORT HOPE.

NEW SIDING.—The Midland Railway is constructing a new piece of siding on the west side of the old harbor, nearer the dock than at present laid down, for the use of shippers of lumber. The company are also extending their steel rails towards the wharf, the old rails being in a greatly used up condition.

NORWOOD.

DRILL.—The Register says:—The annual drill of No. 5 company, 57th Batt., will take place during the week commencing Monday, 3rd of November, at Norwood. There are vacancies for five healthy recruits to serve Her Majesty the Queen in this company. Owing to the fact that new uniforms have not arrived at headquarters for any portion of the 57th, the drill is again being performed by companies, otherwise the whole regiment would have assembled at Peterborough. The new helmets for this corps have been received from England.

BELLEVILLE.

AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES.—The time of the Assize Court was for the greater part of Tuesday occupied with the case of Beach v. Findlay, ex-M. P. for North Renfrew. The action was for false arrest and libel. The plaintiff, who resided in Beachburg, county of Renfrew, became involved, and gave a chattel mortgage on a quantity of grain and personal property, included in the latter being a pair of horses. Plaintiff travelled from his home in search of work, and eventually reached here. Being unable to obtain employment for himself or work for his team, he sold the horses in this city, and Findlay learning this sent a despatch describing the man and horses, and had him arrested for theft. On the arrival of Findlay here Beach returned the money to the man who bought the horses, and Findlay again sold them, and took Beach as far as Brockville, where he released him. The jury, after an absence of three hours, returned with a verdict of $50 damages and costs in favour of the plaintiff.

CRIMINAL CASES AT THE COURT.—True bills were returned by the Grand Jury to-day against Charles Arthur Bonter, for bigamy; Annie Mitchell, alias Annie Sample, for bigmay, and being an accessory to bigamy; Henry Treganzie, wounding with intent to commit murder; Hugh McCormack, indecent assault.

MONTREAL.

IN THE CRIMINAL COURT this morning the case of the Queen, at the instance of the Grand Trunk Railway, against the Hamilton Powder Company, which they charge to be a dangerous corporation and nuisance, came up, and Mr. Carter, Q. C., for the defence asked a postponement. He was warned to plead and pleaded "not guilty," the case being fixed for Friday.

A GRAND CALICO BALL by the officers of the Prince of Wales' Rifles, in aid of the Brooklyn visit fund, is exciting much interest in the fashionable circles here, and it is probable the calico will be of the most expensive description. Apropos of the Brooklyn trip, the commanding officers of the various regiments will meet this afternoon to consider ways and means of visiting Brooklyn on Decoration Day, 1880.

THE "DAILY WITNESS" LIBEL CASE was before Judge Monk in Court this morning, Mr. Carter, Q.C., having asked for a bench warrant to issue against John R. Dougall et all., accused of slandering Joe Beef, a notorious tavern-keeper. Hugh Graham et al., of the Star, is charged with libelling the Police Court clerks. The case was taken en delibere. The Argenteuil Advertiser is also accused of libel, and being published in the district of Terrebonne, the Court is held to have no jurisdiction.

MR. COWAN'S BALLOON.—The Canada, which was to have been exhibited in Toronto during the Exhibition, is likely to attain some prominence, as the proprietor is in receipt of a letter from Commander Cheyne, R.N., F.R.G.F., acknowledging the receipt of the plan of Mr. Cowan's balloon, promising to come to Canada to solicit aid in the North Pole enterprise. He is (he says) backed by Sir John Macdonald and Sir Leonard Tilley, and proposes to lecture upon the Arctic trip, the use of balloons in finding the Pole and other matters.

TORONTO.

INTERCEPTING A RUNAWAY HUSBAND.—At the Young street station on Tuesday the customary bustle and confusion incident to the departure of the 12.55 western express was intensified by an entirely unexpected denouement. A man, accompanied by a woman, apparently his wife, both belonging evidently to the lower strata of society, were having their baggage checked for Hamilton when another female entered the building, and rushed along the platform excitedly, calling for her husband. The man with a guilty look, tried to get out of the way, but his pursuer's eye was too quick, and espying him she intercepted him, and throwing her arms around his neck made the station ring with her sobs and protestations of love for him. The man shook her off without ceremony, and made for a clock which formed part of the luggage, but the alleged partner of his joys and sorrows, seeing his little game, seised the article in question, and held it fast. A large crowd had of course collected, and as some persons present undertook to interfere, the man turned, and sought refuge in the train, whither the first mentioned woman accompanied him. The distracted wife begged the constable, the baggage master, and the station master in turn to let her go aboard to "kiss her dear husband only once." Her request having been granted, she made her way into the car and seized the man in an affectionate embrace, from which for some seconds he was unable to disengage himself, and when he did manage to regain his freedom the wife clutched his hand and made for the platform in triumph. All her efforts were unavailing, however, for the man recovered his head-gear, and train thee started in a short time, the scene came to a close. The woman thus left alone told the bystanders that the man was her husband, that they had been living in the city only about a month, having come here from Montreal, where the other women had been living at her house. When she and her husband came to Toronto this woman followed them to this city. Having heard accidentally of their intention of running away from her, she had come to the station with a view to preventing them from doing so, and she grieved very much over her failure. Evidently the deserted wife departed disconsolate, but expressed her intention to return in a few hours for the clock, which had been left behind. The man who is alleged thus to have taken leave of his better half is named Fred. Renwood, and the woman who accompanied him bears the name of Sarah Clark.

THE SHOEMAKERS' WAGES QUESTION.—The following boot and shoe manufacturers have agreed to give their employees a rise of ten per cent on their present wages for eight months, viz:—Sessions, Cooper & Smith, King & Brown, W. B. Hamilton, Wm. Damer, John Currie, J. F. Rogers, and John Evans & Co. S. A. Oliver still hangs back, but he has the proposed change under consideration.

COOL BURGESS is in the city. When he got off the train at Union Station on Monday night he was arrested by a detective, charged with shooting with intent to kill Wm. Widgery. On arriving with his prisoner at the Central Station the detective learnt that the warrant had been withdrawn by consent of the County Crown Attorney. Burgess was therefore released from custody. It appears that he and Widgery had compromised their little difficulty, which accounts for the non-prosecution of the minstrel.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY RACE.

The Letter from the Referee to Hanlan in Which he Suggests Another Race.

The following is the letter sent by Mr. Blaikie to Edward Hanlan:—

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 21, 1879.

To Mr. Edward Hanlan, Toronto, Canada:—My Dear Sir,—Having purposely waited since Saturday for word from the City Bank of Rochester, and none having come, I write to say that when I drew at sight on said bank on the 26th inst. to your order for $6,000, I relied on the following despatch from the cashier:—

"ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 13th, 1879.

"Wm. Blaikie, Referee,—We have on deposit six thousand dollars, payable to your order, to be paid to winner of Hanlan and Courtney race.

(Signed) "C. E. UPTON, cashier."

You will observe that there is no reference here to any certificate of deposit, and the cashiers of various banks assure me that it is a frequent thing to deposit money to another's credit without such certificate, and that said despatch ought to be sufficient voucher to enable me to draw the money. But in this case it seems, if the press reports are correct, that there was in fact also a certificate, that Mr. Soule hold it, declines to turn it over to you, and avows that you will only get it, if at all, at the end of a suit. As such litigation would be tedious, and as under the terms of his offer there is considerable reason to believe that, notwithstanding the articles and the laws of boat racing, he would keep you out of the money on the ground that in the correspondence between you and him he expressly stipulated that the race must be between you and Mr. Courtney, I write to suggest that you end the difficulty by at once asking Mr. Courtney to row you a race at the same place and on the same terms about a fortnight hence, as he met with a mishap and so was prevented from rowing you at all. If you would take this course it would not only work you credit as a manly, straightforward man, honestly meaning to outrow your opponent, but Mr. Soule would, doubtless, promptly place the money so that the winner could be sure to get it the moment he won, and provide for the expenses of both meanwhile as well. It may be well to suggest that the articles of agreement be so amended that the referee instead of being bound by the iron rule that he can only postpone for bad water, or outside interference during the race, may have it left discretionary with him to postpone for any really substantial cause.

I may add that if you are of the opinion that your time the other day proves that you will have easy work with Mr. Courtney, could I name to you the figures he gave to me before the race as what he had done in private, you would at once conclude that the proposed race would be a lively one, and well worth winning. I will forward Mr. Courtney a similar letter forthwith, and can hardly doubt that he will be very glad of a chance to thus help to bring matters into a far more satisfactory shape to you both than they have recently been left in. A dispatch from you during Wednesday will reach me here. After that at New York. Hoping it will mean race.

I remain, yours sincerely,

[Signed.] WILLIAM BLAIKIE.

P.S.—I have from the City Surveyor, of Oil City, his affidavit that the course at Chautauqua was five miles long.

Disarming Cabul.

JELLALABAD, Oct. 22.—Advices from Cabul on the 18th inst. report the mutinous Afghan regiments have been dispersed. The disarmament of Cabul and the surrounding district is proceeding. The Ameer will be practically in safe keeping until an enquiry into the massacre is finished.

ADDRESS TO A CAT

Sweet warbler, when the radiant moonlight falls
In mellow splendor on the haunted shed,
Oft have I listened to thy plaintiff wails
And cursed thee from my sleep-deserted bed,
How have I wept to hear thy long-drawn shout,
"Maria ! Oh-h Ma-ri-a ! Coming' ou-out ?"

Why dost thou rage, vain cat, when sable night
"With dewy freshness fills the silent air?"
Why dost thou climb the roof to yell and fight,
And rip and spit and snort and claw and swear?
Dost thou not blush, sweet cat, when rosy dawn
Sees half thy fur clawed out, and one eye gone?

MOLSON'S BANK.

Recent Changes in the Directorship—The Late President's Transactions in Stock.

The Globe's Montreal correspondent sends the following:—

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—"A story has been quietly whispered about as to the changes recently rung in the Molson's Bank Board of Directorship a week ago yesterday, and it is in effect that the late President had purchased some two thousand shares of the Bank, which were carried for him by other banks; that he at length was unable to advance the margins necessary, owing to the fall in stocks; that the British Bank was compelled to throw the stock back upon his hands, and that Mr. Thomas Workman and Mr. McPherson came forward to the rescue and purchased the stock, with the understanding that Mr. Molson should leave the presidential chair. Your correspondent learned from Mr. Thomas Workman that there was some truth in the story, and that there was something that was not true in it. No condition had been made when the stock was taken. It was true that there was an amount of stock taken by himself and Mr. McPherson, who sent his share of the money from Toronto, but Mr. Molson left the bank because he knew he could not receive the number of votes necessary to elect him. He did not see what the public had to do with the matter, however, and blamed the press for fostering in people's minds a desire for knowing men's private business. Being reminded that a bank president was to some extent a public man, and his actions as such liable to be criticised by the people, Mr. Workman further insisted that the transaction was nearly a year old, and that the press should not interfere in such matters. Believing that it is the province of the press to let the people see just what there is at the bottom of concerns, which so largely interest the people, I send the story. Bank presidents and bank managers have their duty to perform, and unfortunately, as has been proven in the courts in the case of Sir Francis Hincks and Mr. Menzies, of the Exchange Bank, very little can be known of their doings until they vacate office. So seldom does it happen that these matters come to light that the news should be given to the public. The one point in the affair upon which the bank is to be congratulated is the assertion by Mr. Workman that the stock was taken up, and every dollar of it paid for. 'There is not a dollar of it upon the market to-day, unless perhaps a share or two in the hands of some of the brokers,' was Mr. Workman's closing remarks to your correspondent."

SUICIDE OR WHAT ?

We write with the sad case in mind of a man in the full vigor of his prime, suddenly—or at least apparently suddenly—cut down by death, The verdict of friends and admirers is—died of overwork ! And one sad feature about the matter is that the case is by no means a solitary one. Every now and then we hear of one and another who has materially abridged his days, if he has not cut them off when they should be at their fullest strength, by working beyond reasonable measures.

In almost every such instance, if not in all, we believe there are two parties at fault.

There is, first, the man himself. No man has a right to overdo. It is self-killing as really, though the wrongful intention is wanting, when a man over taxes his powers, as when he takes poison or blows out his brains. It may be suicide, though the process extends through months or years. The result is the same. He brings his life to a premature end.

We claim, moreover, that no man has a right to overdo, because as a rule there is no necessity of it. We do not mean that there are not often, very often, heavy burdens laid upon a man, times when his utmost exertions are necessary, when the play of all his powers is demanded. There are such times. There are crises in a man's business, or in the interests of others committed to his care, that put an enormous strain upon him. We think we know "experimentally," as the theologians say, what it is to have upon us the constant pressure of work that must be done. And yet in view of all this we say that it is rarely the case that this is a necessity of overworking.

Nor are we advocates of idleness, or of anything approaching to it. We despise the lazy man. We want to see men efficient in their callings, turning out good work and plenty of it.

We believe, further, that most men can do more work than they actually accomplish, or think they can accomplish if they will work in the wright way. It is necessary to spur rather than check a great many men.

But it depends very largely upon how men work. Some men do not seem to know how to work easily. They waste their energies in fret and worry. And a great many men, who are excellent workers, do not know how to intersperse their work with suitable recreation.

We spoke last week of vacations, and need not repeat what was said on the general subject of the necessity of rest. But we emphasize here the thought that besides the yearly vacation there is need of some daily recreation in the midst of one's labor, if we would not break down. We are very confident that if the busiest of us would take an hour every day for play, the day would see just as much work turned out, and we would with an elasticity which otherwise we should not know, and could work on and on with an energy and persistence that in the long run would be far more fruitful than a round of unintermitted toil. It is a a sad confession which we sometimes hear from the lips of some seemingly tireless worker, "I have forgotten how to play." It is very often followed by the unwilling admission, "I can't work any more; my powers have failed me."

It is one of our current inconsistencies that we praise the men who are so rashly, albeit with the purest motives, overworking, so long as they can lift a finger. When they break down or die, then we condemn their folly. We need to advocate in a great many cases moderation of the restless energy that would soon wear itself out. For ourselves we should obey the injunction, and we would urge it upon others, "Do thyself no harm."—Illustrated Christian Weekly.

A GENTLEMAN sent his Irish servant up to his room for a pair of boots, and at the same time told him to be sure and get mates, as there were two pairs in the closet. Patrick returned with two boots, but odd ones. "Why, don't you see that these are not alike—one is a long top and the other a short one?" said the gentleman, out of patience with the fellow. "Bedad your honor said Pat in apology, "and it's true for ye; but this the other pair was just so too !"

HEAVY Merchant to young man—"You are now in my employ since six weeks; your conduct your acquirements are admirable; but what I admire most is the punctuality with which you came half an hour too late, every day."

The Markets.

REVIEW OFFICE,
THURSDAY, October 23rd, 1879.

Our latest advices indicate that for the present, at least, the continued upward course of the grain market has been brought to a stand-still, if we are not on the eve of a decline. By the table given below it will be observed that since Monday, no advance has taken place in either flour or grain in Liverpool market quotations, while, Beerbolm, and special advices from Liverpool state the English market to be "neglected," "no business doing," and "heavy on cargoes afloat and to arrive" In Chicago the price of wheat has dropped three cents since yesterday, and in Toronto a decline of from one to three cents has taken place, while in Montreal to-day the market is reported weak, with quotations nominal.

In both Oswego and New York barley is reported steady. A sale of No. 1 Canada, being reported in Oswego yesterday at 95cts. and No. 2 at 85cts., at these figures it is evident that our local buyers have been in advance of the market as they have apparently learned by the decline in our own market to-day.

It would seem, however, if breadstuffs have come to a stand-still, "meats" are now about to take a turn upward as our cable despatches quote an advance in Liverpool to-day in both pork and beef as well as a further advance in cheese.

The following are the Liverpool quotations for each day of the past week :—

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

In the local market to-day there has been no excitement. While there has been considerable wheat brought in, no change has taken place further than an equalizing of Spring and Fall wheat. Fall wheat has been slow at $1.25, while Spring has been in demand at $1.22 @ $1.24, a slight advance, for miller's use. Barley dropped 10 cents for No. 1 grade, 60 cents being paid. It has been known for some days that buyers in Peterborough were above the market value, and that a reaction must soon take place. It has done so to-day, and we quote 55 @ 60 cents for best grades. The receipts to-day are heavy. No other grains in. One load of peas on the market this morning and sold at 55 cents. The following are the quotations :—

A Fashionable Folly.

A fashionable woman, suffering from a complication of disorders, recently sought the advice of an eminent New York physician. Having related her symptoms, which were of a character to cause serious alarm, she was surprised to hear him say simply, "Let me look at your shoes." On seeing them, he added, "I cannot treat a patient who wears shoes with such heels as those"—and politely bowed her out. What this wise doctor had the courage and fiedility to say, every capable physician would say, if he dared, to those of his female patients who submit themselves to the torture and expose themselves to the perils, of wearing the inordinately high heels prescribed by the tyranny of fashion. We gave not long ago, among our "Facts in Science," some of the physical consequences resulting from this "fashionable folly," as stated by a leading physician of London. They are such as ought to lead every woman who believes her body is given her for a higher purpose than to be abused and tortured into weakness and premature decay, to reject utterly the monstrous foot-gear which adds an inch or so to the stature at the expense of comfort, graceful carriage and health.—Examiner.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1m

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSTON & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

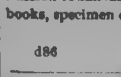

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS

Vice-Chancellor Blake.

Vice-Chancellor Blake lectures to-night at the George Street Methodist Church, on the subject of "Temperance and Prohibition."

The King Fisher.

The steamer King Fisher will until the close of the season make regular trip only on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Big Cabbage.

Messrs. Bailey & Co., have on sale a cabbage measuring 13 x 8 inches, and weighing 24lbs. 14 ounces. Five of these cabbages weighed collectively 106½ pounds. They were raised on the farm of Mr. James Wallis.

Improving the Market Square.

Street Inspector Johnston has commenced the improvement of the Market Square. He is having gravel hauled in and the grounds levelled up. This will serve to clear the Square of mud in wet weather and of dust in the dry season

Business at the Midland Station.

Twenty-seven cars containing flour, grain and lumber were hauled away from Peterborough yesterday. There were 10 cars with flour and grain ready for hauling away this morning. There are also a large number of platforms loading with lumber.

Entertainment.

The Literary Association of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute will give an entertainment on Friday, October 24th, at half-past two, in the Collegiate Institute. There will be readings, recitations and a debate on the subject "Was the execution of Mary Queen of Scots justifiable?"

Large Receipt of Salt.

Mr. John Garvey has received five car loads of salt from Goderich, shiped from that point, on barges to Midland City, thence by the Midland railway. The Trent Valley Canal would be a benefit to this important trade, and a great saving to the farmers for hundreds of miles along the proposed route.

The Soul of Trade.

There is evidently great competition in the boot and shoe trade in Peterborough at present. Amid all the changes, Mr. J. W. Larmour seems determined to maintain his position, having just added to his stock a large assortment of new goods suited to the season. He is also prepared to sustain his well-earned reputation for custom work.

Break Down.

The fore wheel of Mr. D. J. Scully's waggon ran off, and dropped the load into the street in front of Mr. G. Davis' livery stable, on Simcoe Street this morning, about half-past eleven o'clock. The loss of the nut and washer was the cause. Several persons assisted in prying up the load to get the wheel on again. No damage was done. The load consisted of barley.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day are: brisk, westerly to north-westerly winds; partly cloudy to clearing colder weather. During last night Peterborough was visited with rain and heavy winds from the west, followed by partly cloudy, colder weather, with prospects of clearing.

Little, but Good.

A personal interview with the party of Liliputians at the Huffman House afforded proof of their vivacity and intelligence, and that if diminutive in body, they are by no means of small mental power. From the experience of this visit to them, and of their pleasant reception, it is only natural to anticipate much enjoyment from their public performance this evening.

A Storehouse Floor Gives Way.

Last night the flooring of one of Mr. Stevensons storehouses, occupied by Mr. Wrighton, for the storage of barley, gave way and crushed everything in its way to the ground. Fortunately the floor was not a high one, and the barley can be removed with less loss than had it been high up. Several sleighs and bobbs were stored underneath and these are said to have been considerable crushed.

Company No. 3 of the 57th Batt.

Company No. 3 of the 57th Battalion will meet for drill in the drill shed, Ashburnham, to-morrow evening, when they expect to receive their rifles. This company is fully organized, and the members are determined to make as good a show as any in the battalion. Capt. Geo. C. Rogers is to be congratulated for his success in getting a full complement of men so speedily. The drill takes place at 7.30 o'clock sharp.

Large Sale of Improved Stock.

We desire to direct the attention of our agricultural friends to the advertisement which appears in another column, of an extensive sale of thoroughbred stock, to take place on the Agricultural Grounds, Cobourg, next Tuesday. It is not often that farmers in this locality have an opportunity of attending such a sale at so convenient a distance, and as most of them have some loose cash about them just now which cannot be invested to better advantage than in improving their stock, a large number of them will no doubt take a run out to Cobourg next Tuesday.

Presentation of Prizes.

The prizes won in the recent rifle matches were given to the successful competitors in the Drill Shed last night. The presentations were made by Col. H. C. Rogers, President of the Peterborough Rifle Association, and the Rev. V. Clementi, the Vice-President. Many of the former prize-winners were again to the fore, with several new aspirants. The recipients were in many cases warmly cheered by the volunteers and others of their friends present. The New York medal was greatly admired as it was handed to Col. J. Z. Rogers, having been in his keeping several times before, but not for the three consecutive times that would give him the ownership. The Association Cup was secured for this year by the Peterborough Troop, and it was remarked how many times the troopers came forward to receive prizes.

Chas. Stapleton's Coming Sales.

The Liliputians To-Night.

Mr. Thomas of the Liliputian Opera Company arrived in town this morning with the baggage of the company. A great commotion was created along the streets in the forenoon, by the appearance of the diminutive team and coachman. The company of little folks arrived by the noon train from Lindsay, and are stopping at the Huffman House. Last evening at Lindsay they had to turn people from the door for want of room. They appear at Bradburn's Hall to-night and are sure to have a crowded house. The following are the names of the members of this company:—Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Kahn, Mrs. Jane Quigley, Miss Jennie Quigley, height 30 inches: Miss Fadie Belton, 33 inches; Miss Emma Bernhart, 34 inches; Miss Harriet Rose, 38 inches; Admiral Dot, 28 inches; Col. MATRICULATION.

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—Having just received the article published in your issue of the 18th inst., regarding my standing at the late examinations held here, I beg to make the following explanations:—It is quite true, as "Matriculant" said, that the names of the honour men were arranged alphabetically; it is also quite true that it would be rather a difficult task (for some) to produce the proofs upon which the statement that the name of W. A. Campbell stands first in the honour list in the subject of Classics, is founded; and it is also true that the order in which the matriculants stand has been known to the examiner alone (since no scholarship is granted for the examination this year.)

This, Mr. Editor, is all quite true, and is duly acknowledged by the undersigned, but the undersigned wishes to inform "Matriculant" that there are some difficulties in this world which can be overcome, and the difficult task in question has been conquered, and the original report is discovered to be true. Having a pretty good idea that the result as published was correct, but wishing to have the brightest and best proofs, I went to the examiner in person. He informed me that the contest for first position had been pretty close between another candidate (not "Matriculant," by any means) and myself, with the advantage with the latter.

Hoping that you, Mr. Editor, will kindly publish this explanation, I am, yours, &c.,

W. A. CAMPBELL.

Cobourg, Oct. 22nd.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY

The following letter appears in the Examiner

DEAR SIR,—In the last Examiner I noticed your excellent remarks respecting to Toronto & Ottawa R.R., and if your plans are followed up and the road once built through the County of Peterborough to the County of Hastings, there is no fear but it will go right along. I made an estimate some years ago what it would cost. The distance is about 32 miles, and my estimate is here per mile:—

10,000 yds. excavation @ 25 cts. per yd	$2,600
10 ac. right of way, @ $40 per ac.	400
Bridges, culverts and cattle-gards	500
2,000 ties, @ 15 cts, each	300
640 rods of fencing, @ 50 cts per rod	320
1760 yds. track-laying, @ 15 cts. per yd	204
Ballasting	500
Engineering	200
Rails, chains and spikes	4,000
	$8,984
Ten per cent contingencies	898
Total	$9,882

Now, sir, the road can be put through to the County of Hastings for about $300,000, and in six or eight months time, so that if Peterborough and the County were to give $100,000 each and the Government $1,000 per mile, the road would be built and nearly $30,000 towards rolling stock. This would give the road new life and to have a road 32 miles in length without a single mortgage bond on it would encourage capitalists to take hold. Now I think if Mr. Scott were to advertise for tenders for this section, and in the meantime alter the Town and County By-laws to suit circumstances a great move would be made in the right direction.

Yours truly,
J. FOWLER.

Cobourg, October 18th, 1879.

OTTAWA.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—Licenses No. 158 and 159, on the Madawaska River, issued to Messrs. McKay & Robertson, and embracing sixty-five square miles, were put up at auction at Ottawa on Wednesday, by Mr. Rowe. The reserved bid of the estate was announced to be $10,000. The property was knocked down to Mr. Joseph Riopelle at $10,050. It is said that the purchase was made for Messrs. Barnett & McKay. The other limits offered were withdrawn. Mr. R. Nagle is said to have sold two timber limits on the Ottawa river to Mr. Gould, of Boston, for $18,000.

REVELATIONS EXPECTED.—The Free Press gives currency to the following:—"Word was received here to-day from Cornwall, saying it is reported there that Clarke Brown, the West Winchester murderer, will make a further confession before he dies, and that not only did he poison a Miss Hilliard, but also an uncle of his. It is further stated that Brown and his mother were in the lower part of the house in the dark hall an hour before the murder occurred. In addition to other enormities charged against Brown, he is said to have maltreated a horse in Ottawa so that death ensued.

Wm. Ringgold Cooper on Trial.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A London special says:—Wm. Ringgold Cooper, alias Neull Hunter, the celebrated American forger, was arraigned in the Old Bailey to-day, charged with forgery by Glyn, Mills & Co., bankers, and the Bank of England. His sojourn in Newgate gave him a broken-down appearance. There was a large attendance to see the criminal, whose refinement, liberality, and good manners obtained such recognition from some of the best county families of Hertfordshire, in the neighbourhood of his country residence, East Lodge, during his two year's residence at Hemel Hempsted. The Court was thronged with bankers and brokers. Near the bar sat a handsome woman, who passed as Cooper's wife. She was deeply affected. Messrs. Freshfield, the Bank of England lawyers, represented the "Old Lady of Threadneedle street," whom he had tried to victimize on June 28 of £400 on a forged cheque bearing the signature of 'J. Goodwin.' Messrs. Glyn, Mills, & Co's counsel was also present. Cooper's forgery on them was for £3,956 9s 6d. The proceedings were of the briefest character.

Arms Brought In.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Cabul despatch says the fire in the Bala Hissar is nearly out. The powder magazine will probably be saved. Over one thousand stand of arms have been brought in under General Roberts' proclamation. The Bala Hissar will probably not be re-occupied. Gen. Roberts contemplates its entire destruction.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption numbers their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angle of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. d95w43-2w

He was sure Mr. Parnell and the Irishmen of Great Britain might count on assistance from Irishmen in America.

THE AUSTRO GERMAN ALLIANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Cologne Gazette, a journal known to be directly inspired by the Prussian Foreign Office, states that Prince Birmarck has made a most important communication to the Federal Council, which he caused to be summoned in Berlin a few days ago. As reported in these despatches, he laid before the Council copies of two protocols which had been drawn up at Vienna in the presence of the Emperor Francis Joseph, providing for an offensive and defensive alliance between the two Empires. The Austrian Emperor signed the protocol with the reservation that it was not to binding upon him until it had received the signature of the German Kaiser. Prince Bismarck, in laying these papers before the Council, said that he recognized the gravity of the situation, and acknowledged the propriety of taking the representatives of the people into his confidence. The proposed alliance might, it probably would, be resented by the Great Power in North Europe, and this resentment might be so violent as to lead to war, but, the Chancellor added, the Council should weigh all the conditions of the situation and act for the best interests of the Fatherland. "As for myself," he said in conclusion, "I am so convinced that the proposed alliance is so vitally necessary for our safety, that I am resolved to make its acceptance by our Emperor a condition of my remaining in office. If he refuses to sign the protocol, I shall at once resign my office, and retire to end my days at Varzin." The Council gave their approval to the protocols immediately. Afterward Count Stolberg, Minister of State, proceeded to Baden, where the Emperor is now sojourning, to ask his sanction. Under the pressure thus brought to bear upon him, the Emperor signed the protocols, protesting that be considered the step an unwise one to take in the present condition of Europe.

BACK FROM TEXAS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—David McWha, one of the Yorkshire farmers who recently passed through the city on their way to Texas, returned to this city yesterday with his family, and complains that he was greatly deceived as to the character of the land, which he came here to cultivate. He accuses the agent of the Galveston, Harrisburg, and San Antonio railroad of misrepresentation. He says the land offered to immigrants at $3 an acre is totally unfit for farming purposes, and that good land is held at $20 an acre, and is only sold in lots of 800 acres. He says that most of the immigrants are already moving northward.

On the 1st Oct. the Huascar and the Union left Arica to observer, to movements of a fleet of transports which had left Valpareisi for Autofagasta, under convoy of the iron clad Almirante Cochran. Probably trusting to their speed to be able to cut out some of the ships from the convoy, or sink them and then escape. If this was their calculation they missed it woefully, since the Cochran is now faster than the Huascar. With the Huascar in their hands the Chilians may land where they please on the Peruvian coast.

OUR TRADE WITH BRITAIN.

Notwithstanding that, under the reign of Mr. Mackenzie, our trade with Great Britain steadily decreased, while it steadily increased with the United States without attempted hinderance, ever since the introduction of the N. P. Mr. Mackenzie and his followers have persistently denounced it as an anti-British policy, and calculated to kill our trade with the mother country.

It now, however, appears from the following figures, which have been gathered by the Mail, that its effect has been exactly what was claimed for it by it's advocates, and the very reverse of that predicted by it's opponents. This table, although somewhat incomplete, is a tolerably fair index of the general course of our import trade during the months of July and August, as compared with the same months last year, inasmuch as they embrace the five chief ports of the country.

Statement showing the increase in trade with Great Britain and the decrease in trade with the United States for the months of July and August, 1879, as compared with July and August, 1878:—

MINDEN.

Serious Fire.—About 3 o'clock on Thursday morning a fire was discovered in the rear end of the stables adjoining the Minden Hotel. It spread rapidly, and in five minutes the whole stable was in a blaze. The driving sheds caught next, and the woodwork of the stone hotel was soon in flames. From the hotel the fire spread to the shoe shop owned by James Wilson, and a dwelling-house occupied by a Mrs. Moore was next to go. There was no insurance on any of the buildings or effects. The loss is estimated as follows:—Hotel and stables, owned by Benj. Sawyers, valued at $3,700. The tenant, Mr. A. Brooks, lost about $200 by damage in removal. James Wilson, buildings, $125. Mrs. Moore, dwelling and household effects, $400. There were four horses burned to death in the stables. Incendiarism is suspected,

THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT ON THE LETELLIER QUESTION.

The Right of Lieutenant-Governors to Dismiss their Ministers.

Downing Street, July 3rd, 1879.

My Lord,—Her Majesty's Government have given their attentive consideration to your request for their instructions with reference to the recommendatiom made by your Ministers that Mr. Letellier, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, should be removed from his office. It will not have escaped your observation, in making this request, that the constitutional question to which it relates is one affecting the internal affairs of the Dominion, and belongs to a class of subjects with which the Government and Parment of Canada are fully competent to deal. I notice with satisfaction that, owing to the ability and patience with which the constitution has been made by the Canadian people to fulfil the objects with which it was framed, it has rarely been found necessary to resort to the Imperial authority for assistance in any of these complications, which might have been expected to arise during the first years of the Dominion; and I need not point out to you that such references should only be made in circumstances of a very exceptional nature. I readily admit, however, that the principals involved in the particular case now before me are of more than ordinary importance. The true intent and effect of those sections of the British North America Act, 1867, which apply to it have been much discussed, and as this is the first case which has occurred under these sections, there is no precedent for your guidance. For this reason, though regretting that any case should have arisen for the reference now made to them, Her Majesty's Government approve the course which you have taken on the responsibility and with the consent of your Ministers, and I will now proceed to convey to you the views which they have formed on the question submitted for their consideration. The several circumstances affecting the particular case of Mr. Letellier have been fully stated in Sir J. A. Macdonald's memorandum of April 14, in Lieutenant-Governor Letellier's letter of April 18, and in communications which I have since received from Mr. Langevin, who, accompanied by Mr. Abbott, has come to this country for the purpose of supporting the advice given by the Government of which he is a member, and from Mr. Joly who was similarly empowered to offer any explanations that might be required on the part of Mr. Letellier. If it had been the duty of Her Majesty's Government to decide whether Mr. Letellier ought or ought not to be removed, the reasons in favor of and against his removal would, I am confident, have been very ably and thoroughly put before them by Messrs. Langevin and Abbott, and by Mr. Joly. I have not, however, had occasion to call for any argument from either side of the merits of Mr. Letellier's case. The law does not empower Her Majesty's Government to decide it, and they, therefore, do not propose to express any opinion with regard to it. You are aware that the powers given by the British North America Act, 1867, with respect to the removal of a lieutenant-governor from office, are vested, not in her Majesty's Government, but in the Governor-General; and I understand that it is merely in view of the important precedent which you consider may be established by your action in this instance, and the doubts which you entertain as to the meaning of the statue, that you have asked for an authoritative expression of the opinion of Her Majesty's Government on the abstract question of the responsibilities and functions of the Governor-General in relation to the Lieut.-Governor of a province under the British North America Act 1867. The main principles determining the position of the Lieutenant-Governor of a province in the matter now under consideration are plain. There can be no doubt that he has an unquestionable constutional right to dismiss his provincial ministers, if from any cause he feels it encumbent upon him to do so. In the exercise of this right, as of any other of his functions, he should, of course, maintain the impartiality towards political parties which is essential to the proper performance of the duties of his office; and for any action he may take he is, under the 59th section of the Act, directly responsible to the Govenor-General. This brings me at once to the point with which alone I have now to deal—namely, whether, in deciding whether the conduct of a Lieutenant-Governor merits removal from office, it would be right and sufficient for the Governor-general, as in any ordinary matter of administration, simply to follow the advice of his Ministers or whether he is placed, by the special provisions of the statute, under an obligation to act upon his own individual judgment. With reference to this question it has been noticed that while under section 58 of the Act the appointment of a lieutenant-governor is to be made "by the Governor-General-in-Council by instrument under the great seal of Canada," Section 59 provides that a "lieutenant-governor shall hold office during the pleasure of the Governor-General," and much stress has been laid upon the supposed intention of the Legislature in thus varying the languages of these sections. But it must be remembered that other powers vested in a similar way by the statute in the Governor-General were clearly intended to be, and in practice are, exercised by and with the advice of his Ministers; and though the position of a Governor-General would entitle his views on such a subject as that now under conderation to a peculiar weight, yet Her Majesty's Government do not find anything in the circumstances which would justify them in departing in this instance from the general rule, and declining to follow the decided and sustained opinion of his ministers, who are responsible for the peace and good government of the whole Dominion to the Parliament, to which, according to the 59th section of the statute, the cause assigned for the removal of a lieutenant-governor, must be communicated. Her Majesty's Government, therefore, can only desire you to request your ministers again to consider the action taken in the case of Mr. Letellier. It will be proper that you should, in the first instance, invite them to inform you whether their views, as expressed in Sir J. A. Macdonald's memorandum, are in any way modified after perusal of this despatch, and after examination of the circumstances now existing, which since the date of that memorandum may have so materially changed as to make it, in their opinion, no longer necessary for the advantage, good government or contentment of the province that so serious a step should be taken as the removal of a Lieutenant-Governor from office. It will, I am confident, be clearly borne in mind that it was the intention of the British North America Act, 1867, that the tenure of the high office of Lieutenant-Governor should, as a rule, endure for the term of years specially mentioned, and that not only should the power of removal never be exercised except for grave cause, but that the fact that the political opinions of a Lieutenant-Governor had not been, during his former career, in accordance with those held by any Dominion Ministry who might happen to succeed to power during his term of office would afford no reason for its exercise. The political antecedents and present position of nearly all the Lieutenant-Governors now holding office prove that the correctness of this view has been hitherto recognized in practice, and I cannot doubt that your advisers, from the opinions they have expressed, would be equally ready with the late Government to appreciate the objections to any action which might tend to weaken its influence in the future. I have directed your attention, particularly to this point, because it appears to me to be important that, in considering a case which may be referred to hereafter as a precedent, the true constitutional position of a lieutenant-governor should be defined. The whole subject may, I am satisfied, now be once more reviewed with advantage, and I cannot but think that the interval which has elapsed (and which has from various causes been unavoidable) may have been useful in affording means for a thorough comprehension of a very complicated question, and in allowing time for the strong feelings on both sides, which I regret to observe have been often too bitterly expressed, to subside.

I have, &c.,
M. E. Hicks-Beach.

The Right Hon. the Marquis of Lorne.

CAVAGNARI'S SUCCESSOR.

The Government of India has picked out from among all its competent servants an Irish surgeon to accompany Gen. Roberts as political agent to Cabul, and will, in all probability, make him the next envoy to the Afghan Court, with full control over our relations with the country. This is, says the Spectator, a curious fact, even in India, where surgeons have once or twice played great parts, and would deserve record, if only as an event in the history of the Empire which a surgeon may be said to have founded. The political agent, moreover, with an expedition is always the most important person in it, and so much will depend on this one that it may be worth while to occupy a page in explaining who he is and what his political opinions are. Mr. Bellew—or, as he is styled, by an inveterate Anglo-Indian habit, Dr. Bellew—is, even in India, where men are so individual, a very remarkable person. The son of Brevet Major Bellew, who lost his life in the disastrous retreat from Cabul in 1842, he displayed in boyhood an unusual devotion to scientific pursuits, more especially geology and botany. After a course of study at St. George's Hospital in 1855, and when scarcely twenty-one years of age, he received his surgeon's diploma, and an appointment in the East India Company's medical service, then a close corporation. He was, however, so exceptionally young that he could not legally take up his commission, and went out to Scutari to the military hospital, there to pass the needful interval as medical volunteer. At Scutari he made himself so useful, and received such testimonials from the surgeons in command, that on his arrival in India, in 1856, Lord Canning placed in his hands the medical charge of the Guides, then, as now, the crack corps of the Irregular service. While acting in this capacity, in 1857, Sir H. Lumsden, who had raised the Guides, took him on his mission to Candahar. There the young doctor, still hardly more than a lad, set up a dispensary, and acquired the reputation, which still adheres to him throughout Afghanistan and the frontier, of being the greatest among the English hakims, the one whom a great native could most advantageously consult. He cured Shere Ali himself of a painful disease, and the Ameer in return actively assisted him with books and access to ancient MSS. in the studies of Afghan history and dialects to which he devoted himself, and in which he acquired an extraordinary range of knowledge. He is probably the second best Pushtoo scholar alive, and when, in 1872, he was selected to accompany Sir R. Pollock to Seistan to settle boundaries, he in six months acquired and reduced to a systematic grammar a previously unwritten language of the province, a feat declared by the Saturday Review, if we remember aright, to be previously unexampled. This mission, a second mission to Yarkund with Sir Douglas Forsyth and his special reputation as a hakim who could understand any man's tongue, which, on his return to India, brought chiefs over the mountains to him as on a pilgrimage, gave him an unusual acquaintance with the leading men both of the frontier and Afghanistan, and when a few weeks since Lord Lytton selected him, still a practicing surgeon, for the first diplomatic appointment in Afghanistan, no one in the north west was either surprised or envious. Service etiquettes are apt to give way in India when work is to be done, and the Viceroy has selected the best informed and most experienced envoy he could find among the men who hold opinions favorable to the policy of advancing the Empire beyond the Suleiman.

The Land Agitation.

New York, Oct. 22.—A Herald's special about the private conference of tenant farmers, dated Dublin, 21st, says:—Thirty-two Irish counties sent their delegates. Cork and Maryborough, Galway and Enniscorchy, Ballenrobe, in the county of Mayo, Tipperary and Sligo, were particularly strongly represented. Mr. Parnell was present. The conference was held for the purpose of forming an Irish Land League which should compass two main objects—the first being a reduction of rack rents; the second, that occupiers of land might have facilities for obtaining the ownership of it. Parnell was unanimously elected President. A long discussion ensued, the sense of the meeting being that the time was gone when landlords could be asked to abate their rates; that people who tilled the soil had a right to live on it; and that if a general abatement of rents was made this would avail little without security of tenure. The charges of rowdism brought against the movement by opposition journals were indignantly refuted; and the sending of coffin notices and all violent measures were deplored. Finally it was determined to draw the counties together into a solid organization during the coming winter, and thus defend the farmers against those threats of eviction which now hang over them.

PORT HOPE.

Important Importations.—The Times says: Mr. H. G. Charlesworth has been purchasing some extra fine stock in Jersey cattle, Southdown sheep, Berkshire and Suffolk swine, which he has put on his farm here which he is now working. Mr. C. is still in the shoe business in Toronto, but employs a manager on his farm; he has always been an admirer of stock, and hopes to be able to gratify that taste on his farm. In fancy land and water fowls, pigeons, etc., he always came to the front in exhibitions where the strongest competion exists.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. [illegible]-d90-1m

If Demosthenes had not suffered, and by unwearied efforts overcome great obstacles, would he have become the greatest orator in the world? If our modern Demosthenes have a cough, cold, or tickling of the throat, nothing will relieve them so speedily as Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It is an excellent remedy for quinsy influenza, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, etc. For sale by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

AMERICAN CANDIES.

Many readers who have bought the common fruit or nut-candy will remember that in letting the round pieces containing the fruit melt in their mouth the result was a thick, tasteless paste without taste or flavor. This was the "white earth," which was only frosted on the outside. The cheaper chocolate creams, of which children are so fond, are made of terra alba and glycerine mixed together, the glycerine keeping the earth soft and pasty, making it adhere so it will not fall apart, and then the balls are rolled in tallow, with sufficient grease to allow one pound of chocolate to go as far as five or six pounds would if properly made.

The worst effects of the use of terra alba are, that the terrible diseases of stone and gravel are caused by the introduction of earth into the system, and the large increase of patients suffering from these diseases is attributed by high medical authorities to the introduction of this terrible ingredient into the confectionary and similar articles consumed in this country.

Glucose, or "grape sugar," is the name of another dangerous article extensively used in the adulteration of candies. It is not, as its name would imply, made from grapes, but potatoes, and its effect is to produce paralysis of various portions of the system, especially the kidneys, where the effect is not only to paralyze them, but to turn them into a sugary substance; in other words to produce Bright's disease, a malady for which physicians have found as yet no remedy.

The reason for the use of glucose is the same that is given for the use of any other adulteration—cheapness. Gum arabic, for which it is used as a substitute, is worth fifty cents a pound, while glucose sells for five or six. Most of the cheap gum-drops are made from this compound.

More disgusting than any of the articles named though perhaps not so hurtful, are what confectioners term the scrapings. When a sugar ship comes into port and is emptied of her cargo, a good deal of syrup has adhered to the sides of the vessel and run down into the bilge water. The first is scraped off and the second pumped out, mixed together, and boiled, and of this compound candy is made.

The coloring of cheap candies, although it would hardly come under the head of adulteration, is yet a fraud and oftentimes a dangerous one. Instead of the cochineal fly which the best confectioners use for the red in their wares, the unprincipled manufacturers use analine, a powerful and poisonous color. For yellow chromium is used, one of the elements of which is arsenic. We have already mentioned some of the other preparations of lead and copper used for this purpose. The yellow in the best candies is produced by the use of saffron.

A few years ago the Massachusetts Board of Health entered into an investigation in relation to the confectionery sold in the State. Of the sixty-seven colored samples examined, there were twenty-one specimens of yellow, twelve of orange, twenty-nine of red, five of brown, seven of green, and four of blue. Of the twenty-one yellows, seventeen consisted entirely of chrome yellow, or chromate of lead, two contained chromate of lead, although a vegetable yellow also was present, and two were colored with organic yellows alone. Of the twelve specimens of orange, nine were colored with orange chromate of lead, two contained an organic red mixed with chrome yellow, and in one the coloring matter was entirely organic. Of the twenty-nine reds, twenty-five were organic, three samples of a brick-red color contained iron, and one was colored with vermilion or sulphate of mercury. Of the four specimens of blue, two contained only organic coloring matter, and two were found to be colored with ultramarine, or silicate of soda and alumina with sulphate of sodium. Of the seven greens, one—a pale green —found to be organic, six were colored with a mixture of Prussian blue or sesquioxide of iron with chrome yellow, and one contained, in addition, arsenic green, or arsenite of copper.

Most candies flavored with pear, apple banana and other fruits are unwholesome, these extracts in many instances being made from fusil-oil, taken from the refuse of liquor stills.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A GREAT PEN-MAKER'S HISTORY.

Joseph Gillott was a Sheffield artisan, who, soon after he became of age, was compelled by poverty, occasioned by long depression of trade, to leave the parental hearth, and to seek his fortunes elsewhere. He found his way to Birmingham, and entered the town on foot, stopped for rest and refreshment at an old public house at Digbeth. Long after, when Joseph Gillott had become a millionaire, and was buying up valuable properties in and about the town, this house came into the market for sale. Gillott bought it; and when it was being razed to the ground to make way for the Museum Palace and Concert Hall, that now stands on its site, he directed the workmen to cut out a particular square of the settle, or seat running round the tap-room, and to send it to his house to be made up into a chair that should be handed down as an heirloom in his family. It was the first seat he had sat on in Birmingham, and the place where he had spent his last penny before pushing on into the town whose fame and wealth he was destined so largely to share and to increase. He soon found employment as a maker of buckles, a trade then enjoying a temporary spurt, and soon, with characteristic energy, was working on his own account. Those were the days when it was more easy than it now to become one of a class which Birmingham has always been famous for—garret-masters. These are a sort of half workman, half master, who buy their own materials, make up their own work with their own hands and tools, and sell their finished goods to the merchants and factors, who pay money down. When the little trade can be extended so as to call for the employment of more hands than the garret-master and his family, a shop may be built in the back yard or rented elsewhere, and in due time the shop may become a factory, and the factory may develop into enormous "works." Many a great trade has been built up in this way in the Midland metropolis and many a colossal fortune has been made from such beginnings. The most remarkable instance of such a career is presented in the life of Joseph Gillott. In the garret of a very small house in Bread Street—a locality marked for destruction as a "slum"—Gillott made buckles and other "steel toys." "He made very excellent goods," said the merchant who used to buy of him, "and came for his money every week." His work showed evidences of a taste beyond that commonly possessed by a workman, and this insured him plenty of orders; while a native ingenuity enabled him to execute them in the readiest way, with the least expenditure of time and labor, and with the most direct aid from mechanical means. There is no doubt that he was perfectly familiar with the powers of the foot-lathe and stamp and of the hand-press, and that he could make tools for these machines, or perhaps construct the machines themselves to suit the purposes of his trade. At this critical juncture chance guided his efforts in a new direction, and to an El Dorado which he could have had little conception of. He was engaged to a young woman in his own rank of life whose two brothers, John and William Mitchell, were working in about the same style as himself on the "new thing"—just beginning to be enquired after—steel pens. Their sister was helping them, and in the confidence of courtship would often explain to her lover the nature of her pursuits. No doubt the brothers were working by "rule of thumb," producing by painful labor of clipping, shearing, filing, and punching by hand a fairly salable article. But Gillott saw at once that the press could be made available for nearly every process, and that the production could be multiplied ad infinitum. Aided by his skill in tool-making, which stood him in good stead during all of the greater part of his career, he worked secretly in his garret till he had perfected appliances which enabled him to make, single handed, as many pens as could be made by twenty persons in the same time under the old system, and of a better and more uniform quality than had yet been seen. He found ready sale for all he could make, and in a short time the demand grew faster than his power of production, and he wanted help. Then his sweetheart, Miss Mitchell, agreed to his proposal that they should marry and work together, and reap the golden harvest while it was ripe. In after years, Mr. Gillott used often to tell how, on the very morning of his marriage, he began and finished a gross of pens, and sold them for £7 4s before going to church.—Great Industries of Great Britain.

IRELAND.

THE Queen has forwarded through Dr. Spedding, the usual donation of £3 to Mrs. Martha Kennedy, Shankhill Road, Antrim, who gave birth to three children on the 18th August—two boys and a girl. The mother and children are doing well.

THREE calves and a cow were on September 5th auctioned in Tuam, the sale of which drew immense crowds, as the animals had been seized under a decree for rent. Bidding was very brisk, but the increment hardly ever exceeded a farthing. On the auctioneer objecting to farthing bids, he was told that he could not refuse a coin of the realm. The calves were finally knocked down for £3 0s; 2½d. The proceedings wound up with a groan for the bailiffs.

THE Saunders' Limerick correspondent furnishes a striking instance of the great depreciation of the value of land in Ireland. About two years ago the owner of a farm in that county containing forty acres of good land, held on a long lease at 30s an acre, was offered £2,100 for it, which he refused. He now wishes to dispose of it, but the highest price he has been offered is £200—less than one-tenth of what he could have obtained two years ago.

A STRANGE incident of the rent agitation in Ireland recently occurred near Mallow. A landlord offered his tenants a reduction of fifteen per cent., and they refused it. His treatment of them in the past had, they said, been so generous, and they had been such gainers in prosperous years by his arrangements with them, that they were determined, for this year, at least, he should not suffer from the existing depression. Several of them emphasized this declaration by paying in full on the spot, and the remainder offered to settle accounts by the end of November.

MR. PARNELL, the present leader of the Irish people, is English by descent, his family settled in Ireland in the reign of Chas. II. The celebrated poet, Parnell, Archdeacon of Clogher, the friend of Pope, Addison, and Swift, was an ancestor of his, as were also Sir John Parnell, Bart, M. P. for Queen's County and Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir Henry, M. P. for Rothleague, the celebrated commentator on the penal laws. Mr. Parnell's mother is an American, the daughter of one of our naval officers, and resides now with her daughters in New Jersey, passing the summer usually at Newport. He was educated at Cambridge University, is only 33 years old, of very gentlemanly appearance and manner, and, though not eloquent in the usual sense, is vigorous and clear in speech. Though his landed estate yields only £1,400 a year, he is rich in American and other securities.

SOME of the bogs in the heart of Ireland, after a long rest, shake themselves together and go in for a season of activity. Just now the Mylerstown Bog, in Kildare, is on the march. The heavy rains set it afloat and it lifted its anchor, but as there were apparently two counter influences at work it cut the knot by dividing into two sections, taking different routes. One comprising 16 acres, sailed ponderously for a distance of three quarters of a mile, blocked up an artifical river channel, and then came to a momentary halt against a piece of solid ground somewhat more elevated than itself. The next instant it resumed its motion and drifted five hundred yards down the river. Naturally the current was thus dammed, and it retaliated by flowing across all the surrounding land. The inhabitants do not expect this remarkable argosy to cast anchor again until the floods have passed away, and as the season is by no means dry, or likely to become drier, the prospect is lamentable, for the turf-cutting industry has been utterly disorganized and many poor cutters pauperized by the washing away of their stocks.

Claiming Honors.

A recent telegram to us spoke of the success of Miss Howard, described by an United States Consul as an American lady, holding high rank among the physicians of Pekin, China. It appears, however, that Dr. Howard is a Canadian, being the daughter of Mr. Peter Howard, of the County of Leeds, in this Province. This is a characteristic specimen of the way in which any person or thing that is a credit to Canada is claimed by our neighbors.

Convicted of Murder.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Caroline Goderich and Daniel Kimball, on the second trial for the murder of Jennie Clark, the victim of the notorious trunk tragedy, were found guilty. Goderich was convicted of having performed an abortion which caused death, and Kimball as an accessory after the fact.

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHER was telling the scholars what a glorious thing it was to have Sunday once a week. He said some wanted it oftener, but he was content with one Sunday a week. Turning to a boy in the class he asked; "Suppose you could change the days in the week on what day would you have Sunday come, my little man?" The boy said: "If I was a-bossing this business I would have Sundy come on Christmas."

THE round yellow pumpkin that the housewife has in her eye for a nice batch of inch and half deep pies, with under crust as brown as a berry, dosen't always show up when cooking day comes around; but down behind the garden at the first approach of darkness she can see a fiendish face all glow with fire. That's her favorite pumpkin and the only wax candle she h d is inside of it.

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSTON & CO., successor to F. Lane & Co.

THERE is no remedy for female complaints so good as VICTORIA BUCHU and UVA URSI. After it use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

LOCAL NEWS

Icicles.

Icicles formed in front of the REVIEW Office to-day half an inch thick.

Duprez & Benedicts Minstrels.

These minstrels who are highly spoken of by the press, are billed for Peterborough on Friday evening the 31st instant.

The Adjourned Farm Sale.

Don't forget the adjourned sale of the Ryan farm. It takes place at the Steward House to-morrow at two o'clock. Charles Stapleton, Auctioneer.

Another Car Blockade.

The tracks of the Midland Railway at Peterborough are again blockaded with cars, freight in and out, and loading. This blockade was somewhat relieved by a special this morning taking out a large number of cars. This train took mostly lumber, eight of the cars were from Lakefield. The streets were blocked up for a long time, to the inconvenience of the public. The remedy is only in addition sidings or yard room.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day are: fresh to brisk, westerly to northerly winds, fair continued cold weather, flurries of snow in some localities. Last night Peterborough was visited with a cold wave, the wind blowing fresh from the north-west, with a slight fall of snow before morning. To-day has been partly cloudy with occasional snow flurries, with stormy northerly winds.

A New Hand in an Old Shop.

Mr. Daniel Belleghem has, as will be seen by our advertising columns, bought out the furniture business carried on by Mr. Tanner, on Hunter street. Mr. Belleghem is well known in Peterborough, and is a practical workman, well acquainted with the different branches in furniture making. It is his intention to give the premises which he has taken a general overhauling, and to prepare the steam factory for undertaking large orders in all the various requirements of the trade. Mr. Belleghem, with care and business prudence, will no doubt do a successful trade.

The Liliputians.

The Liliputian Opera Company drew a good audience to Bradburn's Theatre on Thursday night to witness their performance of the operetta "Pocahontas," and to judge by the applause and laughter, those present were well satisfied. Miss Jennie Quigley as Pocahontas, and Admiral Dot at the bold Captain Smith acted in a very viracious and natural manner and sang in a way that surprised their audience at hearing such a volume of voice from such diminutive bodies. They were well supported by the rest of the little people, and the contrast between them and the gigantic Col. Orr was most comical at times. Some of the minor scenes after the Operetta were irresistibly comic.

The Vice-Chancellor's Lecture.

The lecture of Vice-Chancellor Blake at the George street Methodist Church last evening was a very successful one. The church was well filled with an attentive and appreciative audience, Geo. A. Cox, Esq., was called to the chair, the Rev. Mr. Scott, agent of the Alliance, stated the object and purposes of the Alliance. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Torrence of the Presbyterian Church. The Chairman introduced the Vice-Chancellor, who came forward and addressed the assemblage for one and a half hours. His arguments were able and eloquent. At the close of the lecture Mr. D. W. Dumble moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Blake which was seconded by Col. Haultain, and carried unanimously. The meeting was closed with benediction by Rev. Mr. Mulhearn of the Baptist Church.

Foot Ball Matters.

The Peterborough Foot Ball Club meet every afternoon for practice on the cricket ground, Ashburnham, and there is a marked improvement noticeable. The return match that was to take place on this ground on Saturday, between the Peterborough Club and the Trinity College School of Port Hope is postponed until the following Saturday, November 1. This match is looked forward to with much interest. Of course the College School Club have the advantage of every day practice, while the members of the Peterborough Club are compelled to catch a day now and then. A scratch match, Town v County, has been arranged for to-morrow and promises to be a very interesting game. The respective sides will be captained by Messrs. R. Rogers and A. D. Braithwaite. The game will be played on the Ashburnham cricket ground, the ball to be kicked off at half-past three sharp. All members of the club who wish to take part in the match must be on the ground not later than a quarter past three.

The Grain Market.

The Peterborough grain market this morning opened in a spiritless manner with a tendancy to lower prices all round. The first load of wheat (spring), was taken at $1.22, for shipping. The millers are not in the market at this figure, and did not look upon it as the opening market price. With a falling market all over the country, and the near approach of the close of navigation, they are holding back and are rapidly unloading stocks on hand. They claim that prices must recede to $1.15 @ $1.20 for spring and fall. Barley is weak at 55 @ 60 for No. 1, other grades at 40 @ 50. The receipts continue heavy. The tendancy is downward, with little hope of rallying this winter. Unless hurried forward it will have to be wintered, which will add to its cost by insurance, storage and interest. Shipments continue heavy daily, and the Midland will be taxed to its utmost to relieve the pressure until the final closing of navigation. As indicated above, spring wheat fell to $1.14 and $1.16; fall wheat $1.17 and $1.20.

THE HANLAN-COURTNEY FIASCO.

The Champion's Reply to the Referee's Letter—Plucky and Prudent Terms.

This morning Hanlan forwarded the following letter in reply to Mr. Blaikie's published yesterday morning:—

108 Brock street,
TORONTO, Oct. 24, 1879.

Wm. Blaikie, Esq., Post Buildings, New York:

DEAR SIR,—in reply to you letter of the 21st inst., I have to state that, in the first place, I wish it distinctly understood that anything contained in this letter shall not in any way prejudice my claims, legal or moral, to the purse of $6,000, which I considered I have fairly won, and which, according to the best legal authorities in Canada, and your own ruling, is mine already, both in equity and in law.

With this understanding, I am willing to admit that in case Mr. Courtney can be induced to row me for the purse as indicated in your letter, it would be easier for me, and more to my taste, to win what is already my due, on the water rather than in a Court of Law. In case a race should be arranged, however, I should insist that the money be placed, not merely subject to your order, but in your hands, to be handed by you to the winner when in your opinion he had won the race. If I enter into such an arrangement it will be for the purpose of avoiding the annoyance and delay of a law suit, and no loophole shall be left through which any person or persons can creep for the purpose of giving me trouble in the collection of my winnings. To this end I would suggest that the race be made play or pay in every respect, subject only to the condition of the water. I do not believe that Mr. Courtney wishes to enter into a fair and square contest with me, and I have no wish, if I take the time and trouble to get ready for a race, to be deprived of my earnings either by fraud or cowardice. I am of opinion that if this contest be made subject to the condition of Mr. Courtney's coming out upon the water and rowing me a fair race, it will never come off; but if the money be placed in your hands for a play or pay race upon a certain date, or the first day thereafter when smooth water can be had, I think I can win it with less trouble in that way than I could through a lawsuit. Let the race be play or pay, and if anybody cuts my boats Mr. Courtney can have the money.

Yours truly,
EDWARD HANLAN.

P. S.—I take this means of vindicating myself and friends, and showing the world that I am now and have been all along anxious to prove which is the better sculler of the two. I should mention that the proposal I here make will remain open until Monday next, the race to be rowed not later than ten days afterward, and over the same course.

FORESTERS IN COUNCIL.

Separate Endowment Refused—Change of Titles and Other Business.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The M. W. High Court of Independent Foresters of America opened in session this morning at 9 o'clock. On motion the official titles of high bodies and officers were changed. The "Most Worthy High Court" will in future be designated as the "Supreme Court," and the different "Right Worthy High Courts" as simply "High Courts." The officers of said courts will be called "Supreme" and "High Chief Rangers, etc.," to correspond with titles of their courts. The action of the Executive Committee in the prosecution of Griffin, the defaulting M. W. H. Treasurer was unanimously approved. On motion it was resolved that hereafter the practice of permitting representation by "proxy" be disallowed in the Supreme Court.

The hour set apart for the reception of a report of the Committee on Endowment law having arrived, the report was read and a special committee appointed to have a sufficient number of copies of the same printed, further action on report of the committee being postponed until 8 p.m.

A resolution was adopted that after this session the elective officers only of this Supreme Court be allowed mileage and per diem.

The R. W. M., per Secretary, was instructed to purchase a P. M. W. H. C. R. jewel, for presentation to the presiding officer of the Supreme Court, Hon. W. B. Hoke, and the sum of $50 was donated to cover the cost of the same.

Bro. Dr. Oronhyateka, P.R.W.H.C.R., then introduced a resolution to grant the R. W. High Court of Ontario a separate endowment jurisdiction, which was negatived by a large majority.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B.

THE "REACTION."—Mr. McLeod, the Conservative, has been elected with about 200 majority, McLeod polled 965 votes; Dodd, Conservative, 752; McKay, Grit, 848, with one poll to be heard from, which will give McLeod about 100 more of a majority. McKay will not poll 900 votes against 1,166 last year. Dodd and McLeod ran on the National Policy.

TORONTO.

FRANK RIMIER was sentenced this morning, on two charges of forgery, to four years' imprisonment at penitentiary.

COAL OIL "ACCIDENT."—The wife of a Grand Trunk yardsman named Crabb was very severely burned while lighting a fire with coal oil. Her child, which she had in her arms, was so much injured that its life is despaired of.

THE GRAND JURY in their presentment alluded to the frightful increase of crime and to the importation of lewd pictures and illustrated papers which were exposed in shop windows, and recommended that some steps should be taken to suppress them. But even the crimes of robbing and wounding were surpassed by an evil in our midst which threatens to destroy our nation—that of drink. The jury held that we have here a perfect license law—the Crooks Act—but it was not now forced as it had been. The jury hoped to see the law in this respect vigorously enforced.

MONTREAL.

PARTY FEUD.—A slight disturbance in the rink at the go-as-you-please military pedestrian match on Saturday night was followed, by a more serious affair, in which several of what is beginning to be known as the "Aylmer street Gang"—for the young rowdies who compose it have their whistles and their calls—attacked three members of the Victoria Rifles while the latter were going home from the rink, and quite a melee occurred. During the night a member of No. 6 Company was struck in the face with a slung shot, which caused a severe wonnd. From various sources of information it appears that this gang of young rowdies is made up chiefly of "Young Britons" and "True Blues," and that that the members of the Victoria Rifles, for some cause, meet with their disfavour. Not long ago they egged one of the "Vics" on St. Genevieve street. The other day some of the same crowd hooted at a Catholic priest, an insult which brought the rev. gentleman to a stand still, while he pointed out to them their disgraceful conduct. This is a sample of the inability of the small police force to deal with these matters.

THE BARREL MYSTERY has been cleared up. So far as can be learned the body packed belongs to a student, who, although not in the hands of justice, is known. The police sergeant who opened the barrel describes the spectacle as a horrible one. It was the head and shoulders of a full grown woman, with eyes only half closed, and packed in a sitting posture. The student in his statement before the Police Magistrate said that he had made arrangements with some friends at Sorel to procure him subjects of dissection, and stated that he had paid the sum of $30 for it. Bodies sometimes, he said unconcernedly, cost as high as $40 and $50, and even then are hard to be obtained. The barrel is still at Morgue, but will in all prabability be handed over to Belouinot this afternoon, as there is no proof that the body was not purchased in the usual way. At any rate the student has made satisfactory explanations to the Police Magistrate. Notwithstanding it all, there is a feeling that the affair should be investigated. A despatch from Sorel says the barrel containing the body was shipped by Dr. Fortier of St. David. He offered to pay the freight, but the agent had no time to receive it and told him to pay it on board. He seemed excited. It is supposed to be the body of Mrs. Laribiere, of St. David.

A POLICE OFFICER yesterday evening found a woman and four children wandering about Prince street, who had been ejected from their home by a drunken stranger. He found in the lodgings of the unfortunates a worthless loafer named James Seery, who had just been released from gaol. He was sent down to-day for another month with hard labor.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE of the City Council this afternoon discussed the propriety of allowing the city assessors to continue to dabble in private business speculations. It seems that the officials in question are engaged in the coal trade, in agencies for real estate, and in other branches of trade, while they are compelled to assess property of men with whom they do business. The Aldermen believe that they should not do this, but they pay the assessors only $1,000 and $1,200 a year. There are six assessors, when three, at $2,000 a year each, could do the work.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1m

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angle of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. d36w43-2w

CANADIAN TELEGRAMS.

TORONTO.

Special Telegram to the Review, Oct. 25.

RAILWAY STRIKE FRAUD.—There is trouble between locomotive engineers of the Grand Trunk and the Company, and a committee appointed by the men has gone to Montreal to represent the grievances to Mr. Hickson. The trouble arises out of a dismissal of an engineer for fast driving, and if an amicable settlement is not arrived at a strike is feared.

MONTREAL.

Special Telegram to the Review, Oct. 25.

THE ORANGE CASE.—Mr. Justice Mackay gave judgment to-day in the case of Grant vs. ex-Mayor Beaudry, which was an action for damages for false arrest on the 12th of July 1878. Judgment was for the defendant, chiefly on the ground of informality in the plea. The plaintiff who is supported by the funds of the Orange Grand Lodge will immediately appeal to the English Privy Council.

From the Morning Papers.

WINNIPEG.

GOLD, SILVER AND COAL.—Mr. McCallum, Dominion Land Surveyor, has gone East with specimens of gold and silver found in the vacinity of Rat Portage, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. Immense beds of coal have been discovered on the River Assiniboine, about sixty miles south of Grand Valley, and a company has secured four thousand five hundred acres. One thousand tons will be brought to Winnipeg this winter.

BELLEVILLE.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—A shooting affray, which is expected to terminate fatally, took place at about 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon at a disreputable house known as "The Farm," situated a short distance north of the city limits. Two young men, named Duncan McIntyre and Wm. Teal, drove to "The Farm," and after a short stay the former became engaged in an altercation with one of the inmates named Lulu Ellis. McIntyre, it is alleged, chocked the girl, and would not leave the house when ordered to do so. He attempted to strike her with a bottle, but did not succeed. He afterwards struck her, and she drew a revolver and fired, the ball lodging above the left ear. The wounded man was brought to town, and the wound probed, but the ball could could not be traced. Medical men entertain no hopes of his recovery. The girl was arrested.

PORT HOPE.

STEAM HEATING.—The Guide says:—Mr. Stanley Paterson has placed a new steam heating apparatus in his buildings, corner of Walton and Queen streets, by which the entire block is conveniently and economically heated. The apparatus consists of a steam generator of a novel kind placed in the basement, from which the steam is conducted in iron pipes to the radiators in the various apartments. The generator is safe from explosion, and steam is quickly obtainable with but a small quantity of fuel. The pressure of steam required to heat the entire building is but small, and the great convenience of the system over that of stoves and furnaces is beyond dispute. Some idea of the saving in trouble and expense will be had by noting the number of separate offices and apartments that are heated by this apparatus. The block contains two banking establishments, the branches of the Montreal and Toronto banks, the Montreal Telegraph, American Express, and Midland Loan Companies offices, the Oddfellows' Hall, the Customs offices, the law office of Mr. Benson and Commission office of Mr. King. The plan of steam heating has been adopted by some cities, where it has been found to work admirably. It is deserving of attention even by small towns.

A SWINDLE.—Mr. Lewis Ross has been swindled out of $19 worth of goods and Messrs. Clark & VanEvery out of $12 worth. On Tuesday, while an auction sale was going on at the homestead of Mr. Henry Wade, a man obtained the goods on orders purporting to be signed by Mr. Wade, but which were subsequently discovered to be forgeries. The swindler has not yet been detected.

DETAINED.—Captain W. Sherwood, of the steamer Norseman, telegraphed yesterday morning from Charlotte that they were detained in port owing to a heavy westerly gale prevailing on the south shore, and that he would not leave until the weather moderates.

MIDLAND CITY.

LARGE LUMBER SALES.—The Argosy says:—Messrs. Chew & Co. are now sending away the first consignments of 400,000 feet of lumber, which is being shipped by Mr. Copner, an Orillia gentleman. A good price has been obtained for the lumber, and our wishes are that these scales may be but the prelude of still larger succeeding consignments.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Accounts of experiments with the electric light in illuminating the fortress at Metz state that they have proved entirely satisfactory, as far as they have been tried. It is proposed by means of the electric light to render it impossible for an attacking party to sap and mine a fortification in the night, as the surroundings will be lighted up with a brilliancy that will render concealment impossible, and enable the guards to preserve as perfect a watch as in the day time.

GRAIN DEFICIENCY IN ENGLAND.

CHINA AND KASHGAR.

Intelligence received at Simla from Yarkand, on 31st Aug., announces that 12,000 Adijanis, Kirghiz, and Kipchaks have reached Mingyul, near Kashgar, where they met a large force of Chinese. Two indecisive engagements were fought. The Chinese lost many killed. A Kipchak spy arrested stated that the Russians supplied stores to the invaders. Chinese troops from Yangi Hissar and Yar have been despatched against them. Another Andijan column, advancing across the Altai Panier mountains, has captured Sirikol.

FIRE AT SEA.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—Captain Draz, of the Havana steamer Nunero Projarb, says that at the time the steamer was burned there were on board in addition to the officers and crew, four merchants, all supposed to be lost, and thirteen soldiers, of whom only one is saved. Of the officers, Captain Draz and the first and second mates were rescued. Only thirteen of the crew out of forty-two were saved. The total number aboard the steamer was 59 souls. The watch was being changed at 4 a. m., on October 18th, and the officers were joking, when a cry of "Fire" was heard. The heat was extreme; the command was passed to "wear ship." This gave no relief however, for the engineers were stifled to death at the engines, and the steamer still moved on. This fanned the fire into the wildest fury. The men were deadfully burned at the pumps, and all abandoned them in the wildest terror. The officers were no longer heard or obeyed, and the utmost disorder and insubordination followed. Boats were lowered only to be crushed beneath the wheels. The captain while endeavoring to prevent a like disaster to the boat on the larboard side was hurled head foremost into the water. If any one was saved by the boats the captain thinks it must have been those astern. Everybody now sprang into the water preparing to meet death. The sea was black with human beings clinging desperately to pieces of wood. The steamer soon burned to the water's edge and disappeared. Many were almost devoid of clothing and others were entirely naked. The second officer, when the rescuing steamer's light was seen, called upon the men to gather together the little power they had left and to shout as loud as they were able. It was this weak cry of the almost dying men that saved them.

THE TRADE OF THE WEST.

THE trade of the west seems to be only limited by the means of transporting it to the east, as the more railways are built, the greater does it become. Only a few years ago the Northern Pacific Railway was commenced from Duluth, and although it is not yet completed it is now bringing to that point an average of 120 cars or 60,000 bushels of grain per day, and the cry along its line is more cars, and at Duluth more vessels to carry it forward. In another year we may expect our Canadian Pacific to also bring its quota of grain forward to the great lakes, and a consequently increased demand for shipping facility eastward—a demand altogether beyond the capacity of the present routes. This being undoubtedly the case, the question which we, as Canadians, have got to solve is, how best to secure our fair share of this great and profitable trade, a trade which will prove ample to employ profitably every facility which can be provided for it, both by canal and rail, and both are required, in the interest of both producer and consumer.

THE Trade Review says eighty-four car loads of sugar for refining purposes were forwarded from Halifax to Montreal over the Intercolonial R. R., in a single week recently. That is a substantial proof that the N. P. is increasing the earnings of the Intercolonial, in the very way it is most required, and consequently most profitable to the country viz: by providing it with "up" freights.

CANADA ROYAL BENEFIT SOCIETY.

The general favour with which the Canada Royal Benefit Society has been received by the public, has fully justified the wisdom of the originators of the scheme, and encourages the Trustees to extend the business of the Society to the whole of the Province of Ontario; and we learn that District Managers are now being appointed with full powers to place the advantages derivable from membership in the Society before the public generally. The Benefit Branch secures to its members during sickness medical attendance free of charge, and five dollars a week when disabled by accident or sickness; and $500 to his family or devisees at death; and, if totally disabled, then one half of the $500 will be paid forthwith, and the balance at death. No one who is depending upon his daily labour, and especially if he has a family to support, should be without a Benefit Certificate in this Branch, and, if in steady employment, and he sees his way clear to being able to pay the small sum required as an entrance fee and the death assessments, let him, by all means, take an Endowment Certificate, and he will then have a handsome provision for old age, and when perhaps most needed; and, in the event of death before the number of years, he would then have a provision for his family or devisees. And it should be remarked that it is in a home society, and as shown by the by-laws and explained in the prospectus, every provision is made to make it a most safe and desirable investment. In the event of a death occurring and the number of members being so large that the assessment will pay two or more deaths, then no further assessment will be made until the sum received has been exhausted, and no assessment will require to be made to pay an Endowment to a member who lives to the age entitling him to receive the amount named in his Certificate, the payment of which will be made out of the Reserve Fund, which is made up by setting apart a per centage of the assessment received whenever a death occurs of a Member of the Endowment Branch.—From the Sarnia Canadian.

FATAL AFFRAY IN LONDON.

A Montreal Man the Victim—The Issue of a Bar-room Altercation.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A fracas occurred about midnight last night at the Grigg House which has had a deplorable result, and led to the death of one person engaged in it this evening. It seems that Frank L. Gundlack, who has been here for the past three weeks on business connected with the Dominion Reporting and Collecting Agency of Montreal, stopping at the Grigg House, entered the hotel at the hour named, and was about to go to his room, when he was accosted by a young man named Wm. Drought, who was standing at the counter in company with several others. Drought is an entry clerk in a wholesale firm here, and appears to have been partly intoxicated. He addressed Gundlack in offensive raillery, inquiring if he was not one of the Lilliputian troupe. Gundlack said "No." Then Drought asked if he did not belong to the troupe that had just been playing at the Opera House, the Rentz people. Gundlack disclaimed any connectnection with them. "Oh, then," continued Drought, "I guess you are a mercantile agency man." at the same time tendering a card. To this Gundlack replied that if he had business to transact with him him his official hours were between nine and four. He tried to withdraw, but Drought uttering some offensive phrase, said to be obscene, Gundlack said, "D—— you! you have insulted me," and struck him in the face. Drought drew a short ebony cane and struck his opponent a blow on the side of the head just behind the temple. The combatants were immediately separated by some members of the Foresters' Grand Lodge, who had been dining at the hall that night and were then in the waiting-room. Gundlack went up to his room holding his hand to his head. On the landing he meet Mr. Grigg and told him of the occurrence, saying he had been insulted and struck in his house. Nothing more serious was thought of the case till this morning, when Gundlack was found on the floor of his room insensible, where he appears to have fallen out of bed. All efforts to rouse him were futile, and though life still remained, to all appearance, however, he was dead. Six or seven physicians have been in attendance all day, but without producing any change in the condition of the injured man. The cause of the trouble was effusion of blood on the brain, induced by a rupture of an artery. Drought was arrested during the day, and appeared overwhelmed with what he had done, saying he must have been intoxicated, as he had no recollection of striking the blow. Gundlack is said to have been well connected in Montreal. He has been regarded as a sort of theatrical character, associating with members of that fraternity, and claiming to write for a New York sporting paper. His friends have been telegraphed for. Last night he occupied a double bedroom with Mr. T. H. Gilmour, of Port Hope, who was the first to discover him this morning. Gundlack died at six o'clock this evening.

FIRE AT ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.

Thirty Dwellings of Laboring Men Destroyed—Loss About $40,000.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Shortly before four o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the stable of Mr. Joseph Renaud, carter, No. 7 St. Dominique street, in St. Jean Baptiste village, which is north of Montreal and adjoins the Mountain Park. Many of the outhouses are of wood, and in a few moments the fire had possession of the stables, which communicated with those of other persons living in the vicinity. The alarm spread quickly, and the village fire brigade was soon on the spot, but were unable to cope with the devouring element, which at four o'clock lit up the heavens for miles around, and caused considerable consternation in the minds of Montreal people awakened by the hubbub. The Montreal brigade was called out, and the Shank and Mason engines were soon upon the scene. Notwithstanding their exertions the fire spread until it had taken in the whole of the square tract of land covered with houses between Nos. 42 and 70 Hypolite-street and between 49 and 77 on Dominique-street. This comprised some 30 dwellings, most of them tenanted by French Canadian labourers and mechanics, whose fortunes consisted in the meagre supply of furniture, which they endeavoured with more or less success to save. The scene was a very painful one. Men, women, and children ran about in the drizzling rain, endeavouring to seek a place of safety for their burdens, and having been suddenly aroused from slumber, most of them were so dazed and bewildered as to be hardly aware of what they were doing. One man who had had the ill luck to lose the tops of all his fingers the other day, stood looking disconsolately at his dwelling and furniture burning up with his bound hand slung by his side. He was unable to do more than bitterly bewail his late and see his all burn up before his eyes. For some two hours the fire continued to rage, and it was six o'clock before it was finally got within control. At seven o'clock there was hardly anything left to burn. The heavy rain storm having aided the firemen considerably, they saved a number of valuable dwellings just adjoining the fire. Insurance men say the loss will not be $40,000.

Between forty and fifty families have been rendered homeless, and up to ten o'clock this morning were encamped on adjacent vacant lots exposed to the rain, which fell so heavily for about an hour. By twelve o'clock, however, they had nearly all found shelter for themselves and property in the houses of friendly disposed neighbours.

A Shoddy Clothes Peddler Tried and Convicted on Three Charges of Forgery.

WHITBY, Oct. 23.—John McLean, a young man of this county, was tried to-day before Chief Justice Wilson for forgery. It appears that he became associated with another man, named Hart, in peddling shoddy to the farmers, in payment of which they were willing to take, and did take, promissory notes. They were provided with printed note forms, and whenever they took a note they had a printed endorsation also filled up, to the effect that the maker of the note owned his farm and so many dollars worth of live stock. This endorsation enabled them to sell the paper to note shavers more readily than otherwise they would have been able to do. One day last April McLean and Hart presented themsevles to one Adam, a dealer in notes at Lindsay, and sold him a note which they declared was made by James McPherson, grandfather of McLean, another by Arch. McInnes, and another by H. Ferguson. Adam bought these three notes, all of them at eight months, and for sums in the neighbourhood of $50, at the moderate discount of two and a half per cent. per month. The notes however, proved to be forgeries. McLean was arrested, and to-day convicted of forging his grandfather's name, and also on the second count of uttering paper knowing it to be forged. On being arraigned for uttering the other two notes the prisoner saw his case was up and pleaded guilty. He was defended by Mr. Patterson. Mr. Hodgins appeared for the Crown.

HERAT.

In the struggle at present going on between England and Afghanistan the town and citadel of Herat have not figured conspicuously; but the place is one that would spring into immediate importance should Russia show a disposition to realize the suspicions so often urged against her, and take an active part in the contest. Herat is situated near the western, or Persian, frontier of Afghanistan, and not far from the Merv and the country of the Tekke Turcomans, where a Russian expedition is now on foot. It is thus the frontier town between Persia and India, and is connected by high-roads with the capitals of all the surrounding countries—with Cabul through the Hazara hills, with Balkh and Bokhara through Maimena, with Khiva through Merv, with Meshed, with Yezd and Ispahan, with Seistan, and with Candahar. It enjoys an admirable climate, and is situated in the midst of one of the most fertile and populous valleys in Asia. Above all, the city itself is surrounded by earthworks of the most colossal description, dating from prehistoric times, and which, with the adaptations and improvements of modern science, might be rendered quite impregnable to an Asiatic force.

Herat is supposed to have been founded by Alexander the Great. In shape the town is a quadrangle, three and a half miles long on the north and south sides, and rather more on the east and west. Its extent would be immense if all the suburbs were included, particularly those stretching to the west of the town beyond the Dervazeh Irak, or Gate of Irak. All these suburbs are partially covered with ruins and numerous walled gardens about half a gunshot from the town. A thick rampart constructed of the earth brought from the interior of the city surrounds it, and forms its defense. The height of this rampart is not everywhere equal but the average may be about ninety feet, and it is supported on the inside by counter-forts of masonry. Earth has also been taken for a distance of 180 yards beyond the ditch, and used in the construction of this work, and being of pure clay, it has become exceedingly solid. The rampart has the appearance of a long hill surrounding the city, and on the crest of it a thick wall has been built about thirty-two feet high, flanked with round towers, which, as well as the curtains which connect them with each other, are loop-holed for musketry. It is only in the enormous and massive towers at the angles that cannon can be mounted. Generally speaking, the ground, from the edge of the ditch toward the country, in a radius of two hundred and fifty yards, is of a marshy nature, and water is found at a depth of from eight to ten feet, especially on the southern side of the city, for the general inclination of the ground is from north to south. Streams, which all run east to west, water the environs and supply the ditch, and it flows out on the south side opposite a large tower, which forms the angle of the place, called Koordj Khakhister, or Tower of Cinders. At half a cannon shot south of the town is a canal with steep banks, supplied with water by the Heri-rood, which is four miles distant from the city, and on this canal are a great number of mills. It is fordable only at a few points, on which account at different distances little bridges have been built, each of a single arch.

The citadel of Herat, which in old days was called Kella-i-Aktyar-Eldyn, was by itself a formidable construction, and although it has long been neglected, it still possesses an important place in the list of the defenses of this city. It is situated in the north, where the ground is most elevated, and forms a prominent object in the landscape for miles around. This fortress within a fortress stands on an artificial mound which is more elevated than the ramparts, and its walls of burned brick, with towers upon them, are not less formidable in appearance than the city wall. It is surrounded by a wide ditch, and were it repaired and armed with proper artillery, it would be impossible for an enemy to take it. There are two heights within a thousand yards of the walls of Thalehbingin and Mosulla, whence it would be possible to bombard the outer walls, but as those places are only on a line with the ramparts, and consequently considerably below the foundation of the citadel, it would be impossible for an enemy to establish his batteries upon them if the citadel of Herat itself were properly armed.

There are five gates to the city of Herat. To the north of it, near the Dervazeh Melek, or Meshed, are two citadels—Ark Noon, or the New Citadel, and Ark Kenhenneh, or the Old Citadel—which nearly join each other. The first commands the second, in which there is an enormous round tower. On the north, parallel to the walls, and about 1250 yards from them, rises the long hill of Thalehbingin, which forms a ridge on that side. Beyond this hill stands one of the most beautiful mosques ever built in Asia. It is surmounted by nine minarets, from the summits of which the interior of the town can be seen, and its distance from it is about the longest range of a twelve-pounder. Herat is not commanded by any of the hills in the environs; Thalehbingin, which is used for a cemetery, is the highest. The interior of the city is divided into four equal divisions by two streets, which at right angles cross each other in the centre of the city. The principal one joins the gate of Candahar to the Pay-i-Hissar, and was formerly covered by a succession of small domes springing from arches which cross the streets. About two-thirds of this magnificent bazar still remains, but so choked up with rubbish and so ruinous that it has lost much of its attraction to the eye. This bazar was about 1,300 yards long and six in width. The solidity of the masonry of this work should have insured its stability; but unfortunately the arches are all defective—not one has a key-stone. They are built, as all others are in this country, with a vacancy at the apex filled merely with bits of broken bricks. The whole of the lower floors on each side are used as shops. The population of Herat has been variously estimated, but it is probably about 50,000.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation."—Heb. 2. 3.

'Tis wise a subject well to weigh,
But oftentimes does not delay
In matters grave or small
Bring sorrow, then much more how great,
Eternal issues that await
Choice of the gospel call.

You say you don't God's call refuse,
But do you not His terms abuse
By failing to obey,
Still daily you neglect the choice,
And to your Saviour's pleading voice
Turn wilfully away,

Why trifle and defer so long?
You say you're healthy, young and strong,
And choose will, by and by;
O soul what warrant can you give
That one hour longer you shall live,
Or fix your time to die.

Or should long life be granted thee,
Dost think the love of sin will be Less strong within thy heart?
When conscience is enfeebled too,
Dost think 'twill easier be for you
To choose the better part?

We thee beseech, O halting one,
By God's great love shown when His Son
He gave to die for thee,
And, by His tender mercies great,
Whose bowels of compassion wait,
With yearning over thee.

And by our dying Savior's Name,
His love, His agony and shame,
We thee exhort, and by
The robe, the reed, the crown He wore,
And burden of the cross He bore,
And doleful anguish'd cry.

By triumphs of that glorious hour,
When He declared was with power
The Son of God to be,
By Calvary's wounds to Thomas show'd,
By goodness manifold bestow'd
On man, we plead with thee.

Yes, while in love He doth entreat
Thee as a Father, and doth meet
Returning souls, we pray
That ere He change thy Judge to be,
Thou reconcil'd to Him shouldst be,
And choose without delay.

E. B.

THE ROYAL ZULU.

A TALE FOUNDED ON FACT.

Beneath the shade of a grove of palms a Zulu maiden knelt in prayer on the morning of the fatal 22nd of Jaunary, 1879. Her face was pretty beyond most of her country-women, and her small hands and feet, her distinguishing ornaments, and graceful form bespoke her the daughter of some powerful chief. But strange, considering her nationality, were the words of supplication which flowed from her lips as she raised her clasped hands to heaven. Not from witchcraft or enchantment, or from the equally powerless deities of her action, did she seek for help, but from Him only, the only true God, Jehovah.

"Father!" she cried, "to whom all the ends of the earth look for help in trouble, hear me for the sake of Jesus. The evil spirit of war and persecution has come down and entered my father's kraal, and Cetewayo has folded his hands and bowed his ear to listen. He has sworn to drink the blood of the white men, and eat up all the Christian Zulus of this nation. O Great Father! in this hour of trial, keep Cassatonga and me faithful to thyself!"

At this moment a movement beside her caused the worshipper to turn round, and she beheld a stately warrior standing near her, leaning on his black shield. His eyes were fixed with unspeakable love on the youthful form before him. "Luola, he said, "your prayer for me is answered; I can fight no more for Cetewayo. Last night the murder, indescribable in cruelty, of Siraya's wives, for their adherence to the Christian faith, proves what little mercy the king would show toward any one, even yourself, were you to oppose his will; and though it is our duty to bear persecution when it comes, it is no doubt equally madness to provoke it. Here we can no longer stay without declaring our faith, and therefore we must fly with all haste to Helpmakaar. You know the good missionary there, the same who taught us the will of the Great Master, and beneath his care you will be safe from your father's wrath. This alternative is the only one left to us, and I feel it is the right one. Will you come now, Luola? My horse stands ready in the thicket."

"I will." And though the hand extended to him trembled, the voice was steady that decided their fate.

"By Rorke's Drift is our shortest road," he said, as they reached the tree where his horse was fastened, and placing the princess on its back, he mounted behind her, and turned his steed in the direction of the Buffalo. They travelled for some hours with extreme caution, skirting every kraal and open ground, till at length they arrived at a large thickly planted wood, in which they hoped to find an hour's repose. But they had scarcely dismounted ere the roar of artillery and the cracking of rifles, mingled with wild yells, were heard in the distance, and Cassatonga hastened to conceal his royal charge before endeavouring to discover the cause. Hiding Luola and his horse in the densest part of the grove around him, he selected a lofty tree, whose thick branches would be a shield in themselves. Climbing with the agility of his nation to the topmost boughs, he beheld the fatal field of Isandula spread out before him. Amazement at the unexpected sight and deep admiring pity flashed in his eyes as he looked on the tiny band of white men who, shoulder to shoulder, received unflinchingly the masses of his countrymen, as they swept down upon them.

The first emotion of his heart was to fly to the aid of the devoted column, but the thought of his bride restrained him, and he sank back among the sheltering leaves. Straining his sight over the awful plain, he could distinguish his own fierce regiment, although foremost in the work of death, yet not so preoccupied therewith as to be unconscious of the plunder which lay around, pausing even in their butchery to collect cattle, stores, and wagons to be driven to their distant kraals. Horror and disgust filled his now enlightened soul. "Why do those English soldiers stand there," he asked himself, as the breath came quickly through his laboring chest, "on that plain of Africa, far away from their island homes, to be shot down, steady in their matchless ranks, by their swarthy foes?" His own heart gave him the reply: "To save helpless women from the savage butchery he beheld last night; to guard the grey hairs of old age from going down to a terrible grave beneath the real or feigned imputations of witchcraft and divination; and, above all, to teach the pure faith of the Gospel where reigned the degrading demonology of his native land." His dark eyes blazed and his pulses throbbed as these thoughts surged through his mind, and he pressed his hands over his aching eyeballs as he bowed himself to the service of that flag which shelters Freedom and Truth beneath its folds.

But meanwhile the work of death went on. Those who were sent for help to Rorke's Drift were, alas! shot or assegaied; few how few! reached the river, and Cassatonga beheld with dismay that the Zulus were scattering toward the Drift. Could he skirt the wood and reach the ford before them with his precious charge? was now his anxious thought. Descending quickly from his position, he found the trembling Luola terrified at his long absence. He described the awful scene he had just witnessed. and told her of the immediate necessity for endeavoring to cross the river.

The blood of the lion like founder of her dynasty flowed in Luola's veins, and though convinced of imminent danger, she was not wanting in courage. "Let us go," she said; "God will help us, and be our shield."

Remounting, they rode on till they came to the edge of the wood, when a new danger menaced them, which tested to the utmost the fleetness of their steed. Barely out of range of rifle shot, some scattered parties of Zulus were coming toward them. Cassatonga knew well he could give no reason for not being with his troops, and the daughter of their king was not unknown. Were she seized and conducted back to her father, he dared not think of her fate. Urging his horse to a gallop, he cleared the wood, and by carefuly placing every hill and clump of bushes between him and the savages, he succeeded in making several miles undiscovered.

But just as he and Luola were beginning to hope they might escape unnoticed, a yell in the distance told that they were seen. Now was the hour of trial for horse and riders. The noble animal seemed hardly to touch the ground as he flew along the plain, the wild yells of the Zulus ringing behind. At length the banks of the Buffalo rose high before them, and Cassatonga realized with horror that he had not time to look for the ford, and must only trust his nearly exhausted companion and breathless horse to the perils of a plunge from those lofty banks. But it was their last hope of safety; they must do it or die. At length they reached the bank, which rose full six feet above the stream. Cassatonga held the princess tightly in his arms, and the horse's nostrils dilated and his eyes shot fire as he gazed on the torrent beneath. But not a second did the noble animal waver; obedient to his master's hand, he bounded from the bank, and in another moment tossed his noble head above the wave as he bravely breasted the stream. In a few moments, however, his feet touched the bottom; the ford was found, and the worst of the terrible strain was over. At length they gained the opposite bank, up which the weary horse toiled slowly; and soon, to his rider's great astonishment, the small English camp lay before them.

The pair now paused to consult about their next move. The Zulus, they justly conjectured, would make no delay in crossing the river, and their poor horse was too far exhansted to carry them that night to Helpmakaar; therefore they unhesitatingly felt their wisest course would be to place themselves under the protection of the English commander. Tying a white handkerchief to the end of his spear, Cassatonga approached the camp; and when within ear-shot he called in a loud voice to the sentries, informing them that they were Christian Zulus flying for safety. They were immediately seized, and brought before the officer in charge, who received them with much suspicion, as he had only just heard of the disaster at Insandula, and was in no mood to harbour Zulus of any kind. Their tale was soon told. But though the officer suppressed his pity for the sufferings of the royal maid, he gave orders to have them strictly watched, at the same time commanding that their wants should be supplied.

It is needless to give a description of the the night that followed. All the world knows how through the darkness the tide of battle surged up, wave after wave, against the weak barries of the little fort, and was again and again repulsed. All the world has rung with the names of Bromhead and Chard, and all the other heroes who with strong hands and stronger hearts held the fort that night. But among them all who fought beneath the red-cross flag there was no stronger arm, no braver heart, than his, the young Zulu chief, who had renounced friends, fortune, country, to enlist beneath the banner of a higher Cross, and strive hencefourth for a more enduring victory. As the morning broke upon the scene, and disclosed the dusky foe, disheartened and defeated, vanishing like dark clouds behind the distant hills, the gallant officer, begrimed with powder, seized the now scarcely darker hand of the noble Zulu, and thanked him as a British soldier for his timely aid. Luola felt in that moment she was rewarded for all the terrors of the night.

After some hours' needful rest at the fort, the young travellers prepared to resume their journey. They were followed by the benedictions of all. Luola had been untiring in her assistance to the wounded, and the dying were cheered by her words of comfort. Thus, amidst many good wishes, they bade farewell to their new friends, and accompanied by the officers bearing dispatches, they set out for Helpmakaar. The evening shades were lengthening as they entered and rode through the streets of that town, and soon they were received with warm welcomes beneath the roof of the good missionary.

Not long afterward, before these officers returned to their posts, they were called upon to witness the union of their Zulu comrade with his royal bride. The ceremony was performed by their friend Mr. B——in the words of the beautiful service of the English Church. And here let us leave them. They have set themselves resolutely to the task of preparing for that labor of love which they feel certain God will in His own good time open up for them—a wide field of missionary work in their dear native land. Be it ours to pray for the success of all such noble hearts, and for the time when the swords of all the world shall be beaten into pruning-hooks, and the nations study war no more!

Special Services were held on the 5th inst. in St. Gilles Cathedral on the ocasion of the reopening on the edifice since the restoration of the southern section at the expence of Dr. Wm. Chambers.

The body of Colonel Bourne, who has been missing since the 28th of August, was recovered on the 7th inst in a deep pool in the river Fyne at the foot of a precipice over which the deceased appears to have fallen.

There is no remedy for female complaints so good as Victoria Bucha and Uva Ursi. After it use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is pre-eminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. Rouston & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take Scott & Bowne's Palatable Castor Oil as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap—25 cents a bottle. w41-d80-1m

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

LOCAL NEWS

A Busy Day.

The streets have been full of country people all day and the stores seemed to be well patronized.

Notwithstanding the advance in the price of teas and sugars, P. D. Doran informs us that he will continue to sell at old prices.

Farm Sold.

Messrs. Gilbert & Moore, Auctioneers, sold at the Choate House to-day, a farm of 100 acres, being the west half of lot No. 2, in the 9th con. of Otonabee, for $46 per acre. This is considered a good price, and the auctioneers are to be congratulated on the success of this their first land sale in the town.

The last number of the Cobourg World says: "We must compliment the Peterborough DAILY REVIEW upon the fine appearance of its sheet and the manifest enterprise exhibited in its publication. ◆

No Street Watering.

The streets have not been watered for two days. The watering-cart could get no water on account of a fear of bursting the pipes at Delaney's foundry. The driver of the water-cart may be censured when he is not to blame. The streets cannot be watered without water, and there can be no water without the steam power to pump it.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day are: wind mostly southerly to south-westerly, partly cloudy to clear, warm weather. There was a heavy frost last night and this morning, a self-registering thermometer recording 12°, but by 8 o'clock a.m. it had risen to 29°. The small streams were fringed with ice, and the ponds mostly covered with a light sheet. The day has been a delightful one.

The Grain Market.

The grain market was again dull, and buyers were shy. Wheat dropped again from 4 to 5 cts., and was sold at $1.14 to $1.15 for fall, and $1.12 to $1.14 for spring, with the buyers taking only such as comes in at those figures. Next week it will take another turn downward, probably to $1.06 to $1.12. The rapid rise effected a few weeks ago spent itself the first of the week, and the result is as rapid a fall as there was in a rise. Barley is still coming forward plentifully at quotation, although some very choice barley brought 62 cts. this morning. It is thought, however, that this price must give way to lower figures. Oats in small lots came in to-day, and 31 cents were paid for some. 30 cents, however, ruled the market. We did not note a change in any of the other quotable staples.

AN INFANTICIDE CASE!

NEWLY BORN MALE CHILD FOUND DEAD IN A WATER-CLOSET.

Inquest on the Body—Full Report of the Evidence of the Witnesses—A Grave Case—Adjournment for Further Evidence.

Much excitement was caused yesterday afternoon by the report that a girl at the Choate House had given birth to a child, and had made away with it. The particulars will be learned from the following evidence given at the inquest, which Dr. Kincaid ordered to be held as soon as he was informed of the circumstance:—

THE INQUEST.

The Council Chamber was about one-third full of persons who had become aware of what was to take place, the matter having been kept as quiet as possible, so as to avoid a crowd.

The CORONER took his seat at 8 o'clock, and proceeded to empannel a jury. The Constable had subpœnaed some 16 persons, out of which number the following named were present, and were sworn:—Messrs. R. W. Grubb, foreman, John Moloney, Robt. Laing, Thos. McMahon, E. Edge, D. K. Ostrom, John Mercer, Henry LeBrun, R. Chowen, A. B. McKee, Thos. McKeiver and John Sullivan.

The CORONER proceeded to instruct the jury as to the case before them and their duties, stating that they were to investigate the cause of death of an infant found in a closet sink at the Choate House that day. They were to examine the deceased, in order to discover any mark on or about the body, and especially the neck, that would enable them to determine the cause of death. He called their attention to the serious nature of the charge that might be brought against the mother, also to the high and responsible duty devolving upon them to the community.

The jurymen, in company with the Chief Constable, proceeded to examine the body of the child, which was in the Constable's room, adjoining the Chamber. When the jury returned to their seats the Coroner called for the witnesses.

NELLIE SALTER was the first witness called, and being sworn, said,—She was the head waitress of the dining room at the Choate House. At about 4 o'clock in the morning she was sent for by Bridget Sullivan to come to her at once. Witness started to go to her room when she met her at the head of the stairs on the second flat; she saw that something was the matter with Bridget, who was proceeding on towards the closet; witness followed after her to the closet, urging her to go to bed; as soon as she reached the closet, Bridget ordered her to go back again; witness insisted on remaining with her, as she knew her condition, and tried to reason with her, asking her not to sit down, and urging her to return to her room; Bridget was then seated in the water closet; she persisted, and would not be reasoned with; she said the child was dead, and it made no difference; she had one more pain after this, and she was then delivered of the child when it cried; witness heard it cry four times; the mother then closed the closet door, fearing that its cry might be heard; she then left the closet and went down stairs and was put to bed by witness, who made her comfortable, and gave her every attention that was necessary in such cases; had attended her ever since; she did not need a doctor, as witness was familiar with the duties in such cases, and it was past the time when a doctor could do any good; she informed the landlord's family of the occurrence about 7 o'clock; Bridget had never mentioned to witness anything about her condition; she had never spoken to her about her condition until at the water closet; she had been in the house about four and a half weeks; after the child cried the mother said "it was awful."

To the Jury—She was asked by the mother to keep this a secret; did not see the child after it was born; she was too nervous and unprepared, owing to the short time, to think of what she ought to do further than to care for the mother, knowing too that it would be impossible to do anything for the child; she had no opportunity to see or notify anyone; it was7 o'clock beforeg she got through with caring for the girl; she could not save the child's life; she had no chance.

To the Coroner—She had attended women in this condition before, having been a nurse at a hospital; she did not return to the closet after first leaving it; she did not think there was any use, as she could do nothing; did not know anything about Bridget until she saw her at the Choate House; did not know where she came from.

The CORONER at this stage of the proceedings explained that the case would no doubt have to be taken to a higher court, and suggested that a post mortem examination should be made for the use of the court in its examination. He also informed the jury that it was for them to order a post mortem. It would be necessary to examine the accused, who was then in no condition to come into court, and he would suggest that a physician be called upon to proceed to the Choate House, to examine the accused and report her condition to enable the jury to determine upon an adjournment, which would become necessary. Dr. Bell, who was present, was requested to perform the duty.

The examination of the witness was then resumed.

To the jurymen—She had never had any words with the accused. They had been good friends.

To the Coroner—The unbilical cord was broken as the child fell into the sink.

To a juryman—She heard the child cry. When the accused was shutting the door se said it was awful to hear the child cry. She shut the door because she did not want anyone else to hear the cry. They were on such good terms she wondered why she had not mentioned her condition.

Dr. BELL then accompanied the witness to the Choate House to make an examination.

CHARLES MCGINTY was sworn, and stated that Mr. Johnston, the Chief Constable, came and asked him to go to the Choate House and get a child out of the closet sink. He went in the afternoon with grappling irons. It took him about half an hour to recover the body. The well was about 18 feet deep to the surface of the pool. Did not notice any marks of violence about the body. The grappling iron must have struck it as it went down, as their was blood on the side of the head as it came up.

MR. G. T. CHOATE sworn said,—He was the proprietor of the Choate House, just before 8 o'clock a.m., his married daughter came to his room door and informed him that Bridget Sullivan was delivered of a child that morning, and that it was all over. She said the child was in the sink and that she was informed that it cried three or four times. Witness went to the Police Court at 10 o'clock to see the Magistrate who was not in his office. He went to the Police Court and learned that the Magistrate had gone to the Court House. He then informed Constable Johnston of what had taken place. He had no suspicion that the girl Sullivan was in such a condition. He could not judge from appearances as he was not a judge in such matters. He had been told that there was a suspicion afloat but did not believe it. He had heard only some hints. It was near 8 o'clock that morning before he knew anything about the affair. He waited until Court time as he knew the girl could not get away and that nothing could be done about the matter, nor could anything be done for the child.

CHIEF CONSTABLE JOHNSTON was sworn, and said that at about 10 o'clock Mr. Geo. Choate came to the police court to see Mr. Hatton, the Magistrate. He informed him that the Magistrate had been there and that there were no cases and he had gone to the Chancery Court, at the Court House. Mr. Choate then informed him of the case. The Magistrate informed the witness that he had no jurisdiction, that he must notify the coroner, Dr. Kincaid. Witness then went to Dr. Kincaid's office and informed him of the case. He immediately issued an order directing him to procure the services of Charles McGinty to have the body recovered and to keep possession of it, and to produce it at the inquest. Witness went to the Choate House and asked to see the water closet. The child was recovered by aid of the grappling iron, and is the one now produced before the inquest.

Dr. BELL returned, and being sworn said that he had just come from the sick bed of Bridget Sullivan. He had found her in no condition to be removed. She was in no worse condition than any woman would be after confinement. She was not very weak, but was not in a condition to be out of bed. The patient would not be able to be present under 8 days, thought it would not be safe for her to get out under that time. Did not need to examine the accused more closely as she had acknowledged the birth.

The CORONER stated that this was all the evidence that could be laid before them at this time or until the girl herself could appear for examination, which would be in 8 days.

The question of a post mortem was laid before the jury, when Dr. Bell was instructed to make the examination.

The constable was then ordered to produce Bridget Sullivan and the girl who slept with her; also the boy who was sent to call Nellie Salter, when required.

The inquest was then adjourned until Friday evening, October 31st, at 8 o'clock p.m.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH.

This Presbytery met in Cobourg on the 30th September. There were fifteen ministers and four elders present. The Rev. Mr. Hogg of Charles street Church, Toronto, being present was invited to sit with the Presbytery. Reports were received from deputies appointed to visit the various supplemented congregations and mission stations within the bounds "with a view to the reduction of the grants." Reports were also read from three of the missionaries who had been labouring within the bounds during the summer months. A committee was appointed to consider these several reports and to recommend to the Presbytery a course of action in connection with them. At a subsequent stage this Committee submitted a report which, with its recommendations, was adopted by the Presbytery. Presbytery therefore resolved, 1st. That the Home Mission Committee be requested to make a grant of $100 each to the two supplemented congregations of Bobcaygeon and Dummer. 2nd. That for the group of mission stations in Chandos and Burleigh the Committee be asked to make a grant of $3.50 per Sabbath, and further, that the Committee be requested to supply this field under the provisions of the "scheme for the continuous supply of mission stations." 3rd. That application be made for $3.50 per Sabbath for the stations in Harvey. 4th. That the two fields around Minden and Haliburton be uuited and put under the charge of an ordained missionary and that a grant be requested of at least $250 per annum for this group of stations. The Presbytery's Sabbath School Committee gave in a report through the Convener, the Rev. T. F. Fotheringham. Its recommendation to hold a Sabbath School conference in connection with next meeting of Presbytery was adopted. The records of the sessions of Alnwick, Grafton and Norwood were ordered to be attested as "carefully and correctly kept." The Committee on the superintendence of students reported as to the discharge of the duties assigned to them. The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, on the third Tuesday of January, at ten o'clock a.m. Upon inquiry made it was found that the pastoral letter of the Moderator on the state of the Home Mission Fund had been read to their respective congregations by most of the ministers of the Presbytery. The Clerk was instructed to correspond with absent members as to whether or not they had complied with the injunctions of the Assembly in the case and to report to next Presbytery. Mr. Bennett gave notice that at future Sederunt he would move, "That the Presbytery establish a fund to aid in the erection of churches and manses within the bounds."

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchial affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste.

CANADIAN TELEGRAMS.

MONTREAL

Special Telegram to the Review, Oct. 27.

ENGLISH MAILS.—The SS. Moravian arrived at Father Point at 8 a.m.

QUEBEC.

Special Telegram to the Review, Oct. 27.

THE CRISIS.—The Legislative Council met at 11 o'clock, and immediately adjourned till to-morrow.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.—A large meeting was held in St. Roch's, at the Jocques Market Hall after vespers yesterday, to induce our French Canadian citizens to work in behalf of St. Jean Baptiste convention to be held here next summer. It was addressed by Hon. Mr. Chapleau Mr. Chas. Langelier, M. P. P., and others.

LONDON.

HEAVY FALL OF SNOW.—About a foot of snow fell here up to Saturday morning. The shade and fruit trees are broken down in all directions by the weight of snow. Great damage has been done to the orchards.

A YOUNG LAD, son of Mr. J. Screaton, letter carrier, cut an artery in his wrist to-day, and bled almost to death before medical aid arrived. He is very low in consequence.

AN INQUEST on the remains of Frank L. Gundlack, who died as alleged in consequence of a blow on the head from Wm. Drought, was commenced this afternoon at the city hospital. The body was removed there last night, and will be interred to-morrow. The case causes considerable discussion in town, and various opinions are expressed as to the degree of criminality attaching to Drought's act. No one supposes he meant to inflict serious injury, and much sympathy is expressed both for the unfortunate deceased and the prisoner, who seems to feel his situation keenly.

MONTREAL.

"MANITOBA AND THE NORTH-WEST" is to be the subject of a lecture by Thomas White, M. P.

MR. JOHN F. NORRIS is compiling a history of the Consolidated Bank, and the legal proceedings incident to its insolvency.

NEARLY KILLED WITH A FLAT IRON.—In a house on St. Joseph street west, a French Canadian was nearly killed with a flat iron in the hands of his wife, who hit him on the head. The woman while being arrested by a St. Henri policeman succeeded in biting a piece out of the officer's leg.

THERE has been much surprise at the death of young Gundlack, whom the western despatches state as having been murdered in London last night. He was looked upon as an inoffensive young man, and one who would hardly have been expected to strike any person. He was at one time connected with the newspaper profession, having been a reporter on the Star.

PICTURE OF HANLAN.—A superb picture of Canada's champion oarsman, measuring twelve feet by six, is on view at the St. Lawrence Hall. The picture, which is a faithful representation of Hanlan, is a life-sized oil painting of him seated in his shell immediately previous to his championship match with Elliott at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The work was executed by Mr. H. H. Emmerson, an English artist of high standing.

IN THE CITY COUNCIL the old story of the $10,000 item voted for the sufferers by the St. John fire came up. The money was voted by Montreal with a great flourish of trumpets, but was never paid. The doctors of the Relief Association in St. John want the money and applied for it, but there are a number of aldermen who oppose payment of it on the ground that the immediate need for such a step has passed away. After a long discussion the Finance Committee decided that it should be kept in Montreal's coffers, and this afternoon the City Council supported them in this opinion and refused to pay the amount. It is said that St. John will sue the city for the sum.

THE CONDITION OF SUSAN KENNEDY, condemned to be hanged, is exciting some attention. She remains as yet in the bewildered and stupified state in which she was at the time of the murder and after it, scarcely realizing her position. When asked the other day by Sheriff Chauveau what she desired she said she had need of nothing but company. One day she wrote three letters to her husband, Jacob Myers, and demanded of him to visit her. She told him she was going to be hanged for the crime of another, and added that her advocate was endeavoring to obtain her pardon from the Governor-General. She said that if the Governor-General would let her go she would drink no more whiskey. She pretends she did not understand the sentence of the Judge when she was condemned to death.

SEVENTY drunken women, one a lady by birth, education, and position, was brought up in the Marlborough-street Police Office in four days. The Magistrate said charges of that nature were greatly on the increase.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

THE RUSSIAN DEFEAT.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The defeat of the Russians by the Turcomans at Geoktepe, was much more disastrous than heretofore reported. The Russians are in full retreat, and their condition is pitiable in the extreme.

OUTRAGE ON AMERICANS.

ROME, Oct. 26.—An American lady and gentleman named Beron were attacked in a railway carriage on the Alta Italia line recently by two men, one of whom drew a revolver and the other a knife. After a violent struggle the robbers took the gentleman's purse and watch and escaped when the train slackened speed.

THREATENING NOTICES.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—A man named Leonard, an Irish-American, has been arrested at Charlestown, County Mayo, Ireland, for posting threatening notices.

MORE FLOODS IN SPAIN.

MADRID, Oct. 25.—The river Segura in Murcia, has risen a metre. Rain still continues. A terrific storm burst occurred on Friday night at Menegalbon, near Malaga. Forty houses were flooded, two of which collapsed. Two persons were drowned.

THE IRISH RENT AGITATION.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Agrarian outrages are reported from different districts in Ireland. An anti-rent meeting was held at Ennis yesterday, at which Mr. Parnell made a lengthy speech.

THE AUSTRO-GERMAN ALLIANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—It is rumoured that the British Government is disposed to enter into a direct alliance with Germany and Austria, but fears the bad effect on its relations with France. Telegrams from Berlin and Vienna agree that the alliance between Germany and Austria is not a written treaty signed by the Emperors, but is in the form of memoranda, which Prince Bismarck and Count Andrassy exchanged and communicated to their respective sovereigns who approved thereof.

A COWARD IN THE DOCK.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—William Ringgold Cooper, the American forger, in his address to the Court yesterday, said he was a gentleman, and thought when he took the house at Hemel Hempstead, he could honestly maintain it. He and his wife furnished it with hopeful anticipations, but reverses came. He was ashamed to look his wife in the face. He was tempted and fell. The prisoner groaned and wept and said he had lost everything except the sense of shame. The address seemed the result of terrible remorse; but every word was known to be false. When the sentence was read Cooper screamed, and was led away in seeming agony of tears.

AFFAIRS IN THE TRANSVAAL.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A Cape Town despatch states that the Boers, the original Dutch settlers of South Africa, who have never submitted with good grace to English rule in South Africa, have since the conclusion of the Zulu war and the occupation by England of a larger portion than ever of the country, shown increasing dissatisfaction with the situation, and they are now actively engaged in fermenting disturbances. Although there will probably be no fighting, the present contingent of the army which expected soon to be sent home, will be retained. Reinforcements have been ordered to the scene of the outbreak.

AMERICAN.

CAPTIVES SURRENDERED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Secretary Schurz to-night received a despatch from special Agent Adams, dated Camp at White River, Oct. 24. He reports that he visited the camp of the hostiles, between Grand and Gunnison rivers, and that, after holding a conference, the captive women and children were delivered to him without conditions. He then proceeded to General Merritt's camp on White River, where he arrived on the 23rd. He expresses great hopefulness that further hostilities will be wholly averted.

GOVERNOR ROBINSON'S DEFENCE.

The Sun's Albany despatch says that Governor Robinson declares the Tribune's statement concerning the alleged improper lease of the Clinton Prison Railway is as atrociously false as unfair. The Herald's Albany despatch reports an interview with Gov. Robinson. He says there are some things he should do differently if he had to do them over again. He regretted his appointment of Smith as head of the Insurance Department. He says: "I have not seen Tilden for six months, and I can think of no single act of my administration that has been done at his suggestion."

RAILWAY MATTERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The new railway from Jersey city to Albany was opened yesterday. It extends at present only to Rockland Lake. The Tribune prints a long statement, charging that Smith Weed, with some associates, has leased the Plattsburg and Dannamora railway on terms extremely advantageous to them, and very injurious to the state.

AFTERNOON TELEGRAMS

Press Despatches to the Review.

CABLE.

AN ELOPEMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—It is stated that the daughter of the French General of Division, De Galliffet, commandant at Tours, has eloped from Paris to London for the purpose of marrying the son of Muscurus Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador here.

THE HOME RULERS.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Previous to his departure for America, at the end of next month, Mr. Parnell, the Home Rule leader, will visit some of the large English constituencies. An Anglo-Irish Committee for the furtherance of the objects of the National Land League is to be formed with a central committee in London.

GIGANTIC FRAUDS.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 27.—Charles Tomlinson, of Tomlinson & Co., the suspended cotton brokers, has absconded, leaving a wife and eight children. His frauds are said to amount to £200,000 against the Liverpool and London Banks. There is no reason to suppose that his partners were aware of his practices.

PRESS CENSORSHIP.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The prefect of police has forbidden the appearance of the Mot D'Ordre which was to take the place of the Marseilles during the suspension of the latter for insulting the Magistracy.

THE PUBLIC WEAL.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—The Minister of ecclesiastical affairs at a public dinner at Esson said, "The Emperor has sacrified his personal feelings to the public weal because he thought it his duty to conclude an alliance which he hopes will secure peace."

A LIBELLER PUNISHED.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Adolphus Rosenberg, of Town Talk, was to-day sentenced to 18 month's imprisonment for libelling Mrs. Langtry, and six months imprisonment on each of the indictments charging him with similar offences against Mrs. West and Lord Londesborough respectively, and at the expiration of the term to be bound over in £2,000 for his good behaviour for 18 months. Justice Hawkins regretted that he could not sentence him to hard labour. The sentences are concurrent, therefore the whole imprisonment will be only 18 months.

AMERICAN.

SUICIDE IN A PARK.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Oct. 27.—The body of an unknown man, aged about forty, was found in Prospect Park yesterday, where it had probably laid for two weeks. Near by was a bottle labelled "laudanum."

PETTY PERSECUTIONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A Washington special to the Times says:—Stephen A Douglas, son of the late Senator Douglas, in consequence of the petty persecutions practised by the Democrats towards the Republicans, has decided to leave North Carolina, his native state, and take up his residence in Illinois.

FATAL BALLOON ASCENSION.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Oct. 27.—Will Brayton, a gymnast, made an ascension in a high wind on Saturday, dressed in tights, and hanging head downwards from the rings on a balloon. He expected to stay up only a short time, but rapidly rose out of sight, and it is feared that he has been lost.

LAND FOR WORKINGMEN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The Tribune says Mr. Holyoake has brought to the attention of Evarts the idea of issuing an official book giving information about the public lands in the United States, which can be circulated in England among the workingmen. Evarts takes much interest in the matter.

COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The National Fair in Washington this week is intended to be the beginning of efforts to give commercial importance to the city.

THE RIGHT TO "SCRATCH."

No little controversy and ill feeling has been excited in the State of New York, over the advice of George William Curtis, editor of Harper's Weekly and a prominent Republican to the members of his party, to scratch the names of two candidates on the party ticket in the coming State Elections. Mr. Curtis's complaint appears to be that two of the nominations on the State ticket were effected by the rigid application of party machine, or convention methods, and that the gentlemen named would not have been the candidates of the party had a fair test of the latter's preferences been secured, and furthermore, that they represent political elements which should be discouraged, even at the risk of defeat in the State Elections. While the convention system has its advantages for reconciling either personal or minor political differences among members of the same party, it undoubtedly is calculated to destroy that independence of opinion and action which is, at least, equally desirable, and to bring about a blind adherence to 'party' which too often places the good government of the country at the mercy of a band of wire-pullers. Fortunately, under the ballot in this country, at least, the numbers of those who repudiate such control is steadily increasing—men of sufficient independence and intelligence to cast their votes in the way that they believe will result in most good to the country, even if in doing so, it be necessary to vote against the party with whom they have generally acted. It is well for both countries that it should be so, and we believe whatever the merits of the present Republican embroglio in York State, it is well for them to have men among them who do not fear, not only to "scratch" obnoxious names from their ballot papers, but to advise others to do the same. Of course Mr. Curtis is being soundly abused and read out of the party by that class of politicians, who would vote for his Satanic Majesty himself, were he only regularly nominated, but those who would politically ostracize men for so exercising their judgment, are practically if not intentionally placing party first and country second, while the reverse should be the case. Parties under free government like our own and the United States are a necessity, but no man should follow either party blindly. He should act by and with a party for the interests of the country, and in doing so, he will often have to yield his own individual opinions to those of others, but at the same time there is a point beyond which no man should yield, and that point is when his own judgemnt tells him the preponderance of advantage is against the course decided upon by his party or leaders. Our hope is that the day is not far distant, when the thinking and more moderate men of both parties will be enabled to combine and elect men who would really represent their views, instead of being compelled, as is too often the case at present, either to vote for a candidate they do not approve, or to refrain from voting altogether.

THE Toronto Telegram says:—"It was no doubt an act of self-abnegation of the purest and most disinterested kind which Mr. Burke performed, in resigning his seat for West Durham; but we wonder if the Ontario Legislature should see fit to separate the united counties of Durham and Northumberland next session, if Mr. Burke would have any chance for a shrievalty or anything? If such an event should occur, would it be anything more than a happy conjunction of circumstances? Some people already fancy they can scent an African in the palings; but we shall see what we shall see."

HANLAN AND COURTNEY—ANOTHER RACE IN PROSPECT.

Last evening articles of agreement for another race between Hanlan and Courtney, to take place at Chautauqua Lake on the 5th of November, were drawn up, signed by Hanlan, and forwarded to Courtney for his signature. This action was taken on the strength of a telegram from Mr. Blaikie to Hanlan requesting him to do so. As will be seen by the subjoined copy of the articles, no loop hole is left through which Courtney can crawl to avoid a meeting, and if he means to row he will doubtless sign the articles and get ready for the race as speedily as possible.

The following is a copy of the articles:—

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

On the part of Edward Hanlan it is distinctly understood that, in signing these articles, he does not in any way prejudice his present claim upon the purse of $6,000, which he holds he won, according to the decision of the referee, at Chautauqua Lake on the 16th day of October, 1879.

Articles of agreement entered into this 24th day of October, A. D. 1879, between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, Ontario, and Charles E. Courtney, of Union Springs, N. Y., who hereby agree to row a five-mile race with turn, in best and best boats, in accordance with the following articles:—

Article 1.—The race shall be for the sum of $6,000, now lying in the City Bank of Rochester, and originally offered for a race appointed to be rowed on Chautauqua Lake on the 16th day of October, A.D., 1879, between the said Edward Hanlan and Charles E. Courtney.

Article 2.—The said race to be rowed on Chautauqua Lake, on Thursday, the 6th day of November, A.D. 1879, between the hours two and five o'clock in the afternoon; smooth water required, subject to the decision of the referee, who is hereby empowered to postpone the race to the next day, or the first favourable day thereafter, if the water be not in fit condition for the race to come off.

Article 3.—Said six thousand dollars to be drawn from the City Bank of Rochester and deposited in the hands of William Blaikie, the referee, not later than the 29th day of October, 1879, to be paid by him to the winner of this race under the terms of these articles.

Article 4.—Mr. Wm. Blaikie, of New York, to be refree, and his decision to be final. The referee to accompany the men over the course, if possible; the contesting parties to share his expenses.

Article 5.—The men shall toss for choice of positions before starting in the race, and shall be started after preliminary warning by the word "go," said word to be given by the referee. The two men shall start from two boats moored not more than fifty yards apart, and shall row two and a half miles to buoys securely anchored and properly marked by flags not more than fifty yards apart, each man to turn his own buoy from port to starboard and return to the place of starting.

Article 6.—The referee, in case of any outside interference, if it effects the result of the race, may order the men to row over again on the first favourable day, under the original conditions.

Article 7.—The race is to be governed by the laws of boat-racing, as adopted by the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, subject however to the conditions of these articles.

Article 8.—Each party has the right to select a judge to look after his interests, who shall be allowed to accompany the referee over the course, and any point of disagreement shall be finally settled by the referee.

Article 9.—A judge for each man shall be chosen by mutual consent to see that the turning buoys are not molested or changed; also a judge for each at the finish, with a referee to decide which crossed the winning line first.

Article 10.—It is mutually agreed that all steamers and boats must be under the absolute control of the referee or committee appointed by the referee.

Article 11.—It is further agreed that this race shall be play or pay, or in other words, that should either man fail to appear at the starting boats upon the call of the referee, or within a reasonable time thereafter, it shall be the duty of the referee to give the word "go" to the sculler who answers his call, and within 24 hours after said sculler have been rowed over the course it shall be the duty of the referee to pay over to him the $6,000 already mentioned in these articles.

EDWARD HANLAN.

Witness for Edward Hanlan,
JAMES DOUGLAS.

COULSON ON THE HANLAN-COURTNEY FIZZLE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—In a second interview with a reporter, Samuel Coulson, Hanlan's friend, said:—"We could have made $60,000 or $70,000 by backing Courtney and letting Hanlan lose the race. We did not want anything of the kind. Hanlan's challenge, published this morning, shows you whether he is afraid to row Courtney or not. I think Courtney will find it hard work to escape that letter."

"How has Hanlan acted in the affair?"

"In the most honorable manner. He could have made a fortune if he liked to deceive his friends and fellow-countrymen. He was offered all sorts of inducements to sell. Pressure was brought to bear upon him to an extraordinary degree, but he remained firm, and nothing could induce him to alter his determination."

"Well, now, do you not think that it would have been much better had no proposition been made to allow Courtney to win?"

"Well, yes; we all feel now that it was a mistake. We are all sorry for it, but we did it for the best, in the hope that it would guarantee a race, and Hanlan would beat Courtney as much as he could."

"How about the time? Was it right?"

"Yes; and if Courtney had rowed it would have perhaps been faster. Courtney is said to have done it in 33.08, but he would have had to make it a minute faster to win."

ELLIOTT WILL ROW HANLAN ON TORONTO BAY.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Elliott declares if he wins the race with Boyd he will accept Hanlan's terms to row on Toronto Bay. Elliott says Hanlan, having refused to compete in England, forfeits the trophy. Elliott therefore hopes the match with Boyd will be for £200 a side and the trophy, and appeals to the trustees of the trophy to sanction these arrangements.

TRENT HURON CANAL.

From the Trenton Courier.

The meeting held at Peterborough last Thursday, in order to promote the construction of this national work, was in many respects a most important one, a report of which will be found in this paper. The delegates were all the highest officials of the municipalities represented, the unanimity of sentiments on the importance and immediate necessity of the work, the practical nature of the work done, and the enthusiasm and self-abnegation with which it was accomplished, augurs a successful issue. We are glad to see there are no divisions in the camp for this is a subject in which all can agree, a subject worthy the best energies of the leading men of the locality. If the gentlemen present persevere steadily to promote this scheme regardless of party or personal interest they can calculate on the unanimous support of the municipalities represented. No cry of National Policy, or Free Trade is of so much importance to us as the development of this magnificent work, designed by nature as it is to become the highway of the nations. Messrs. Francis, Day and Lee appointed by our council in accordance with the wording of the circular, viz:—"We would be glad if your council would appoint one or more delegates to represent your municipality," returned home well pleased with the meeting and sanguine of its ultimate success, and assure us the sub-committee intend pushing the matter with all the ability they possess. Belleville has made a spurt in reference to the Murray Canal. A circular asking for expressions of opinion from the different municipalities interested has been circulated. No doubt we will hear more of this shortly.

AN ENGLISHMAN residing in Chicago, in a letter to the London Times says that in 1876 the total receipts of grain at Chicago footed up 97,000,000 bushels, and that there is still 1,000,000 square miles of land naturally tributary to that city and suitable for culture yet untouched by the plough.

REGULATIONS

RESPECTING THE DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN

PUBLIC LANDS

FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE

Canadian Pacific Railway

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OTTAWA, Oct. 14, 1879.

Public notice is hereby given that the following provisions, which shall be held to apply to the lands in the Province of Manitoba, and in the territories to the west and north-west thereof, are substituted for the Regulations, dated the 9th July last, governing the mode of disposing of the Public Lands situate within 110 (one hundred and ten) miles on each side of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which said Regulations are hereby superseded:—

1. "Until further and final survey of the said railway has been made west of the Red River, and for the purposes of these provisions, the line of the said railway shall be assumed to be on the fourth base westerly to the intersection of the said base by the line between ranges 21 and 22 west of the first principle meridian, and thence in a direct line to the confluence of the Shell River with the River Assiniboine.

2. "The country lying on each side of the line of railway shall be respectively divided into belts, as follows:

"(1) A belt of five miles on either side of the railway, and immediately adjoining the same, to be called Belt A;

"(2) A belt of fifteen miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt A, to be called Belt B;

"(3) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt B, to be called Belt C;

"(4) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt C, to be called Belt D; and

"(5) A belt of fifty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt D, to be called belt E.

3. "The even-numbered sections in each township throughout the several belts above described shall be open for entry as homesteads and pre-emptions of 160 acres each respectively.

4. "The odd-numbered sections in each of such Townships shall not be open to homestead or pre-emption, but shall be specially reserved and designated as Railway Lands.

5. "The Railway Lands within the several belts shall be sold at the following rates, viz:—In Belt A, $5 (five dollars) per acre; in Belt B, $4 (four dollars) per acre; in Belt C, $3 (three dollars) per acre; in Belt D, $2 (two dollars) per acre; in Belt E, $1 (one dollar) per acre; and the terms of sale of such lands shall be as follows, viz:—One-tenth in cash at the time of purchase; the balance in nine equal instalments, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on the balance of purchase money from time to time remaining unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

6. "The Pre-emption Lands within the several belts shall be sold for the prices and on the terms respectively as follows: In the Belts A, B and C, at $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents) per acre; in Belt D, at $2 (two dollars) per acre; and in Belt E, at $1 (one dollar) per acre. The terms of payment to be four-tenths of the purchase money, together with interest on the latter at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, to be paid at the end of three years from the date of entry; the remainder to be paid in six equal instalments annually from and after the said date, with interest at the rate above mentioned on such portions of the purchase money as may remain unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

7. "All payments for Railway Lands, and also for Pre-emption Lands, within the several Belts, shall be in cash, and not in script or military or police bounty warrants.

8. "All moneys received in payment of Pre-emption Lands shall inure to and form part of the fund for railway purposes, in a similar manner to the moneys received in payment of the Railway Lands.

9. "These provisions shall be retroactive so far as relates to any and all entries of Homestead and Pre-emption Lands, or sales of Railway Lands obtained or made under the Regulations of the 9th of July, hereby superseded; any payments made in excess of the rate hereby fixed shall be credited on account of sales of such lands.

10. The Order-in-Council of the 9th of November, 1877, relating to the settlement of the lands in Manitoba which had been previously withdrawn for Railway purposes, having been cancelled, all claims of persons who settled in good faith on lands under the said Order-in-Council shall be dealt with under these provisions, as to price of Pre-emptions, according to the belt in which such lands may be situate. Where a person may have taken up two quarter-sections under the said Order-in-Council, he may retain the quarter-section upon which he has settled, as a Homestead, and the other quarter-section as a Pre-emption, under these provisions, irrespective of whether such Homestead and Pre-emption may be found to be upon an even-numbered section or otherwise. Any moneys paid by such person on account of the lands entered by him under the said Order-in-Council, will be credited to him on account of his Pre-emption purchase, under these provisions. A person who may have taken up one quarter-section under the Order-in-Council mentioned will be allowed to retain the same as a Homestead, and will be permitted to enter a second quarter-section as a Pre-emption, the money paid on account of the land previously entered to be credited to him on account of such Pre-emption.

11. "All entries of lands shall be subject to the following provisions respecting the right of way of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or of any Government colonization railway connected therewith, viz:

a "In the case of the railway crossing land entered as a Homestead, the right of way thereon, and also any land which may be required for station purposes, shall be free to the Government.

b "Where the railway crosses Pre-emptions or railway Lands, entered subsequent to the date hereof, the Government may take possession of such portion thereof as may be required for right of way or for station grounds or ballast pits, and the owner shall only be entitled to claim payment for the land so taken, at the same rate per acre as he may have paid the Government for the same.

c "In case, on the final location of the railway through lands unsurveyed, or surveyed but not entered for at the time, a person is found in occupation of land which it may be desirable in the public interest to retain, the Government reserves the right to take possession of such land, paying the squatter the value of any improvements he may have made thereon.

12. "Claims to Public Lands arising from settlement after the date hereof, in territory unsurveyed at the time of such settlement, and which may be embraced within the limits affected by the above policy, or by the extension thereof in the future over additional territory, will be ultimately dealt with in accordance with the terms prescribed above for the lands in the particular belt in which such settlement may be found to be situate, subject to the operations of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

13. "All entries after the date hereof of unoccupied lands in the Saskatchewan Agency, will be considered as provisional until the railway line through that part of the territories has been located, after which the same will be finally disposed of in accordance with these provisions, as the same may apply to the particular belt in which such lands may be found to be situated, subject, as above, to the operation of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

14. "With a view to encouraging settlement by cheapening the cost of building material, the Government reserves the right to grant licenses, renewable yearly, under Section 52 of the 'Dominion Lands Act, 1879,' to cut merchantable timber on any lands situated within the several belts above described, and any settlement upon, or sale of lands within, the territory covered by such licenses, shall for the time being be subject to the operation of such licenses.

15. "The above provisions, it will, of course, be understood will not affect sections 11 and 29, which are public school lands, or sections 8 and 26, Hudson's Bay Company's lands.

"Any further information necessary may be obtained on application at the Dominion Lands Office, Ottawa, or from the agent of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, or from any of the local agents in Manitoba or the Territories.

By order of the Minister of the Interior,

J. S. DENNIS,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

A QUEER SEDUCTION CASE.

White v. McIntosh at the Elgin Assizes—"A McIntosh, Every Inch of It."

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 24.—A seduction case presenting some rather unusual features was tried at the Assizes here before Mr. Justice Morrison yesterday. The plaintiff, Geo. White, a dray and expressman living in Aylmer, sued James McIntosh, a freight conductor on the Air Line, for damages for the seduction of his daughter, Annie White, a girl of about 17 years of age, who at the time of the alleged seduction was employed as a servant in the family of the defendant. McIntosh is a respectable married man of about 30 or 35 years of age, and has two children.

Mr. Hugh McMahon appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Warren Rock for the defendant.

What gave special interest to the case was the fact that the child was born eleven months after the last of the three occasions on which the plaintiff swore that McIntosh had intercourse with her. Nearly all the leading physicians of St. Thomas and Aylmer were examined and many of the best English and French authorities on obstetrics ransacked, for the purpose of weighing the probabilities upon this point. The medical men, with but one exception, swore that in their own observation and practice they had never met with cases in which the period of gestation was prolonged much beyond the usual time, and they also coincided generally in the opinion that the longest well authenticated period on record was the one mentioned by Dr. Reid of 293 days. The prosecution called Dr. Southwich, a local medical practitioner of forty-four years' standing, who stated that a case occurred in his own practice some thirty-five or forty years ago, in which, according to the statements of the parties, who were highly respectable residents of the town, the period of gestation had lasted for eleven months. He had taken no notes of the case, but was certain from memory of its main facts, as its unusual character had impressed him at the time.

For the defence a young man named Moore, living in Detroit, was produced, who swore that about the latter part of November or the beginning of December, 1878, a period of exactly nine month before the birth of the child, he was living in St. Thomas and boarding in the house in which plaintiff's daughter was working as a servant, after she had left the employment of the the defendant. He stated that while there he had cohabited with the girl repeatedly. He stuck to his story throughout a very severe cross-examination, but his Lordship cautioned the jury against paying much attention to evidence of that character.

The defendant swore, of course, that he never had intercourse with the girl, and produced his official note book as an employee of the Great Western Railway to show that at the time of the alleged seduction he was at Clifton in charge of a special freight train. The prosecution rather weakened this evidence by showing a memorandum pencilled in this book, ostensibly on the day in question, to the effect that on that day Annie White had left his employment. Two facts made this entry slightly suspicious; one, that it was only the entry of a private nature in the whole book; the other, that the leaf on which it was written bore traces of the erasure of a previously made memorandum.

On the other hand the defendant's wife corroborated his evidence by swearing that she never went out calling on evenings when her husband was at home. The girl had stated in her evidence that the seduction took place in defendant's house between eight and ten in the evening, during his wife's absence at a neighbor's house.

The girl's father swore that about the time that rumors began to circulate of his daughter being enceinte by the defendant the latter met him, and after asking him what reports these were which he was circulating about him, asked him if he could not put the paternity of the child upon some one else who was in less comfortable circumstances. It was also shown that since the time of the alleged seduction the defendant had conveyed his property to his wife, but both he and Mrs. McIntosh swore that they had been talking of doing this for a long time previously.

These are the main points brought out in the course of the trial. The counsel for the plaintiff caused a good deal of amusement by producing the child in court, having it passed along for the individual inspection of the jurymen, and asking them if the wondering youngster was not "a McIntosh, every inch of it."

After able addresses by counsel, His Lordship addressed the jury, carefully reviewing the evidence, especially that of the medical men.

The jury retired for an hour and a half, and then reported that they could not agree, and they were accordingly discharged. It transpired subsequently that all but two were favorable to a verdict for the plaintiff. It is stated that steps will be taken to secure a new trial.

THE AFGHAN QUESTION.

The Morning Post remarks:—"Signs are not wanting that an effort will be made by the more active members of the Opposition to convert public opinion to the desirability of withdrawing, or at least suspending, our mission system in Afghanistan. It is hardly probable the Government will give heed to such a proposal. Our policy is surely based on better foundations than will permit it to be disturbed by a small military revolt. On the contrary, the emeute in Cabul and the increasing activity of Russia should encourage the Government to adopt remedies in Afghanistan which shall safely and fully secure the whole design of the Gundamuk arrangement. Yakoob Khan has been the first person to benefit by the Anglo-Afghan Treaty. The British Alliance not only freed him from the intrigue of Persian, perhaps of Russo-Persian, origin, which threatened to end in Eyoub becoming a rival to the throne, but it is now restoring to him the rule of his capital. He should be the last person to object to any measures which may be proposed by the Indian Government, even if they go beyond the Gundamuk Treaty, provided they are not objected to by the Afghan people. We have already suggested the occupation of Cabul by a British brigade, and the constitution of Candahar into a British fortress. It is suggested by some people, partly as a punitive measure, and partly for strategic reasons that the centre of Government should be removed from Cabul to Candahar. Considering how much the good conduct of the Candaharees deserves consideration, and the apparent unpopularity of Yakoob Khan in Afghanistan, such a course should not be adopted without great hesitation. A step of that character would seem to indicate the intention of the withdrawing from Cabul absolutely—a very unwise proposal, we should think, considering the commercial importance of that city and its relations to the Bamian Pass. We can hardly suppose that a suggestion of this kind will meet with the approval of the Indian Government. The policy of the Ministry will rather be to strengthen our hold upon the three chief places east of the Helmond, namely, Candahar, Cabul and Jellalabad, either under treaty or by special arrangement with the Ameer. Nor must we overlook the necessity of advancing even to Herat should any Russo-Persian combination definately point to the severance of that city from the Afghan rule. Sir Louis Cavagnari's death has been a most unfortunate event, but we feel sure our envoy was right when he prophesied that if a fatality such as has now happened befel him it would strengthen and consolidate the policy with which he was identified."

LINDSAY.

PRESENTATION TO MR. MCFAUL.—The pupils of the fifth term of the Lindsay Model School, which closed yesterday, will this evening present the headmaster of the Model School, Mr. J. H. McFaul, with an address and a handsome edition of Worcester's Unabridged Dictionary, as a token of their esteem for him and an acknowledgment of his efforts in their behalf. The presentation is to take place at the residence of Mr. McFaul.

REPORTED BRUTAL ASSAULT.—A report from Lifford says that while Mr. Richard Arnott, of the 12th con. of Manvers and his son-in-law, Mr. John Lee were driving quietly home from Lindsay last Friday evening they were waylaid on the road about three miles from Lindsay by seven men and most shamefully beaten. The police authorities in Lindsay are quite ignorant of any such assault having taken place.

SOMETHING OF A GUN.—There is likely to be a "boom" among wild ducks pretty soon. Luke Robinson, the gun-maker, is now constructing a swivel punt gun for duck shooting, which will demolish a whole flock at the distance of say a mile. The barrel is stub and twist, 6 ft. 2 in. long, with a 1⅝ in. bore, and was made at Makins' machine shop. It is to be mounted in a punt made for the purpose.

PETITION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE.—The Post says:—W. Dewart, the Fenelon Falls merchant found guilty of embezzlement at the fall assizes and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary, has arranged to make restitution to the estate of the late Thos. Rutherford of the moneys improperly used, and a petition is now in circulation, praying the Government to commute his sentence to a shorter period. The fourteen days allowed the prisoner by the judge to remain in the gaol here expires on Monday, and he will in all probability be removed to the penitentiary then as there is hardly sufficient time for the government to take action.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—The Warder says:—At an early hour on Saturday morning, Mr. John Connolly, Reeve of Ops, while passing from his bedroom to awaken his boys, met with a serious accident. While passing round the top of the stairs in the dark, instead of taking a step or two straight on, he inadvertently turned too short, one foot came on the stairs, he lost his balance, and while siezing the bannister with one hand, swung round, falling heavily and in a moment was precipitated to the bottom. We learn that one shoulder blade was fractured and the ribs and chest greatly bruised and strained. Notwithstanding the severe shock sustained and the danger of internal injury, he is progressing as favorably as could be expected, and we trust ere long will, have fully recovered.

A MYSTERIOUS VISITOR.—The Post says:—A family in the north ward having suffered considerable disturbance and some little loss from the repeated visits of a mysterious burglar on three or four occasions last week. Monday night week he made his first appearance and carried away some articles of clothing and other things, though not of much value before the eyes of the servant girl. On every night succeeding for nearly a week the same burglar returned, and was seen by the servant, but in every case when she went to give the alarm the man disappeared. Some of the articles were returned on the occasion of his late visits and others taken. The girl described him as a tall man with a dark moustache and goatee, and says she saw on the street in daylight one day. The constables were informed of what was going on and although they laid in wait outside the house a couple of nights, could find no trace of the marauder, and as no person has seen him except the servant, they entertain the impression that the visits are a matter of hallucination on the girl's part. This may or may not be the case, but one thing is certain, the police should shift the matter to the bottom, and not allow the peace of a number of families to be disturbed. For several nights past the premises referred to have be watched by constable McFadden, and he reports having seen no person about.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand was the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap 25 cents a bottle w41-d80-1m

THERE is no remedy for female complaints so good as VICTORIA BUCHU and UVA URSI. After it use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness is the cause of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSTON & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

An Apology.

We have been requested to publish the following:—

Any words which I may have used, which by any means may be construed into an imputation on the moral character of my wife, Mrs. Bowman, were uttered in a moment of excitement, under false and what I now find to be malicious information, And as what I have said has been given publicity to, I take this means of publicly retracting the same, and shall at the earliest opportunity take such legal means as are at my disposal to punish the traducers of my wife's character.

WM. H. BOWMAN.

The Grain Market.

There has been a firmer tone to the grain market to-day. The tendency on Saturday was downward. Later advices from abroad tend to strengthen prices, and this morning the market opened with $1.13 for Spring and $1.15 for Fall Wheat. $1.16 has been paid for one or two loads. Barley maintains Saturday's rates, and we have no occasion to change, although some very choice barley was sold from two to three cents above quotations. There is very little wheat or barley coming in to-day.

Undertaking.

Mr. Daniel Bellegham has entered into an arrangement with Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald, by which he has secured the use of that splendid new hearse which was exhibited and admired so much at the recent Central Exhibition held here. Mr. Bellegham is therefore now prepared to attend to all orders for undertaking which he may be favoured with. The public are assured by him that in the equipment of funerals nothing will be wanting to give satisfaction. All orders left at Mr. Fitzgerald's carriage shop will be punctually attended to.

Railway Accident.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. John McLean, conductor was taking out of Port Hope a train of 16 freight cars for Lindsay. At Garden Hill, about nine miles north of Port Hope, he switched the train off for a down train to pass. After re-switching upon the main track, as he attempted to regain the van, his foot slipped and losing his hold, he fell to the track between the van and the box car in front. He was not fortunate enough to get clear of the wheels of the van which caught his left foot and crushed the toes badly. The train was under greater headway than he supposed, preventing him from getting a good foot hold. The Engineer immediately reversed his engine and ran back to the station. The telegraph operator telegraphed to Millbrook for Dr. Turner to meet the train which he did and dressed the foot. Notice of the accident was telegraped to Port Hope, when Mr. H. G. Taylor, the Superintendant ordered the locomotive and van to convey him to his home at Peterborough. He is as well as could be expected this morning. He has suffered great pain and his nervous system has received a great shock, but he will soon recover from it. He has been a brakeman on the road for 7 years and about 2 months since he was promoted to Conductor. He has been running one and two trains a day of late. This was his second train out of Port Hope on Saturday.

NEW BANK BILLS.

The Monetary Times says:—"A new issue of $4.00 bills has been made by the Merchant's Bank of Halifax. The centre of the new note is adorned with the picture of an ocean steamer entering the harbor of Halifax, Devil's Island Light in the background. At the lower corners of the note are a Nova Scotian fishing "whaler" and a photographed view of the new Bank building. Respectively the centre piece and the left hand corner vignette are, we are told, from etchings by one of the Merchants' staff of clerks."

HALIFAX.

AN UNLUCKY DEPOSIT.—The writ of attachment issued against the Bank of Liverpool was on behalf of the Government of Canada. It seems the bank secured from the Mackenzie Government a deposit of fifty or sixty thousand dollars, and when called on to return a portion of the amount, declared that it was unable to do so.

THE IRON MINES.—Five hundred hands are employed full time at the Londonderry iron mines.

BELLEVILLE.

DUNCAN MCINTYRE, the young man who was shot in a disreputable house here yesterday, died on Thursday at one o'clock. He was a blacksmith by trade, and aged 27. A coroner's jury was empanelled at seven o'clock this evening. Thos. Linklater was chosen as foreman. The jury then proceeded to view the body, after which the enquiry began. C. L. Coleman, County Attorney, looked after the interests of the Crown, and G. D. Dickson appeared for the accused.

MADOC.

OUR MINES.—The North Hastings Review says:—A number of prominent mining capitalists from the United States were in this village to-day on a tour of inspection to the iron mines in Madoc. We understand they speak very highly of the quality of the ore, and that Mr. Coe has received an offer to ship 100 tons of red hematite per day. This gentleman has been shipping considerable quantities of this article lately. Mr. Pusey has at present about sixty men employed at the Seymour mine, the work being prosecuted night and day. An average of seven car loads of ore are taken out daily. Another gang of practical English miners arrived a couple of weeks ago, who pronounce the iron ore of the Madoc mines the richest they ever tested. This speaks well for mining operations in this district in the future.

OTTAWA.

SCHOOL INVESTIGATION.—Mr. W. Mackintosh, of Madoc, has been appointed by the Minister of Education to enquire into alleged improper practices in connection with the intermediate examinations held at Smith's Falls in January last.

FREIGHTS TO NEW YORK, on lumber have advanced to $4.50 per thousand feet, and return freights on coal to Montreal $2.75 per ton. These rates are higher than they have been for several years back.

THE GOVERNMENT LAND REGULATIONS have been amended in some important particulars. Five miles on either side of the railway is to be called Belt "A," fifteen miles on either side adjoining Belt "A," to be called Belt "B," twenty miles on either side adjoining "B," to be called Belt "C;" twenty miles on either side adjoining "C," to be called Belt "D," fifty miles on either side adjoining "D," to be called Belt "E." The even numbered section shall be open for entry as homesteads or pre-emptions of 160 acres each respectively, and the odd numbered sections shall be specially reserved and designated as railway lands. The railway lands will be sold as follows:—Belt "A," $5 per acre; "B," $4 per acre; "C," $3 per acre; "D," $2 per acre; "E," $1 per acre. The pre-emption lands will be sold as follows: "A," "B" and "C" $2.50 per acre; "D," $2 per acre; "E," $1 per acre. The moneys received in payment of pre-emption lands shall be devoted to railway purposes. These provisions are to be retroactive so far as relates to any entries of homestead and pre-emption lands or sales of railway lands under the regulations of the 9th of July, and any payments made in excess of the rate now fixed shall be credited on account of the sales of such lands. Certain provisions are made respecting the right of way of the Canada Pacific Railway or any Government colonization railway through these lands are given, and it is further stated, that all entries, after this date of unoccupied lands in the Saskatchewan Agency will be considered as provisional under the railway through that part of the territory has been located. With a view to encouraging settlement by cheapening the cost of building material, the Government reserves the right to grant licenses to cut merchantable timber or any lands situated within these belts, and any settlement shall, for the time being, be subject to the operation of those licenses. The principal point of difference between the new and old regulations is that, whereas, formerly all the lands in belt "A" were locked up, now alternate blocks are open for homestead and pre-emption.

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

HOTLY ENGAGED.

KUSHI, Oct 26.—General Gough's brigade has arrived here to succor the force holding the entrenched camp at Shutargarden, the commander of which reports that he is surrounded by thousands of Mongols. He signals that he can hold his own, but from the heavy firing it is clear he is hotly engaged. General Gough will march for Shutargarden on Monday. If the position should prove untenable, it will be evacuated, but if the enemy disperse the force will remain at Shutargarden and General Gough's brigade will return to Cabul.

HANGED FOR MASSACRE.

CABUL, Oct 26.—The Kotwal of Cabul and four others have been hanged for complicity in the massacre of the British Embassy. There has been a fighting between Ali Kehyl and the Sutargarden, in which the enemy were defeated with heavy loss.

TRIBES DISPERSED.

The tribes investing Shutargarden have been dispersed.

By Telegraph to the Review.

NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 27.—The new rules for the guidance of newspaper correspondents in the field have aroused a storm of indignation. The object is evidently to put it in the power of the General to suppress criticism. It seems certain that neither the Viceroy nor the Commander-in-Chief had any hand in their promulgation. Their withdrawal is hoped for.

A PITIABLE STATE.

CABUL, Oct. 27.—Yakoob Khan is voluntarily in Genl. Robert's camp in a pitiable state of depression.

CHANGE OF BASE.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A correspondent of the Times at Simla says the idea must be abandoned that we intend to stand aloof from the internal affairs of Afghanistan. It cannot be too soon published that we mean to remain in the country. He intimates that the tendency at Simla is strongly in favor of disintergration rather than of an attempt to set up a strong central Government at Cabul.

UNDER CLOSE ARREST.

SIMLA, Oct. 27.—The inquiry into the massacre at Cabul is proceeding. The Ameer's father-in-law, the ex-Governor of Cabul, and the Minister of Finance are under close arrest.

THE MASSACRE PUNISHED.

CABUL, Oct 27.—The five men hanged for complicity in the massacre at the British Embassy, include the Kotwal of Cabul and two Generals, one of Royal blood. One of the Generals was charged with having dragged the head of Cavagnari from the British Residency to the Balla Hissar.

TORONTO.

A SIX DAYS' TOURNAMENT.—At the grand six days' tournament, which opens at the Roller Skating Rink in this city to-day, the following celebrated pedestrians will appear:—

Peter Crosslan, London, England; 24 hours' record, 120 miles; 72 hours' record, 300 miles.

Frank L. Edwards, champion of California, and winner of the California Diamond Belt; 75 hours' record, 260 miles.

John Dobler, Chicago, winner of the Champion Cup of America; 75 hours' record, 275 miles.

Miss Fannie Ewards, San Fransisco: record of 3,000 quarter-miles in 1,000 quarter hours.

Miss Bella Kilbury, six days' record, 357 miles. Gilmore's Garden, New York.

A PARIS tradesman fearing that a favorite Newfoundland dog was exhibiting symptoms of rabies, hired two boys to take him to the Seine, attach a heavy stone to his neck, and throw him in to drown. In throwing the dog in one of the boys fell into the river and twice sank, when the dog having got rid of the stone, rescued the boy and carried him safely to the shore.

A LIVERPOOL letter to a gentleman in Ottawa makes the suggetion, that further exports of horses, sheep or cattle being impracticable this fall, Canadians should export geese and turkeys about the middle of November, for in December there will be an active demand for them, he thinks, for the Christmas season.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

I have used Dr. Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia from its first introduction in the Dominion; it performs wonders in my stables, where veterinary surgeons have failed; it has cured lameness and removed bunches.

Water tanks will be built immediately on the Pembina Branch. Only one-half of the ballasting will be completed this winter.

Immense beds of coal have been discovered on the River Assiniboine, about sixty miles south of Grand Valley, and a Company has secured 4,500 acres. One thousand tons will be brought to Winnipeg this winter.

PORT HOPE.

Separation of the Counties.—The Guide contains the following suggestive item in regard to Mr. Burk, M. P.:—"It is said the Ontario Legislature will, at its next session, separate the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and that Mr. Burk will be appointed Sheriff. If so, there will be one disappointed man in Port Hope. Guess who?"

A Large Fleet.—The arrivals at this port during the 24 hours of Sunday, amounted in all to sixteen steamers and vessels. The following is a list of them:—Steamers Algerian, Norseman, Lothair. Barge, Oriseande. Schooners—Lewis Ross, Maria Annett, Eliza Quinlan, Two Brothers, Great Western, Flora Carveth, Mary Grover, Caroline Marsh, Rockaway, Guelph, Amoia, Agnes Hope. Nearly all of these vessels are to-day (Monday) loading with lumber and barley, and will materially relieve the pressure of freight at the wharf. There are ten vessels in the fleet that have a united capacity of 2,500,000 feet of lumber, and they ought to make a large hole in the lumber mills.

He claims the accounts are all right.

Lapeer, Mich., Oct. 27.—After defying hundreds of armed citizens and the whole official force of Lapeer county for a week or more, Matt Fitch, the man who killed his wife and infant daughter, has been captured and lodged in jail. DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.

London, Oct. 28.—The News founds its theory of a contemplated dissolution of Parliament before the end of the present year, on the allegation that the results of the recent new registrations are very favourable to the Liberals. As these registrations do not take effect until 1880, an immediate dissolution would deprive the Liberals of benefits thereof. The Home Secretary has telegraphed to the Philosophical Institution of Edinburgh, postponing his lecture, on the ground that a series of Cabinet Councils will be held next week. It must be a sudden change of purpose which demands so sudden a telegraphic postponement of a recently announced engagement.

THE GREAT ISSUE.

HAVING forced Mr. Mackenzie, contrary to the better judgment of very many of his followers, both in and out of the House, during the last Parliament to take up a determined stand against a tariff framed in our own interests, the Globe seems determined to persue the same course to the bitter end, and in a recent article demands that "a reform of the tariff" shall be placed at the head of what it is pleased to call the Liberal programme.

If, "the Reform party can never lack for something to reform so long as the protectionist tariff is in force," we are inclined to think that they will not "lack for something to reform" for years to come, inasmuch as we believe, at least seven out of every ten of the electors are of opinion, that our tariff should always be framed and amended as required, so as to afford the largest possible "protection" to our own people. That changes will require to be made in the present tariff from time to time as surrounding circumstances require, every one, except perhaps the Globe, will readily admit. That, acting on the principle of protecting ourselves, the present Government will always be ready to entertain favourably propositions for reciprocal trade with other countries—and especially with the rest of the Empire—is equally true, but that the electorate of this country will ever desire to have our present fiscal policy "reformed" by going back to the ruinous "fly on the wheel" one of the Mackenzie Government, we do not believe, and so believing we rejoice that the Globe has determined that the "party" shall place at the head of its programme "a reform of the tariff.'

FREIGHTS vs. VALUE.

WE observe that the justice of the railways charging for the carriage of goods in proportion to their value, is being seriously questioned just now on the other side of the lines. While the rate of speed at which different classes of merchandize are carried, and the comparative risk as compared with others, might fairly entitle the companies to extra rates in some cases, we must confess we can see no good reason for very many of the different rates of freight charged on various commoditities. For instance, Why should a car of flour pay more than a car of wheat? Or a car load of pork, more than either? The weight contained in them all is the same, and the cost of transportation is the same. There can be little doubt but that the day is fast coming when our railway companies will no longer be allowed to do as they please with the business of the country, and that by "a Railway Commission" or in some other way they will be made to consider the public interests as well as their own.

A Queer Robbery.

The Evangelist tells the story of a man who returning home rather late at night while it was snowing, felt for his watch to see the time, but it was gone. It flashed over him in an instant that only three minutes before a man had passed him, who had rubbed against him. It was the work of a moment to give chase, and lifting his umbrella, he demanded his watch or vengeance. The watch was handed over by the traveller, and the good citizen went home in a very complacent mood, congratulating himself on his good luck and courage. At the breakfast table next morning his wife read the story of the robbery of a man, only a few streets away, of a valuable gold watch and chain. It was a most daring affair, the robber lifted an enormous club, and threatened all sorts of things. "That is singular," said the husband, "for I was robbed of my watch near that place, and ran after the villian and recovered it." "Are you sure, dear?" asked his wife. "You left your watch at home yesterday when you went out, and I saw a strange one on the bureau this morning. Can it be that you have committed robbery?" So it turned out.

GREAT FLOODS IN SPAIN.

DEVASTATION OF BOTH THE MUNDO AND SEGURA VALLEYS.

A Lovely Tropical Garden Changed in One Night to a Desert Plain—Great Loss of Life and Property—Heroic Efforts to Rescue the Perishing—Horrors of the Night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Herald's London special of the 24th says:—Full news has been brought to the papers this morning of the terrible floods that have devastated the valleys of the Mundo and Segura rivers. Murcia is little known to travellers in Spain. It lies in a plain dotted with cosy farm houses, and green with drooping palm trees. The roads that lead to it from Elche run through the most tropical portion of the country. The present summer has been unusually hot. Even this torrid region had known no such heat for a generation. For months not a cloud had been seen, and not a drop of rain had fallen. On Tuesday last few people ventured into the streets during the daytime, but in the evening there was a general movement of carriages and foot passengers toward Alameda, which stands high, and from which the view extends over the river and the Campagua as far as the hills. It was about ten o'clock when the approach of the mistral, a cold and biting wind, was felt from the direction of Cartagena.

THE SKY CLOUDED OVER IN AN INSTANT, and the crowd turned hastily homeward. Soon the storm was howling over the town and amid the streets, and tore through the houses. It increased in violence every minute. The rain seemed to be falling in broad sheets of water. No such tempest had been seen within the memory of the oldest inhabitants. Shortly after midnight the watchman was going his rounds when, as he passed over the bridge that leads to the plaza and divides the town into two portions, he saw a black stream of water rushing between the arches. He found that the river was rising rapidly. It had already overflowed the banks, and was stealthily climbing over the stone parapet which protects the frontage. The watchman hurried to a clock tower which gives signals of fire and of other catastrophes to dwellers by the waterside, and set the bell in motion. Instantly

THE INHABITANTS RUSHED INTO THE STREETS, but few of them had time to do more than snatch up a little clothing. The authorities at once proceeded to organize assistance for that part of the town which was already lying beneath the level of the flood. Suddenly all the gaslights went out, then everybody knew the flood was advancing. From street and square, from balcony and house-top, came the cry, "The water is rising!"

IT WAS A FEARFUL MOMENT.

The confusion was unparalled. In the suburbs of San Benito and San Lorenzo, before half the people could get out of their beds they had the water over the lower floors of their houses. The church doors were soon forced open by the flood. It invaded the nunneries and hermitages, the oratories and convents. It poured into the cavalry barracks. It skirted the great Episcopal Palace and the colleges of St. Sulgenias and St. Isadore. Many of the the public buildings and institutes it spared. As it swept on to the railway station it tore up the sheds and embankments, destroying telegraph poles, and tearing up rails.

"DURING THIS TERRIBLE NIGHT," said a townsman to the correspondent of the London Standard, "our authorities, and in particular our admirable Civil Guards, worked with a will to rescue women and children. They had to work by such glimmering light as their torches would yield. Sometimes they were knee-deep, and more often they were up to their waists in water. The gallant fellows waded into the submerged streets, seizing such fugitives as they met, half drowned and frightened out of their wits, calming others who were screaming at the windows, and encouraging those who RUSHED ABOUT WILDLY ON THE HOUSE-TOPS, until boats, barges, and even carriages could be brought into use, and the inhabitants saved from abodes that were momentarily threatened with ruin. Several times during the night was heard the crash of falling houses and splintering timbers, and above the noise rose the wailing shrieks of unfortunate beings that could not escape and were soon smothered in the rains or torrents. Acts of extraordinary heroism were performed by the athorities and boatmen and the Civil Guards. One guard five times braved the torrent with the water up to his chest. Each time he came back with a child in his arms. Then he started on his sixth voyage. He had left the mother in the house with a babe at her breast.

HE FOUGHT HIS WAY THROUGH THE WATER, rather swimming than wading. As he neared the house he saw it totter. Before could make another step it was gone, and mother and babe were swept past him on the bosom of the flood. Nor were the higher classes less generous in their efforts to save the drowning people. One nobleman in his carriage rescued them by dozens, until his horses, dead beat and half drowned, could no longer pursue the work of charity, and as fast as the rescued were brought in they were carried either into private dwellings or the Government House. The Bishop opened his palace to several hundred and set soup and wine before them. When day broke the Murcians almost forgot the horrors of the night as

THEY GAZED ON THE DESERT PLAIN, which the day before had been a lovely tropical garden. Far as the eye could reach there was seen a level expanse of water. Where vines grew as if woven over the ground, dead animals and not a few human bodies, were floating in the turbid tide. Villages and farms all shared the same fate. No intelligence could be obtained from the survivors, as the roads were impassable. The line of railway was for miles destroyed, and the telegraphs had ceased to exist. While the townsmen were waiting for news from the country the scenes of distress were piteous to behold. Fraalta, Corre, and Monduermas

WERE A HEAP OF RUINS, from the midst of which rose the pointed spires of their churches and the gables of a few larger houses, whose inhabitants had escaped by spending the night upon the roofs, drenched by the storm and surrounded by the angry flood. Beniajain, Lorca, and Caravaca suffered no less damage than the other villages of the plain. As for the hamlets of the Vega, they contained nothing but the ruins of buildings and dead bodies. Within forty-eight hours 160 corpses have been brought in and laid beside 142 others which had been taken from the riverside houses. Never had Murcia and its valleys known such disaster since the floods of 1691 and 1802. The extent of the damage to Alicante, the chief commercial port of Valencia, is very great. The whole plain is COVERED WITH RAGING WATERS, which form a lake near three leagues in extent. In fine, the amount of damage is as follows:—The villages of Monduermas Fraalta, Torre Aquerra, Alcanturilla, and Lorga have been swept away. Murcia, Veihaela, Lorca, and Almeria have been partially flooded.

TEN THOUSAND INHABITANTS are destitute. The loss of property exceeds fifty million francs. The loss of life at Lorca is one hundred, at Oribuela eighty, at Murcio more than a thousand. These are the latest official returns, but it is feared that the total loss of life will exceed 5,000. The King has already visited the flooded districts, and has subscribed 50,000 francs towards the relief of the inhabitants.

THE ASPERSER OF THE BEAUTIES.

"Town-Talk's" Editor on his Trial—A Gay Scene in Court.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A London special regarding the trial of Adolphus Rosenberg for libeling Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Cornwallis West, says:—Long before ten o'clock there were fashionable carriages making their way down Fleet street, and Hansom cabs, with unusually swell occupants were wheeling round the corner of Holborn Viaduct into the Old Bailey. The staircases that led to the Court were bright with modish bonnets and light autumn overcoats. Many persons had brought their luncheon with them.

Benches set apart for visitors were filled within five minutes after the doors were opened. The feminine element predominated. Many of the ladies sat with opera glasses in hand. Sir Chas. Whetham, the Lord Mayor, entered the Court-room in his long red robes, preceeded by his officers with sword and mace. He took his seat on the berch beside the desk of the presiding judge. At his left was Sir Robert Carden, who presides as magistrate at Guildhall. At five minutes after ten the Court rose to its feet, and Justice Hawkins entered. The space allotted to the bar was thronged. Sir Watkin Williams, Q. C., and four other eminent counsel appeared for Mrs. Cornwallis West; Sergeant Parry, Montague Wiliams, and others for Mrs. Langtry. The prisoner had evidently appreciated the gravity of his situation, for Mr. Willis, Q.C., had been engaged to defend him. The printers of Town Talk were also represented by counsel, who rather watched the case than took part in it. Edward Lewis, the solicitor, bustled about the Court, nominally appearing for Mrs. West, but apparently whispering with equal impartiality to Sir Watkin Williams and Serjeant Parry. None but most important cases had ever drawn such an army of barristers into a criminal court. The Clerk of the Court read over the charge. It set forth that prisoner on the 8th of October published defamatory libels concerning Mr. Cornwallis West and his wife, and on five various occasions concerning Mr. Langtry and his wife. Being called upon to plead Rosenberg's counsel said he was instructed to put in a plea of guilty. The printers' counsel also rose and tendered a similar plea. Before anything more could be said Serjeant Parry proceeded to argue upon that count of the indictment which charged the prisoner with knowing the article in Town Talk to be false. He said that the person who publishes a paper ought to be FULLY AWARE OF ITS CONTENTS.

It was of no avail that Rosenberg had given the name of the writer of the articles. It no more lessened his offence in the eyes of the law than in those of public opinion. Rosenberg was the responsible editor, and the man on whom the full penalty ought to fall.

The Serjeant then called Edward Langtry into the witness-box. The appearance of Mr. Langtry excited the liveliest interest. He was terribly embarassed as he gave his testimony. He glanced with an air of awkwardness round the Court, as though ashamed of the publicity into which he had been suddenly brought. He swore to the utter falsity of the allegations made against his wife.

Sergeant Parry then called on the Court for its severest sentence. He said that the public must be protected from such mendacious scurrility. Mr. Willis, Q.C., replied. He argued that the prisoner had received the information from another person, and had supposed it to be true. He then CREATED A GREAT SENSATION by introducing the name of the Prince of Wales. "Far be it from me," said he, "to suppose that a prince could depart from that morality which it is his duty to maintain." A ripple of half-suppressed but audible laughter ran around the spectators' seats. Barristers nudged each other; Sir Robt. Carden busied himself more deeply in his Times; the Lord Mayor glanced severely at the Sheriffs, and Sir Henry Hawkins gazed earnestly into space. The clerk restored order at once, and Justice Hawkins summed up the case impartially. The plea of guilty was then accepted, and registered on the files of the Court. After lunch Sir Watkin Williams, counsel for Mr. West, stated that as Rosenberg had been convicted in the Langtry case he would accept his plea in answer to a charge of simple libel in the West case.

With respect to the printers, he was willing they should go free on their entering into recognizance to a large amount for future good behaviour. He proceeded to read the article entitled "Mrs. Cornwallis at Home." He argued that Mrs. West's husband had done his best to stop the sale of her photographs, and added that newspapers which denied this, saying that the will of an individual was paramount in such a case, had misled their readers by a blundering interpretation of laws enacted under the auspices of the Copyright Commission. Mr. Willis asked that the prisoner be treated with leniency. "Rosenberg," he said, "has a wife and young children. They will have no means of support. They will be utterly friendless."

Judge Hawkins said he would postpone sentence until Monday. It will probably will be eighteen months' imprisonment, with a fine of £500.

News for the Czar.

Every important piece of news arriving in London from India is telegraphed at once direct to the Czar, at Livadia. At first the telegrams used to be sent to the Etat Major at St. Petersburgh, but His Majesty grew impatient at this roundabout arrangement, and ordered that the news on arriving at the Russian fronties should be sent at once to the Crimea. The Cabul outbreak alone led to the telegraph staff at Yalta being increased by six extra clerks. Again in the Emperor's Cabinet are all the latest maps referring to Afghanistan and Central Asia, including one especially prepared for the Czar by the Russian staff, and supposed to be the best existing. On the wall of the library are three maps, one showing the operations against Cabul, another the march of Lomakin upon Merv, and a third the movements of General Abrasnoff in the Pamir. The progress of the troops in each region is denoted by red and white flags, which are shifted by General Voyakoff, or one of the other Generals on duty, on the receipt of every telegram referring to their advance. Voyakoff is also supposed to keep himself well informed respecting the locality in front of the expeditionary troops, and to be able at a moment's notice to pump out of the recesses of his memory geographical and other data for the benefit of His Majesty. The duty is not an easy one, as the Emperor is a very exacting inquirer, and will make no other than precise and accurate replies.

If Demosthenes had not suffered, and by unwearied efforts overcome great obstacles, would he have become the greatest orator in the world? If our modern Demosthenes have a cough, cold, or tickling of the throat, nothing will relieve them so speedily as HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM. It is an excellent remedy for quinsy, influenza, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, etc. For sale by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angle of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. d95w42-2w

ONLY A LETTER.

Only a letter that came last night,
A dear, little-love bird, winged with white,
That whispered the words in the maiden's ear
Of the [illegible] song that a maid could hear,
[illegible] over again,
Ay! the charmed din and the soft refrain,
And the burden was this—so old, so new,
"Do you love me as I love you?"

Only a letter, by Cupid sent,
That maketh the maiden's heart content,
That bringeth the blushes sweet and shy,
And the tell-tale light to her azure eye!
A missive read in the shadiest nook,
And dearer far than the choicest book,
Then hid with the precious things and few,
Tied with a band of love's own blue!

* * * * * * * *

Only a letter that came this morn
With the heaviest weight that could be borne,
And yet it seemed to the man in gray
But a trifle light as he passed his way.
A wife is stunned by the sudden blow,
A mother's heart is filled with woe,
For the bird of omen tells a tale
That would make the stoutest spirit quail.

Only a letter, thin and white,
That has robbed a home of its joy and light,
That has hung, by the cruel news that it bore,
That funeral crape on the outer door!
A missive clutched with hopes and fears,
And drenched with mourners' scalding tears;
Read and re-read with lips grown white,
Then laid with a shudder out of sight.

THE POTATO.

Its Composition and Manuring—How to Keep Them From Deteriorating—How to Add Fifty Per Cent. to the Yield—A Bundle of Potato Recipes.

The last issue of the Rural New Yorker is specially devoted to the potato—being in fact as in name a potato number, and as every one who cultivates even the smallest piece of ground has his "potato patch," we think we cannot do better than transfer some "clippings" therefrom to our columns.

The opening article is from the pen of Prof. G. C. Caldwell, in which he says with regard to the composition of the potato that it is estimated that in a crop of 150 bushels, and 600 pounds of tops, there is removed of the three most valuable ingredients of plant food. The quantities per acre are given in the following table:—

		Nitrogen.	Phos. Acid.	Potash.
Potatoes:	tubers....	26	15	53
	tops......	—	4	11
Total.....		26	19	64

For the purposes of comparison it is also stated that the quantities of these three substances gathered by a crop of wheat, 25 bushels, and straw, 2,500 pounds; and of Indian corn, 50 bushels, stover, 4,500 pounds, and cobs, 600 pounds, is as follows:—Wheat, nitrogen, 42; phos. acid, 19; and potash, 25; corn, nitrogen, 72; phos. acid, 43, and potash, 57.

From these figures it appears that to produce the potato crop, potash is required in larger proportion that either nitrogen or phosphoric acid, and that more is required for this crop than for either wheat or corn, notwithstanding that the latter is such a gross feeder. When we come to consider the comparative exhaustion of the soil by the two crops, remembering that of the corn crop only the grain with 12 pounds of potash, is liable to leave the farm, while of the potato crop the tubers, with 53 pounds of potash from every acre, are usually exported, the usefulness of potash manures in potato culture would appear to be very plainly indicated. To the quantity of nitrogen gathered by the potato crop, as given in the table, something must be added for the tops. Making due allowance for this, the best manure for the potato would seem to be a complete one; that is to say, one containing all three of these substances—nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, with a large proportion of the last.

Lawes and Gilbert have given the results of experiments for two years, which show much better yields with 400 pounds of ammonia salts (or 550 of nitrate of soda), 350 of superphosphate, 300 of sulphate of potash, 100 of sulphate of soda and 100 of sulphate of magnesia, than with 14 tons of stable manure. In the experiments conducted in New England under Atwater's direction, the most uniformly good results were obtained with a complete manure containing a liberal proportion of potash salts, 150 pounds of nitrate of soda, 300 of dissolved bone-black and 200 of chloride of potassium, costing $15.38 per acre, and yielding, in all but one of the experiments, from 40 to 130 bushels increase. But in a small majority of the same series of experiments, profitable results were obtained with either potash salts alone, applied at a cost of $4.50 per acre, or with superphosphate and nitrate of soda costing $10.58 per acre; that is, the increased crop would, at any ordinary prices, more than pay for the manure.

From a general review of all the results, it appears that on ordinary soils only complete manures are the safest, and that manures containing nitrogen alone, and no phosphoric acid or potash, are the most unlikely to yield profitable returns. The larger yield and the better quality of potatoes obtained by so many experiments with commercial fertilizers than with stable manure, will suggest to the progressive farmer experiments on his own farm with these manures. Salt on potatoes, while it may occasionally somewhat increase the crop, impairs its quality by diminishing the proportion of starch.

On "how to keep potatoes from deteriorating," another writer says:—I hardly think that an entire failure of the corn crop would be felt more than an entire failure of the potato. And yet, as ordinarily cultivated, we find the potato constantly deteriorating, "running out" as we say. To remedy this, men all over the country are every year producing new varieties. These being given the "highest" kind of culture, produce well, and are thrown on the market and sold to the farmers in small lots at exorbitant prices. The farmer, wishing to get all the seed possible from his new potatoes, again gives them extra garden culture and is well satisfied with his purchase. He now has seed with which to plant his fields. The next year he plants them, and gives them ordinary field culture; but when digging time comes, in nine cases out of ten, he finds that he has spent his time and money "for that which is naught," the old varieties doing generally as well, and sometimes much better than the new.

Now, I believe we are altogether on the wrong track in this matter. I believe if the time and money spent in producing and testing new varieties were expended in improving and perfecting the old, well established sorts, we should be better off. I believe the potato is as susceptible of improvement as any of the grains. What farmer would go to his corn crib and select his seed promiscuously therefrom, and if corn happened to be a little higher-priced than usual, select the nubbins and pig corn, reserving the best to sell and not expect his corn to "run out"? And yet that is the way very many farmers manage with their potatoes, and then have to change their seed because their varieties "run out."

There are perhaps but few of the older farmers who do not recollect the old Long Pinky potato, a potato of medium size, with now and then one quite large. Some forty years ago, I recollect a neighbor of our always selected the largest potatoes of that variety for seed, and in a few years his Pinkies had improved in size until a load of them was a beautiful sight, always meeting with quick sales and good prices, for the times.

Now I will give my theory in regard to the improvement of the potato.

Perhaps all who have dug potatoes have noticed occasionally a hill of large yield of large, uniform-sized tubers in comparison with those from the surrounding hills. I would select a half bushel, more or less, from such hills to commence my seed patch. I would keep them at such a temperature that they would be sure not to sprout until I wanted to plant them. I believe the first sprouts have far the most vitality and that all others have a tendency to deterioration, so I would get them into the ground with their first sprouts perfect, not more than four to the hill, and not cut too near to the eye. I would give them good ordinary culture. From this patch I would again select from those hills that gave the best yield of good-sized tubers, reserving the rest for general planting.

If this were done for the series of years, I believe the potato might be bred up to as high a standard as any of our grains or even our farm stock.

Layering Potato Tops.—As a ready and simple means of increasing the yield of potatoes, we may mention the layering of tops. This is practised in Europe by nearly all gardiners and by many farmers, and it is a wonder that it is not more commonly restored to in this country, especially when it is desired to augment the yield of new and valuable varieties.

About the time when the first new tubers are large enough to be used at the table, the patch should be gone over for this operation With a hoe remove the earth near the first hill in the row almost as deep as the roots of the plant, then bend the stems into the hole thus formed and cover them up with earth, giving the tips an upward turn, and let them reach four or five inches above ground. Proceed with the next hill in like manner, bending it over the first, and so on till they have all been layered. The stems thus buried will send out roots and set tubers the same as the original roots of the plant. We have seen a potato patch thus treated, give at least one-half greater crop than a similar patch close by on which the tops were not layered.

To Boil Potatoes.—Select those of about one size, wash very clean but do not pare. Put into a pan of cold water an hour before boiling. In boiling use no more water than will cover them. The moment they are done turn off the water and set the kettle on the back of the range with a cloth over the potatoes and the cover drawn to one side. After a few moments take off the cloth, sprinkle a little salt over, put on the cover and shake up the potatoes. Let them stand with the cover on for a minute or so, then serve.

Saratoga Potatoes.—Pare the potatoes and cut into slices so thin that one can almost see through them. If for breakfast prepare them the night before and let stand in a dish of ice-cold water. Just before frying drain them from the water and wipe them dry with a cloth. Fry only a few at a time in boiling lard as you would dough-nuts. Before putting in the potatoes, separate the slices from each other and do not attempt to cook more at a time that you can keep separate. Tend with a fork, tossing them over and over until browned evenly and delicately. Take up with a skimmer and place on a sieve. Sprinkle with salt.

Potato Soup.—Peel and boil ten good-sized potatoes; turn off the water and rub through a colander. To the potatoes add two quarts of boiling water and simmer for one hour. Then add two tablespoonsful of butter, pepper and salt to taste with a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Let boil up, then add two cupsful of hot, thin cream or rich milk and pour out. Serve with "crisped crackers."

Gravy for Potatoes.—Put a spoonful or more of butter, according to the quantity of potatoes you have, into a frying-pan and set over the fire until brown, being careful not to scorch it. Mix a spoonful of flour in a cup of thin sweet cream—or milk, if one has no cream—pour into the browned butter, boil up, season with pepper and a little salt if necessary, and turn over the boiled potatoes. This is a very nice way to serve small potatoes.

Potatoes and Onions.—Boil potatoes until tender but whole and cut into slices while hot. An hour or more before preparing this dish, dress and slice a few onions and let stand in salt and water. Put a little butter or drippings into a frying-pan, put in the sliced onions and cook until delicately browned. In a vegetable dish place the onions and potatoes in alternate layers. add a cupful of vinegar to the gravy in the frying-pan, bring to a boil and pour over.

Potato Pie.—One cupful of grated raw potatoes, one quart of sweet milk, three eggs, a little salt, sugar and nutmeg to taste. Let the milk come to a boil, stir in the potato, let cool, add the well beaten eggs and other ingredients. Bake with an under crust.

Potato Souffle.—Boil five good-sized potatoes, press them through a sieve. Bring to a scald half a cupful of milk with a spoonful of butter, add to the potatoes with pepper and salt and beat to a cream. Then beat the yelks and whites of four eggs separately, add the yelks first, one at a time, beating thoroughly, then the whites, just stirred in without beating. Turn at once into a buttered pudding dish and bake twenty minutes in a quick oven. The dish should be large enough to permit the souffle to rise.

Bad Water.

Few people in towns like Lindsay ever bestow a thought on the condition of their wells or the kind of water they are in the habit of using daily. If we were to tell our readers that from their wells typhoid fever and other dangerous emanate perhaps they would question our veracity, but when such a statement is backed by medical authority, and facts too plain to be ignored, it is time that the people should be urged, and compelled if necessary, to put their wells in a healthy condition. That the wells in this town are in a wretchedly bad condition, a recent examination of some of them by the the Sanitary Inspector proves. Out of the eighteen well tested only four were found fit for use. But this is not all; one of them was found to be a receptacle for the sink drainage from the house, while another contained the carcass of a dog in a decomposed condition, and the water from both of these well has been constantly used. This is a dangerous state of affairs and should not be suffered to exist any longer. Parties wishing their wells tested should make their desire known to Mr. Rodden, the Sanitary Inspector, who will attend to them. Mr. Edmund Gregory, chemist, has tendered his valuable services in this connection free of charge.—Lindsay Warder.

A Terrible Ride.

The Liverpool Post tells a strange adventure of a venturesome small boy. It appears that he played truant from school, and dared not go home at night. He managed to get into the station house yard at Chorley, with the intention of passing the night in one of the passenger carriages; but he failed to gain access, the doors being locked. He then crept under the guard's van, and he pulled himself on the couple of short iron rods between the axle of the wheels and the carriage floor, and between which the brake apparatus passes. In this position he went to sleep, and at 5 o'clock in the morning the train started for Wigan. The lad was actually brought to Wigan, and again taken to Chorley clutching the rods. At the latter place he was discovered, still fast asleep, and rescued from his perilous position. The marvel is, how the lad remained on this frail support during his 18 miles' journey, and asleep all the while. Had he moved death was certain.

HIGH COURT OF FORESTERS.

Secession from the Supreme Court—A High Court of Canada Organized

New York, Oct. 24.—The High Court of Foresters of Ontario at their meeting last night resolved, by a vote 26 to 14, to secede from the Supreme Court of America in regard to the payment of endowments. Previous to this resolution being adopted a vote of confidence in the Supreme Court was unanimously passed. Subsequently the delegates from the seceding Court organized themselves into a "High Court of Canada," and adopted an amendment law. Their future course will depend on the action of subordinate Courts after the delegates from those bodies have returned home and reported. The Supreme Court of Foresters last evening elected their officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—

Supreme Chief Ranger, E. S. Pike, St. Louis.
Supreme Vice Ranger, E. Klamber, Louisville, Kentucky.
Supreme Secretary, A. B. Caldwell, New York.
Supreme Treasurer, J. W. Hickman, Louisville, Ky.
Supreme Senior Wood Ward, D. C. Mayer, West Virginia.
Supreme Junior Wood Ward, Hugh Doherty, M. D. Boston, Mass.

The Supreme Court will meet in Boston in October, 1880.

ENGLAND.

A woman was recently dragged under a railway train at Newcastle, England, and killed, in consequence of shaking hands with a friend at a car window as a train moved out.

The Government have forwarded to Mr. Francis Deakin, of Chorlton-cum-Hardy, the £1,000 which was granted by the Home Secretary to Wm. Habron in consideration of the injury he sustained in being wrongly convicted of the murder of Police Constable Cock at Whalley Range.

At the Lurngreave Cemetery, an extraordinary scene was witnessed. A man named Ashforth was attending his wife's funeral, when he was threatened by a large mob, who tried to throw him into the grave, and had to be kept back by the police. Ashforth afterwards took refuge in a house, the windows of which were smashed by the mob. It is alleged that he had ill-treated his wife, who had died broken-hearted.

The Metropolitan Early Closing Association has issued a circular, in which it states that "there are still about 30,000 shops in London and the suburbs, employing more than 100,000 assistants, who work 13, 14 and 15 hours a day, and even longer on Saturdays. Many of the assistants are young women, who suffer grievously from being obliged to stand during these long hours of labour."

Lady Burdett Coutts met with an accident the other day while cruising in her steam yacht, the Walrus, among the Channel Islands. When off the south-west point of Jersey, in charge of a Guernsey pilot, the vessel being taken too close in-shore struck on a rock well known in the locality, and had a large hole knocked in her bottom, under the engine room. A signal was made for a Jersey pilot, who boarded the yacht and took her to Cherbourg.

Singular Riot.—The Newbury magistrates were engaged recently in hearing a charge of rioting preferred against thirteen persons, including a tradesman of good position. It appeared that a man named Turner had prosecuted his daughter for theft, and she was committed to a reformatory institution for several years. this led to a hostile demonstration against Turner. A crowd collected near his house, beating tin kettles, playing penny whistles, and smashing his windows. The tradesman was discharged, but the remaining defendants were bound in £5 each to keep the peace.

A Remarkable Woman.—There is now living at Christ Church Schools, Worthing, an extraordinary instance of exceptional longevity, a lady, Mrs. Fanny Bailey, who was born on Aug. 7th, 1777. Mrs. Bailey was married at 25, and has had 10 children, the eldest of whom, if living, would be 76—the eldest, the survivor, is 74, and the youngest 62. The old lady is grand-mother and great-grand-mother to 50 in all, 33 of whom are living. She has led a very active life, and except for failing sight, is in possession of all her mental powers. It is often said that persons advanced in life cannot give up with safety the use of stimulants. Up to the age of 91 Mrs. Bailey had always been in the habit of taking malt liquor, but she then gave it up altogether with advantage in every possible way. Her principal drink is milk, and her appetite is as good as ever.

There is no remedy for female complaints so good as Victoria Buchu and Uva Ursi. After its use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. Rouston & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

LOCAL NEWS

I. O. G. T.

Friendship Temple No. 146, I. O. G. T. meets at quarter past seven o'clock this evening at their rooms on George street. A full attendance is expected.

Company 3, 57th Battalion.

Company No. 3 of the 57th Battalion, Ashburnham, meet for drill at the Drill Shed this evening at quarter past seven, sharp. Arrangements have been made for drilling every evening in the week.

I. O. F.

There will be a special meeting of Court Peterborough in their hall to-morrow evening, and as there is business of great importance in connection with the order to be brought forward, it is expected every loyal Forester will file an appearance.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day are: fresh to high, south-westerly to north-westerly winds; cloudy weather with rains, followed by partially clearing weather. In Peterborough, cloudy to partly cloudy weather with rain showers from 7 o'clock a.m., to 12 m.

Street Crossings.

The Street Inspector is effecting an improvement by placing gravel in the hollows by the side of the crossings at the corner of George and Simcoe streets. The ridiculous stone crossings, dirty, inconvenient, and dangerous, still remains for the present, however, to annoy everyone who has occasion to walk along our principal streets.

George Street Sidewalks.

There are several broken planks on George street, between Simcoe and Hunter, that ought to be repaired. There is a hole sufficiently large in front of Kempt's drug store to admit a child's foot, with the consequent danger of a broken leg. There are also two or three other places below almost as dangerous. One of these is in front of an unoccupied store.

The Grain Market.

The market for wheat to-day has been inactive. Only a few loads came in owing to the unpleasant weather. One lot of Russian Spring wheat was taken at $1.16. It was said to be the finest wheat exhibited this season. It was bought for seed. We have no occasion to change quotations. Barley was inactive, several lots in, some very fine. We continue to quote 40 @ 60 according to quality.

Farm Stock Sale.

Mr. Charles Stapleton will sell at auction on Monday Nov., 3rd, the Farm Stock, Implements &c., of Mr. Timothy Caddigan, on Lot No. 4 in the 10th Concession of Ennismore. Sale to commence at 11 o'clock. Lunch will be served. This sale is without reserve as Mr. Caddigan is retiring from farming. This is a good opportunity for obtaining fine stock at a bargain.

57th Battalion Drill.

Companies Nos. 1 and 2 are drilling three night in the week at the Drill Shed. Last night there was a full turnout of the members of both companies. The two companies drill at the same time on account of the great cost of gas. There seems to be an earnest desire among the men to become proficient, so that the Peterborough battalion may not be behind our sister towns and cities in drill and soldierly bearing, and may merit the commendation of the inspecting officer.

Masonic.

George L. Mitchell, Registrar of Moore Preceptory, No. 13, of Peterborough, has received the following circular giving information to the Sir Knights who may desire to make preparations for a pilgrimage to Chicago to attend the Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment of the United States, to be held in 1880, in that city:—

HEAD QUARTERS TRIENNIAL COMMITTEE, KNIGHTS TEMPLAR, CHICAGO, OCT. 15, A.D., 1879.

To the Eminent Commander, Generalissimo, Captain General, Officers and Sir Knights of Moore Commandery:—

FRATRES,—The Triennial Committee of Knights Templar, who have in charge all matters relative to the entertainment of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar for the United States, and other Templar guests, during the Twenty-first Triennial Conclave, which will occur at Chicago, August 17th, 18th and 19th, A.D., 1880, in consequence of the various inquiries addressed to them relative to hotels and many other matters, take this method of assuring you that the long promised official communication, giving all the information desired, will positively be sent from these head quarters during the month of November. This will be nine months prior to the date of the Conclave! Imagine, if you can, the amount of labor required of the Committee, in making such arrangements as are necessary before such a document can be accurately prepared and sent out, and you will readily realize why it is impossible to send it sooner. We have hoped until now that it might be ready to send earlier, but difficulties have multiplied in consequence of the necessity of making provision for events now, which will not occur until August, 1880. The Triennial Committe ask you to wait patiently, giving you the assurance that your interests regarding hotel quarters (they having engaged all the hotels in Chicago for the use of Templar guests), or in any other way, will not suffer by the delay.

THE TRIENNIAL COMMITTEE,
GEORGE M. MOULTON, Secretary.
NORMAN T. GASSETTE, Chairman.

AQUATICS.

ELLIOTT'S CHALLENGE TO HANLAN.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Sportsman says:—

Hanlan's decision not to compete in England is to be regretted. Elliott claims he has greatly improved the style of his rowing, and is confident of being able to render a capital account of himself when he again meets Hanlan. Elliott is undoubtedly a stronger man, and if he has really discovered how to utilize his strength and supplement it with all mechanical improvements which contribute so greatly to Hanlan's prowess he ought to defeat Hanlan with some amount of ease. No opposition is expected from the trustees of the challenge cup to Elliott's request that his arrangements with Boyd be sanctioned as Hanlan declines to accept the challenge. Elliott's claim for the cup is to be made immediately. The highest aquatic authorities in England agree that Hanlan has forfeited his title of champion of England, as well as his claim to the cup.

In regard to the above, Hanlan says that at present he has no notion of giving up either the championship of England or the challenge cup. He may have said, in view of Courtney's statements, that he would not go over to row in England, but at present he has no intention of deciding not to row there. The trustees of the cup told Mr. Ward that should Elliott consent to row for it at Toronto Bay they would raise no objection. Hanlan is ready to make Elliott a very liberal allowance for expenses if he will come to this country, and should Elliott consent to this, Hanlan will make the race on any date that will suit him. If Elliott declines to do this, he may then decide to send the cup back to England. Hanlan questions Elliott's right to row him again until he has proved himself a better man than Boyd, and until he does this he holds that he has no right to challenge for the championship of England. If Elliott is not willing to cross the Atlantic to win back the championship as Hanlan did to win it in the first instance, he can hardly claim that his action is prompted by "British fair play." His challenge to Hanlan came at a time when the Champion's hands were tied with the Courtney match, and until some issue is reached in that matter it is hardly fair for him to press his challenge. As soon as Hanlan has the Courtney match disposed of he will be ready to devote his full attention to the defence of the Championship of England. In the meantime, should Hanlan again cross the Atlantic, he is very anxious to row the best man in England, and he positively insists that this question be settled before he shall be compelled to go to the trouble and expense of another trans-Atlantic journey.

THE PROJECTED HANLAN–COURTNEY RACE.

Hanlan has received the following letter from the Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company. The letter requires no answer from Hanlan, as it merely provides for the rowing of the race; but should the promise be fulfilled its provisions will doubtless be acceptable to both scullers. The following is a verbatim copy of the letter:—

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 24, 1879.

Edward Hanlan, Esq.,

Dear Sir,—The Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company will pay the original unwon Hop Bitters $6,000 prize to the winner of a single scull five-mile race to be rowed by you and Charles E. Courtney, at any time and place, and details you both may agree upon; and will pay in addition $500 to each for expenses if you will fix the race at Washington, D.C., at the time and as the late referee, Wm. Blaikie, properly suggests, we to have no part or lot in privileges or income from any source, or charge of arrangements.

Truly yours,
HOP BITTERS MANUFACTURING CO.

COURTNEY HEARD FROM.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. Oct. 26.—Courtney, in the Sunday Democrat, says:—

In reference to Mr. Blaikie's suggestion that I row Hanlan a five-mile race for the prize of $6,000, I would state that I should gladly accept the proposition, and will row Hanlan any time he may appoint. I have only one position. I am willing to now, as I have always been, to row a fair honest race to decide which is the better oarsman, and this virtual postponement of the race, which was to have been pulled on Chautauqua Lake on the 16th inst. meets my cordial approval. I only ask five days after my new shell is finished, and impartial judgment of the race on its merits.

Courtney's friends object to Blaikie as referee, and it is probable they will insist upon another to fill his place. Courtney stands ready to row Hanlan upon any fair and neutral water.

THE PROPOSITION FOR HANLAN AND COURTNEY TO ROW ON THE POTOMAC.

In reference to the proposition made by Mr. William Blaikie to Courtney and Hanlan to row the proposed race on the Potomac River, Mr. John W. Corson, on behalf of the Analostan, and M. W. H. Gibson, on behalf of the Potomac Boat Club, on Thursday morning last telegraphed Mr. Blaikie as follows:—

The Analostan and Potomac Boat Clubs extend to Messrs. Courtney and Hanlan, through you, the hospitality of the clubs and the use of boathouses should they row on the Potomac. Weather perfect, with prospect of continuance. Guarantee all an enthusiastic reception. Analostans have telegraphed Hanlan and Potomac Courtney offering use of houses, &c. Urge them to come to our names.

The following are the telegrams sent to Courtney and Hanlan:—

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 23, 1879.

CHARLES E. COURTNEY, Union Springs, N.Y.:—

The Potomac Boat Club extend you their hospitalities should you row with Hanlan on the Potomac.

S. H. WHEELER, Captain.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 23, 1879.

EDWARD HANLAN, Toronto, Ont.:

The Analostan Boat Club extend to you the privilege of their boat-house, with every courtesy, should you and Courtney row on the Potomac.

E. S. MAUNDER, Captain

There is no reason to suppose that, in the event of another race being arranged between Hanlan and Courtney, the place of meeting will be anywhere else than on Chautauqua Lake, the scene of the last fizzle.

THE ELLIOTT-BOYD MATCH.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The sculling match for £200 a side between Elliott and Boyd, will be rowed on the Tyne course. The first deposit of £50 is to be made on the 31st. The date of the race is not yet fixed.

AMERICAN EMIGRATION TO MANITOBA.

A Surprising Fact—2,000 Americans Settle in the Canadian North-West this Season.

From the Winnipeg Times.

Since the announcement of the new land policy of the Dominion Government, the Opposition organs have continually and unpatriotically been exaggerating the number of Canadians settling in Dakota. It certainly must be admitted that a few have turned their backs on their native land, but their number has been greatly exaggerated. On the other hand, whilst the Reform journals have taken great pains to herald abroad the fact that a number of Canadians had made their homes a short distance south of the International Boundary, they have taken special care not to mention that a considerable American emigration set in towards Manitoba. Of Mr. R. W. Prittie's 16 parties brought to this Province from Toronto this season nearly every one had more or less Americans in its midst, Take the last party, which arrived Saturday, for instance. Out of 300 immigrants nearly 100 were from the United States. Fifty members of the party were from the State of New York, 23 more were from Michigan, 3 families came from Wilkesbarre, Pa., 2 families from Portage City, Wis., and one from North Carolina. More than this, it is learned from Mr. Prittie that, out of 8,000 emigrants brought here this season, no less than 2,000, or one-fourth were from the United States, and, with very few exceptions, natives of that republic. Nearly all of these have settled north of the boundary line. Besides those coming with Mr. Prittie's party, quite a number of American emigrants have come with other parties, and also individually. It will thus be seen that the limited number of Canadians who have gone to Dakota and Minnesota has been more than counterbalanced by this large and increasing emigrations of Americans to the Province. If the Reform press have the patriotism they profess to have they will now publish these facts, and have less to say about a few individuals who have thought fit to choose their homes under another flag. Manitoba is becoming well known in the United States notwithstanding the fact that the majority of American journals as much as possible carefully avoid any reference to the wonderful progress of this Province. As Manitoba becomes better known, this immigration may be expected to increase. the majority of those who came this season were undoubtedly attracted to this Province by the circulars printed and distributed broadcast by Mr. Prittie, who is deserving of undoubted praise for his private, and at the same time patriotic, enterprise. This is a matter which might well be taken up by the Local Government. If a private individual can accomplish so much, what cannot be done by the Government with a few thousand dollars worth of pamphlets? The small expense would repay the outlay a hundred times over in the large number of settlers who would thereby be attracted to this Province.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' succesful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The captain of a barque now here reports that on Oct. 6th, at Guantamo, Cuba, Juan Beltran, a young Cuban patriot, pardoned by the Government, bought a railroad ticket for a port, where he was to take passage for Jamacia. 250 soldiers entered the station, and demanded the passports. Beltran displayed his, which, it is said, was in proper form. The soldiers, however, refused to acknowledge it, and threatened to arrest him. After some talk Beltran drew a revolver, fired several shots among the soldiers, and then ran towards the wharf. The soldiers followed, firing as they ran. Beltran took refuge on an English brig, and the Spanish soldiers fired into her. At the request of the vessel's captain they ceased firing. Beltran, stripping himself, plunged into the water, and swam towards the shipping in the offing. When fifty yards from shore his pursuers detected him and fired a hundred shots at him. Beltran at last received his death wound and sank. The soldiers then marched away.

THE UTE'S CAPTIVES.

DENVER, Oct. 29.—A special report from Alamosa, 300 miles south of Denver, and the terminus of the Rio Grande Railway, says that the women and children who were recently captives among the Utes have arrived, and will remain a few days before proceeding to Denver. Their 22 days of captivity has been a terrible trial. They were delivered to Adams after an exciting council lasting for five hours. On the approach of Adams the captives were hid in the bush a short distance from camp. During the council Susan, a sister of Ouray and squaw of Johnson, made a speech, strongly advocating the release of the prisoners, the first instance on record of a squaw's appearance in an important council. She was followed by Johnson who quoted Ouray's orders and advice. It was not until Adams threatened to leave unless the prisoners were released unconditionally that the peace party prevailed. After Meeker was killed the women attempted to escape to the brush from the burning buildings and were fired upon. After being secured they were mounted on ponies, Miss Meeker with Mrs. Price's oldest child tied behind her. Mrs. Price with her infant in her arms, and Mrs. Meeker, who is 64 years of age and lame, were compelled to accompany their captors. When they struck camp at midnight Mrs. Meeker was dismounted, and fell to the ground, unable to move, the Indians jeering the "old white squaw." Next morning they were separated, Douglas taking Mrs. Meeker, Persune taking Miss Meeker and Mrs. Price, and the children being guarded by the Utes. The sufferings of Mrs. Meeker were indescribable during her stay with Douglas, whose squaw abused her. On one occasion Douglas threw down some blankets and compelled Miss Meeker to dismount. He then said they were going to stab them and exhibited to her their knives. Then he placed a musket to her forehead and said, "Indian going to shoot." The courageous girl never flinched. He asked her if she was afraid, and her ready response was, "I am not afraid of Indians or of death," elicited the admiration of the Indians. They turned their derision upon chief Douglas and he shrank from their presence. Soon after the captives were placed in charge of chief Johnson and through the instrumentally of Johnson's square further indignities were prevented.

Fatal Performance With a Snake.

Karolyi, a Magyar of gigantic size and strength was performing before a crowded audience in Madrid the other day, one of his most sensational feats, which consisted in allowing a huge boa constrictor, over 20 feet in length, to enfold his body in its tremenduous coils, when suddenly a piercing cry escaped him, which was greeted by the public with a round of applause, under the idea that its utterance formed a part of the performance. It proved, however, to be the outcome of a strong man's death agony. The gigantic snake had tightened its coils, and crushed poor Karolyi's life out of him with one terrific squeeze. As his head fell back and his eyes became fixed in a glassy stare, the plaudits died away, succeeded by the stillness of utter consternation. The snake and its lifeless victim swayed for a second or two of inexpressible horror, and then toppled over on the boards of the stage; but the boa did not in the least relax his grip upon the corpse, which remained for more than an hour imprisoned in its hideous thraldom, nobody daring to approach the lithe monster, of whose powers such appalling proof had been given. At length it occurred to one of Karolyi's attendants to place a bowl of milk in a cage within sight of the mighty serpent, which slowly unwound itself from the dead body and glided into its den, irresistably tempted thereto by its favorite dainty. A post mortem examination of the unfortunate athlete's remains discovered no less than 87 fractures of his bones, effected by the constriction of the serpent's coils. His death must have been insantaneous, as the spine was disarticulated in several places.

A Queer Case.

A family living on Division street, in the town of Welland, were not a little surprised a few days ago by a young man calling at the house and claiming a girl who had lived with them from a child as his wife, alleging that they had been married a few evenings before. Phœbe denied the claim, but inquiry of the minister who the young man said had married them confirmed his statement, he saying the girl appeared all right at the time, with the exception of a little pardonable paleness. The girl still persisted that she knew nothing whatever of the transaction and utterly refuses to acknowledge the young man as her husband, let alone her lord and master. Quite on the other hand she threatens to bounce him with a club if he comes fooling around her, and as she has no small share of muscular development her threat is not to be laughed at. Subsequently the unhappy groom got a lawyer to go and reason with the obdurate bride, but his mission, like the Hanlan-Courtney boat race, was a fizzle. The girl has always borne a good, quiet character, and those who know the parties do not know what to think of the queer phase of the matrimonial question presented.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap—25 cents a bottle. w41-[illegible]-1m

AWAY WITH IT.

THE Mail says it is reported that the Ontario Government propose to build a new Normal School in Toronto beside the University, and take the site of the present one for new Parliament buildings, and that they expect to be able to accomplish this change out of the sale of the present Parliament Buildings and the ground occupied by them. While, if new Parliament buildings must be built to please Toronto, this may be a good move, there is another institution not many yards from the Attorney-General's present office which ought not only to be removed, but abolished, and that is that unnecessary waster of the public money, ycelpt, Upper Canada College. If the present Parliament buildings and the ground upon which they stand will sell for enough to build both a new Normal School and Parliament buildings, the grounds and buildings of Upper Canada College, and the $12,500 a year which it now costs would form a no mean addition to the Common School funds of the country. Outside of Toronto, nine-tenths of the people would say "away with it," but it is a Toronto institution, and must remain, whatever Government is in power.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

From the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

The meeting of delegates from the municipalities interested in the construction of the proposed Trent Valley Canal, held at Peterborough last week, was well attended. Only one opinion prevailed, namely, that the canal would would be of incalculable benefit, not only to the counties through which it would pass, but to the whole Dominion. A letter was read from Hector Cameron, Esq., M. P., in which the advantages to be derived from the undertaking were clearly put and advocated. Mr. Cameron, like every intelligent man in the country, would like to see the waters of the Georgian Bay and those of Lake Ontario connected by a much shorter and less dangerous route than the Welland Canal. But like all Toronto men he for a long time advocated the construction of Mr. Capreol's Georgian Bay Canal from the Georgian Bay to Toronto. This scheme, by common consent, has been allowed to drop. The engineering difficulties have been found to be almost insurmountable, and the cost of construction out of all proportion to the means at the command of this new country. But, on the contrary, it was shown from a diagram of the proposed canal, exhibited to the meeting by a practical engineer, that the scheme is not only practical but of cheap and easy construction. The more the Trent Valley Canal is looked at, in relation to the advantages to be derived from it, the more the wonder grows that such a progressive people as we are should have allowed the undertaking to lie so long in abeyance.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The November number of Harper, is especially noticeable for being more profusely illustrated than usual. The first paper is a graphic account of the old National Pike road, before the railway era. An article on the "Cattle Ranches of Colorado," gives a vivid description of an exciting manner of life. Mr. Benjamin gives an account of "Early American Art." "The Mimicry of Nature," is discussed in an interesting manner by Mr. Baird, and "The Sparrow War" is described by Prof. Elliott, who supports the cause of this little visitors to our cities. The three serials, "White Wings," "Young Mrs. Jardine," and "Mary Anerly," progress in a satisfactory manner, and there are several shorter tales of merit. Mr. Cranch contributes a charming poem to "Rosamond," and Herrick's "Cobbler's Catch," is amusingly illustrated by Abbey. The Editor's Drawer, and other miscellanies are as good as ever.

The DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents per week.

THE QUEBEC DEADLOCK.

THE REASSEMBLING OF THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

A Motion Moved by Mr. Joly Condemning the Council—Amendment in Favour of a Coalition—Debate on the Amendment.

QUEBEC, Oct. 28.—The House met at 3 p.m.

MESSAGE FROM THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

A message was read from the Lieutenant-Governor informing the Legislative Assembly that on the 11th September he had proceeded to the Legislative Council, and had given his assent to the bills passed by both Houses.

THE SUPPLIES.

On the orders of the day being called,

Mr. JOLY moved:—

First—That on the 27th August last, the Supply Bill for the financial year expiring the 30th June, 1870, was read for the third time and passed this House.

Second—That on the 28th August last, the Legislative Council, as appears by the votes and deliberations of the said Council, which report is printed and published under its authority, voted an address to his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, in which the Council declares that they believe it to be their duty to retard the adoption of the said Supply Bill until it shall have pleased his Honour to choose new constitutional advisers.

Third—That the Legislative Council, in delaying the adoption of the Supply Bill until it shall have pleased his Honour to choose new constitutional advisers, has infringed on the rights and prerogatives of the elective branch of the Legislature, and has usurped an authority which does not belong to it.

Fourth—That to give more effect to this protest and practically affirm its rights, this House confirms the votes of the supplies which it has already given, and engages itself to indemnify the Government for all the expenditure that it may make on account of the subsidies granted by it to her Majesty on 27th August last.

Mr. MATHIEU said he thought the motion was not quite regular, it being forbidden by the rules of the House to make any allusion to any document introduced in another House without it being brought before the House in proper form. The motion referred to a document and proceedings not regularly before the House, and with which, therefore, they had no right to deal.

Mr. JOLY said he had a precedent, when on motion of Mr. Nelson a resolution of the Legislative Council was read to the House, and the House proceeded to deal with the same without any objection whatever being raised.

Mr. CHAPLEAU held that the precedent used by the First Minister was against him (Mr. Joly), for it proved that the House had no right to deal with the documents till they were officially brought before the House.

Mr. LANGELIER (Port Neuf) said the objection offered by Mr. Mathieu had also occurred to him, and he had examined the various modes of procedure under the circumstances, and had found a case in 1856, which had been followed in the motion before the chair.

Mr. MATHIEU withdrew his point of order.

Mr. LYNCH rose to propose an amendment.

Mr. JOLY asked to be allowed to speak to his motion before the amendment was put. (Cries of "Go on.")

Mr. CHAPLEAU said it was very easy to settle the matter. His hon. friend from Brome had the floor.

Mr. JOLY—No. I have the floor.

Mr. CHAPLEAU—If the hon. Premier does not wish to accept my suggestion, he need not.

Mr. JOLY said if there was any fear on the part of the Opposition that the Government intended to move the previous question———

Mr. CHAPLEAU—That is just what I was going to speak of.

Mr. JOLY said he would allow the amendment to be put on the condition that there should be no idea on the part of any member of the Opposition that it was ever intended to propose the previous question.

Mr. LYNCH then proposed the following amendment:—

That while this House hereby must sloemnly revindicates all its constitutional rights, powers, and privelages in reference to the supplies, or any other matter, it is at the same time of opinion, viewing the difficult and critical position of the country from a patriotic standpoint, and without party bias, and in order to put an end to a reign of political warfare and agitation, and the present deadlock, which is highly detrimental to the interests of the Province, that it is the duty of all the members of this House, who have at heart the true interests of the country, to unite all their efforts together to form in lieu of the present Government a strong and efficient administration, composed of men who in a spirit of conciliation will be capable of proposing, and causing to be accepted by the people of this Province, a moderate and comprehensive programme, calculated to meet the exigencies of the situation, of men who will be able to command the confidence of the country, and a good working majority of the peoples' representatives.

Mr. JOLY made a four hour speech in support of his motion and in opposition to the amendment.

MESSRS. LYNCH and FLYNN continued the debate.

Mr. CHAUVEAU, saying he would not like to give a silent vote, moved the adjournment at 1.10 o'clock. The House adjourned till 11 o'clock next morning.

MINISTERIAL EXPLANATIONS.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.—The House met at 11 o'clock a.m. There is no probability of a vote before night. The Government is certain to be defeated. The morning has been taken up with ministerial explanations by Joly, who mentioned the facts of Chauveau's resignation, and Flynn's refusal of a port-folio, reading the correspondence which passed at the time.

PHOTOGRAPHING KING CETEWAYO.

The Cape papers bring interesting details of the reception of King Cetewayo in Cape Town and his experiences of the sea and photography. A correspondent writes: "During the voyage of the Natal, the first morning when there was no land in view, he, after looking around, held up his hand in intense astonishment, but, like all natives, he did not permit himself to appear to be much surprised at anything. At home he was rather a considerable beer-drinker, but he now thinks that very inferior stuff, and palms that off on his wives, while he is quite ready to do his share of 'fire-water' in the shape of gin. He has rather a wild way of taking to European food, and as a preliminary to a substantial feed of beef the other day he devoured a pot and a half of jam. He has not given over the assertion of his dignity, and in this he has been very much encouraged by the amount of waiting upon which he has received. After promising to have his photograph taken he kept photographer and every one else waiting upon his pleasure for some hours, was pleased to be gracious enough for a few minutes and then went back doggedly to his seclusion. His observations often show, as his face would convey, that he possesses no inconsiderable fund of humor. He was good enough to come out of his shell during the time his photograph was taken, and the smiling face he put on, as his photograph will show, proves that he is not altogether unacquainted with the ways of the world. A potrait of Dabulmanzi excited a desire to make as good a picture, and he readily threw aside his blanket so that civilization should see Cetewayo in only the royal attire as King of Zululand. When his wives were being photographed, nothing could induce them to leave off giggling or to sit still. Cetewayo sternly commanded them to do so, and then at once they were as motionless as statues—it was evident they had not forgotten the temper of the King and the way he once reigned in Zululand. When he was afterwards asked to sit for another photograph he declined doing so on the ground that he was not going to make a fool of himself twice in one day. He would not sit with his wives because, as he said, having his photograph, they could cut the group of women in two and put him in the centre; and he suggested that if other photographers wanted his likeness they could photograph his followers as often as they liked and the pictures would sell just as well; for the white men would buy anything. The photograph will show Cetewayo to be an enormous man, of a little under six feet high, a handsome, overfed specimen of humanity, with nothing repulsive whatever about him—except his history. A tape measure around the chest would probably show 60 inches, and each thigh half that number of inches, and this should convey what an immense fellow the King is. Yet he is not ungainly in figure, and there is an unmistakable dignity about him which, together with his fits of sociability, have drawn toward him the good feeling of his escort. The whole party evince a very earnest wish for clothes, and Cetewayo was in great delight on wearing a suit sent him by the Commodore, and strutted about quite proudly with a black "tile," which he had managed to squeeze over his head ring. He has lately developed a wonderful taste for scribbling and in a few months, under the careful tuition of Major Poole, would probably become a polite letter writer. Indeed, Major Poole has the King—excepting the sulks, which are exceedingly inconvenient—perfectly under control, and the attempts at letter writing are an infinite source of amusement. The wives of the King, who are his fellow captives, are four in number, and are tall, lithe, shapely women, of about twenty years of age. The photographs are not just to them, for their attraction seems to be in their vivacity and their good temper. Like their lord and master, they are anxious about their dress. On Sunday Cetewayo was taken on a tour of inspection of Her Majesty's ship Boadicea, which visit seems to have given him a terrible shock. Such a visit a year ago might have saved England some millions of money.

SMITH.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Hugh Davidson, met with a sad and probably fatal accident on Saturday afternoon. While crossing a newly dug cistern on a plank she lost her balance and fell into it, a depth of 12 feet, breaking and splintering her thigh and fracturing her skull. She is still unconscious, and the chances are against her recovery. Dr. Fraser is attending her. This lady is an aunt of Mr. Davidson, of the firm of McKee & Davidson.

AYLMER.

DEATH FROM ETHER.—An inquest was held on the remains of Mrs. Newton Ellis, who died on Monday, under a dose of ether administered by Dr. Clark, for the purpose of extracting a tooth. A very full investigation was held before Dr. McClay, coroner, and a verdict returned that death was caused by paralysis of the heart, induced by administering a dose of ether, but that the medical attendant was not in any way to blame.

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angle of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. d95w43-2w

"WHEN."

When the opaline zephyrs with fluttering light,
With abequatulous shadows bamboozle the night;
When the sprinkled starlets fleck the blue,
When the succulent mullein stalk reeks with dew;
When the venomous vampire leaves his lair,
And the whirling bat madly whoops through the air;
When the weird, wild whoop of the whip-poor-will
Makes the timorous heart of the titmouse thrill;
When the fawning foodless have fondly kissed,
And the mildew glints on the moping mist,
In the zinculous moonshine 'tis sweet to recline
On the sharp slivered slabs of the thorn apple vine.

But when sulphurous storms go rattling past,
And the witch-ridden broom careers on the blast;
When the spider-legged ghost on his hollow bones
Hunts the grisly ghoul round the churchyard stones;
When the wrinkled bandog shrieks with glee,
And the waves rush wild o'er the maddening sea;
When the owl boo hoo's to the bittern's boom,
And the snarling wild cat claws the gloom;
When the motherless scalawag wilts in despair,
And the woods resound to the snoring bear;
When feathery fairies dance round the moon,
To the bloated bulltoad's loud bassoon,
While the tadpole howls in the dark lagoon;
Dear love of my life, I'll hide with thee
In the soft downy nest of the chick-a-dee-dee.

"SPIRITUALISM—ANCIENT AND MODERN."

Mr. Dawson's Lecture in Calvary Church—Parallels to the Esther Cox Case.

The Montreal Witness of Oct. 24th says:—those who attended the lecture of Mr. S. E. Dawson in Calvary Church last evening were favoured with a rare treat, for seldom has it been the fortune of audiences to hear a subject of such great scope as that which heads this article so fully treated in the brief period of three-quarters of an hour—the time occupied in the delivery of this lecture.

"The subject I propose to discuss this evening," said the lecturer, as he took up the first page of his manuscript, "is drawn from the attractive yet dangerous border-land between spirit and matter—that region of the unknown and unknowable so fascinating to speculative minds; a region fruitful in fixed ideas, the very enchanted land of the intellectual pilgrim, where if that instinct of proportion sometimes called common sense is allowed to sleep we become and are apt to wander into mazes of absurdity and superstition." Having briefly touched on the theory of Tyndall as regards the connection between the body and the soul, according to whom the connection of mind and matter is "an observed empirical fact and no more," he quickly brought the minds of his hearers to the region of the "unthinkable," "fairly rid of the materialists, which is, indeed, a blessing, and would reconcile one to much broken crockery, for if there is one thing more tiresome than another in modern science, it is the dogmatism of people who persistently assert that there is nothing in heaven or earth undreamed of in their philosophy."

The philosophy of spiritualism, he remarked, is as old as history itself. The Misses Fox in 1848 or Esther Cox in 1879, did not show us anything which had not been shown thousands of years ago. Clairvoyance, biology, rappings, table-turnings and such like manifestations have been known in all times and among all nations. Ancient beliefs and practics, those mentioned in the Old Testament, and especially the belief of the Semetic races, were cited, and although most of them may be explained by theories of hysteria and insanity, there are some of them which cannot be explained with any fair interpretation of the sacred writings. Therefore, the Roman and Greek Churches

HAVE STILL FORMS OF EXORCISM.

The Anglican Church abolished the form at the Reformation, because it was thought to lead to superstitious abuses, and now by the law of the English Church no clergymnn can proceed to exorcise a spirit without special license of the Bishop. Oddly enough, spirits have been much less common since this change in the law.

The belief among certain ancient nations in the interference of the superior spirits with mundane matters was touched upon, especially that of the Accadians, who believed in innumerable personal spirits of all grades of power, knowledge and benevolence, or of ignorance and malevolence, and in elementary spirits something like

SYLPHS, ELVES, UNDINES OR BANSHEES.

Turanian races as the Tartars and the Chinese, have similar beliefs. The Chinese consulted Planchette ages ago and do still. There is in the philosophy of the more reasonable class of modern spiritualists, a striking revival of the doctrines of Pythagoras. Nothing new is there, moreover in the phenomen of levitation, as reported to be experienced by D. D. Home and Mrs. Guppy. It is common in India and always was. Fakirs may be occasinally seen in India still without visible support surrounded with a circle of admiring devotees below. Cases were cited of similar performances in Christian lands. From time to time we read of men who under the assumed name of great magicians practised clairvoyance and its kindred arts, among whom were Albert the Great and the teacher of St. Thomas Aquinas. James the First of England wrote a treatise on demonalogy and had an act passed under which large numbers of persons were judicially murdered.

SITTING IN THE AIR

It would be tiresome to allude to the numberless instances of supposed spirit disturbances; one or two more salient ones must suffice:

The family of John Wesley were at one time

MUCH TROUBLED WITH SPIRIT MANIFESTATIONS, of the same kind as those we have recently read of occuring at Amherst. His father was parson at Epworth, and for a long time, the parsonage was kept in a turmoil with knockings, groanings, stampings, poundings and every other variety of noise. He himself heard noises in his room like the gobbling of a turkey cock. Things were knocked down and thrown about, latches lifted, doors opened which had to be shut with foot and shoulder as against an invisible force. The disturbances seemed to be in some way connected with his mother and his sister Emily. John Wesley examined into this remarkable case in 1720, and noticed especially the sound as of a man walking on the roof with heavy boots and sometimes making a noise like a saw. The ladies of the family were strong Jacobites, and oddly enough

THE SPIRIT WAS A DETERMINED TORY.

Prayers for King George excited it terribly. In England this was a period of strong belief in supernaturalism. The preaching of Wesley and his followers produced extraordinay physical effects. He healed the sick by prayer and laying on of hands. A more marvellous case even occurred in France about the time the Jacobite ghost was disturbing the rectory at Epworth, where a ghost which uttered a plaintiff cry, and fired off a shot nightly in the hearing of a beautiful young woman, could not be detected by the police force of Paris. It was supposed to be that of a young man who had died for love of her, and who said at his death he would follow her all her life—"a warning," moralised the lecturer, "to young ladies not to trifle with melancholy lovers." The lecturer then passed on to the spiritualism of the present day. In America, rapping and physical phenomena similar to table-turning were well known to the Indians before the white people took them up. An Italian physican witnessed marvelous things in the Mexican plains, among others a saddle galloping without a visible horse. The Indians used to put these things down to lying spirits. But in 1847 these knockings were reduced to a system in the case of the Fox girls, by the application of an alphabet. The belief spread rapidly, until there are now about in America, and a very extensive literature of books and periodicals. The opinions put forth are very contradictory and confusing to a degree and the supposed gifts of the mediums are very various, but of all who have pretended to these powers by far the most remarkable is Daniel Douglas Home. It was with him that Crookes and Sergeant Cox experimented, and his knowledge and experience of spiritualism in all its forms surpasses that of any other person. He has testified in his books the greatest contempt for the vast mass of mediums and spiritualists. He and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall, William Howett, Mrs. Fox Jenkins, and some others in London, hold aloof from

THREE MILLION SPIRITUALISTS

THE CROWD OF CHARLATANS

who write in the Banner of Light and such like papers. Nor are they unbelievers in Christianity, as the latter generally are. Home says ninety cases out of every hundred of writing mediums are pure delusion. Home's remarkable manifestations were touched upon, to be followed by a reference to the materialized spirits, who "mix gin and water and drink it with gusto," and to the amazing arrogance of mediums, for there is no spirit so great or so holy that they will not pretend to summon it. This stupendous superstition is the very Nemesis of scepticism, and is the extravagant revulsion from the bleak wastes of materialism. It is a the golden calf in the wilderness of doubt. When faith in divine guidance is shaken, men in their loveliness made themselves gods after their own imaginations. The theory of Kardec, the leader of the re-incarnationist school of spiritualists, who hold the doctrine of the transmigration of souls, such as the Hindoos do, but not like them, extending to the lower animals, was discussed at some length. The malevolent spirits, who are fond of a joke, find place in this belief. Allied to the spiritualists are the theosophists, of whom Baron Van du Palm, cremated last year at New York, was the leader. They form a small society in America, who affect to follow the Rosicrucians, but the fact of their leader dying shows that they have not attained to the height of the true adepts of the Rosy Cross. After other peculiar beliefs were touched upon, the lecturer expressed the hope that in this long journey through the enchanted land of the intellect, none of those he addressed had allowed common sense to sleep. Few who do so recover the balance of their minds, but go on from one absurdity to another, an excellent instance of this, the recent case of Mr. Henry Kiddle, until recently superintendent of the schools of the city of New York, being cited. Some communications from the spirit land, through the daughter of Mr. Kiddle as a medium, were humourously alluded to. One communication deserves mention here as specially interesting to us. It is a message from King William III. on the occasion of the.

REVIVAL OF PAGANISM,

ORANGE TROUBLES IN MONTREAL IN JULY, 1878.

> "Heaven send you all benediction, and grant all the fondest desires of your souls! Alas! for my Orange reformers! Perhaps they are doing God's work by their righteous wanderings from Catholicism, but do not suppose they are followers of the Lamb, if by their waywardness they neglect their Saviour's first command. Obey! Lose not a moment in praying for their release from the egotistical bondage of conceit which obstructs the light which might surround them. They are only heathens in their selfish idolatry of God's prophesying enlightenment, but falseness will soon give way to the reality. Watch and pray, for the Kingdom of God is at hand."

The lecturer confessed he could not understand all this. Mr. Doutre could not have known of such an authority or he would have read it at the trial of Grant vs. Beaudry.

In concluding the speaker drew seasonable lessons from this system of humbuggery.

A Timely Hint.

Those who have maple trees in the streets, or on their grounds, ought to examine them carefully these days. The borer that infests them is now at work. If you discover anything resembling fine sawdust at the foot of the tree it is a sure indication that the pest has taken up his quarters for the winter. If a small copper wire will not reach him, bore a three-eight inch hole below his hole (which is easily found) about an inch deep, and put in half a teaspoonful of flour of sulpher and cork it up. If the tree is large put in two or three holes at equal distances around the tree and fill them.

The Markets.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 29.—The market to-day was a fine one for Wednesday. There were a large number of farmers in town, and the market was in consequence a lively one. Butter buyers were as numerous as the lots of butter brought in and considerable excitement was created. The first bid was 18cts. for a very choice firkin. The butter in to-day was of a better grade than usual. Choice roll butter sold at 20cts. Eggs at 14cts., some few lots brought 15cts. THERE is no remedy for female complaints so good as VICTORIA BUCHA and UVA URSI. After it use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSTON & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

REGULATIONS

RESPECTING THE DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN

PUBLIC LANDS

FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE

Canadian Pacific Railway

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OTTAWA, Oct. 14, 1879.

Public notice is hereby given that the following provisions, which shall be held to apply to the lands in the Province of Manitoba, and in the territories to the west and north-west thereof, are substituted for the Regulations, dated the 9th July last, governing the mode of disposing of the Public Lands situate within 110 (one hundred and ten) miles on each side of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which said Regulations are hereby superseded:—

1. "Until further and final survey of the said railway has been made west of the Red River, and for the purposes of these provisions, the line of the said railway shall be assumed to be on the fourth base westerly to the intersection of the said base by the line between ranges 21 and 22 west of the first principle meridian, and thence in a direct line to the confluence of the Shell River with the River Assiniboine.

2. "The country lying on each side of the line of railway shall be respectively divided into belts, as follows:—

"(1) A belt of five mills on either side of the railway, and immediately adjoining the same, to be called Belt A;

"(2) A belt of fifteen miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt A, to be called Belt B;

"(3) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt B, to be called Belt C;

"(4) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt C, to be called Belt D; and

"(5) A belt of fifty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt D, to be called belt E.

3. "The even-numbered sections in each township throughout the several belts above described shall be open for entry as homesteads and pre-emptions of 160 acres each respectively.

4. "The odd-numbered sections in each of such Townships shall not be open to homestead or pre-emption, but shall be specially reserved and designated as Railway Lands.

5. "The Railway Lands within the several belts shall be sold at the following rates, viz:—In Belt A, $5 (five dollars) per acre; in Belt B, $4 (four dollars) per acre; in Belt C, $3 (three dollars) per acre; in Belt D, $2 (two dollars) per acre; in Belt E, $1 (one dollar) per acre; and the terms of sale of such lands shall be as follows, viz:—One-tenth in cash at the time of purchase; the balance in nine equal instalments, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on the balance of purchase money from time to time remaining unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

6. "The Pre-emption Lands within the several belts shall be sold for the prices and on the terms respectively as follows:—In the Belts A, B and C, at $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents) per acre; in Belt D, at $2 (two dollars) per acre; and in Belt E, at $1 (one dollar) per acre. The terms of payment to be four-tenths of the purchase money, together with interest on the latter at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, to be paid at the end of three years from the date of entry; the remainder to be paid in six equal instalments annually from and after the said date, with interest at the rate above mentioned on such portions of the purchase money as may remain unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

7. "All payments for Railway Lands, and also for Pre-emption Lands, within the several Belts, shall be in cash, and not in script or military or police bounty warrants.

8. "All moneys received in payment of Pre-emption Lands shall inure to and form part of the fund for railway purposes, in a similar manner to the moneys received in payment of the Railway Lands.

9. "These provisions shall be retroactive so far as relates to any and all entries of Homestead and Pre-emption Lands, or sales of Railway Lands obtained or made under the Regulations of the 9th of July, hereby superseded; any payments made in excess of the rate here by fixed shall be credited on account of sales of such lands.

10. The Order-in-Council of the 9th of November, 1877, relating to the settlement of the lands in Manitoba which had been previously withdrawn for Railway purposes, having been cancelled, all claims of persons who settled in good faith on lands under the said Order-in-Council shall be dealt with under these provisions, as to price of Pre-emptions, according to the belt in which such lands may be situate. Where a person may have taken up two quarter-sections under the said Order-in-Council, he may retain the quarter-section upon which he has settled, has a Homestead, and the other quarter-section as a Pre-emption, under these provisions, irrespective of whether such Homestead and Pre-emption may be found to be upon an even-numbered section or otherwise. Any moneys paid by such person on account of the lands entered by him under the said Order-in-Council, will be credited to him on account of his Pre-emption purchase, under these provisions. A person who may have taken up one quarter-section under the Order-in-Council mentioned will be allowed to retain the same as a Homestead, and will be premitted to enter a second quarter-section as a Pre-emption, the money paid on account of the land previously entered to be credited to him on account of such Pre-emption.

11. "All entries of lands shall be subject to the following provisions respecting the right of way of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or of any Government colonization railway connected therewith, viz:

a "In the case of the railway crossing land entered as a Homestead, the right of way thereon, and also any land which may be required for station purposes, shall be free to the Government.

b "Where the railway crosses Pre-emptions or railway Lands, entered subsequent to the date hereof, the Government may take possession of such portion thereof as may be required for right of way or for station grounds or ballast pits, and the owner shall only be entitled to claim payment for the land so taken, at the same rate per acre as he may have paid the Government for the same.

c "In case, on the final location of the railway through lands unsurveyed, or surveyed but not entered for at the time, a person is found in occupation of land which it may be desirable in the public interest to retain, the Government reserves the right to take possession of such land, paying the squatter the value of any improvements he may have made thereon.

12. "Claims to Public Lands arising from settlement after the date hereof, in territory unsurveyed at the time of such settlement, and which may be embraced within the limits affected by the above policy, or by the extension thereof in the future over additional territory, will be ultimately dealt with in accordance with the terms prescribed above for the lands in the particular belt in which such settlement may be found to be situate, subject to the operations of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

13. "All enteries after the date hereof of unoccupied lands in the Saskatchewan Agency, will be considered as provisional until the railway line through that part of the territories has been located, after which the same will be finally disposed of in accordance with these provisions, as the same may apply to the particular belt in which such lands may be found to be situated, subject, as above, to the operation of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

14. "With a view to encouraging settlement by cheapening the cost of building material, the Government reserves the right to grant licenses, renewable yearly, under Section 52 of the 'Dominion Lands Act, 1879,' to cut merchantable timber on any lands situated within the several belts above described, and any settlement upon, or sale of lands within, the territory covered by such licenses, shall for the time being be subject to the operation of such licenses.

15. "The above provisions, it will, of course, be understood will not affect sections 11 and 29, which are public school lands, or sections 8 and 26, Hudson's Bay Company's lands.

"Any further information necessary may be obtained on application at the Dominion Lands Office, Ottawa, or from the agent of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, or from any of the local agents in Manitoba or the North-West Territories.

By order of the Minister of the Interior,

J. S. DENNIS,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Surveyor General.

LOCAL NEWS

Masonic.

There will be a regular communication of Corinthian Lodge No. 101, A. F. & A. M., held in Masonic Hall this Wednesday evening.

The Third Company's Dance.

Company No. 3, of the 57th Battalion, propose to give a dance at the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Friday evening, which bids fair to be a pleasant and enjoyable occasion.

The Wheat Crop.

It is estimated that the wheat crop this year marketable in Peterborough will reach 400,000 bushels. About 150,000 have already been received this season, and it is stated there are at least 200,000 bushels yet to come forward.

Mr. Chas. Walsh in the North-West.

From the Battleford Herald we learn that Mr. Charles Walsh, son of Mr. James Walsh, of Peterborough, passed through that place on the 19th September on his way to Edmonton, North-West Territory.

Mechanics' Institute.

A meeting of the Directors of the Mechanics' Institute was held on Tuesday evening. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. John Burnham, M. P., for his present of a copy of Hansard for 1879. Offers of new rooms were read, and the Property Committee were instructed to examine them, and report as soon as possible.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day are: southerly to westerly winds; cloudy weather with rains, followed by high cold westerly to northerly winds, and possibly snow flurries. The day in Peterborough has been fine and mostly clear. There was a heavy rain-fall at an early hour this morning.

Foot Ball.

The return match between Trinity College School and the Peterborough Club will take place on Saturday next, under the Rugby Union Rules. We advise all those who desire to see a good game under these rules to be present on that day. The admission to the ground is free. The return match between the Town v County will be played to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 4 p.m.

Weights and Measures.

Mr. Thomas Cahill has returned from Belleville where, with the other Inspectors of Weights and Measures for this district, he had been receiving instructions from Mr. W. J. Johnstone, of the Inland Revenue department, in the details of his duties. He expresses himself highly gratified with the courteous and able manner in which Mr. Johnstone conveyed these instructions. Mr. Cahill having been sworn in, will at once enter upon the duties of his office.

Escape of the Infanticide.

Bridget Sullivan, the young woman who is accused of having committed infanticide at the Choate House on Friday morning last, has given her guardian the slip and has made good her escape. Her mother was said to have been in town yesterday and it is thought she could tell something about the escape. Considerable excitement was occasioned when it became known that Bridget had gone. The inquest was to be resumed on Friday evening.

The Grain Market.

There is no change to note in the grain market. The supply of wheat is light this week, and the appearance is that the farmers have brought forward about all they intend to this fall. Spring may be quoted nominal at $1.13, and fall $1.15. The price dropped again yesterday in most of the central markets of the Continent. Barley is strong at 57 @ 60 for No. 1, white; 61 was paid for some lots to-day, although it is not a quotable figure. The tendency is downward, but the price may be maintained until the closing of navigation. There has been so much attention paid to wheat and barley, that peas and other field crops have been neglected.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 29.—Constable McGhee brought in a sorrowful looking Indian named William Naugon, aged 19, from Rice Lake, whom he found last night on private property, drunk. He was taken to the lock-up to sober up. He was still under the influence of liquor this morning. He acknowledged being drunk, but would not tell where he got the whiskey. He could not remember where he went or what he did. The magistrate imposed the smallest penalty allowed by law, which was $1.00. Considerable merriment was occasioned when he asked the magistrate to take 75 cents. He said he thought that was enough. The magistrate explained that he had no power over the matter. He had inflicted the lightest penalty, and he (the accused) would have to pay it or go to jail. He paid the fine and walked out. He said he was going right home.

REFORM IN THE PROVISIONAL COUNTY OF HALIBURTON.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The M. P. P. for this constituency, originally a Conservative, but who abandoned that party, because (as stated by his political spousor here) upon the late John Sandfield McDonald, the operation of pecuniary plebotomy could not be successfully performed, very naturally threw himself at the first auspicious moment into the arms of the Reform party by whom his aspirations were more likely to be realized. We may presume that they have been at least temporarily fulfilled, as he has been for the last five years in receipt of the emoluments derivable from the appointments of Stipendiary Magistrate and Registrar of the Provisional County of Haliburton. That so brilliant a luminary of Reform should be permitted to "hide his light under a bushel" (even of Government appointments) seemed to be alike forbidden by the interests of party and scriptural injunction, and our modern Cincinnatus was summoned from the quiet enjoyment of his "aspiration" to recover the lost sheep of Reform.

The veni, vidi, vici of this gentleman at the late election is a matter of history, but, that for thus relinquishing, in the interests of the "party," his former emoluments, he is now receiving a quid pro quo to the serious inconvenience of the greater portion of this county, is a fact known perhaps only to the sufferers. An Order-in-Council originally located the residence of the Stipendiary Magistrate in the village of Minden, situated in the north-west corner of this county, but it was confidently expected upon the appointment of the present incumbent, that in the village of Haliburton, the terminus of the Victoria Railway, a central situation and one more accessible from the greater portion of the county, would be located the administration of justice.

Thoroughly indoctrinated with party principles, our member, like all who have "seen the error of their ways," is an enthusiastic champion of his new love, while unfortunately for most of his constituents, his landed interests in, and in the vicinity of the village of Minden are endangered by railway extension to the village of Haliburton. Is it then any anomaly in the annals of Reform that in order to protect those interests as far as possible, the lately appointed Stipendiary Magistrate should receive special orders to reside in the village of Minden, regardless of the fact that to the greater portion of the county inconvenience and loss is the result.

Apologising for thus intruding on your space,
I am, your obedient servant,
R. G.

An Affecting Incident.

While the dead and wounded were being extricated from the wrecked train on the Jackson and Michigan Road, one lady, afterwards ascertained to be Mrs. Rice, of Philadelphia, was discovered to be dead with her arm wound round the neck of her little four-year-old boy. Both lay under the car, the boy alive, but with his leg broken, and so surrounded and confined that it was for an hour or more impossible to get him out. James McDonough, of the round house force, worked long and faithfully, without a moment's rest, to rescue the child. The poor little fellow moaned out, "Oh! if'oo tan only dit me out I'll be so good! Tate me out from here, and I'll be a good boy! Tate me out, and tate my mamma out!" At last Mr. McDonough freed him from the car, and Dr. McLaughlin tenderly set the little sufferer's leg. His father also lay mangled and dead behind him, but not where little Willie could see him.

Quickly Answered.

[illegible]r the heading, "Quickly and Literally [illegible]red Prayer," an English religious paper prints the following startling item:—A missionary at a station in South Africa was seated in the mission church when a heavy storm came on. A friend was preaching and another interpreting near him. The fears of the missionary were excited that his friend's bald head might attract the lightning. He was so valuable as a preacher that the missionary breathed a short prayer that it might not be so. The preacher had just announced "Suffer the little children to come unto me," &c., when, amid the deafening noise of thunder and falling rain, a terrific crash broke over the chapel and the missionary was felled to the ground, but not killed. A little child was asleep in its mother's arms close by; the lightning shock ran from its head to its feet, and after one gasp its spirit soared away to heaven.

Ploughing by Electricity.

Some interesting experiments of ploughing by electricity took place the other day at Noisiel, in France, in the park of the well known deputy and chocolate maker, M. Menier. The motive power was supplied to the plough by a Gramme machine, itself set in motion by water power, which is abundant on M. Menier's estate. The plough did about the same work as if it were drawn by four oxen. It was a Fowler plough, with six shares. The motive power was supplied to it by a wire at a distance of nearly half a mile. To a profane looker-on it was amazing to see a plough propelled by an unseen agency without teams or steam. The Gramme machine employed was the same that supplies M. Menier's manufactory with electric light.

Humiliating an Indian Chief.

During Gov. McCook's administration the Chief Colorow and a band of Utes went to Denver and camped on the outskirts. One day the chief sent word that he wanted a new tent. McCook dispatched an agent to see in what condition Colorow's tent was, and the report was that he did not need a new tent, and McCook accordingly refused him. In the afternoon while the Governor was in his office, Colorow came in half drunk, with a revolver in his hand, and came over to where McCook was writing and sat down. The Governor took in the situation at a glance, but did not look up "McCook, liar?" said Colorow. The Governor went on writing. "McCook d—n liar!" repeated the chief. Still McCook continued with his work. "McCook, G—d d—n liar!" said Colorow, reaching a climax. Nevertheless McCook would not look at him. By this time Colorow had concluded that there was no fight in the Governor, and allowed the hand containing the revolver to drop to his side. The move was a fatal one. In an instant McCook seized his wrist, knocked the weapon away from him, and, catching the astonished Indian by the neck, kicked him down stairs and out into the street, where there were a number of Utes standing about. With great tact, McCook pointed to the prostrate and humiliated form of Colorow, and, turning to the Utes, said:—"No man to lead braves. Colorow an old woman. Get a man for a chief." The next day the mortified Utes deposed Colorow.

A Curious Fact.

It is a curious fact that all the men whose reckless activity is now disturbing the peace of Europe are so far advanced in years that few, if any of them, can hope to witness the realization of their schemes. Prince Gortschakoff, the present Chancellor of Russia, is now in his eighty-second year, having been born July 16, 1798. The Czar himself, born April 29, 1818, is already close upon 62. Gen. Todleben, his most distinguished officer, is only a few days younger. Lord Beaconsfield will be 74 on the 21st of December. Prince Bismarck, born April 1, 1815, is less than ten years behind him. The latter's right hand man, Count von Moltke—the taciturn strategist, who "can hold his tongue in seven languages"—dates back to the 26th of October, 1800, and is thus on the very threshold of his eightieth year. The Emperor William himself, born on the 22nd of March, 1797, is now nearly 83. Amid such a group of veterans, Count Andrassy's 56 years, Count Schouvaloff's 52, and the 49 of the Emperor of Austria (born 18th of August, 1820) appear quite youthful.

The Fall Wheat Crop.

A correspondent informs us that he has travelled some hundreds of miles in this part of Ontario during the last few weeks, and finds that the fall wheat looks better and further advanced than he has ever known it in thirty-five years' experience in the country. He also states that there is a larger acerage than ever. There are stretches of a mile or more on both sides of the Canada Southern where every field is wheat, and as far as the eye can reach the country everywhere looks beautiful in its unrivalled green attire. The fear presents itself to the thinking mind that farmers are dropping into the old evil of over-cropping their lands with this grain, and the same evil results, if continued will surely follow.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

GRANT FOR RAILWAY PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Sun's Philadelphia despatch reports that there is a rumour that Gen. Grant will be offered the Presidency of the Pennsylvania Railway Company.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Sheridan's annual report says the force under his command is too small, comprising only one man to every 75 square miles in the departments of Platte and Dakotah territorys, and one man to every 120 sq. miles in the department of Texas. The reports says when the buffalo again return south of the boundary line they will be followed by the Indians, and it will be difficult to prevent such an invasion. The report therefore recommends the appropriation of $200,000 for the establishment of a large military post midway between Forts Buford and Assiniboyn, as near as possible to the northern boundary. The report refers to the outbreak at Fort Robinson, and disclaims all responsibility on the part of the army. It deplores that the most guilty of the band of northern Cheyennes which escaped about the same time, have not been punished. The report referring to the recent outrages in New Mexico, states that the prospect is fair for the capture of the Indians concerned. The recent outbreak among the Utes seems to have been brought about by local causes. The troubles on the Mexican border have ceased owing to the successful efforts on both sides of the line to capture the raiding parties. Sheridan states that there has been no general combination of Indians during the past year, and it is doubtful if another will ever again exist, as the advance of railroad improvement and of frontier settlements now impede communication between the different tribes. The Indians should be more abundantly provided for. Sheridan says the frequent cause of trouble is the removal of the Indians from their places to which they are strongly attached. He believes that the suspicion of the Utes that they were to be removed from their homes led to the present Colorado trouble.

A LIFE FOR FOUR DOLLARS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Dennis Spilland, a hatter, shot himself dead at Newark yesterday, because he could not raise four dollars, which he had been fined for assaulting his wife.

INDIAN ARMISTICE.

RAWLINS, Oct. 30.—The news from Merritt's camp reports that Agent Adams has granted the Utes ten days armistice, on account of their surrender of the agency captives. A big talk will be had between the Chief and the Commissioners at Uncompahgree agency, at which conference Ouray will be present. Whatever is agreed upon, will finally be submitted to the authorities at Washington. Adams says there is great lamentation in the hostile camp upon his departure. The squaws flocked about him, imploring him to send the troops away.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 30.—There was a destructive fire this morning, originating at half-past three in a small office. It was the work of an incendiary. The flames spread so rapidly on account of the high winds and the scarcity of water that little could be done until the portion of the city between the Mansion Place and Wilson & Manifold's dry goods house, and from the river to the Bluff, was totally destroyed. About a hundred buildings, comprising the principal business portion of the town, and involving a loss of probably $200,000. There was little insurance, as the policies were generally cancelled.

EXPECTED GENERAL UPRISING.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A despatch from Simla says that the troubles in Afghanistan have broken out afresh, and that the chances are good for a general uprising all over the country throughout the winter, whose coming is already announced by heavy snowfalls upon the mountains.

DEFEAT OF THE INSURGENTS.

A British force detailed from the garrison at Khelati Ghilzai is reported to have attacked and defeated a body of Afghans with a free-booting force under the command of Sahib Jans. The battle occurred near Shohjui Point, in the vicinity of Khelat. Fifty Afghans are reported killed. The British loss was twenty-seven killed and wounded, including Capt. Sartorius, whose injuries are dangerous. Both infantry and cavalry were engaged. The Afghans made a desperate struggle, and will, it is expected, soon make a strong and combined attempt to take Khelat, and important post on the route from Candahar to Cabul.

Special Telegraph to the Review.

QUIET, THOUGH HOSTILE.

CABUL, Oct. 30.—The population is quiet although no doubt deep hatred of British domination exists.

IMPORTANT PROCLAMATION.

SIMLA, Oct. 30.—Gen. Roberts has issued a proclamation to the Afghan authorities and chiefs. They are instructed to continue to maintain order and are invited to hold a consultation with Gen Roberts. The people will be treated with justice and benevolence, their religion and customs will be respected, and loyalty and good service to the British crown will be suitably rewarded. All offenders will be punished. Arrangements for the permanent administration will be made after the above consultation.

AQUATICS.

COURTNEY REFUSES TO SIGN THE ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 28.—Whatever may be thought of the course pursued by Hanlan and his advisers at Chautauqua Lake recently, all true sportsmen can now have but one opinion of Charles E. Courtney. What his objection may be to the articles forwarded him by Hanlan is as yet only a matter of conjecture, but inasmuch as they only contained two provisions not included in the articles signed by Courtney for the race on the 16th, it is fair to suppose that it is to one or both of these provisions that the American objects.

If Courtney wishes to have a fair and square race with Hanlan the public will be at a loss to understand his objections to this clause.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 30.—The donors of the Hanlan-Courtney prize decline to deliver the money to Blaikie because Hanlan claims it as legally and morally his, and Blaikie would, under his ruling, be obliged to give the prize to Hanlan without any race. The donors stipulate to pay all expenses of legal proceedings should Hanlan be awarded the original sum by the Courts. They lay stress on Blaikie's mistake in directing the men to row, knowing the offer of the prize was for both men to row, and on his concession that the decision declaring it was a race was wrong, by insisting that both men shall now row the race in accordance with the offer of the donors of the prize. Under the circumstances the donors think that neither the contestants nor the public would be satisfied by having the funds placed under Blaikie's controle, and they are now ready to place the money anywhere that will produce an actual, honest, rowing match between Hanlan and Courtney.

THE PRUSSIAN DIET.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Berlin correspondent explains that the absence of reference to European politics in the Emperor's speech at the opening of the Prussian Diet yesterday, was due to the fact that such mention would be out of place in a speech from the Prussian Throne.

BENEVOLENT FETE.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The fete to be held at the Hippodrome shortly, under the management of the Paris newspapers for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent floods in Spain is expected to surpass any previous effort of the kind.

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Telegraph says the mission at Vienna of Baring and DeBlegnieres, recently appointed controllers of the Egyptian Finances, has failed. Thus the first result of the recent Austro-German alliance is opposition to the settlement of Egyptian affairs. The opposition of Turkey to a reasonable arrangement of the Greek question is attributable to the same cause. The object of Baring and DeBlegnieres was to induce Austria to accept communion of control in Egypt. Austria insists that the commission's operations must be subordinated to the prior claims of the creditors who hold mortgages on the estates surrendered by the Khedive's family to guarantee the recent Rothschild loan. As the Rothschild loan was negotiated with the aid of the French and English governments, Austria's opposition really affects the whole question of European interference in Egypt.

CARDINAL MANNING'S PLAN.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Rome despatch says Cardinal Manning leaves London for Rome on the 6th November, to endeavor to win the assent of the Vatican to his long cherished system, which by admitting certain changes in the external organization of the Catholic Church in England, will facilitate the return to Catholicism of an important group of English Protestants.

SHIPMENTS OF GOLD.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—£136,000 sterling in bullion were withdrawn from the bank yesterday for shipment to New York.

AMERICAN.

SALE OF HORSES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Bonner sold at auction to-day a large number of trotting horses. Over 3,000 persons attended. Most were sold for low figures.

POSTAL FACILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A comparison of the relative use of postal facilities in the United States and Great Britain shows that 727,000,000 letters were handed in the United States against 1,057,782,000 in Great Britain, but we used last year twice as many postal cards as the people of Great Britain and about eight times as many newspapers were sent through the mails in this country.

A POLITICAL FRACAS.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 29.—At the Readjuster's meeting last night J. H. Powell, readjuster candidate for the senate denounced John Taylor, editor of the Recorder as a liar and a coward. Taylor drew a pistol which was struck down and discharged. Powell also drew a pistol but was disarmed. The difficulty was finally adjusted by the retraction of the offensive language by both.

RAILWAY COMBINATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The Post says an arrangement is nearly perfected if not already so which will secure to the New York Central and Lake Shore railway, all the business or the bulk of it, which the Wabash system of roads can bring to Toledo and on the other hand will secure to the Wabash and its tributaries, all the south-western business of the Vanderbilt roads. It is the most important railroad west that has occurred for many months and is a sufficient explanation for the recent buying, without much regard to price of Lake Shore, New York Central and Wabash stock.

THE INFLUX OF GOLD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The Herder from Hamburg to-day brought 1,367,000 francs in gold.

MANUFACTURING AT HOME.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—The imports of paper have decreased from $527,000 worth in 1869 to $126,000 worth in 1879. The exports of paper have increased from $3,700 worth in 1869 to $1,299,000 worth in 1879. The imports now consist almost exclusively of fashionable and fancy writing and wall papers.

THE MEXICAN REPUBLIC.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 19.—The Senate is considering a proposition that the election of President and Vice-President of the Supreme Court be exclusively by the Chamber of Deputies, the President of the Supreme Court being also Vice-President of the Republic. The project involves grave questions of law. It would entirely alter the political system and facilitate access to power of persons who would fail of popular election.

A MYSTERIOUS BOX.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A passenger on the steamer from Barbadoes, which arrived to-day, left a large box in his stateroom, addressed Rev P. W. Powers, New York. The box was found to contain a sealed tin box, with a decomposed human body inside. Rev. Mr. Powers cannot be found in this city.

LYNCH LAW IN MISSOURI.

KOKOMA, Oct. 29.—The trial of Bill Young for the murder of Louis Spencer and 4 children resulted on Saturday in his acquittal. Although Young was acquitted the belief in his guilt was very decided among the citizens and they determined to lynch him. On Sunday Young was married. As the train passed through Kokoka this morning Young and his wife alighted, and a mob of 200 to 300 followed them on horseback and in waggons, and surrounding his house demanded a surrender. Young opened fire on the mob, and shots were exchanged until he was wounded. Eight men then forced their way into the house, took him out, and hanged him. The excitement was intense.

ELOPEMENT.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 29.—Much excitement has been caused over the elopement of Mrs. Wm. Bennett, with Captain Lee Tilton, lately proprietor of the Narragansett Hotel and once commander of the steamer Plymouth Rock. Mrs. Bennett had a good social position. Her daughter married the eldest son of Douglas Chace, the mill defaulter.

SHIP-BUILDING.

The anti-nationalist press have been pertinaciously asserting that the National Policy has checked ship-building in the Maritime Province: The St. John, N.B. Sun gives details of vessels in construction or planned, and says:—

"Here in New Brunswick alone there will be not less than 12,000 or 13,000 tons of shipping in course of construction this winter, even judging from the above incomplete list. We have no doubt that there will be much more, as nearly all our ships abroad are making handsome earnings and good remittances are coming home every week for, probably, further investment in new ships. Under such circumstances ship-building can not be said to have been destroyed in New Brunswick or in St. John.

As regards Nova Scotia, we have reason to believe that ship-building will be active there this winter and much more so next year."

The Seaforth Expositor, a Reform journal, is honest enough to admit the general revival in business consequent upon the National Policy, in the following paragraph:—

"Our streets are assuming their old-time appearance. Saturday last was the biggest day we have had for five years. The town was crammed full from early in the forenoon until late in the evening. The streets looked as if it was a fair day, and the stores and other business places were crowded with purchasers. As a result of all this our business men are commencing to wear cheerful countenances, and we may expect that ere long the care-worn traces of the hard times will be entirely wiped out."

PORT HOPE.

PERSONAL.—The Port Hope Times has the following complimentary remarks on the junior member of our new auctioneering firm:—"While in Peterborough last week, we met our old friend, Mr. W. Gilbert, formerly of this town, who has gone into the auction business in that flourishing town. He possesses both ability and energy, and we feel sure will meet with success. Parties in this vicinity having need of the services of a good auctioneer in Peterborough will do well to communicate with him."

THE HARBOR.—The Guide says:—The schooner Mary Ann Lydon arrived last night and is being loaded with lumber. Seven vessels cleared on Tuesday, viz.: The schooner Two Brothers, Lewis Ross, Flora Carveth, Guelph, Corisande, Aurora and the steamer Lothair, the first with barley shipped by Mr. Salter, and the others with lumber by Messrs. Irwin & Boyd, and E. S. Vindin.

LARGE SHIPMENT.—The Daily Times says:—Yesterday Mr. Aikens shipped six hundred sheep and lambs, to New York, by the Forseman and this morning a like number were waiting for the rival of the boat, which was kept a little late on account of yesterday's storm. Mr. Aikens is probably one of the largest cattle dealers in the Province, and has shipped an immense stock of various kinds, to both England and the United States during the past season. We think it would pay many of our farmers, especially along the front, to go more extensively into stock raising than they do.

OTTAWA.

CHINESE LABOUR.—The following is the petition of the British Columbians in regard to the employment of Chinese labor on the Pacific Railway:—

Sir John Macdonald, Premier of the Dominion of Canada:—

SIR,—At a public meeting held on Vancouver Island and the Mainland, it was resolved to petition the General Government to have a clause inserted in Government contracts for the construction of railways in British Columbia, prohibiting the employment of Chinese labor on such contract, the Government to aid in supplying Canadian labor in preference, which would be beneficial to the country, and for which your petitioners will ever pray.

HON. MR. JOLY'S DEFEAT.

THE GOVERNMENT DEFEATED BY A MAJORITY OF SIX IN A FULL HOUSE.

Speculations as to Their Successors—Awaiting the Lieutenant-Governor's answer to Advice—Rejoicing at the Result.

QUEBEC, Oct 29.—The vote this afternoon was taken rather suddenly. No sooner had the Speaker ruled Mr. Mercier's motion out of order than the cry of "question" was raised with a force that was not to be mistaken. As yesterday, the galleries were crowded to suffocation, but not the slightest manifestation on their part interrupted the proceedings. The vote was taken at thirty-five minutes past four, amidst silence, which was only broken when Messrs. Racicot, Fortin, Chauveau, Flynn and Paquet cast theirs against the Government, when they were cheered by both sides of the House.

The second vote was taken without the slightest interruption, and although at the announcement, and during and after the adjournment of the House, several attempts at a manifestation were made in the galleries, they were immediately suppressed.

No sooner had the speaker left the Chamber than Ministerial supporters commenced to choose seats for themselves on the Opposition side of the House, seeing which those on the Opposition selected for themselves seats on the Ministerial side of the House. The members of the Opposition adjourned to the dining-room of the House, where they celebrated their success, and brief addresses of congratulation were given by Messrs. Chapleau, Lynch, Flynn and Racicot.

The Cabinet are assembled in Council this evening. Is is expected that, following out their policy of clinging to power till the last minute, they will not resign, but will ask the Lieutenant-Governor to dissolve the House. This will enable them to draw their salaries a day or two longer, but the result is not far off, as already three of those who voted with the minority have signified their desire to support a new administration.

Special Telegram to the Review.

AWAITING AN ANSWER.

QUEBEC, Oct. 30.—When the House met at 11 o'clock a.m., Mr. Joly moved an adjournment till three p.m., as an answer had not yet been received from the Lieutenant-Governor to a recommendation which he had made him. Nothing further can therefore transpire until after three o'clock.

A MINISTRY SUGGESTED.

The Chronicle says that the personel of a new Government is freely discussed, the following names being mentioned:—The Hon. Mr. Chapleau, Premier and Provincial Secretary; the Hon. Dr. Ross, President of the Council; the Hon. Joseph Robertson, Treasurer; Mr. Loranger, Attorney-General; Mr. Lynch, Minister of Public Works; Mr. Flynn, Solicitor-General; Mr. Paquet, Minister of Crown Lands.

At 3.20 Mr. Marchand entered the House, and stated that the Premier had received a communication from the Lieutenant-Governor, which necessitated him repairing to the Government House for an interview; he therefore requested that the House would suspend its sitting awaiting his return.

Mr. CHAPLEAU—"Certainly."

MR. JOLY RESIGNS.

Mr. Joly returned to the House at 3.45 and stated that he had asked the Governor for a dissolution, but had been refused for reasons alleged in a letter which he had received permission to read to the House. He had tendered his resignation and that of his confreres, which had been accepted.

PEDESTRIANISM.

Conclusion of the Twenty-Seven Hour Ladies Walking Match.

The Globe of Wednesday says:—The attendance at the Roller Skating Rink yesterday was not large. Of the three ladies engaged in the 27-hour walking match, Miss Edwards was upon the track by far the most steadily. Commencing her day's walking about seven o'clock, she continued with but few interruptions for the remainder of the time. Miss Kilberry began early and walked steadily until about two o'clock, when from sudden illness she was obliged to retire from the track for several hours. Miss Morahan did not commence walking until about ten o'clock, but she made good time and considerably reduced Miss Edwards' lead of about eighteen miles, though her struggle for first place was evidently a hopeless one. In the evening the building was well filled with spectators, and the walkers, enlivened by the plaudits which were freely bestowed upon each, and by the music, sped around the track in good form. Miss Edwards continued steadily on the go, and her title to the prize was clearly demonstrated long before the match was over. Miss Kilberry was still suffering from indisposition, and her gait was rather less active than it would otherwise have been. Several times she reversed, and went around the wrong way for a mile or more at a time. Miss Morahan starting at six o'clock made good time, covering 25 miles before eleven o'clock. Miss Edwards retired about 10:45 with a score of 80 miles, Miss Morahan shortly after with a score of 60 miles to her credit, and Miss Kilberry continued walking up to eleven o'clock, by which time she had covered 72 miles.

The referee, Mr. E. W. Johnson, then formally declared Miss Edwards winner of the prize, and that lady came out and sped around the track once at a very fast gait, followed by the applause of the spectators.

The 75-hour match between Messrs. F. L. Edwars, P. Crossland, and J. Dobler, for the championship of America and a purse of $1,000 will begin in the Rink this evening.

If Demosthenes had not suffered, and by unwearied efforts overcome great obstacles, would he have become the greatest orator in the world? If our modern Demosthenes have a cough, cold, or tickling of the throat, nothing will relieve them so speedily as HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM. It is an excellent remedy for quinsy, influenza, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, etc. For sale by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

A POSITIVE FACT.—Nervousness in the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the VICTORIA COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. ROUSSEU & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

A PRAYER ADAPTED TO THE TIMES.

"Give us this day our daily bread,"
And pies and cakes, besides,
To load the stomach, pain the head
And choke the vital tides;
And if to soon a friend decays,
Or dies in agony,
We'll talk of God's "mysterious ways,"
And lay it all to Thee.

Give us, to please a morbid taste,
In spite of pain and death,
Consumption strings around the waist,
Almost to stop the breath;
Then if infirmity attends
Our stunted progeny,
In visitation of our sins,
We'll lay it all to Thee.

Give us good houses, large and tall,
To look the cabins down,
And servants dodging at our call,
And shaking at our frown.
The poor, however worthy they,
We'll treat quite scornfully;
Then sixpence pay, communion day,
And settle up with Thee.

We do disdain to toil and sweat,
Like those of vulgar brood!
Of labor give us not a bit,
For physic nor for food;
And if for want of exercise,
We lack the stamina,
Of those we trample and despise,
We'll lay it all to Thee.

If any curse we have forgot,
That on a votary
Fashion lets fall, withhold it not,
But send it grievously,
And if to great the mill-stone weight,
For frail humanity,
We'll never blame ourselves a mite,
But lay it all to Thee.

Yes, give us coffee, wine and beer,
And hot things we enjoy,
The stomach's warm bath, thrice a day,
To weaken and destroy;
And if defying Nature's laws,
Dyspeptic we must be—
We'll scorn to hunt for human cause,
But lay it all to Thee.

ZULULAND.

We have been requested to publish the following letter written from Durban, Natal, by Mr. R. N. Williams, formerly a partner in Australia of Mr. S. Fowlis, of Peterborough. This natural and unaffected description of the country and its inhabitants by a gentleman of evidently large colonial experience will no doubt be read with interest in view of the recent and present events in South Africa:—

'DURBAN, Natal, South Africa,
8th September, 1879.

"DEAR FRIEND,—I have no doubt you have been expecting to hear from me before now, as I promised to write on my arrival in South Africa, but upon second thoughts I came to the conclusion it would be well to wait until I had been here a little time before I attempted to give you my impressions of this part of the world. I left Southampton in the SS. Arab on the 22nd of May, and calling at Madeira and St. Helena, where we went on shore at both places, and had a very enjoyable time of it. We arrived at Cape Town on the 14th June, after a very pleasant voyage. We remained there for five days, and during our stay myself and seven others made the ascent of Table Mountain, and were well repaid for our toil and labour by the glorious panorama spread before us when we reached the summit. It took us four hours to reach the top, we stayed there for nearly three hours, and got down again in two-and a-half hours. On account of our calling at Mossel Bay, Port Elizabeth, Port Alfred, and East London, to land cargo and passengers, we did not reach Port Natal until July 1st. You know I came out here with the idea of going to the Transvaal gold fields, and after a few days stay in Durban, I went up the country as far as Pieter-Maritzburg, 56 miles from Durban, when from the information I obtained as to the unsettled state of that part of the Transvaal, from the threatening attitude of the Chief Secocoeni and his Kaffirs, I came to the conclusion it was not advisable to go on for the present, so I had an interview with the Postmaster-General of Natal, and was fortunate enough to obtain an appointment as clerk in the post office here in Durban. I returned here after ten days stay in Pieter-Maritzburg, and entered upon my duties on August 1st. Durban is a busy little town of some 12,000 inhabitants, more than half being colored people, Zulus, Kaffirs, Hottentots, Negroes, and other races. The white population of the whole colony of Natal (not including the soldiers) is not more than 25,000, while the blacks exceed 300,000, so you see we should stand a poor show if the natives in the colony were to combine together and rise against the whites. The blacks are much employed here as household servants, and do all the hard work of the country, and it seems strange at first to new comers to see the duties of housemaids, chambermaids, and nurse girls performed by male natives, females being seldom employed. They go about in the very scantiest of costumes, and in the country districts often go without any clothes at all, except a little of something around their loins, and a few feathers and ornaments on their heads and arms.

As you may well suppose, the town of Durban has a very military appearance, from the number of soldiers always to be seen in the streets, and the war has given trade and commerce here a very great impetus. Many of the business people are making large fortunes, and things generally are very prosperous. There is no poverty in the country whatever, and I have not seen what you could call a really poor person since I came here. This country will not, however, be a field for emigration for the laboring classes of Europe, like America, Australia, or New Zealand, as all the rough, hard work is done by the colored people. The climate on the coast here is semi-tropical—something like Queensland. There are numerous sugar plantations, coffee is grown to a small extent, and most tropical fruits do well here. The country generally is well watered, and the the land fertile, but the most of South Africa has a very barren, uninviting aspect, on account of the great scarcity of timber. I am told that there are woods and forests in some parts, but so far I have not seen anything worthy to be called a tree, except the Australian blue gum, which thrives well here. This is the cool season here, and the weather so far has been very pleasant, but we shall soon have it very hot, and I am told the plague of insect life here during the summer is almost unbearable. There is one advantage in living in Durban, and that is having the benefit of the sea breeze. I live within five minutes walk of the ocean beach, where the great rollers of the Indian Ocean come in with grand effect. The climate is much more temperate in some of the inland districts, which are very elevated, and in some parts attain an elevation of four to five thousand feet above the sea level. At Pietermaritzburg it is much cooler than on the coast, it being some 2,000 feet higher. It is the capital of Natal, but has only about seven thousand inhabitants.

From all the accounts I hear, I believe the the Transvaal must be a very fine country, and no doubt will go ahead as soon as the native question is settled and they get railway communication. Every one speaks well of its great fertility, its resources and mineral wealth. Sir Garnet Wolseley is said to be going up soon with two or three regiments to bring Secocoeni, the Kaffir Chief, to book for his depredations during the last 12 months. The gold fields are close to his country, but at present they are almost deserted on account of the war, the few diggers who remain there have built a laager, and they remain there at the risk of losing their lives.

Anything I may write of the Zulu war will not have much interest for you, as it will be old news by the time this letter reaches you—your papers no doubt keeping you posted up in all the important movements. There has been no fighting to speak of since the battle of Ulundi, where over 1,000 Zulus were killed. The King (Cetewayo) was captured last week, and has been sent away in a steamer, so I believe the war may now be considered to be at an end for the present. Many people here believe it is bound to break out again sometime unless the country is annexed by England.

There is a party in this country at the head of which is the famous Doctor Colenso, Bishop of Natal, who say we had no just cause to proclaim war with the Zulu King and his people, and they consider the Zulus have been very harshly treated. It is certain that they are a wonderfully brave people and have only been doing what we are all told is the duty of every one to do, that is, to defend their country. We began the war and invaded Zululand, so it cannot be said they were the aggressors. I have no doubt the result will be in less than 2 years that the country will be annexed, and thus the Colonists will obtain what they have long desired, free access into Zululand. It is said there are good indications of extensive gold fields there. There is plenty of coal, fertile land, good water everywhere and the climate generally is healthy, so it is bound at no distant date to be occupied by European settlers. I have heard Bishop Colenso preach several times since I came to Natal. He is a fine, venerable looking man, and I like his sermons very much, although he is no orator. He is not popular with the majority of the Colonists on account of the course which he has thought it his duty to take regarding the Zulu war. He is a very able man, and I believe thoroughly honest and sincere in his views, and there is no man in the country who knows the Zulus better than the Bishop.

There is a young man named Henry Holland living here at the boarding house where I live, and he tells me that he has a brother named William Holland living in Peterborough. Perhaps you know him. He is a watch engraver. His brother has a good situation here as shipping clerk in the Union S. S. Co's. office. I don't like this country so well as Victoria, but now I am here I shall stay for two or three years, and if anything turns up in the way of any discoveries of new gold fields in South Africa I may try my luck once more at the old game. I would like to pay a visit to America once more some day if I meet with any luck, but I think I should like to end my days in Victoria. That country seems more like home to me than any other, and I have no desire to visit England again. I heard from Australia a few days ago. There is no fresh news of interest from the old quarter. Things are going on in the usual way. A rush has taken place to a new gold field in Tasmania, and a few good finds were made, but the field is not extensive.

The war has raised the price of everything here. I pay 30s per week for board and lodging, at the hotels it is from 50s to £3 10s 0d.

I see that Manitoba and the Great North-West is going ahead fast. It is a fine country no doubt, but I should be afraid of the winters. Major Butler, who wrote some works, the "Great Lone Land" and the "Wild North Land," descriptive of that country, lives just opposite to me here. He was with Sir Garnet Wolseley in the Red River Expedition, and he acts here as the chief of the lines of communication for the army.

I remain,
Yours truly,
R. N. WILLIAMS."

LEARNING, like money, may be of so base a coin as to be utterly void of use; or, if sterling, may require good management to make it serve the purpose of sense or happiness.

Dancing and Bathing.

For some time there has been an effort on the part of society leaders in Long Branch to induce the ladies who are fond of bathing to emulate the example set in Europe just twenty years ago by the Empress Eugenie and the Countess Clarry, who danced in the water at Biarritz. The proposition was made at the opening of the season, but for some reason or other was coldly received. Now it appears likely that it may be entertained more favorably. The design in brief is thus explained:—Sets of quadrilles are to be formed in the surf to the sound of the cornet, and the dancers, who are very numerous, can gratify their desire for the grotesque, picturesque, or burlesque in attire by having their garments made of flannel and cut in any fashion they please. Gentlemen can wear serge swallow-tails. Ladies, frilled and trimmed dresses. The fun of the thing can be well imagined. It would be amusing, no doubt, to see the vain attempts to trip through a boiling surf to the orders of the master of ceremonies:—"Ladies change!" "Gents forward and back!" &c. Dr. Bailey, Charles Leland, and Mr. Hamilton and all the hotel proprietors are anxious to enlist the cottage owners and beau monde in the venture. Nous verrons.

Poor Charlotte.

The ex-Empress Charlotte's health has much improved in her new home. She has one remarkable peculiarity—that of never speaking in the first person, always using the abstract substantive "on." "On desire, on vent, on exige." She is kindly and gracious to all who surround her, and takes a great interest in the families of the farmers and cottagers on the estate; when inquiring about them, she says:—"It is wished to know if they are well and happy"—or she will mention to the gardener that "it is remarked" there are leaves in a certain alley that should be swept away, or that some alteration has been nicely done. Her meals are served with the same ceremony as at court and she always dresses specially for them. When her dinner is announced she enters the room, makes a ceremonial courtesy to her suite, and takes her seat, eating with excellent appetite, and talking sensibly enough.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

The Burlington Hawkeye preaches the following short but very appropriate and forcible sermon, to the young men who have just graduated from college and propose to go forth to seek their fortunes, and enlighten mankind:—

"And then remember, son, that the world is older than you are by several years; that for thousands of years it has been so full of smarter and better young men than yourself that their feet stuck out of the dormer windows; that when they died the old globe went whirling on, and not one man in ten millions went to the funeral or even heard of their death. Be as smart as you can, of course. Know as much as you can, without blowing the packing out of your cylinder heads; shed the light of your wisdom abroad in the world; but don't dazzle people with it. And don't imagine a thing is so simple because you say it is. Don't be too sorry for your father because he knows so much less than you do; remember the reply of Dr. Wayland to the students of Brown University, who said it was an easy enough thing to make proverbs such as Solomon wrote. "Make a few," tersely replied the old man. And we never heard that the young man made any. Not more than two or three, anyhow. The world has great need of young men, but no greater need than young men have of it. Your clothes fits you better than your father's fits him: they cost more money; they are are more stylish, your moustache is neater, the cut of your hair is better, and you are prettier, oh, far prettier, than "pa." But, young man, the old gentleman gets the biggest salary, and his homely, scrambling signature on the business end of the check will drain more money out of the bank in five minutes than you could get out with a ream of paper and a copper plate signature in six months. Young men are useful, son, and they are ornamental, and we love them, and we couldn't engineer a pic-nic successfully without them. But they are not novelties, son. Oh, no, nothing of the kind. They have been here before. Don't be so modest as to shut yourself clear out; but don't be so fresh you will have to be put away in the cool to keep from spoiling. Do not be afraid that your merit will not be discovered. People all over the world are hunting for you, and if you are worth finding they will find you. A diamond isn't so easily found as a quartz pebble, but people search for it all the more intently."

Ungrateful to the Doctor.

The doctors who are called up in the middle of the night, at the risk of getting pneumonia, are just as liable to go without their pay when the danger is past as though they were called in the day time. One of them was one night aroused by a frightful knocking at his door. Sticking his head out of the window he asked the matter. "O, doctor, it is my poor wife!" "I beg your pardon, but I haven't the honour of your acquaintance, and I am not accustomed ———." "I know it, doctor, but her life is at stake. If you only know how much I love her. For heaven's sake, I beg you;" and he went on for a considerable time in this fashion, until the doctor relented, in spite of the cold winter night. He dressed himself, went out, waded far through the snow, prescribed, and saved the cherished woman. Several days passed, and hearing nothing of any pay, he sent in his bill. Nothing. Then he sent a collector. The devoted husband greeted the dun with anger, exclaiming: "Go to the devil! The idea of my paying that bill for a woman who has since run off with another man!"

A Nose Show.

A nose show lately took place in Vienna which, although, perhaps, not patronized by the haute volee of Viennese society, excited none the less the amusement and interest of the public. The long dancing-room of the old inn "Zur Bretze," was the scene of the competition, which lasted from midnight till four a. m. Every one on entering the room in which the "noses" were assembled in merry "symposium" received a ticket, which, after due deliberation, he presented to the nose of his choice, and the holder of the greatest number of these tickets when four a.m. arrived was declared winner. Here sat an ostler, famed in his parish for the long, snout-like proboscis with which Nature had furnished him, while next him, and engaged in pleasant banter with a rival competitor, sat the renowned Reicher, the fiaker, whose rubicund and raspberry-like organ can be seen like the red lamp of a railway train as he dashes through the streets behind his pair of fast trotters. As the clock strikes four a 'Hoch Reicher' bursts out from the company, for the fiaker's famous four-inch nose has won.

An American Girl.

A very imaginable foreign correspondent writes:—"A dashing American girl now traveling in Europe would probably say somebody was a 'mean old thing' if she could hear the gossips about her. One of them says: 'I have actually seen her blush like a girl, though I knew she had a quarter of an inch of creme imperatrice and veloutine on her face. She can blush when she pleases—she does it somehow by drawing in her breath and holding it so. I have watched her.' 'She can make tears come to her blue eyes in some similar manner,' said another, 'and she can hold one diamond tear for five minutes just poised on the edge of her lower lid. I've seen her do it. When she raises a tear she is economical of it, as if it were a real diamond, and one who wasn't watching her would naturally believe she had shed dozens of tears since that one rose.'"

A Child's Presence of Mind.

Victor Hugo, the French poet and novelist has a little granddaughter eight years old. Jeanne is his pet, and has been immortalized in two of the poets's works. She is a bright girl, fond of stories, and remembers what she hears. Not long ago a remembered story saved her life. Mounting the library steps to wind up a clock on the mantlepiece, her pinafore caught fire. In a moment her dress was in a blaze. she had heard the story of a lady who, when her dress caught fire, did not run but rolled on the carpet. The story flashed in her mind, and little Jeanne, instead of running out of the room, lay down and rolled over and over the floor. Though severely burned, she saved her life through a retentive memory and [illegible]. Jeanne is likely to be known, if she lives, to grow up to womanhood, outside her grandfather's books.

To Prevent Sneezing.

How to prevent sneezing was the subject of several communications in the New York Sun recently. One correspondent says that if a person desires to avoid sneezing let him press upward—from underneath—the nasal cartilage. To do this elegantly use the mouchoir, and press with considerable force. This is the method adopted by duck-hunters when lying in the marshes, if their proximity to the water gives them an inclination to sneeze, since the least noise would frighten away the ducks. Another writer, who is an old soldier, says that the easiest way to stop an inclination to sneeze without attracting any attention is to press the tongue as far back against the roof of the mouth as possible for a few seconds.

The Markets.

REVIEW OFFICE,
THURSDAY, October 30th, 1879.

As looked for by us last week, the grain market has been dull and drooping since then, with a slight decline established in the chief markets. Stocks on hand have been accumulating in the chief English markets, while the supply in sight is also large, and as a consequence the price of grain to arrive shows a marked and serious decline for recent purchasers on this side. Taking however into consideration the fact that we are now arriving at the season of the year when supplies coming forward must fall off, we are inclined to think that the bottom has very nearly been touched. In our own Canadian market it is curious to note that "Strong Baker's" flour made from Spring Wheat is now bringing as much as "Superior Extra," made from the best Fall Wheat in the Toronto market, and as much as 40 cts. per barrel more in the Montreal market—a fact which we believe can only be explained satisfactorily as the result of the National Policy. In "Meats" the upward movement noticed last week, has continued in the Liverpool market, although it is not so great as to induce speculation. As an offset, however, to the advance in Liverpool we have to note a downward tendency for both pork and lard in Chicago, with statements to the effect that the stock of these comodities now in hand in the States, is unusually large, with two or three millions more hogs still to pack than at this time last year. Butter continues to move upwards, and for a really good article the market is evidently excited. As a proof of how much the value of this article depends upon quality, we may mention that the Montreal Gazette quotes it in that market all the way from 14cts. to 28 cts. for the finest "creamy" A difference of 14 cts. per pound ought certainly to pay for a good deal of trouble in the making. "Brockville" butter, to which our own comes the nearest, however, is only quoted at from 18 to 22 cents. As bearing upon the value of inferior grades of butter, we call attention to a decline in lard in Liverpool to-day.

The following are the top quotations in Liverpool for each day of the past week:—

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

THURSDAY, Oct. 30.—The grain market this morning was flat; buyers holding off. This was especially the case with wheat. The receipts are very light, and what few loads came in were taken at quotations reluctantly. There was little doing in barley, with a downward tendency at quotations. There is no change to note in the other comodities, except in butter, which is firm at the advance to 20 cts for prime firkin, which is coming forward plentifully. The shippers here are buying for the English market. Several inferior lots were on the market, for which 15 cents was offered but refused, and withdrawn.

LOCAL NEWS

Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels.

To-morrow evening the Duprez & Benedict Minstrels will perform in Bradburn's Hall. They are highly spoken of by the press both in Canada and the United States, and should draw a large audience.

The Midland Central Poultry Association.

The Midland Central Poultry Association will hold their annual meeting on Thursday evening, November 6th, at 8 o'clock, in the Constables' room adjoining the Council Chamber. A full meeting is requested.

Target Practice.

Company No. 2, of the 57th battalion, under the command of Capt. Langford, have gone to complete their target practice drill at the rifle range. This Company began their target practice on Tuesday last. The weather was unfavourable for the completion of the shooting. To-day is a little better owing to the high winds which has been blowing in gusts.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day, are: strong westerly to north-westerly winds; cloudy to partly cloudy weather and passing showers of rain, followed by flurries of snow. The weather in Peterborough up to 3 o'clock p. m., has been in accordance with the above, except the snow, the afternoon being only partly cloudy with strong wind.

Clearing Sale of Boots and Shoes.

By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Mr. Samuel White has determined to make a clearing sale of his whole stock of boots and shoes for cash, during the next thirty days. We understand that this stock has been bought at a bargain, and Mr. White, being desirous of turning it all into cash, in the shortest possible time, will positively sell at first cost without any reserve whatever. This is an opportunity which seldom occurs in the boot and shoe line, and will, no doubt be gladly taken advantage of by the general public.

Dilapidated Sidewalks.

Dilapidated sidewalks are observable in all parts of the town. On Reid Street in front of Mr. William Hamilton's residence there is a broken plank. On Rubidge Street, in front of the Roman Catholic Convent School, a rotten plank forms a hole large enough for a man's foot to get caught some dark night. On Simcoe Street, between Rubidge and Stewart Streets, the planks are very shabby, as they also are east of Stewart Street. There are many other places needing repairs, which will be pointed out from time to time. On George Street, in front of Mr. H. LeBrun's gentleman's furnishing store, the walk is very much out of repair, and nearly if not quite as bad in front of McKee & Davidson's hardware house.

The Midland Rush.

The great rush of fall business of the Midland railway is about over. All orders for extra cars have been filled, the last of them came up this morning. A special train took to Lakefield last evening 11 flat cars. Another special this morning brought up for Peterborough and Hilliard's mills 19 flat and box cars. These, together with those already at Peterborough and northward, when loaded and forwarded, will, it is thought, close out the rush, and the business of the road will settle down into its regular routine trade. It is predicted by some that there will be a necessity for occasional special trains for some time to come; others again think not, as they say the closing of navigation will send railway freights so high that products can not be moved with profit.

"Port Hope Daily Times."

We have received the first number of the Port Hope Daily Times, and as might be expected, it does credit to the office from which has long been issued the best weekly paper of our sister town. The new daily is of the same size as our own, and the work of the editor, the reporter and the printer is all praiseworthy. The advertising patronage is also liberal. We have no doubt that the Daily Times will be successful in outliving its competitors in the struggle which it anticipates between the three dailies of Port Hope. We trust that our contemporary will meet with a success that will dissipate any hesitation as to the result that may now exist. The Weekly Times has done good service for the party it supports, and we have reason therefore to expect the Daily Times to be a valuable accession to the rank of Conservative journals.

A Forced Barter.

Yesterday about 5 o'clock p.m., a farmer stopped at G. B. Joubert's store at the corner of McDonnell and Reid streets, and wanted to buy a pound of candles and five pounds of tobacco. Mrs. Joubert was showing him some tobacco and while he had two plugs in his hand, and was wanting her to take less than 50 cents, the amount asked, he plunged out of the store, got on to his waggon and drove off at a rapid pace. Mrs. Joubert ran after him and meeting her husband, quickly related the circumstance. He immediately started in pursuit up to the hill with the fleetness of a deer and succeeded in overtaking the farmer. He jumped upon the waggon and demanded pay for the tobacco but it was refused. He then demanded the money or a bag of flour. The farmer whipped his horses using very profane language. Joubert thereupon dumped off a bag of flour and carried it some distance towards his home, when he borrowed a wheelbarrow and conveyed it to his store. The bag of flour is now awaiting the call of the owner who is unknown to Mr. Joubert. The name upon the 100 pound bag of flour is Jas. Lowes.

A Season of Bargains.

Notwithstanding the approach of winter weather and other circumstances tending to raise the prices of articles entering into every day consumption, Peterborough is in for a season of bargains in dry goods, dress goods, ready made clothing, underwear, boots and shoes, &c. A number of unlooked for circumstances have caused some excellent stocks of goods to be put up at auction to the highest bidder, and as these have been bought up at prices much less than the original cost, the holders are enabled to sell at prices away below legitimate values. It would be something unusual when bargains in dry goods were going if Fairweather & Co., did not appear in the front. To-day it will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that they have made a purchase in New York of a stock of dress goods at 33⅓ per cent. discount on the original cost. These goods are all the newest in the market, being fashionable and suitable for the season, and the prices which they quote some of the lines are so startling that they cannot fail to attract the attention of all in need of them.

Rifle Shooting.

Company No 1 of the 57th Battalion, yesterday had their terget practice on the rifle range at the north end of the town. Firing began at half-past nine o'clock a. m., lasting until half-past five p.m. The shooting was fair, when we take into consideration the fact that nearly all the competitors were new recruits, who had never had much practice. The strong variable winds blowing in gusts also prevented good shooting. There were three ranges; ten shots at 200 yards, standing position; and five shots each at 500 and 600 yards, any position. The following is the score:

Name.	Points.

Tax Exemptions.

People are beginning to be a little curious regarding the course which the Ontario Government intend to take this session in the matter of exemptions. Mr. Mowat had some grounds of expedience for shirking the issue last session, but he has none now, for he has a majority at which, if it be as obedient as Reform majorities usually are, should enable him to enter upon the adjustment of taxation with perfect confidence. Much can be said both in defense and in condemnation of exemptions, but that much can be said is no reason why nothing should be said and nothing done. The system of taxation ought to be ventilated in the Local Legislature. Let the case be stated pro and con, and what action is necessary can be taken. The people have no desire to be oppressive in their manner of removing oppression, so no nihilistic legislation will be demanded, but they are thoroughly sick of the oppression and must have it removed with as much expedition as is possible without creating civil tumult.—Toronto Telegram.

NO PONY, NO ILE.

His loving mother said, "if you take some of the castor-oil, I'll let you go to the circus."

"How much?" he cautiously inquired.

"Oh! only a spoonful; just a spoonful," she replied.

"And you'll give me some sugar besides?" he asked.

"Of course I will—a big lump."

He waited until she began pouring from the bottle, and then asked, "And you'll give me 10 cents too?"

"Yes, of course."

"And you'll buy me a shoo-fly kite?" he went on, seeing his advantage.

"I guess so,"

"No kite, no oil," he said, as he stepped back.

"Well, I'll buy a kite," she replied, filling the spoon up.

"And a velocipede?"

"I'll think of it."

"You can't think no castor-oil down me!" he exclaimed, looking around for his hat.

"Here—I will, or I'll tease father to; and I know he will. Come, now, swallow it down."

"And you'll buy me a goat?"

"Yes."

"And two hundred marbles?"

"Yes, now take it down."

"And a coach-dog?"

"I can't promise that."

"All right; no dog, no ile."

"Well, I'll ask your father."

"And you'll buy me a pony?"

"Oh! I couldn't do that. Now be a good boy and swallow it down."

"Oh! I'll swallow that stuff, I will," he said, as he claped on his hat. "You may fool some other boy with a circus-ticket and a lump of brown sugar, but it'll take a hundred dollar pony to trot that castor-oil down my throat."—Harper's Bazaar.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE averaged size of an Irish farm is 20 acres.

A FARMER attempted to cut into a premium pumkin at a fair in Council Grove, Kansas, to get a few of the seeds, but found it made of wood. It had taken many prizes at fairs for its weight 230 pounds, and its circumference, 7 feet.

A FAMILY at Carlsruhe having been poisoned by American corn beef, the German government has indicted the importation of all preserved meats from the United States. The meat by which the accident was caused was of excellant quality, but was rendered poisonous by the lead used to solder it.

CHARLES YOUNG whipped his wife at New Philadelphia, Ohio, within a week after their marriage. She had been a popular belle and a party of young men, probably including disappointed suitors, decided to avenge her wrongs. They seized Young in the street on a dark night carried him to the gass works, and pumped warm coal tar on him until the substance cooling, he was coated several inches deep. Then they took him home, placed him against the door-post and rang the bell.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, give us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong. It is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchial affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL, with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA is the remedy preeminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d50-1m

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

THE CRISIS IN QUEBEC.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR SENDS FOR MR. CHAPLEAU, WHO ACCEPTS OFFICE.

The Members of the New Government—The Council Vote the Supplies—Prorogation of the House.

QUEBEC, Oct. 30.—The coup d'etat of the 2nd March, 1878, is at an end, and once more the Province of Quebec returns to her ancient alliance and is governed by a Conservative Ministry.

This afternoon the House had hardly adjourned when the Lieutenant-Governor's aid de camp arrived and summoned Hon. Mr. Chapleau to Government House. On his arrival there, his Hon. called on him to undertake the responsibility of forming a new Ministry. Mr. Chapleau begged to be excused, but his Honour insisting, the hon. member for Terrebonne felt bound to obey, and promised to consult his friends, and lay before his Honour to-morrow morning, a list of names of those gentlemen whom he would join with him in a Ministry, who would not only be satisfactory to the large majority of both Houses, but also to the people. He had been hard at work all the afternoon and evening, and although the list is not definitely agreed on, it is likely the following gentlemen will be sworn in to-morrow morning:—Hon Mr. Chapleau, Premier; Hon. Dr. Ross, President of the Council; Hon. J. G. Robertson, Treasurer, and Messrs. Flynn, Loranger, Lynch, and either Paquet or Shehyn. The Hon. Mr. Church was offered a portfolio, but refused on personal grounds. To-morrow morning the names will be finally determined on, and the Ministry will be sworn and announced at the sitting in the afternoon.

The Legislative Council will meet at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning and the Supply Bill will be passed, so that the Parliament will be prorogued in the afternoon.

Offers of support by many of those who voted with Mr. Joly have been received this afternoon, so it is now certain that the new Government will be able to command a majority of from 12 to 16 votes in the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Wurtele's bills to affirm the sanctioning of bills assented to on 11th September will be passed, so as to legalise beyond a doubt the bills which then received the Royal assent.

POLITICAL RUMORS.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The News says that some people are confident that the dissolution of Parliament will be announced on Friday or Monday. It is rumored that the Ministry will undergo a most vital change. This means that Lord Beaconsfield will retire. All newspapers except the News seem to regard the further prorogation as negotiating the idea of a dissolution. The rumors of cabinet changes are probably unfounded.

A DIPLOMATIC SCENE.

PARIS, Oct 30.—At the dinner given last night by the Venezuelan Minister, the Diplomatic Representative of San Salvador, in proposing a toast to the Latin Republics of America, requested Senor Sorilla to speak. He was about to rise when the Secretary of the Spanish Embassy in Paris left, saying it was impossible for servant of the Crown to remain while Sorilla, who was a resolute adversary of that Crown, spoke in the name of the Spanish nation. Sorilla, in responding to the toast, said his peculiar position did not allow him to deliver a political speech on French society, but he simply claimed as an honor to himself and to Spain, to have carried a scheme whereby 33,000 slaves were emancipated.

THE JEWISH QUESTION.

The prospects of the Roumanian Government as to the Jewish question have been rather more favourable of late, both in the Chambers and among the European Powers. The matter has been amicably settled and the obelisk is now American property.

WALL STREET EXCITED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Wall street was very much excited yesterday when it became known that Comptroller Knox had interfered to prevent the over certification of stock brokers checks. Money became very tight and lenders stubbornly refused to lend on doubtful securities. Some houses had to pay as much as ⅛ per cent. bonus for money in addition to the legal interest. The Bank of New York, just before 2 o'clock, refused to certify checks, even to its oldest and strongest customers. Bank Examiner Meigs reports that he visited 16 prominent banks, and only half them did a certification business. They promised to curtail the practice as speedily as might be possible without bringing about a stock panic. Meigs intends to embody his views in a report to the Comptroller. He was afraid he said that it might result in an uneasy feeling in Wall street, but added that it was high time that the brokers were put on.

OUR MAIL SERVICE.

IT is wonderful how anxious our contemporary, the Examiner, has become for better mail service for Peterborough since the Post Office Department has ceased to be under control of that pure and high minded patriot, Mr. Huntington, and it is no longer the duty of Messrs. Bertram and Hall to "lose no time in bringing the grievance promptly under the notice of the Post Master-General." With its usual regard for facts, our contemporary, in order to have a fling at its political opponents, must manufacture them for the occasion—as it does when it states that the Midland have been receiving "nothing" for carrying the mails by the morning train.

But aside from the political ghost, which the Examiner seeks to raise in this matter, the position is simply this: The Midland Railway Company propose, during the winter season, to discontinue the early morning train going north from Port Hope, which now brings us our morning mails, and as a consequence we will have to go back to the old system in vogue previous to this summer, (and under the Mackenzie—Bertram—Hall—Examiner regime, if we must make a political matter of it) and again suffer all the well known inconveniance of getting all our mails in the middle of the day, unless arrangements are perfected for bringing the mail out at night instead of in the morning. As the night train is a very great accommodation to Peterborough, we have not the slightest doubt but that the Post Master-General will see that provision is made for having the evening mail forwarded to Peterborough the same evening. At present the evening train connects with the "local" from Toronto, but by a very slight alteration in the time-table, it can make close connection with the evening express, so that all the Post Office Department requires to do, is to have a bag for Peterborough made up on the Grand Trunk Express and handed to the Midland, instead of, as now, sending our mail matter to the Port Hope Office.

We know some are of opinion that to accomplish this it will be necessary to have a regular mail clerk put upon the route, but without, with our present information, expressing an opinion one way or the other upon this latter point, we have no hesitation in stating our opinion that we are entitled at the hands of the country to the service asked for, even should it necessitate the appointment of another clerk, and a corresponding increase in the cost of the Post Office Department—an increase which will be somewhat counterbalanced by some recent prunings in the Customs Department.

THE WHEAT SUPPLY.

The New York Produce Exchange Weekly says:—The wheat crop of the United States for 1879 is estimated at 425,000,090 bush. The spring wheat crop will not turn out so large as was expected. The spring wheat crop of Minnesota, according to early estimates, was 40,000,000 bushels, but later no more than 28,000,000 bushels. The consumption of 48,000,000 population, plus the amount required for seed and other purposes, is placed at 250,000,000, leaving 175,000,000 for export, comprising 160,000,000 for Europe and 15,000,000 for other ports.

MEETING a newsboy whose face was scarred with scratches, and looked like a map of some great railroad centre, a Register reporter asked the youngster what the matter was. "Feller spoke disrespectful of my sister; said he'd bet she was cross-eyed, and I sailed in." "Is your sister cross-eyed?" asked the reporter. "Hain't got no sister," was the reply. "It was the principle of the thing that I got licked for."

THE NUDE IN ART.

A Mansion House Row Over the Protraits of Half-Naked Zulus.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—In the Lord Mayor's Court at the Mansion House to-day, at the conclusion of a case in which a book seller was summoned for exposing photographs of some nude Zulus, the summons having been dismissed Alderman Nottage, who is a director of the London Stereoscopic and Photographic Company which printed the photographs, arose and said:

"On last Thursday, when I was not here"—

The Lord Mayor interrupted him, and said:—"I cannot allow you to address the Court."

Cries of "shame," accompanied by hisses and uproar followed.

Nottage—"I insist upon my right as a magistrate to be heard here." (Loud applause.)

Lord Mayor—Officer, do your duty. (Hisses.)

Nottage—I repeat I insist upon my right to be heard in reply to the observations you made behind my back last Thursday. (Applause, and a voice, "Speak to the reporters.")

At this point the Lord Mayor left the court, amidst loud groans, hisses and cries of "shame."

Nottage—The Lord Mayor has been pleased to say that he would scorn to take profit out of such indecent stuff.

The Lord Mayor, returning, ordered the court to be cleared, and a scene of wild confusion and tumult with groans and cheers ensued.

Nottage—Should you decline to hear me, and you are supposed to be dispensing justice from that seat, I impeach you in the name of the citizens of London with having brought discredit on your office, and with having violated the duty which belongs to that ancient chair.

The court was then cleared amidst groans, cheers, hisses, cries of "shame," and great uproar and excitement.

PLEASURES OF BALLOONING.

Throwing Out Live Ballast—A Light Upon Recent Events.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—The Times this morning publishes an account of one James Hale, of a balloon ascension which he made a good many years ago with Prof. H. J. Kane, at Canadaigua, N. Y., and which he thinks closely resembles the recent ascent of Prof. Wise and Burr, except that the relator escaped alive, while Burr was drowned. They floated over Lake Ontario; night came on, and the balloon began to sink. All the ballast was thrown out, but to no purpose. They nearly struck the mast of a passing vessel, and it appeared every moment as though they would drop into the waves Finally Kane said, "One of us can get to Canada, and the other must feed the fish. I've got a family, and I'm going to Canada," and whipping out a knife, he leaped into the rigging and cut the basket loose. Hale dropped into the middle of the lake. He was a good swimmer, and managed to get upon the basket. Next day he was picked up by the steamer Corinthian, bound for Rochester. Kane never was heard from. Hale calls attention to the similarity in Donaldson's case. The body of Grimwood was found on the shore, and in the case of Wise, the body of Burr was found on the shore. In the case of Kane, a passenger who became merely a matter of ballast when the question was whether the balloon must swamp or rise, was very fortunate in being dropped in frequented waters, and in the regular track of the steamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb have a sumptuous home at Middlesborough, Mass., to which their personal friends only are admitted. The "public" remain in the regions exterior. The mansion is of three stories, tastefully painted with piazzas and bay windows. The General gives a hearty welcome to his guests, and ushers them into an elegant drawing room, adorned with paintings. Chairs and sofas are all adapted to persons of ordinary size, and nothing in this story suggests its wee-ness, save in the library, replete with bric-a-brac from all the world, where a child's rocking-chair of black walnut receives the little madam, while her guests occupy ordinary seats. The madam says that she and the General have always got along well together. He is 40; she, 36. He now weighs 75 pounds, having weighed 50 pounds at 15; but he began life a good big boy of 6 pounds. Going up stairs one is inclined to take two steps at a time, for the steps of both flights seem but four or five inches each in height. At the head of the first flight, in the sewing-room stands the diminutive Wheeler & Wilson sewing-machine, a wedding present, fifteen years ago, from that firm, who at their own expense caused this exquitite pearl-inlaid plaything to precede the little travellers in every land they visited around the globe. It is a plaything in size alone, Mrs. Stratton making it do good service to the present day. In the front entry over the entrance is the General's grand piano, about two feet high. It was made in England, and cost $500, being inlaid with pearl, and richly gilded and enamelled. But the great feature of the establishment is their own apartment, where everything is adapted to themselves alone. Bureau, cabinet, dressing-table, sofa, chairs and bed are all diminutive, the last elaborately carved from ebony, and richly canopied in damask and lace, a gift from his father.

Settling a Point in Dancing.

During a ball on American Flats, two stalwart California miners had a row. Miner Mitchell who was on one side of a quadrille set, noticed that Miner Clarkson, at the other, was whispering to the couple opposite. Miner Mitchell suspected that it was a conspiracy on the part of the two side couples to dance the first figures in advance of the end couples. He resolved to assert rights, and as soon as the music struck up and the order was given to "for'ard and back" he broke for the centre of the floor. All the dancers in his set did the same, and the result was that there was a violent collision. Miner Clarkson suddenly hauled off and hit miner Mitchell in the eye. The fight then became general, and after a lively scene the dancers agreed to meet at the Police Court in Virginia City and argue the case. Miner Mitchell thumped the Bible and made solemn oath that he was an end man. Miner Clarkson retorted that according to the rules of the dance the two head couples always danced as the cracks of the floor ran. He had started to dance as designated by the cracks, and knew he was right. The Magistrate called for the fiddler, and ascertained that when there were no cracks in sight the rule was to dance toward the music, and as everybody had done this there were no side couples, and nobody was to blame.

Too Much Reading.

There can be no doubt that too much reading leaves a man no time for thought. The artist does not study colors all his life, and never paint. He is taught how to start, and then learns to paint by painting. The artisan doesn't spend a lifetime in training his eye and hand, and accumulating muscle; he gets his tools and goes to work.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address,—

BEAR IT LIKE A MAN.

WILLIAM LYLE.

When the skies of life are dreary,
When the heart grows sick and weak—
Try the better plan.
See in darkness promised light,
Hope for morning after night,
Turn your footsteps to the right,
And bear it like a man.

Sometimes you will deem it lonely,
Still keep striving forward, only
Try the better plan.
When you fail to win the race—
When no sunshine you can trace—
When the stream beats in your face-
Bear it like a man.

Some will tell you life is folly—
Ne'er give way to melancholy—
Try the better plan.
Do not fancy all mankind
Bent on keeping you behind—
Some must lose while some will find—
Bear it like a man.

True, the sea is often heaving—
No one makes it calm by grieving—
Try the better plan.
This is what the brave would do,
When the wild surges rise to view,
Venture, they will raise you too—
Venture like a man.

'Tis not how much ground you cover;
Be true, life will soon be over—
Do the best you can.
Earth is but a changing shore,
Nothing can the past restore—
At the end there's life and more,—
Earn it like a man.

PRINCIPLE AND PROFIT!

It was John Lurlington's own expression.

Half a dozen lawyers, fresh from their studies, and just admitted to the bar, were listening to his advice. The old jurist had a bottle of wine at his elbow, and was in a communicative mood.

"Young men," he said, "whatever may be your strait, never take a case before a jury, or before a court, unless you have your right bower for a head."

If the reader surmises from this that the old judge was fond of euchre, he will not have surmised amiss.

The young men looked at him inquiringly.

"I mean," he added, "that you shall never advocate a cause in the work of which you cannot enter with a clear conscience. You shall never accept a client whose cause you do not believe to be just."

"Can this rule always be adhered to?" asked one of the listeners.

"It can," answered Lurlington, emphatically. "It is a lawyer's firm rock of foundation, and the only sure point of departure to the respect and confidence of his fellows."

"Have you always followed that rule, Judge?"

"I was never tempted from it but once," he replied. "I will tell you the story if you would like to hear."

Of course they would like to; and, having laid aside his pipe, the old man began:—

"One day I was waited upon by a man who gave his name as Laban Sarfurt. He was of middle age, well dressed, and at first sight appeared to be a gentleman; but the illusion was dispelled when approaching business. He was hard and unfeeling, and naturally a villain. Success in speculation had saved him from becoming a thief or highwayman. I heard of him as a heavy dealer in the up-river lands. He asked me if I would undertake a job which would call me to Shireton. I told him that I was open to anything legitimate that would pay."

"Mr. Lurlington," said he, tapping me with a course familiarity upon the arm, "I want to secure your services; you must not be engaged on the other side."

"I told him if he would explain to me the case I might be better able to give him an answer. He bit an enormous quid of tobacco from a black plug, and having got it into shape between his jaws he went on with his story."

"The case is one of ejectment. An elderly man named Philip Acton, had died leaving a valuable estate. There was nearly 1,000 acres of land, with opportunities for developing immense water power; and ere many years that land would be worth more than $1,000,000. At present upon the estate, and claiming it as a son of the deceased, was a man calling himself Wm. Acton."

"But," said Sarfurt, "he is not a legitimate child at all. His mother was Betsy Totwood, at one time a girl in Acton's employ. Acton, I know, was never married. He brought the boy up and educated him, and now the fellow thinks he will step into his protector's shoes. I can prove that I am the only living relative of Philip Acton. He was my uncle—my mother's brother, and, to a lawyer as smart as you, there can be no difficulty in proving my title. I can bring the witnesses to your hand."

"He told me he would give $500 if I would undertake the case, and $1,000 if I gained. That was a big fee—far more than I then made in all my pleading. I was tempting. And yet I saw that it was not perfectly clear—nor entirely honest. The probability was that this William Acton was Philip's child; and it was not impossible that Philip had married Betsy Totwood. It struck me that Laban Sarfurt was a villian, and he fancied he had young Acton so far in his power that he could eject him from the title. But what had I particularly to do with that? If I had accepted a client, I must serve him. I had no business but to serve his interest. I finally told Mr. Sarfurt that I would think the matter over. I should probably have business in Shireton during the session of the court, and I would call on him and examine more fully. I could not take his retainer until I had further light."

"But," said he, "will you promise not to take up for the other side?"

"I told him I would do nothing without further consultation with him."

"Because," he added, "if you are for me I am sure to win. Acton can't find a lawyer that can hold a candle to you. I know them all."

"No matter whether I believed him or not, I did not feel flattered."

"Two weeks later I received a letter from Sarfurt, promising me $5,000 if I won.

"The $5,000 was a strong argument. Was law really a game of chance, in which the strongest hand and longest purse must win? I told myself yes. Yes—and I sat down and wrote a reply saying that I would take the case But I did not mail it at once. That night I put it under my pillow, and slept over it; and on the following morning I threw it into the fire. I would not make up my mind until I had seen other parties—until I had been on the ground. And I wrote Laban Sarfurt to wait.

"Two weeks latter I harnessed my horse to the wagon, and, with my wife and child, started for Shireton. I had been married two years, and our little baby, a girl, was a year old, our pride, our pet, and our darling. Shireton was a distance of about thirty miles. We had been [illegible] weather for a week or so, and it now [illegible] bright and beautiful. We stopped and [illegible] dinner at a wayside inn, four miles beyond which [illegible] stream which must be forded. The inn-keeper told me that the stream was somewhat swollen [illegible] the late rains, but that if my horse was trusty there could be no danger.

"Arriving at the stream, the Wampatuck river, I found the water indeed risen, and the current strong, but I saw that others had recently gone over and I resoleed to venture. I knew my horse and had faith in him. My wife was anxious, but she trusted my judgment. A third of the way across the water was over the hub of the wheels. A little more and it would have reached the body of the waggon. I began to be alarmed; I feared I had left the true track. Presently my horse stumbled and staggared, having evidently stepped on a moving stone. The waggon swayed and tipped, and the flood poured in upon us. My wife slipped, and in a moment more we were in the water; with one hand grasping the harness upon the horse, with the other I held my wife. I was thus struggling when a wild cry from her lips startled the air. Our child was was washed away.

"Oh my soul! I cannot tell you what I suffered during those moments. I could not help our darling. If I left my wife she was lost. I clung to the horse and clung to my shrieking wife—shrieking to God for mercy for her child. In the distance upon the bosom of the surging flood I could see our little one, her white dress gleaming in the sun, being borne swiftly away. A moment more I saw a man plunge from the bank into the river. I saw this much, and then an intervening point of land shut out the scene. The horse was now rapidly nearing the shore, and ere long my wife and I were on dry land, with the horse and waggon. As soon as I was sure my wife was safe I left her to care for the horse while I posted off down the river bank in quest of the swimmer and the child.

"You may well understand that all this time I was frantic. I was a machine being operated by a surging and agonizing emotion. How long or how far I wandered I do not know, but at length I met a man, wet and dripping, with my darling safe and sound. He told me that he had caught the child within a few rods of the falls, and that in landing he had cleared the fatal abyss by not more than two yards. He was a young man, not more than 25, handsome and stalwart. He said he had seen my wagon tip, and was coming to my assistance when he saw the child washed away. "I threw my life into the balance," said he with a genial smile, 'and thank God both the lives were saved!'

I asked him how I should ever repay him. He stopped me with an imploring gesture:

"If you talk of more pay than I have already received," he said. "If you can rob me of the only solid reward I can claim, mercy! If saving the life of such a cherub is not enough of reward in itself, then hard is the heart that can crave more." And, with moistened eyes, he told me had a child of his own at home—an only child of very nearly the same age.

I asked him if he would tell me his name. With a smile, he answered that his name did not matter—he was not sure that he had a name. I then asked him if he knew me. He nodded, and said he thought I might be Mr. Lurlington, of Walbridge. When I told him he was correct, he said he must hurry home. And with that he turned away. I was too deeply moved to stop him, and when he had disappeared I started to rejoin my wife with a dawning impression that the man might be slightly deranged. But my darling was safe—her broad fleecy cloak had floated out and kept her head above water—and I went on my way rejoicing, resolved that the preserver of my child should not be forgotten.

"I will not tell you of the emotion of my wife when she held her child once more in her arms. We reached Shireton before dark, and found quarters in a comfortable tavern.

"On the following day Laban Sarfurt called upon and was about to spread his evidence for my inspection, when I interrupted him. I told him I could not accept his confidence until I made up my mind to take his case in hand. Something seemed to whisper that there was danger ahead. I did not feel comfortable in that man's presence. I felt as though he was trying to buy me. The court would sit in four days. I told him I would give him a final answer in two days from that.

"That evening I made a confidant of my wife and asked her what I should do. 'If I take the case,' I said, 'I am sure of $5,000. She bade me do what was right. 'God has been kind to us,' she said. 'Let us look to him for guidance.'"

After this I called on a clergyman of the place, whose son had been a class-mate in college, and whom I had once before visited. He received me heartily, and bye and bye I asked him about William Acton. The result of all he told me in summing up in his closing sentence. Said he:

"I am sure William Acton was Philip Acton's child—in fact I know it—and I think the father and mother were married. Betsy died very soon after her child was born, and we know that Phillip always treated the boy as a legitimate child; and that he loved him as such I can confidently affirm."

"On the following morning, after breakfast, as I sat by the window in the bar-room, I saw coming from the street the man who had saved my child. He was walking slowly by like one in trouble. I pointed him out to my host, and asked him who he was.

"This is William Acton. Perhaps you have heard of the trouble he is likely to have with Laban Sarfurt?"

"I said I had heard.

"I hope he may come out all right," the host added; "but I am fearful. He has got a hard and heartless customer to deal with."

"I shut my mouth and held my peace until Laban Sarfurt called for the final answer. I said to him:

"Mr. Sarfurt, I have been considering all this time whether I could undertake your case with a clear conscience—whether I should be helping the side of justice and right in helping you. I had concluded that I could not do so before I had seen William Acton, to know him by name. I now know him to be a man who nobly risked his own life to save the life of a child. For that deed I will reward him if I can. I have not, as yet, accepted one of your private disclosures; I have gained from you nothing which you could wish to keep from the public. I cannot take your case, but, I tell you frankly, that if you prosecute, I will defend William Acton."

"I did not mind Sarfurt's wrath. He raved and swore and stamped, and then he went off and engaged two lawyers from Herkimer to take the case. I called on Acton, and told him I would defend him, if he would accept my services, as I had accepted his. He took me by the hand and thanked me.

"I have made a great many pleas in my life, but I think I never made a better one than I made to the jury on that occasion. They were out not over five minutes. By their verdict William Acton was the lawful possessor of the estate his father had left.

"From that day I never hesitated to refuse a case to which I could not give my heart. Such a stand on the part of the lawyer becomes known, and the public feels it; and what the public feels juries are sure to feel.

"Concerning William Action I will add only that he became my bosom friend. He always thought that he owed his title to his valuable property to me; and I know that to him I was indebted for the home that was mine for thirty years. He was very delicate in the gift of that piece of property. He deeded it to my wife. The husband of my oldest daughter is his oldest son." Adherence to a right principle secured success.

BELLEVILLE.

The Murray Canal.—In response to an invitation issued by the committee of the City Council, appointed to forward the project for the construction of the Murray canal, a meeting of the representative men of the municipalities interested was convened in the City Hall on Thursday. There were present the Mayor, the Aldermen, Hon. Robert Read, Hon. L. Wallbridge, Jas. Brown, M. P. Jos. Keeler, M. P. Colborne; G. Striker, M.P.P., Picton, and numerous other prominent citizens of this and the surrounding counties. Speeches in support of of the project were made by the Messrs. Read, Keeler, Crouler, Striker, Francis and Wallbridge. and resolutions were passed for the appointment ment of a deputation to lay the matter before the Government at Ottawa during the session, and for the circulation of petitions in the meantime. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

OTTAWA.

Taking Notes.—Mr. Alex McKenzie, editor of the Celtic Magazine, Inverness, Scotland, who has been in this city for a few days, is writing his experiences of Canada, with a view of recommending his countrymen to emigrate to this country. His Excellency the Governor-General took a great interest in Mr. McKenzie's mission. Mr. McKenzie had a very pleasant chat with the Prime Minister, of whose clan he is writing a history.

The Prairie Province.—Private advices received from Winnipeg say that from the visit of several American capitalists lately to that section, it is probable they will invest a good deal of capital in land purchases and other enterprises. It is beyond doubt that Americans are beginning to display great interest in the Canada North-West, and will doubtless find many attractions in the Prairie Province.

Proposed Banquet.—The committees for the Macdonald banquet are making good progress in their arrangements. The demonstration will be the most imposing of the kind they ever had.

Tea Tray Tobogganing.

An entirely new pastime has been invented in England for country houses in the shape of tea tray tobogganing. The way of it is thus described by a correspondent of Vanity Fair:—"You take a tea tray to the top of a good flight of stairs, sit in it, hold on to the sides of the tray with both hands—and let your self go! If you manage well you slide down the whole flight of stairs quickly and easily, and bring up on the landing at the bottom; if you don't manage it properly, you turn around when part of the way down, and get a good crumpler. The advantage of this game is that ladies can play at it and in the house where I saw it played they tobogganed far better than the men, who generaly lost their tray and themselves half-way down the stairs."

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. Rouston & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchical affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is the remedy preemiently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-d80-1m

A Real Necessity.—No house should be without a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, in case of accident. This is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angle of Mercy. For sale by all dealers. d95w43-2w

Snow Squall.

Peterborough has been visited to-day with several snow squalls, which, with the north-west wind, blowing brisk, has lowered the temperature considerably.

A Cold Locality.

The Police Court room has been very cold lately. The Mayor this morning ordered wood to be brought in for use in the Council Chamber and Police Court, which is being done to-day.

The Volunteer Inspection.

The inspection of the three companies of the 57th Battalion, will take place on Tuesday, the 11th of November. The Inspecting Officer, Col. Worseley, will be in Peterborough on that day, and the inspection will take place at 3 p. m.

Death of Mrs. Davidson.

Mrs. Hugh Davidson of the Township of Smith, who fell into a newly made cistern on Saturday last, has since died from the injuries received, and is to be burried in the Methodist Cemetery to-morrow.

Duprez and Benedict Minstrels.

The performance of the Duprez and Benedict Minstrels this evening at Bradburn's Hall will, no doubt, be highly appreciated by all who may be present. The hall will undoubtedly be crowded.

The Third Company's Dance.

The dance at the Ashburnham Town Hall this evening, given by the members of Company No. 3, 57th Battalion, bids fair to be a success. The Committee having the matter in charge, are exerting themselves to make it worthy of the patronage of their friends.

The Weather

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day, are: fresh to brisk, westerly to north-westerly winds; partly cloudy; cold weather with passing snow flurries. The wind has been very keen and piercing to-day, partly cloudy with several snow flurries, just to make the probabilities truthful.

The Grain Market.

The grain market to-day got another tumble in price. There was some barley in and it sold at another reduction of 2 @ 3c. per bushel on but grades. The market was weak at 55 for best quantity. No change to note in wheat. Only a few loads were offered and these sold at $1.12 @ $1.14.

Foot Ball Match.

The foot ball match between the Peterborough and the Trinity College School Clubs, which was to come off to-morrow on the Cricket Ground at Ashburnham is again postponed until Wednesday afternoon, November 5th. The School team play to-day at Cobourg, and could not be absent for two successive days.

Thanksgiving.

Our readers will remember that Thursday next (the 6th of November) has been set apart by the Dominion Government as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings vouchsafed to us as a nation during the past season. We trust the day will be observed, as it should be, by a christian people. Appropriate services will be held in the different churches, of the hours of which, no doubt, due notice will be given next Sunday.

County Solicitor.

Mr. Duncan McLeod is now the soliciting agent in this County for the Canada Life Assurance Company. Being so familiar with all parts of this county, and so well known among the people, Mr. McLeod ought to become an efficient agent for this thoroughly reliable company. From our own knowledge of Mr. McLeod's persuasiveness and forcible manner, we should judge that the Life Insurance business will be easily acquired by him, and become his happy forte.

Wooing with Walnut Furniture.

A handsome walnut chamber set was on exhibition at T. & W. McKee's lately. It was much admired, and in a group of admirers were a young man and the young woman he had taken to the fair. He had been courting her for a long time, but he had never succeeded in getting his courage up to the point of asking her to be his. While admiring the walnut set he inquired, doubtless without any ulterior motive, "How would you like such a set as that?" The young woman promptly answered that she would be almost willing to be married if she could begin housekeeping with such furniture. "I'll buy it if you'll marry me," the young man said, with the air of one who had found a long-sought opportunity. The answer was decisive and business like: "You can't close the bargain any too soon." The wedding invitations are already sent out.

The Second Company's Target Drill.

Company No. 2, of the 57th battalion completed their target drill yesterday, at the rifle range. The weather was again unfavourable, owing to the strong winds blowing in gusts, and the shooting was only fair. We give the leading scores as follows:—

Name.	Points.
Sergeant Leslie	54
Sergeant Scollie	48
Private R. H. Smith	48
Corporal Firth	40
Private Wilson	38
Private Craig	37
Private Hamilton	36
Private Manning	35
Private E. McDonald	34

The ranges were 200 yards, standing position, 10 shots. 500 and 600 yards, any position, 5 shots each.

Personal.

We find in the Belleville Intelligencer the following paragraph relating to Mr. Reginald Beatty, formerly of Lakefield:—

"Appointments in the Hudson's Bay Company's services have always been popular with young men possessed of a love of adventure. In the past those appointed to positions were chiefly from England and Scotland; the acquirements necessary being a fair English education and a knowledge of book-keeping and accounts. Latterly Canadians have come into favour. Mr. Reginald B. Beatty, who graduated at Ontairo Commercial College in this city last spring, has received a good appointment as accountant to the Norway House District, which, although very far north, being in the vicinity of Hudson's Bay, is one of the best in the service. In a letter to the principals of the College, which we have been shown, Mr. Beatty says: "You will, I know, be glad to hear that I am snugly settled down here (Norway House) in the Hudson's Bay Co's. service, as they offered an excellent appointment, which I at one accepted. My quarters are most comfortable, as this is one of the best of the Co's. establishments. My position is accountant to the district, and I rank next to the officer in charge. My last winter's experience at Ontario Commercial College come most useful to me, and will, I have no doubt, tend greatly to my advancement."

Great Excitement in Butter.

There was considerable excitement at the market house among some eight or ten butter buyers, each having a large long trier with which they scoop out samples of the butter, to see, smell and taste. One farmer became quite disgusted, and as five or six butter triers mounted his waggon, he looked agast, and absolutely refused to have a firkin opened. He wasn't going to have his butter spoiled and his reputation for making good butter ruined. He was well-known and his butter was known to be good. The samplers would make no bid without trying it, and he drove off the stand, in his indignition. By the time four or five triers have been thrust into a firkin, the sale of the butter is injured, and it would seem to be highly proper that some system of inspection should be adopted that would avoid the riddling of a firkin of butter, as is now the case. The buyers became excited and began over bidding one another, until 21½ cents was paid. We know of one lot on which an offer of 20 cents, the market price of yesterday, was bid for by one buyer, when a sampler for another buyer offered 21 cts., and soon another sampler for the same buyer offered 21½ cts., bidding against his own house. All this thing results from the payment of commissions. The highest price quoted in the Toronto market yesterday was 18 cts. for prime butter, while in Peterborough 20 cts. was paid for firkin butter and for one lot of extra 23cts. was paid. The present high price for butter is bringing it forward in large quantities.

POLICE COURT.

PROSPECTIVE BUSINESS.

FRIDAY, Oct. 31.—The Police Court this morning was presided over by His Worship the Mayor, in the absence of the Police Magistrate, who is in Toronto. Several complaints have been laid for drunkenness, disorderly conduct, violations of the market by-law and the town by-laws, also for a nuisance. Most of these cases are set down for Monday.

NORWOOD.

FOOT BALL CLUB.—The Register says:—A Foot Ball Club has been organized in this village under the name of the "Olympian Foot Ball Club." The officers of the club are Mr. H. B. Houghton, President; Mr. Colin Fraser, Sec'y-Treas; and the executive committee are Messrs. S. H. Dewart, T. Williams, E. H. Dewart, F. Brennan and P. O'Shea. Practice takes place every afternoon, from 4 to 5 o'clock, and on Saturday earlier. Arrangements are being made to have a match between an eleven from the school and eleven of the Villagers on Thanksgiving Day.

PORT HOPE.

A NEW SIDING.—The Times says a new siding has been put down at the lower end of Queen street, below the viaduct, by the Midland Railway, for the convenience of our millers and shippers. It will be a great boon to the millers especially, and greatly facilitate their work.

TRAMPS AT WORK.—The Guide says:—A few days ago a young lady, who lives in the outskirts of the town, came in and selected a couple of pairs of shoes from one of our stores, taking them home to examine before deciding which she would purchase. She was not suited with either pair, and, intending to return them, left them in the meantime upon the hall table while she did some work about the house. Upon returning to the hall a little while after she found the door open and the two pairs of shoes gone. Some prowler had evidently opened the door and and seeing the shoes thought the chance too good a one to lose.

A DRAMA IN REAL LIFE.

Happy Termination of a Family Dispute at the Whitby Assizes.

WHITBY, Oct. 27.—One of those rather common lawsuits springing out of family disputes was tried here to-day, but unlike many of them resulted to the satisfaction of both parties. Paul Lawrence is a farmer residing in the township of Pickering, and as a farmer he has been very successful. Forty years ago he went on the farm involved in the lawsuit of to-day, when he was worth nothing, and from it he made enough to buy 700 acres of additional land. During two years of the "Russian war" he cleared $1,700 off the same 115 acres. Less than three years ago he married one of his daughters to Wm. Anson, the son of a neighbor. Young Anson was a school teacher, good looking, with a profusion of curly hair, and when he writes, as he did his name this afternoon, always gives his hand that oval canter round the paper so characteristic of the young man from the business college. The young woman was also prepossessing, and a happy future was promised them.

In February, 1878, it was agreed, according to the young man Anson, that he was to rent the father-in-law's farm, that he was to give $350 a year for it, that he was to board the old man and his wife, and that he was to have the use of a team, a buggy, and a cutter. The old man says that the use of a team and of a buggy was not promised. Moreover, he says Anson agreed to pay him $25 a month for working the place. At all events the young man took the farm, and the old gentleman lived on it with him and did a great deal of the work.

Things went on in this way till Anson gave up the farm, and in their endeavour to "settle" the lawsuit had its birth. Each party claimed the other as his debtor. Of course there was no "ritin" ever drawn up. No settlement was effected. Anson left the place and his wife on it, and entered an action against his father-in-law. From that time there has been an estrangement between the parties. Both sides have been here for six days under considerable expense waiting for the case to come on, the wife hardly looking at the husband or the husband at the wife. The case was finally called this morning and took up the whole day, during which time the father called his daughter as a witness against her husband.

Towards evening, and when several other witnesses had to be called, Chief Justice Wilson asked the counsel if they could not compromise. He said it was a case in which neither party should stand on his exact legal rights. Surely the happiness of the young people was of more importance than a few hundred dollars. Moreover, the farm had been promised to the daughter, and no doubt eventually she would get it. Besides, she had said she would run away from her father's house and join the husband if he would provide a home. He was sure if they would only compromise things would be better for all parties.

This advice of the Judge appeared sensible to everyone; the lawyers talked it over, the old gentleman said he was willing, the young man said he was willing to receive back his wife, and she appeared equally willing to be received.

After some further talking a paper was drawn up by which the defendant agreed to give the son-in-law his blessing and $300 wherewith to start up housekeeping again. The offer was accepted, and apparently everyone was satisfied.

It was even said, later on in the evening, that the old gentleman was so well pleased that he was going to order a feast to be prepared, and that he had intended inviting judge and jury, counsel and friends, to be present at the reunion of the family. But this statement lacks confirmation.

Mr. Paterson appeared for Mr. Anson, and Mr. Farewell for Mr. Lawrence.

SENTENCES OF THE COURT.

At the opening of the Court the Chief Justice passed the following sentences:—

Ira Udell, assault, one year in the Central Prison. He had bitten off the thumb nail of one Gilmour when remonstrating with him (Udell) for being too intimate with his wife.

Matthew Murphy, attempt to commit rape, one year in the Central Prison.

John McLean, forgery, three years in the Penitentiary. An account of McLean's trial has already been published. The Judge gave him a lecture on passing sentence. He said he was sorry to see a younge man of prisoner's ability in his position. Clever as the forgeries were, he could only tell him that the law was stronger than he was, and he was sure to be caught at last.

The Assizes closed to-day.

IRELAND.

AT the Belfast Police Court, on Sept. 27th, James Quinn was sentenced to two month's imprisonment for throwing stones at a Catholic band on the previous night.

THE Marquis of Headfort and his agent, Mr. W. O'Connor, have each received a letter threatening them with death unless a reduction of rent be granted on his Lordship's estate.

THE Rev. Robert Healy, the officiating clergyman in a Protestant Orphanage at Dublin, fell down in the pulpit while conducting service on the 6th October, and died almost in an instant.

That's the Way They Used to Do It.

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough path our parents trod in their childhood. Now we take SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL as complacently as we do condensed milk, and it is just about as cheap —25 cents a bottle. w41-d90-1m

With a thumb and finger on the nose, a bright silver dime on the table as a bribe, and the Castor Oil bottle in the other hand is the way our mother had to approach us when she was about to attack a severe case of colic that had tied our little intestines in knots. Those days, and that scene, comes no more to us, neither will our little ones ever be obliged to tread in the rough paths our parents trod in their childhood. MILLS BURNED.—The Craigvale steam saw and grist mills and all their contents were completely destroyed by fire this morning, also a large quantity of lumber, wood and stave bolts which were piled in the mill-yard. The loss is nearly $20,000. The amount of insurance is not yet known.

COBOURG.

FOOT-BALL.—The foot-ball tournament was continued last night, and a game was played by electric light between a team picked from the two medical colleges, Trinity, and Toronto School of Medicine, and one picked from the Arts of Knox College, and the University of Toronto. The game resulted in favor of the latter by two games to nothing.

FOR MANITOBA.—The last special train for Manitoba leaves Ottawa on Wednesday next. It is expected that about 100 persons will leave by it.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY.—To-day being a statutory holiday, the public departments are closed.

HARWOOD.

LUMBER.—A correspondent of the Cobourg Sentinel says:—Ulyott, Saddler & Co's mill, under the superintendency of Mr. D. V. Waite, finished sawing on Wednesday. This firm has been very successful this year, both in manufacturing and in disposing of their lumber. They have shipped an immense quantity and will winter, in their yard here, in the neighborhood of 5,000,000 feet. Mr. Waite deserves great praise for the way in which he has turned out lumber this season. The hands all left for Peterborough to-day per steam yacht Sommervill, en route to the woods. McDougall & Ludgate's mill will winter about the same amount of lumber, making a total for both yards of ten million feet. As both mills have closed down our village presents rather a dull appearance.

COBOURG.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—The World says:—On Monday, two of our Cobourg young men had a very narrow and providential escape from drowning at Rice Lake. Messrs. Thos. and Chas Munson and William R. Waddell formed a party for duck-shooting, and camped on Sheep Island, just north of Gore's Landing. On the day stated, Messrs. Waddell and Chas. Munson took a canoe to secure ducks which they had shot. On their way the canoe upset, and they were thrown into the water. Mr. Thos. Munson saw the accident; but not having any means of rescuing them, fired off his gun several times in succession, for the purpose of alarming another party camping on the same island. This was successful; and Mr. Thomas Wallace speedily put out in another canoe, and reached the young men just in time to rescue them, and towed them ashore, clinging to his canoe. We understand these are not the first lives Mr. Wallace has saved at the Lake. His arrival was timely; for Messrs. Munson and Waddell were all but exhausted and benumbed with the cold, and in two or three minutes more must have perished in the water.

SCOTLAND.

THE grave of Rob Roy, in the lonely churchyard of Balquhidder, is marked by an old flat stone about a century old. On it is carved a fir tree, crossed by a sword and supporting a crown but without any name. The stone is much worn and weather beaten, and altogether mean-looking. A proposal is now made that some of the admirers of Rob take some means for covering his grave with a better memorial.

Two constables recently took in a cab, to the Central Police office, Glasgow, Jas Campbell, an engineer borer, 50 years of age, and residing at 26 Ann st., Port Dundas, whom they had found a short time previously in a very weak state in a closet in Jamaica st. Campbell stated that he had been out of work for the past ten months, and had been four days without food; that some person on the street had given him half a glass of brandy and another a bowl of soup.

THE pretty little town of Lochmaben, in Dumfriesshire, has acquired additional notoriety and honor by the erection and unveiling of a public monument to the immortal Bruce. This event had been anticipated with great interest by the many admirers of the Scottish hero, and was happily brought to a completion on the 13th ult. Carved out of a close-grained freestone obtained from Fairholm Quarry, near Hawick, the figure of the "Immortal Bruce," as the champion of Scottish independence was so often called on the 13th ult., stands eight feet high, irrespective of the plinth on which it rests, and is placed at the height of ten feet from the ground, on a pedestal of Dalbeattie granite of simple design.

EGYPT AND THE POWERS.

ROME, Oct. 31.—The Diritto says that France and England now regret not having agreed to accept the co-operation of Italy in Egypt. Italy has been compelled to form with Germany and Austria, a league against the excessive preponderance of England and France.

MONTENEGRO AND AUSTRIA.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The official organ of the Montenegrin Government, the Glas Crnagortsa, has the following remarks on the recent visit of the Prince of Montenegro to the Emperor Francis Joseph at Vienna:—"Our ruler felt the necessity of meeting the monarch of that State, which, during our late struggles, gave repeated proofs of its sympathy for us, and to which it is in great part due that our country has, at the termination of the war, obtained the universal recognition of its independence and enlarged frontiers. We would express our heartfelt thanks for the hospitable reception, which, in the person of its ruler, has been given to the whole of the Montenegrin people at the Court of Vienna, and all our efforts will be directed to the maintenance of a sincere and intimate friendship between the two States, being convinced that in the close alliance of Montenegro with Austria-Hungary will be found the most stable foundation for the moral and material development of the Montenegrin nation."

CZAR AND EMPEROR.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A Berlin correspondent says the North German Gazette discredits the report that the Czar will visit Berlin. It says he will remain at Livadia during the greater part of November. A correspondence at Paris points to the fact that Russia only really commenced disarming the troops that returned from Turkey after an interview between the Emperors at Alexandrovno, from which it is gathered that the Emperor William gave the Czar satisfactory assurances.

THE NEW FRENCH CABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A telegram from the steamer Faraday, engaged in laying the new French cable, dated latitude 44.44, north longitude 56 40 west, Oct 29th, says a heavy cyclone passed the ship on Wednesday evening, and it is now blowing a heavy gale. There is a tremendous sea, but the ship is behaving well, and moving slowly ahead. It is inferred from the course of the market to-day that the cable must have parted since the above despatch was received, but nothing has been made public about it.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—The despatch from this place yesterday, that of Mrs. Chairs, had shot her husband and killed herself, proves false. It grew out of the misunderstanding of a private despatch.

A PETTY POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—At a Cabinet meeting Secretary Evarts and Devens were absent. The Secretary of the Treasury called attention to the fact that Canada prohibited the importation of American cattle on account of pleuro-pneumonia. As the same fear exists among Americans in regard to Canadian cattle, it was agreed that an order be immediately issued prohibiting the introduction of Canadian cattle into this country.

DISTRESS IN IRELAND.

Sir S. Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in answering a letter calling attention to the distress in Ireland, and suggesting that immediate action by the Government in providing work, says he sympathises with the people, but can only refer them to the Irish Executive. Direct interposition by the Government would be open to great abuse.

GREECE AND TURKEY.

ATHENS, Nov. 1.—King George, at the opening of the Chamber of Deputies said that the negotiations were progressing between Greece and Turkey, aided by the co-operation of Europe, and were shortly expected to terminate favorably. A peaceful solution would be advantageous, but it was necessary to maintain the army in an effective condition because strength greatly regulate the relations between nations.

AMERICAN.

TERRIBLE CRIMES.

HILLSBORO, N.C., Nov. 1.—Robert Bostwick, a negro, was hanged yesterday for murdering his wife that he might be free to live with a degraded white woman named Mrs. Lyon. The latter poisoned her husband to get him out of the way and will be soon tried. Bostwick confessed he had murdered his wife and children and he charged his downfall to whisky and women. He charged Mrs. Lyon with murdering her husband and instigating his crimes.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A Washington despatch to the Times says:—The Treasury officers believe that the receipts of revenue for the current fiscal year will reach at least $25,000,000.

WOOD FIRES.

A spark from a locomotive on the Hudson river road yesterday morning ignited the woods near Fort Washington, and soon over a mile of timber was burning. The fire was put out by fire extinguishers. In the afternoon in the same neighborhood a second fire occurred from the same cause.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A Washington special report to the Tribune says the increase in the National Bank circulation for the past two months is entirely unprecedented. It is remarkable that most of it goes to the Eastern States. The increase in the Western States, which have been constantly crying for money, is merely nominal.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.

GREENVILLE, Miss., Nov. 1.—Harry Ely, a merchant of Leota, and a man named Atkinson, quarreled on Thursday night. They both drew revolvers, fired at the same time, and continued firing. Ely, after receiving fatal injuries, shot Atkinson, inflicting a dangerous wound. The cause of the difficulty is unknown.

PROPOSED SHIP CANAL.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—Congressman Kimmel has prepared a report on the proposed Maryland and Delaware ship canal. He recommends a route across the peninsula leaving Chesapeak Bay at Queenstown and running to Lewes. The cost will be 37 millions. Vessels to any European port north of the Mediterranean Sea, can, by going through the canal, save 225 miles. The report recommends that the canal be built under the supervision of the War Department, to serve the combined objects of harbor defence and an aid to commerce.

THE OBELISK DIFFICULTY.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 1.—There is no court of jurisdiction to seize the American obelisk, although the Pasha, who has charge of the monuments, urges the French Consul to protest on the ground that the removal would be a violation of the convention with the European Powers, which provides that no Egyptian monument or work of art shall leave the country. Commander Gorringe has hoisted the American flag over the obelisk, and has surrounded it with a guard of policemen from the consulate. He will resist any attempt to interfere with him. Consul General Farman is expected.

FEVER SWEPT AWAY.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 1.—There have been no new cases since Thursday. The Appeal and Avalanche resume publication full size to-morrow. The merchants report a rush of business. The physicians agree that the cold winds of last night have swept away all the lingering germs of the fever.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Considerable interest is manifested in the series of experiments now making in a forge at the Washington Navy yard upon larged ingots furnished by a Boston firm. The result it is thought will obviate entirely the necessity for using foreign material as heretofore and demonstrate the advantage steel over iron for heavy forgings such as shafts, connecting rods, crank axles, heavy ordnance, etc. It is claimed that a new progress has been discovered by which the hardest steel is rendered soft, and malleable as the best Swedish iron and the experiments this far are regarded by mechanics and engineers as of a most satisfactory character.

SENATOR CHANDLER'S DEATH.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Senator Zachariah Chandler, of Michigan was found dead in his bed at the Grand Pacific Hotel this morning. He had been speaking in Wisconsin, and last night addressed an immense audience at McCormick's hall in this city. He spoke with his usual earnestness. After the meeting when he, Senator Logan, and the Hon. J. Spalding were sitting in his room, Chandler complained of indigestion. As he had complained of the same feeling while en route to this city with these gentlemen, Spalding suggested that he should remain over in the city until Saturday night, but he said that business affairs required his attention at home. An order was given to have him called in the morning at 7. His friends bade him good night. That is the last time the Senator was seen alive. This morning when the office boy called there was no response. The [illegible] effected an entrance through the transom and found the Senator dead. The body was not quite cold. The physicians decided that death occurred about 3 hours previous. The face looked tranquil showing that his death was painless.

with committee expenses, auditors, special prizes, &c., &c., to provide for. As compared with previous years, it was noted that due economy had been exercised this year, inasmuch as printing cost in 1876, $315; in 1877, $266; 1878, $210, and this year $187. Postage and stationery in 1876, $66; in 1877, $52; in 1878, $32, and in 1879, $13.89. Constables, &c., in 1876, $160; in 1877, $151; in 1878, $129, and this year, $118.

On motion of Col. Deacon, seconded by Mr. Porter, the members of the Executive Committee were ordered to be paid one dollar and fifty cents for each day's attendance at the committee meetings and their actual railway fares to and from each meeting and to and from the exhibition, and that the Assistant Superintendents be paid the same as members of the committee during the exhibition.

This vote amounts to, in all, the sum of $129.45, the expenditure for the same being in 1876, $85; in 1877, $167, and in 1878, $197.

THE RAG BABY.

Meeting in Albert Hall, Toronto—Platform of the New Currency League.

In pursuance of the notice printed in the daily papers, a Convention of those favourable to the adoption of a national currency for Canada was held on Friday afternoon in Albert Hall. There was a very slim attendance, but considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings by those present. Notwithstanding that some differences of opinion in the early part of the session threatened to lead to complications, an understanding was arrived at, a league formed, a platform prepared, and a set of laws drawn up, thus completing the organization for the agitation of the currency question.

The following resolutions, embodying the platform of the new League as prepared by the Committee, were submitted and carried unanimously:—

1. That it is the duty of the Government to assume its undoubted and inalienable right—the coinage and issue of money; that no individual or corporation shall be allowed to issue any note or bill to pass current as money, and that the money of the Government shall be a legal tender for all debts, as at present.

2. That the ruinous system of borrowing money abroad for the construction of public works shall be discontinued, and that in future all public works shall be paid for with Government money.

3. That the currency of the country shall be convertible into Government interest-bearing bonds, and the proceeds of these bonds shall only be used to reduce the foreign debt of the country.

The following rules for the government of the League were submitted and carried without a dissentient voice:—

NAME.

1. The name of the organization shall be The Financial Reform League of Canada.

OBJECT.

2. The object of this League is to secure the efficient action of the people in necessary financial reforms.

RESIDENT MEMBERS.

3. Any resident in Canada may become a member of this League by pledging himself to support its measures.

OFFICERS.

4. The officers shall consist of a President and as many Vice-Presidents as there may be branches; a Secretary-Treasurer, and as many assistants as there may be branches; and seven Directors, the President, Vice-Presidents, Secretary-Treasurers, and assistants being also ex officio members of the Board of Directors. Five members of such Board shall constitute a quorum at any regular meeting.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS

5. The duties of President, Vice-President, and Secretary shall be such as usually pertain to their offices. The Central Board of Directors shall have charge of all the operations of the League, the employment of lecturers, the distribution of literature, the calling of mass meetings and other general meetings and conventions, and the providing ways and means for promoting the objects of the League.

MEETINGS.

6. Regular meetings shall be held monthly for the discussion of questions, and the transaction of the business of the League; ordinary parliamentary usage to govern at such meetings.

BY-LAWS.

7. By-laws may be made at any regular meeting in accordance with this constitution. But the constitution itself shall not be altered except on two months' previous notice, to be repeated in each of the two previous meetings.

THE BRANCHES.

8. Branches affiliating with the League may be formed by five or more persons in any locality in Canada, choosing their President and Secretary-Treasurer, who shall be ex officio members of the Central Board of Directors.

9. Each branch, as soon as formed, will report to the Secretary of the Central League, giving the name of the locality, post-office address, and names of the officers, and number of members enrolled.

A motion was put and carried that the following gentlemen should be members of the first General Committee:—Hon. Isaac Buchanan, and Messrs. Wallace, M.P., Hesson, M.P., A. W. Wright, J. I. Evans, J. A. Livingstone, G. Brookes, George D. Griffin, J. A. Griffin, Hamilton; H. S. Montgomery, Charles Burrows, St. Catherines: W. O'Meara, Parkhill; J. Campbell, Brampton; J. A. Morton, and — Arnold.

After a great deal of discussion, the following officers were elected:—President, Wm. Wallace, M.P.; 1st Vice-President and Treasurer, Hon. Isaac Buchanan; 2nd, Reuben Wynn, St Catherines; 3rd, J. Ick Evans, Toronto; 4th, W. O'Meara, Parkhill; Secretary, A. W. Wright; Assistant Secretary, J. A. Livingstone; Assistant Secretary for Hamilton, Watson Griffin.

After the appointment of officers, several minor matters were taken up, among which was the appointment of a Committee to arrange for a meeting on the currency question, to be held in a short time in this city.

The meeting then adjourned.

IRELAND.

A shocking murder has been committed in Dublin, by, it is alleged, a retired soldier, named John Wynne. The victim was a young woman named Hale, aged 25, a first cousin of the accused. She was found quite dead, with her throat gashed by a razor in a frightful manner.

A leading Irish journal says that Americans have spent last summer over a million of dollars in Switzerland, and suggests that Ireland is a land of rare beauty and its sons ever hospitable to the stranger. There is more wit to be heard and more beauty to be seen in the Emerald Isle in one day than there is to be found in Switzerland in a month.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A Very Favourable Public Meeting Held at Trenton.

On Monday night the Town Hall was packed with the leading citizens of Trenton to hear the Delegates anent the Trent Valley Canal. The utmost enthusiasm and unanimity prevailed.

Mr. Francis Reeve was by resolution called to the chair.

He said the present agitation was started by the favorable report of Mr. Starke, Government Engineer, which being so favorable, has attracted the attention of several influential gentlemen who are desirous of urging the Government to complete the canal. He explained the result of the Peterborough public meeting, and what the committee apointed are authorized to do. The whole extent of canal on which money is to be expended is about 50 miles some of which is navigable water. The cost is to be from 2½ millions to 3 millions, and the results that will be accomplished by the building of the canal, are so vast and important, that the wonder is it has been so long overlooked. The Board of Trade of Montreal are now moving in the direction of connecting by rail St. Paul, Minneapolis, Ottawa and Montreal. But it can be easily demonstrated that railroads cannot compete with canals in the carriage of grain or heavy freights. The Belleville people have issued a circular calling a public meeting on the 30th instant, to discuss the merits of the Murray Canal, and several Trenton gentlemen have been invited to attend.

Dr. Day said the importance of the Trent Valley canal is very great. The manufacturing interest that would be developed here would perhaps be of more importance than the canal. From Trenton to Frankford is a rise of 110 feet necessitating 13 locks and the expenditure of $1,000,000. The difference between the Murray Canal and the Trent Valley is so great in their relative importance, in the numbers interested, and in the political influence that can be exerted, that while we wish for both we should now direct all our efforts towards securing the Trent Valley Canal first and the Murray Canal is sure to follow. He considered that if these gentlemen interested, acted irrespective of politics, they would be able to bring a strong influence to bear on the Government to build the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Lee, who accompanied the Reeve and Dr. Day to Peterborough, was next called on, and added his quota of information. D. R. Murphy, G. H. Gordon, W. H. Austin, H. W. Delaney, Dr. McLellan, W. Shea, G. A. White, G. Ostrom, Terrance McCabe and the editor took part in the discussion.

Moved by H. W. Day, seconded by D. R. Murphy, that this meeting having heard from the delegates the account of the meeting held in Peterborough on the 16th inst, in the matter of the Trent Valley Canal, deem it highly important that this municipality should assist through the central committee appointed at Peterborough, the delegates to visit Ottawa and the representatives of East Northumberland, North and West Hastings, and Prince Edward Co.; and every other way to press upon the attention of the Dominion Government, the importance of the immediate construction of The Trent Valley Canal.—Carried with applause.—Courier.

How Long Pat Wore his Shirt.—An officer who was inspecting his company one morning spied one private whose shirt was sadly begrimed.

"Patrick O'Flynn!" called out the captain

"Here, your honor!" promptly responded Patrick, with his hand to his cap.

"How long do you wear a shirt?" thundered the officer.

"Twenty-eight inches!" your honor.

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the sense of feebleness or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous or vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by T. Rolston & Co., successor to F. Lane & Co.

There is no remedy for female complaints so good as Victoria Buchu and Uva Ursi. After it use for a few days, the whole system seems invigorated, the pallid lips and cheeks soon show a rosy tint, and cheerfulness drives away the sickly fears and nervous pains which destroy the pleasures of those who suffer from the peculiar complaints of the gentler sex. For sale by all dealers.

Welland Canal Enlargement.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Welland Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on FRIDAY the 14th DAY OF NOVEMBER next, for the deepening and completion of that part of the Welland Canal, between Ramey's Bend and Port Colborne, known as Sections Nos. 33 and 34, embracing the greater part of what is called the "Rock Cut."

Plans showing the position of the work, and specifications for what remains to be done, can be seen at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Welland on and after TUESDAY the 4th DAY OF NOVEMBER next, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, except there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted Bank cheque for the sum of three thousand dollars for Section No. 33, and one for four thousand dollars for Section No. 34, must accompany the respective Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque or money thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfillment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required by the deposit of money to the amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract; of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the Contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

MY AULD SCOTCH PLAID.

I wadna gie my auld Scotch plaid
For a' the dainty haps I see;
Though two score years sin it was made,
It's aye the same as new to me.
I wat it lacks the gaudy charm
That skinkles in a foppish e'e,
But, O, it keeps me tight and warm,
And while I live my hap 'twill be.

It's been a comforter for lang
To my auld wife as weel's to me,
It deftly on her shoulders hung,
And wrapp'd the bairns when they were wee.
Now they are a' to manhood grown,
And bairdly chiels as ye may see:
O, may they aye through life be known
A credit to the plaid and me.

Auld Scotia to her clansmen said,
When first their ranks she did review,
Let hearts that beat beneath the plaid
Be ever gen'rous, brave and true;
Your backs ne'er turn on friend or foe,
The [illegible] stranger [illegible] and [illegible],
Let [illegible]
The law that gleams below the plaid.

There's something in the Scottish plaid
Mair than to fend frae weet an' cauld,
Bright memories that ne'er shall fade,
It still endears to young and auld;
Of worship-consecrated dales—
Of bluidy heat and martyrs' urns—
In mystic eloquence it tells,
And of a Wallace and a Burns.

Wad a' the nation don the plaid,
And wear it as it should be worn,
Umpires wad be jackless made,
Bairns a' be independent born;
And clansmen brave the warld o'er
Ilk servile impulse trample doon,
And homage come frae shore to shore,
Save to the Chief who rules aboon.

O, there's pleasure in the plaid,
A tome of classic bere lore;
And 'twas are court costumes were made,
The royal garb young Freedom wore;
And though it lacks the gaudy charm
That skinkles in a foppish e'e,
It keeps me tidy, tight and warm,
And while I live my hap 'twill be.

MR. PARNELL'S CAREER.

English Portrait of the Irish Agitator—His Parliamentary Experience and Position.

"If Parnell does not draw the rein," remarked a friend to me the other day, "the country will soon have to put him under lock and key." It is not my intention to justify the observation, nor to discuss the anti-rent agitation in Ireland in any shape, but it seems to me that when a politician comes to be regarded by a great many people as a rather dangerous man—and there are a great many people of my friend's way of thinking—it is well the country should know something about him. Gladstone we know, and Beaconsfield we know; but here is a new factor in politics, as the jargon of the day goes, about whom nobody, but his own personal friends, knows anything. To begin with, Mr. Parnell—as I am for the moment biographical, let me say Mr. Charles Stuart Parnell—although an Irish agitator, and the hope of a very "young Ireland" party, is, curiously enough, not an Irishman at all, or one only to a limited extent. He is American by his mother's side, his mother being the daughter of an Admiral in the United States Navy, and his father comes of an old English family, originally, I believe, from one of the Midland counties. The poet Parnell was one of his ancestors. I do not know at what date the Parnells settled in Ireland, but it must have been a very long time ago, for the grandfather of our Mr. Parnell was the last Chancellor of the Exchequer of the Irish Parliament, and a bitter opponent of the Union. So much for the lineage of my hero. It is not by any means contemptible. There are very many peers who have not so good a one.

FIRST APPEARANCE IN PARLIAMENT.

Now for the man himself. I do not know that previous to 1875 either Ireland or England had ever heard of Mr. Parnell. His father was a quiet, unobtrusive man of no mark at all, except that he was once High Sheriff for the County of Meath, in which the family property is situated. The first appearance of our friend on any stage was when he made his bow to the Speaker of the house of Commons, in April, 1875, with the return of the County of Meath in his pocket. A tall, thin, fair, studious young man of nine-and-twenty at that time, nobody then suspected in him the future leader of a "party of exasperation." He had not long finished his studies at Cambridge, and politics were practically an unknown field to him, his chief article of faith being "Home Rule," which Mr. Butt had not long before invented as an improvement on Fenianism, and while it was then understood by Young Ireland to be a patriotic thing to believe in. That session after the manner of most new members, Mr. Parnell was mute. Mr. Parnell heard vote after vote of the estimates passed, and clause after clause of bills discussed in committee, and said not a word. The following session he began to find his feet, and to interest himself in small details of estimates, and it seems to have been about this time, on his seeing the success which attended persistent criticism, that he thought of obstruction. It was only by degrees, however, that the policy of obstruction was developed, and the House itself is perhaps, in some degree, responsible for it. Everybody knows that the House, or rather the Ministerial portion of it, is somewhat impatient of criticism, especially of persistent criticism, of the estimates. Dillwyn, Whitwell and a few others have a sort of prescriptive right to make the same remarks and ask the same questions year after year; but no sooner does any new member betray a disposition to pry into the secrets of the public purse than the mechanical majority proceeds to sit on him after its own fashion. A hum of conversation arises as soon as the new man gets upon his legs. The new man, being under the impression that members are merely careless, and not malicious, raises his voice; the members raise theirs, till at length, if the trial of strength is continued long enough, the House is a perfect Babel of sound. This was Mr. Parnell's experience.

FIRST PARLIAMENTARY EXPERIENCES.

Now, few men have the temerity to brave the House of Commons. Ninety-nine members out of a hundred, finding that they cannot get a hearing, are content to accept the inevitable. Not so Mr. Parnell. Under a slim and almost effeminate exterior he has an iron will. He refused to be put down. The more the House would not listen, the more he would talk, even although he could not be heard more than a couple of benches off, and his persistence gradually attracted the support of the sympathetic Biggar and one or two kindred spirits in the same direction, who looked upon him as an Irish martyr. By and by he began to retaliate by talking when he had nothing to say, and so during the sessions of 1877 and 1878 the merits of obstruction as an engine for extorting concessions from the Government gradually dawned upon him and his faithful adherents, whose appearance in the character of financial and administrative critics the House resented in pretty much the same way as his own. Perhaps had Mr. Parnell possessed in some degree the oratorical faculty the House would have treated him more kindly. But he has a harsh, monotonous voice, which at once destroys all sympathy between him and his hearers, and his manner is stiff, and so to speak, wooden. Since he has been in Parliament he has never, so far as I recollect, spoken upon any question of general politics except flogging, and that he took up more, perhaps, for obstructive purposes than on conscientious grounds. The political creed which he asks the country to support is therefore a purely negative and destructive one. It has this advantage above all others which have never been preached, that it falls within the comprehension of the meanest capacity.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS.

I have spoken of Mr. Parnell's personal appearance. He is a standing wonder even to his friends. Calm, cool, bloodless, he is a man whom nothing can move. O'Connor Power grows savage under the exasperating treatment of the House, and O'Donnell hisses his words through his teeth with ill-disguised resentment, but Parnell remains invariably imperturbable. A contest between him and the House is a comedy in itself. "Mr. Speaker," says Mr. Parnell, rising to his feet, amid overpowering [illegible] "[illegible]" Then comes a lull, in which Mr. Parnell edges in the words, "Mr. Speaker, sir." Here there is a renewed clamour of voices, on the subsiding of which Mr. Parnell utters the words, "I rise," which are followed by another outburst. In this way he contrives, bit by bit, to proceed with his speech, the House unconsciously serving his purpose by forcing him to pause at every word. Though a man of this resolute and unbending stamp, he has, in personal intercourse, the mildest and most gentle manner conceivable. He is almost womanly, and Sir Wilfrid Lawson has long since noted that he is an inveterate water-drinker. A somewhat comic transformation in his appearance occurred a session or two ago. Finding his hair thinning, he was persuaded to shave the upper portion of his scalp, and the result was that for some little time he was scarcely distinguishable in the House from Jenkins. The remedy—a somewhat hazardous one—succeeded in his case, enabling him to stave off—at all events for some years—the misfortune of baldness.

HIS INCOME.

There is a belief abroad that Parnell is a wealthy man. This is a mistake. His property does not bring him in more than £1,500 a year, and, true to the principles he has recently been preaching up and down Ireland, he has, within the past few weeks reduced his own rents some twenty per cent. It is a question of some importance how a man of this stamp stands in popular estimation. From enquiries I have made I am convinced that Mr. Parnell is at present the most popular man in Ireland. He is almost worshipped by the masses, who naturally take kindly to the new doctrine that unless the landlords concede in all cases a reduction of twenty-five per cent in rents it is legitimate to pay no rent at all. By the members of the Home Rule Party he has never been cordially liked. He was never on any but bare speaking terms with Mr Butt, and the relations existing between him and Mr. Shaw, the present leader of the Home Rule party are very similar. The breach between him and the party generally was considerably widened by an incident which took place last session. At a meeting of the Home Rule committee he urged that unless the Government granted a substantial University Bill to Ireland the whole of the votes of the Queen's colleges should be opposed. The proposal was rejected, and Mr. Parnell, who is a protestant, is said while smarting under defeat, to have used the words, "You are a cowardly lot of Papist rats." A fierce controversy raged on this subject in the Irish papers. It was asserted by some members of Parliament, and denied by others, that the words had been used. Whether they were or not does not greatly matter. The fact remains that the reported words have given rise to a great deal of bad blood, and alienated a great portion of the Home Rulers from Mr. Parnell and his projects. Now he stands almost alone; his party does not number more than four—Messrs. Biggar, O'Donnel, O'Connor Power and Finegan. This is fortunate. I have heard Mr. Parnell assert that with twenty men he could stop the entire legislative machine, and that he will do his best at the next general election to secure supporters there is no doubt. Rumor has it that there are ten or twelve London Irishmen, chiefly of the literary and legal persuasion, who are prepared on the first opportunity to contest Irish seats under his patronage. If the general election came on now, while the popular fervor is at its height, they might possibly stand a good chance. As it is, the country will probably be clothed and in its right mind before their opportunity arrives.

FARM AND GARDEN.

If you wish to keep slips for next year's garden, fill a starch box with sandy soil, set a number of slips in it, keep wet and in a sunny window.

Leave turnips in the ground until hard frosts come. The tops may be fed to cows. Carrots, beets, and parsnips must be dug before very cold weather.

No fowl over two years old should be kept in a poultry-yard except from some special reason. At the end of the second season ordinary hens and cocks should be fattened for market.

In Scotland and England, where bone manuring is in favor, large quantities are used with advantage. Professor Tanner recommends bone dust, applied at the rate of one ton per acre in the autumn, for the improvement of grass lands.

Milk and butter are very sensitive to odors. Dr. Nichols mentions the case of a pan of nice butter which was spoiled by the odor from the boots of a man who came into the milk-room with some of the manure of the stable on them.

Cions may be cut any time during the winter and early spring before the buds start to grow. If cut before they are used, they should be kept in moist sand or earth until spring. Grafting may be done any time during March and April.

A Chicago paper says:—"Farmers find that 87 cents a bushel for wheat bring them in better returns now than $1 55 did in 1864. On the gold basis the 1864 wheat was worth only about 60 cents, and the 1879 wheat is worth penny for penny for what it brings."

French poultrymen are now feeding their poultry for the markets with boiled and steamed carrots. The fattening qualities of the root are something wonderful, and it is said that a peculiar flavor is imparted to the flesh that suits the taste of the French epicure exactly.

Most plants like 55 to 60 deg. Few are are harmed if the temperature goes down to 40 deg. for a short time, but chills are fatal to their beauty. Air and light are essential, but the air that plants like best is that which we have breathed and charged with carbonic acid.

Plants for the house in winter will not do well in smaller than four or five inch pots. Place a saucer under each. Water every day toward night, putting on water till some of it runs through into the saucer. The water should always be tepid, and once a week a few drops of ammonia or liquid manure should be added to each quart of water.

Wood-ashes are an excellent application to apple trees or any other trees or plants. Spring is the best time to apply them. Regulate the quantity by the facilities for obtaining the supply. There is little danger of applying too much, unless the land is surfeited with potash. Ashes are good for fall or spring wheat. They may be sown at any time, though we would prefer spring; and there is little fear of applying too much of them, as a liberal dressing strengthens the straw, and enlarges as well as improves the grain. Composting either lime or wood-ashes with muck is one of the very best methods of utilising them for manurial purposes. None of their own fertilizing virtues are then lost, while they help greatly to neutralize the injurious acids of the muck, and to render its manurial elements fit to be readily taken up as plant-food.

The Markets.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

Saturday, Nov. 1.—The regular Saturday market this morning was fine and an animated one. The square was completely blocked up with teams. The market house and platforms were crowded with purchasers. Prices for all commodities were strong, and in some things an advance is noted. Apples, although not so plentiful as on former days, were in ample supply, and prices have assumed a more definite figure. One fine lot of Greenings offered for $2.50 per bbl., and one lot of Spitzenberg's at $2.50 per bbl. Both lots were as fine as any apples grown on any part of the continent. There was a lot of [illegible] sold at 75cts. per bag, while good cooking apples went readily at 60 @ 75 cts. per bag or $1.75 @ $2.25 per bbl. Potatoes were in better supply than for several weeks, and found ready sale at 60 @ 70c per bag. Turnips were sold at 20c per bag, several loads were sold at 12½c per bushel. Carrots were again plenty and sold at 15c per bushel. We heard of a sale at 20c. Citrons, very large and fine, were sold at 10c each. Beef was in abundant supply at $4.50 @ 4.50 per hun'd. Pork, in fair supply, at $5.00 @ $6.00, a slight advance. No change in mutton, plenty on the market. Chickens were in demand at 30c per pair. Turkeys were sold readily at 50 @ 60c each. Geese, abundant, at 35 @ 50c each. Ducks sold readily at 50c per pair. Butter, fresh, rolls brought 20 @ 21 cts. Firkin butter, in large quantities, made its appearance to-day, and sold for shipment to Europe, at 21 @ 21½cts for prime grades. Inferior may be quoted at 15 @ 20c. The market clerk and his assistants were very busy all the morning, and kept three sets of scales in operation constantly. Eggs shared the excitement, and advanced to 16 @ 17c per dozen. Oats were in very small quantities, and brought 30 @ 31 cts. There was very little doing in the other commodities. We have no other changes in quotations to note.

An Inspiration.

When a poet composes a set of verses that stir men's hearts we say he is inspired. So indeed he is. When celebrated students of hygiene, after careful study, gives us a panacea for many of the ills that flesh is heir to, we say they have made a lucky hit. We are wrong, it is equally an inspiration. Debility, bronchial affections, and consumption number their victims by the thousands, but how soon these difficulties could be ameliorated if we only knew it. Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is the remedy preëminently adapted to such conditions, and if taken long enough is almost sure to effect a cure. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste. w41-460-lm

LOCAL NEWS

Farmers in Town.

A large number of the farmers who came to market this morning remained and made many purchases. George street, during the afternoon, wore a holiday appearance. The stores were well patronized, especially for winter comforts.

Grain Market.

The grain market has been flat. Only a few parcels of wheat came in and were taken at quotations reluctantly. Barley shared the same fate or worse. The buyers were all paying their attention to butter which is coming in rapidly.

Clean off the Sidewalks.

It is a noticeable fact to-day that not one in twenty of the residents of the town have attempted to clean the snow from the walks in front of their premises. The store keepers were not as prompt as they should have been. An early morning cleaning off the snow gives the sun a better chance for drying the sidewalks.

Snow Storm.

Last evening about 3 inches of snow fell. There had been several flurries throughout the day, but not enough snow to cover the ground until about 7 o'clock, when a heavy cloud passed over the town from west to east, from which snow fell until about 11 o'clock. The moon then came out again clear and bright, with a sharp atmosphere.

Hallow E'en.

Hallow E'en in Peterborough this year passed off very quietly. There was not the usual hilarity observable. We hear of nothing that had a tendency to mar the quiet demeanor of the town. There were several groups of boys parading around the streets, but they seemed to be very quietly disposed.

The Peterborough Rangers.

The Canada Gazette contains the following:—

"57th Peterborough Batt. of Infantry—The special badge and device authorized for this battalion shall consist of a beaver, under which are the numerals LVII., encircled by a scroll or garter, clasped by a buckle, and bearing the designation "Peterborough Rangers," the whole surrounded by a wreath of maple leaves, entwined with the rose, thistle, and the shamrock, and surmounted by the Imperial Crown. Underneath all is the motto, "Quis separabit."

Runaway.

This afternoon at a quarter before 3 o'clock the double team of Mr. Edward Reid, of Otonabee, were startled and broke the halter fastening them to the post in front of Mr. Baguley's store. They ran down George street to Bradburn's hall, where they were stopped. In their course they ran into the butcher cart of Mr. Laplante, breaking the axle and twisting the springs out of shape. Mr. Reid's wagon had only the reach broken.

Sudden Death.

We have much regret in recording the sudden death last night of Mrs. William Claxton. Mrs. Claxton had been spending the evening with her two daughters and some other guests at the house of a friend. While returning home down the hill near the Union School, she slipped on the newly fallen snow. In her fall she struck her head and became unconscious, in which state she remained till her death, three-quarters of an hour later. Medical aid was summoned, and arrived immediately, but their skill could avail nothing.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day, are: fresh to brisk westerly winds; partly cloudy, cold weather, with snow flurries. The snow flurries predicted by probabilities yesterday ended last evening in a fall of from three to four hours duration, leaving the earth mantled with about three inches of the white fleece. This morning the atmosphere was cold, but by 8 or 9 o'clock, the sun being out clear and bright soon made havoc with the snow, and before night much of it had disappeared. This afternoon the weather has been partly cloudy, with a cold westerly wind blowing.

THE INFANTICIDE CASE.

Inquest Resumed—Medical Evidence—The Mother's Escape—Further Adjournment.

The coroner's inquest on the body of the child found in the water-closet sink, at the Choate House, on Friday, October 24, was resumed last evening in the Council Chamber.

The coroner, Dr. Kincaid, and the jury were all present.

HUGH BELL was sworn, and said,—He understood the nature of an oath. He was the stable boy at the Choate House. On the morning of Friday, Oct. 24, he was called by Bridget Sullivan to go and tell Nellie Salter to come to her quickly. He went and called Nellie Salter, who went immediately. It was about 5.30 o'clock—between that and six o'clock. It was on Friday morning, October 24th. Know the hour by his having just got up. It was the usual time for him to black boots. Knew nothing of Bridget Sullivan's getting away on Tuesday evening. Saw no strange teams in the yard on that day.

NELLIE SALTER, re-called:—Knew nothing about the escape of the girl Bridget Sullivan. It was just at tea time, witness was away getting her tea. Did not anticipate she would attempt to get out as she was supposed to be too weak to rise. Her mother had been there to see her that afternoon. Mr. Johnson, the Chief Constable, engaged her to attend Bridget until she was able to be up. She could not be in the room with her all the time as she had other duties to perform. She had not the slightest idea that Bridget could get away, or would so soon be able to get up, as she appeared to be too weak.

DR. BELL was re-called and said he had performed the duty assigned him. He made the post mortem examination on Saturday afternoon last, and found the child to have been perfectly formed and healthy. He had no doubt that air had entered the lungs, although for a very short period. The child was alive when it was born. He found the skull fractured, but the brain had not been disturbed. The child was no doubt alive when born. The skull must have been broken by coming in contact with some hard substance. He had a written report of the post mortem examination ready. He examined all the organs of the body and found them to have been perfect, and there was no doubt upon his mind that the child was born living, healthy and perfect.

THE CORONER then read the evidence over to the jury, adding he had no doubt the jury understood the case, as well as their duty to the community. In regard to the escape of the alleged infanticide, he had no jurisdiction, and hence was without power to hold the accused until the jury had rendered their verdict. The surrounding circumstances pointed out that the girl, Bridget Sullivan, would not be able to be up before this sitting of the jury. He had consulted a legal gentleman, and had acted in accordance with the law bearing upon such cases. He was not, nor were the jury, answerable for the escape of the girl. He had no power until they should decide the case, and if they found a verdict against the mother, it would then become his duty to issue a warrant for her arrest, and turn her over to the officers of the law. He also informed the jury that they had nothing to do with the living. It was with the dead. It was for them to find by what means the child met its death. They must remember their duties to themselves and the community, and their regard for the morals of the community would be sufficient to cause them to carefully consider the evidence and render a true verdict.

The jury then retired to consult. After some time had been spent in deliberation, they came to the conclusion that they should have the evidence of the girl who slept with Bridget Sullivan on the night of the 23rd of October. The inquest was then adjourned until Monday evening Nov. 3rd, to hear the evidence of this witness.

AQUATICS.

BLAIKIE AND THE "ROCHESTER CONCERN."

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Blaikie has received no answer to his telegram to Courtney requesting the latter to signify his desire for another referee in case a new race should be rowed. Blaikie has sent a strong letter in answer to one from the Rochester concern which offered the purse. He advises them to stop advertising their wares and try to bring Courtney and Hanlan together.

COURTNEY HEARD FROM PERSONALLY.

Hanlan's friends yesterday received the amended articles from Courtney unsigned, and accompanied by the following letter:—

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 29.

H. J. Good, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—I herewith return the amended articles unsigned, without stating my objections to the same. As the enclosed copy of the Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company's letters defends their position so plainly in the matter, should I sign them they would be worthless.

Yours, &c.,

CHAS. E. COURTNEY.

COURTNEY'S NEW SHELL.

A Tory despatch says the body of Courtney's new shell will be finished to-day if the outriggers and seat of the boat cut at Chautauqua prove available in the new one. If the old outriggers and seat will not work in the new shell the latter will not be ready until Saturday.

The Influence of Temper on Health.

Our English contemporary, Capital and Labor which is generally correct in its assertions, thinks that, while excessive labor, exposure to heat and cold, deprivation of sufficient quantities of necessary and wholesome food, habitual bad lodging, sloth, and intemperance, are all deadly enemies to human life, none of them are so bad as violent and ungoverned passions. Men and women have survived all the former, says the writer, and at last reached an extreme old age; but it may be safely doubted whether a single instance can be found of a man violent and irascible temper, habitually subject to storms of ungovernable passion, who has arrived at a very advanced period of life. It is, therefore, a matter of the highest importance to every one desirous of preserving "a sound mind with a sound body," to have a special care, amid all the vicissitudes and trials of life, to maintain a quiet possession of his own spirit.

A Terrible Sight.

A terrible sight was witnessed by passersby in front of the Hotel Dieu, Paris. One of the patients of the hospital went mad, and, leaping out of a window overlooking the street, perched on the cornice. He addressed the crowd below in incoherent language, and threatened to throw himself down when any one approached the window. Mattresses and rugs were spread on the pavement, and the firemen were immediately sent for. One of the latter let himself down by a rope affixed to the roof, and, seizing the madman under the arms, managed to thrust him into the open window, where he was taken charge of by the attendants. The plucky conduct of the fireman was loudly cheered by the crowd below.

CLARK BROWN'S EXECUTION.

His Confession of the Murder of His Father and Sister—Denial of other Murders.

CORNWALL, Oct. 31.—The execution of Clark Brown, convicted of the murder of his father and sister at West Winchester on the night of the 2nd September last, took place here this morning at 8 o'clock, about seventy-five persons being present.

The following is the confession which was read by Rev. Dr. MacNish after the execution:

I, Clark Brown, who is shortly to appear before God my Maker, make this my last confession. I told the whole truth before of the murder of my poor father and sister. I kept nothing back, and I alone did the murder, and no one helped me to kill my father and sister. I am charged with poisoning my uncle, Warren Henderson, and poor Georgie Willard. I positively deny the charge, for I am innocent. I am also charged with poisoning a lady in a ball-room. I positively deny that charge, for I am innocent. I deny telling Theodore Sharp that I intended killing my wife, and I hope in God's mercy she will never believe such a thing of me. It is my dying request that no suspicion should rest on my mother, or my darling wife, for I, and I alone, am guilty, and I am willing to suffer the punishment of death for my awful crime. When we all parted for the night, on the 2nd of Sept., I had no thought that I would be in this awful position now. I heartily thank Rev. Dr. McNish and Mr Bennie for the great kindness they have shown me. I thank all the officials of the jail for their great kindness to me, especially Mrs. McMartin; I pray that God's blessings may rest on herself and family. I hope God has forgiven me. I cling to the firm belief that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin, and even I hope to be forgiven through the sacrifice of the Son of God.

(Signed) CLARK BROWN.

FOOTBALL.

OTTAWA YOUNG LADIES TO THE FRONT.

The Prescott Telegraph has the following paragraph:—"There are six young ladies in the city of Ottawa, at present all unknown to fame, who are desirous of acquiring a reputation as athletes, and one of them has written us to say that they are willing to challenge any six young ladies in this town to a game of football for a silver cup. We give their request publicity, but do not think there are any young ladies in Prescott who are ambitious to become champion football kickers."

THE TOURNAMENT AT COBOURG.

COBOURG, Oct. 30.—The football tournament under the auspices of Victoria University commenced to-day. The first game was Toronto Medical School v. Victoria University, which commenced at two o'clock and finished at 3.30, neither club winning a goal. The next game was the University of Toronto v. Trinity College Medical School, which closed at 5 o'clock, and resulted in a draw. Neither club succeeded in scoring a game. The game was played under the Association rules. To-morrow morning at the first game will be Knox College v. Queen's College. In the afternoon a game will be played under the Rugby rules—Trinity College School, Port Hope, v. Trinity College Medical School, Toronto. At night a game will be played by electric light—Toronto University v. Victoria University.

Tragic End of Two Girls.

Many months ago, in that part of the city of Bordeaux which is known as the Quartier de la Comedie, two young sisters dressed in white garments, were discovered half asphyxiated in a room, from the middle of which a brasier sent forth the deadly fumes of burning charcoal. The windows were immediately opened, and after two or three days' care in the hospital the girls recovered. They had been crossed in love, and deeming life not worth keeping, they did their best to abandon it. So closed the first act of the drama. A few days ago, by the side of an avenue of poplar trees leading to the residence of a gentleman of Bordeaux, were found the bodies of two young women. Blood was trickling from the corpses, and lay in a pool around them. A couple of revolvers were close to their hands, and the people who quickly collected around the spot recognized in the dead before them the sisters who had previously attempted to committ suicide, as mentioned above. A letter addressed by one of them to a local paper throws a faint light on the history of these poor maidens. "We shall die," so ran the letter, "close to his abode"—the name of the owner of the avenue of poplars was here mentioned—"to relieve him, his family, and his friends of the trouble of repenting what they have said, namely, that I had played a fearful comedy in order to become his bride."

LONDON.

BLACK TONGUE.—A disease locally known as black tongue, but which is probably a very violent form of diptheria, has appeared in the section of country surrounding this city. During the past month Mr. Wm Weatherall, of London township, has lost five members of his family by the dread disease, three sons and two daughters, and two daughters are now down with it. Several cases are also reported from Lobo and West Williams. The disease has baffled all the skill of the medical men. The symptoms are first a severe pain in the stomach, gradually ascending to the throat, accompanied by vomiting, and before death, which is attended with great agony, the tongue assumes a black color. Much fear is felt regarding it, and the medical men are in consultation.

The most perilous hour of a person's life is when he is tempted to despond. No one should despond—not even the young man who is enfeebled, both mentally and physically, by habits of early indiscretion, as Victoria Buchu and Uva Ursi will cure the most distressing cases of Kidney disease, etc. For sale by all dealers, at $1 per bottle.

Salt, Sulphur and Charcoal for Pigs.

We have observed that when pigs are fed a great deal of hearty food, they are fond of salt and charcoal. Pigs are often affected with indigestion, and the salt and charcoal are good remedies. We cannot very well mix these things with their food in the right proportions, and, moreover, it would not be best to attempt to force a pig to eat them unless it wanted to, or else its appetite might be destroyed and harm come from the experiment; but by mixing the salt and charcoal together and putting them in a box accessible to the pigs they will eat no more than they require. There is no danger in putting either salt, charcoal or sulphur, where the pigs can get them, but to mix them in their food might injure them, especially if any one of them should possess a voracious appetite. Hogs will eat a considerable quantity of sulphur, and it is exceedingly healthful to them as a purifier of the blood, and to help them to get rid of the vermin which infest their bodies inside and out. We want the pigs we are going to eat to have plenty of sulphur, at least all they will take. Their flesh makes better food.

ABUSE NOT ARGUMENT.

WHILE we agree with the Globe that the course pursued by the inconvertible currency advocates is calculated to have "a bad effect" and "to prevent a fair discussion" of so important a subject, yet, their course is moderate in the extreme as compared with that of the Globe, which, in the same article, characterizes their views as showing "the utter idiocy of the men" as "emanations from an idiot asylum," and the individuals as "ignorant and fanatical companions;" as "silly journalists;" as "too ignorant or too crazy to become anything but public laughing-stocks," and so forth. This surely is abuse, not argument. They may be all that the Globe says they are, but if the Globe's saying so will have any effect, one way or the other, we should say, judging by past events, it will strengthen the position of these currency advocates, as similar abuse strengthened the position of the advocates of the N. P.

It is also a noteworthy fact that "silly" as these men are, they have forced the Globe to admit that there are "reasons to wish for amendments to our present banking system," and that the "currency might be improved." Well, friend Globe, if these things be so, is it not your business, as the "earnest advocate" of "the material prosperity of the masses," to explain how our "banking system" and the "currency" ought to be "improved?" And is it not a rather "Tory" excuse for not doing so, to say that such "improvements may be proposed when propositions are made to destroy it utterly for the purpose of facilitating repudiation?"

That changes both in our banking and currency laws will have to be made very soon, cannot be doubted, and it is the business of that portion of the press, which has the good of the country at heart, to ventilate the subject now. Of course the pure party hacks (following the example of the Globe) will remain silent until they see how the political cat jumps, when they will be ready to find fault with whatever "improvements" may be proposed, be they what they may. Such is political warfare in this Canada of ours.

IMPERIAL RECIPROCITY.

SCARCELY a mail comes to hand that we are not pleased with some reference to Imperial reciprocity in the English press. Its promoters in the Mother Country already include a Duke, several members of Parliament and leading professional men. A journal, moreover, has been established to promote the movement. Sir Massey Lopes, M. P., a recent convert, urges that reciprocal arrangements should be forthwith entered into with the colonies, and why not? It is true Mr. Brown, through the Globe, tries to laugh the proposition out of court, but we fancy most Canadians will be much like ourselves: too dull to comprehend how it would be a good thing for Canada to obtain reciprocity with the United States—and not a good thing to obtain it with Britain and the colonies. One thing, at least, is certain: No Government can give more away and get less for it than Mr. Brown proposed to give away in his famous Washington negotiations.

A COLLECTION of interesting relics has been placed in the main tower of the new Corporation building Dunfermline. It includes the "town stock," which, though upwards of 400 years old, are in a remarkable good state of preservation; the ancient "Tolbooth bell," which was made in 1654, and is so suspended that it can be sounded; and the "burg charter chest"—a curious looking object, constructed of oak, and mounted with powerful iron clamps.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

Its Advantages in Connection With the Mineral Resources of the Townships Through Which it Will Run.

Under these headings the Hon. Billa Flint writes the following letter to the North Hastings Review:—

To the Editor of the Review.

The passing of the by-law for $300,000 by the large majority of 536, by the ratepayers of the City of Ottawa, shows their earnest desire for the project; and no doubt the road will be commenced next spring, and I trust will be carried on to completion at an early date.

There can be no doubt but the building of this line of Railway will be of vast importance, inasmuch as it will give the country another main line from Quebec and Montreal westward, and will facilitate the removal of the products of the west to our seaboard cities, as also of carrying of western bound freight along the line of the route of the road; while it will give to the farmer as much for his produce, and enable him to purchase his salt, iron, nails, and all heavy goods goods as cheap as can be purchased along the line of the Grand Trunk Railway at the front.

The townships through which the road will run, or that lie within a mile or two thereof, are Sherbrook, Oso, Olden, Kennebec, Kaladar, Elzivir, Hungerford, Madoc, Marmora, Rawdon, and Belmont. (I leave out Huntingdon as the road will run north of Hog Lake.) All these townships abound in iron ore, and are rich in other minerals, marble, slate and timber, especially hardwood, all of which will made available by the building of the railway, and without the road must remain to a great extent undeveloped. With the facilities that this road would afford these townships, it would enable capitalists to erect smelting furnaces in each township if so desired, and manufacture our iron ore into pig iron, iron castings, bar iron, steel, &c., because they could bring the coal for smelting by this road at small cost compared with the removal of the ore to the States. For instance, if the ore would only yield some 60 or 65 per cent of iron after smelting, the loss in cost of carriage of from 35 to 40 tons of useless debris on the 100 tons of ore, would, with the small quantity of coal required to work a 100 tons of ore make the real cost of coal but trifling. Then why should we not work these ores at home, and have all the benefits and advantages from the profits to be derived therefrom, rather than give that profit to American capitalists and speculators. We should not allow them to lock up our iron ores, to be eventually taken away from the country, but we should give every encouragement to have them worked in our midst. We may not expect at once to build up a Birmingham, a Sheffield, or a Pittsburg, but as we have the ores, we can and ought to make a beginning, and there is no doubt but we should in a few years be able to supply all the iron and steel required for the use of the Dominion, as well as to export to other countries, therefore the necessity of having the Toronto & Ottawa Railway built as speedily as possible.

It may be said we have the North Hastings Road running to the iron mines. True, but that can't help any of the townships heretofore mentioned, except it might be Madoc and part of Marmora. But the Toronto and Ottawa Road would not only benefit all the townships spoken of, but still further in the rear; while Belleville may be greatly benefitted by the North Hastings and Grand Junction roads, provided they would start up smelting and other works connected with the iron trade, but whether the citizens of Belleville like it or not, the Toronto and Ottawa road will be built, and it will not be long before our iron mines will be more fully developed by being worked and the ore being manufactured in our own country, thereby increasing our population by giving work to thousands, and enriching all who aid in the development of our mineral resources.

Yours, &c., &c.,
BILLA FLINT.

A NIAGARA PHENOMENON.

An Unprecedented Migration of Minnows From Lake Ontario.

Niagara River has this season offered some fine opportunities for the study of the maintenance of the equilibrium of animal life on both land and water. Early spring was marked by an unprecedented migration of minnows from Lake Erie into the Niagara River. They arrived by millions and formed here and there almost solid banks of moving flesh. The shores of some little creeks like those of Frenchman's Creek, emptying from the Canada shore into the Niagara River, were actually strewn with countless numbers of dead minnows, which had been suffocated for want of oxygen in these narrow channels. The advent of minnows attracted in turn, as might naturally be expected, a proportionately sized swarm of their destroyers, in shape of the different species of pike, maskinonge and black bass. The latter would be seen quietly in solid columns along the bottom near the shores, where the water was sufficiently shallow and transparent to permit a full view of them. Fishermen are perplexed and in despair, since they would take bait of no kind, no matter how temptingly displayed. Their stomachs were gorged with minnows, which could be captured without any effort whatever.

Later on, when the main bulk of minnows disappeared without being followed by their enemies, the tables were turned, and bass fishing never has been known to be as fine as it was towards the latter end of the summer. Though the river is no longer stocked with minnows as it was in the spring, the present amount probably still exceeds that of any previous year, and has attracted later on another host of their natural enemies, the winged toilers of the sea. Never before has the surface of the green Niagara exhibited such an animated display of glistening white flocks of gulls and terns as in the present months. They have assembled by thousands, and luxuriate in immense abundance on their natural prey. Among them are some species never before observed here in any notable quantity, or even single specimens. We enumerate the Kittiwake gull, besides three species of terns, two of which are determinable as the black and common terns, while the other is dubious on account of its immature plumage. They are congregated in large and separate flocks, and though occasionally hovering high over the river, may easily be decoyed to come near the surface by throwing upon it some white bunches of cotton or paper. A good breech loader will then make considerable havoc among them, as they generally remain quite a long time near any spot where one or more of their shot comrades float upon the water.

It is very easy to see how black bass and the various species of gulls and terns should be found in such great numbers, where there is an unusual abundance of their natural food; but a more minute knowledge, through close observation and examination, is needed to determine the reasons for the unprecedented spring migration of the minnows. The solution of the problem probably hinges also upon their peculiar microscope food, which may have been affected by changed conditions of the ordinary prevailing temperature of the water, or other similar influences of a physical nature.—Buffalo Express.

SNOWDON.

VISIT OF INSPECTION.—The Post says:—On Thursday last Mr. Barber, director of the Victoria Railway; Mr. Burns, of Thompson & Burns, Toronto; Mr. C. J. Bloomfield, Capt. Ross and others went up the line to the Snowdon mine with a view of satisfying themselves with regard to the reports that have been circulated regarding the mine. They were surprised and gratified at the extent of the work that had been done; and found everything in excellent mining and business shape. A new steam drill just brought from Montreal was hard at work. There is a vein of about seven feet in thickness, of very rich ore, drifting downwards on an angle of 35°, and it is proposed to follow this vein with a tunnel which will be cheaper than sinking a shaft. The gentlemen named were of the opinion that Mr. Myles had too little space to work in and that he should have a wider extent of territory. There is no reason as yet to anticipate anything else than a successful development of the mine, the report mentioned to the contrary notwithstanding. Those who have visited the mine speak in warm terms of praise of Mr. Myles's energy and enterprise. He has secured a practical miner, who for some years had charge of mining operations below Quebec, and is working on with better prospects than ever of a successful [illegible]

MADOC.

MORE CARS WANTED.—The Review says:—Mining operations in this township, we learn, are obliged to be considerably curtailed on account of the inability of the Grand Trunk to supply enough cars to transport the ore over the B. & N. H. Railway. At the present time all along the line the carrying capacity of the Grand Trunk is taxed to its utmost, so that only a limited supply of rolling stock could be spared for this line. In fact, demands for more cars have been frequent since the opening of the mines, and we trust the company will make an effort as soon as possible to supply all the accommodation in this respect needed.

Health is Happiness.

NERVOUSNESS.—A very great number of those in the middle and higher classes of society, who, without being ever actually sick, never know what real health is; who live constantly in a lower plane of living than is normal in man, who are weak all over, though not specially and constantly weak in any one organ, who may not experience piercing and grinding pain, yet suffer at times, if not always, that profound exhaustion which in many respects is worse than pain. Those in that lamentable state have always been relieved, and many permanently so by using the Victoria Syrup of Hypophosphites, it being practically adapted for those cases. A REMINISCENCE OF OLD MONAGHAN.

PETER'S LAKE.

The County of Monaghan is divided into five parts, or Baronies including 19 parishes, comprising 500 square miles or 320,000 acres, the size of five townships in Canada, population about 150,000, considerably less than that of Belfast, less than twice that of the beautiful city of Toronto, which was a hunting ground for Indians a comparatively short time ago. The surface of the county is hilly and fertile, interspersed with gentlemen's demesnes, small lakes, bogs, towns and villages, viz: Monaghan, Castle Blayney, Carrickmacross, Ballibay, Rockcorry, Newbliss, Drum, Scotshouse, Killevan, Clones, Smithborough, Scotstown, Ballynode, Tydavnet, Emyvale and Glaslough. The County is bounded on the north by the river Blackwater and the County Tyrone, on the west by Fermanagh, on the south by Cavan and on the east by Louth and Armagh.

The town of Monaghan the capital of the County with a population of 3,000, is clean, well paved and it has four squares and some handsome buildings. It is situate in a valley on the borders of two small lakes, viz: Spark's Lake and Peter's Lake (not the first Peter we read of who lived convenient to a lake 12 miles long by 6 miles broad,) almost surrounded with fruitful green hills, rich valley, farms and gardens, the fish in this lake were pikes, trouts, chevens and tenches. On it Peter made his living as a fisherman. His supremacy, whether the church was built on him or on his confession of faith, whether the keys given to him were metallic or symbolic, and the use he made of them, and whether he was ever at Rome, we leave to the theologians.

AN ACROSTIC.

Peter and Co went down to the lake,
Expecting a draught of fishes to take,
Toiling all night without success,
Each watching the nets with eagerness,
"Run to the deep," a friend did call,
"Sure I am you'll make a haul."
Laying the nets as they were taught,
A multitude of fishes caught;
Kindly to their Lord did move,
And wonder'd at his power and love.

It would seem that Peter was the patron Saint of the town of Monaghan, which, in a population of 3,000, had 19 citizen Peters to me well known, namely: Peter McEntee, Peter McPhillips, Peter [illegible], Peter [illegible], Peter McKenna, Peter Gorman, Peter Corley, Peter Dogan, Peter Hammell, Peter McCulloch, Peter McCabe, Peter McNulty, Peter Fleming, Peter Fitzpatrick, Peter Tierney, Peter [illegible], Peter Keenan, Peter Hughes, and Peter Coyle. These 19 Peters were very diversified in position, disposition and person, but there is no uniformity in animate or inanimate nature, as we differ in countenance, handwriting, gait and person, so we do in manners, intelligence and opinion, especially on the most orthodox way to get safe to future bliss, and yet there may be unity of honesty toward each other, and toward our beneficent Creator so much so as to preclude every hatred, malice and uncharitableness in view of the fact that God made of one blood all men to dwell on earth—the grave to which we are hastening, and the everlasting future to which we are destined, where we can take nothing from this world.

Peter's Lake at Monaghan derives its name from

A man named Peter McEntee,
Who, over half a century,
Tobacco thick and small did make
In Mill Street next the Little Lake,
Pale, medium size, with temper mild,
He never had a wife nor child,
No traveller, nor philanthropist,
His time being all absorbed in twist.

Peter's tobacco was well known and appreciated in the parishes of Monaghan, Donagh, Tydavnet, Kilmore, Drumsnat, Killevan and Aughabog. In rolls like thick and small black rope, it was placed on his counters, where he was ably assisted in its retail by two corpulent ladies named Cisily and Molly. The factory was on the border of the lake, into which the offal was thrown. Having no rival in trade in town except Mr. Horner, it was a trite saying of the smokers of Peter's weed that "an inch of Peter was worth two of Horner." Peter's business long since ended in smoke, while his memory floats on the stagnant waters of Peter's Lake.

In my boy days, Peter's Lake was something less than a mile in circumference, bounded on the north by fields and gardens, on the east by gardens and rear premises of Glaslough street, on the south by Peter McEntee's premises and vacant ground, on which the late Jas. A. Ross, an enterprising, successful merchant, built two substantial mercantile houses, in which he carried on for many years the grocery, leather, iron, coal, deals and liquor trade; on the west by hilly pasture fields, with a parapet wall along the jail hill, the fields running down unbroken to a plateau, and weeds on the edge of the lake, which has been considerably encroached by the making of North st., and by earth, rubbish, &c. If a history of the scenes in connection with Peter's Lake were written, it would be a wonderful volume. What busy, farcial scenes were enacted on its shore in the inn-yard, by mechanics, hostlers, postillions, passengers, &c., in connection with horses, chaises, luggage, supplies, &c. I saw two Esquimaux Indians exhibited on it, in their native costume and canoes, and with unerring aim throwing their darts at ducks which were swimming at a distance from them. Many a future poet, professor, preacher, philosopher, statesman, warrior, merchant and [illegible] spent pleasant hours of recreation on its banks. Many a future boarder on the big house on the hill, and resident of Botany Bay, and many a vagabond who [illegible], gambled, fought and otherwise sinned on its shores. Many a contraband keg was hid in it. Many a man, woman and child departed this life in it, by suicide and accident.

Lord Doyle was a cobbler, with a hump on his back,
Many songs he did sing, and jokes he did crack;
In his youth he did travel many a mile
In the south and west of the Emerald Isle.
Many years at his trade he was very well known,
In Neddy McCabe's in Monaghan town;
One eve he went out for his usual walk,
Not returning for days, he was the town's talk;
Decomposed he turned up, as the coroner found,
In old Peter's Lake, poor Lord Doyle was drowned.

Ten guineas were found in the lining of his old waistcoat, much needed by his widow, who had no children.

Peter's Lake differed from the Dead Sea or Lake of Sodom, which had an inlet of six million tons of water daily from the Jordan, but no outlet. Peter's had no inlet except direct from the clouds and the sewers, its only outlet was a deep, dangerous, filthy drain, partially open, never out of need of repairs and flushing. On its east bank, in the south rear of Mill street, there was an alley crowded with indigent residents. On its west bank was a sort of purlieus, called Plunket's row, between Mill street and the new road, near the old pump. In this row there lived for many years alone in a hut a stout charwoman named Betty Martin, the originator of the slang phrase "It's all in my eye." She was well known to the inhabitants, most of whom were chary in giving her employment, not that she was a virago, nor that her godfathers and godmothers neglected their duty, but because she had the reputation of frequently taking a drop too much, which gave an injurious impetus to her tongue. One dark night—there were no street lamps then—while Betty was measuring her steps to her domicile in a tipsy condition, she ended her mortal career by tumbling into the said drain, near the forge of Phill. Skelton, who, in reply to a question on the coroner's inquest, said, "When I saw her last night at about 9 o'clock, near the church, she was neither drunk nor sober, but she was budgy." Betty was very much missed in the neighborhood though her loss was not felt.

The only fish we caught in Peter's Lake were eels and roaches. We often boated on it, but it was too intermixed to swim or bathe in. Luxuriant weeds grew in profusion near its edges. With an accumulation of decayed vegetables, and decomposing animal matter, the evaporation, in warm weather, must have had a deleterious effect on the atmosphere of the neighborhood. It was said by the highest authority that out of the heart of man proceed evil thought and all the sins in the calendar. It was well known that into the heart of Peter's Lake proceeded all the nuisances imaginable.

Tommy Wabbisty was well known
As a Tailor in the town.
One day he tried to sell his bellows,
To raise the wind with two hale fellows.
Failing,—he went on a spree,
And vexed with all humanity,
His bellows from his shop did take
Down to the edge of Peter's lake,
He sighed,—upset, and them did drown,
And in bad odour left the town and never returned.

Tourists who admired Monaghan and vicinity recommended the filling in of Peter's Lake for sanitary and other reasons.

Imagine a public meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Monaghan called on requisition for the purpose. It is noon, in the Grand Jury room of the Court House. Colonel Lloyd in the Chair. Mr. Swan appointed Secretary. Present,—The Right Revd. Doctor Donnelly, the Venerable Archdeacon Stack, the Sheriff and his Deputy, the County and sub-Inspector of R. I. Constabulary; Doctors Young, Irwin, and Rush; Messrs. Reilly, Wright, Ross, and McWilliams, Black, Blackburne, Breakey, Cinnamon, Condel, Cromley, Clarke, Deighan, Donnelly, Dunwoody, Fletcher, Gillespie, Henry, Mitchell, McGurk, McNelly, McAleese, Rafferty, Rogers, Skelton, Scanlan, Temple, Treanor, Whitla, Woods, &c. After a few remarks from the Chairman, explaining the object of the meeting, it was moved by Mr. Dunwoody, seconded by Mr. Whitla:—"Whereas Peter's Lake has been nothing but a stagnant pond, a recepticle for suicides, dead animals, filth and offal from sewers, &c., causing a pestilential vapor most injurious to the health of the inhabitants; be it thereby resolved that on santary and utilitarin grounds the said lake be filled up without delay; that a light iron paliseading with gates be placed round such filling; that it be ornamented with gravelled walks, grassy mounds, ever-greens, with a handsome fountain in the centre, and that it be open to the citizens." In moving this resolution, Mr. Chairman, I have few remarks to make, suppose the stagnant water were drawn off so as that we could see the bottom of the lake as it now is, we would be astonished that we allowed it to remain as long as it is; suppose all I move for were accomplished, that we could see our citizens with their wives, children, and sweethearts enjoying their promenades on a delightful evening on its serpentine walks, and its shady bowers while our efficient town band were discoursing melodious music at their circular stand near the fountain, what could induce us to replace the lake as it now is.

Moved in amendment, by Mr. B. McNally, seconded by Mr. B. Skelton: that a steam engine be procured, and the water all pumped out of said lake; that the farmers and gardeners of the vicinity be invited to tender for the rich manure; that the bottom be covered with river gravel, and the banks faced with stones and gravel cement, iron paliseading placed around it, and fresh water pumped into it through a conduit from Spark's lake or the Black water river, over [illegible] on it. In moving this amendment, Mr. Chairman, I have only to say that the manure would go far to cover the expense, and we would have a beautiful pond, preferable to the Park moved for. The amendment was lost, the original motion carried.

Moved by Mr. Rafferty, seconded by Mr. Wright: That as the Barrackhill is a great obstruction in the way to Ballyalbany church and the country in that direction, the said hill be utilised in filling up Peter's lake.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McAleese, seconded by Mr. Condell: That a wide cut be made, with sloping green banks in the terrace north of the railroad station, and of the moss-wood thereby, making a level site for a road to Milltown, cutting off the unsightly jail hill, and that the surplus earth be used in filling in said lake. The amendment was carried.

Moved by Mr. Wood, seconded by Mr. Deighan: That a Committee be appointed to ascertain by soundings and otherwise the probable cost of the work, to advertise for tenders at so much per cubic yard for filling, and per lineal yard for masonry and paliseading, and that a special rate be levied on the inhabitants of the town to cover the cost of the work.

Moved in amendment that all that part of the last motion referring to a special rate be struck out and the following substituted namely, that a subscription list be entered into headed by Lord Rossmore to cover the cost. That each subscription be divided into eight equal quarterly payments, covering two years, and that the names of the subscribers with the amount subscribed be published in our three newspapers. Amendment carried.

Mr. Reilly said that on the faith of the subscribers the town could open an account with the bank for the work, and guarantee payment of any amount overdrawn; that with the enlargement and improvement of Rossmore park, and other beautiful places in the vicinity, in view of our elegant, spacious, new hotel and public hall, and the removal of the Rossmore monument from the Diamond, where it is an obstruction, to our beautiful little park, something like the Mall in Armagh, or one of those picturesque Alpine valley parks of Switzerland, Monaghan will soon become very attractive to tourists, and a centre of business and fashion.

A committee was appointed, and a meeting announced for that day week.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM is composed of the most healing balsams and gums. The balsams, which enter into its composition, were used by natives when America was first discovered, and are combined with other vegetable tonics, so blended together, that it is a specific for all affections of the throat and lungs. Thousands of bottles are used annually, and it is considered one of the standard preparations of this day. For Coughs, Colds, &c. For sale by all dealers at 25cts. per bottle.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

BUTTER TAFFY.—Two coffeecups of white sugar, three-quarters of a teacup of butter. Boil until brittle. Pour into buttered dishes.

COMMON shoe blacking mixed with castor oil, also, the best black ink mixed with the white of an egg, will give ladies' fine shoes color, and shine them without rubbing off on their dresses.

TO PICKLE CARROTS boil until tender, cut them in fancy shapes, and put them in strong vinegar. This is a pretty garnish, and an excellent pickle. It can be spiced or flavoured to suit the taste.

THE BEST thing for cleaning tinware is common soda. Dampen a cloth and dip it in soda, and rub the ware briskly, after which wipe dry. Any blackened or dirty ware can be made to look as good as new.

ONION SAUCE.—Boil five small white onions until tender, then chop fine. Boil a cupful of milk, add a piece of butter, with pepper and salt to taste. Stir in the minced onion with a small spoonful of flour moistened with milk.

CRULLERS.—Two quarts of flour and four large teaspoonsful of baking powder sifted together; two teacupsful of sugar; two eggs; large cupful of new milk; flavor to taste. No shortening required in this recipe.

LEMON SNAPS.—Two teacupsful of sugar; one of butter; two-thirds of a teacupful of milk; four teaspoonsful of baking-powder and about two quarts of sifted flour. Boil thin and bake quick. Flavor with lemon.

TO COOK CABBAGE.—If any of the Rural readers are so lucky as to have cabbage, I should like them to try my method of cooking it. Cut the cabbage fine as for slaw, then put a tablespoonful of lard in a skillet, and when heated, put in the cabbage. Season with salt and pepper. Stir until tender, then pour sweet cream over it, just enough to moisten. It is excellent. No water is needed. Worms have eaten all the cabbage around here. If Mrs. Endicot could see my three little boys gathered around the table eating "Farmer's Rice," she would smile, I am sure. Papa is as anxious for his share as the children.

PEACH FRITTERS.—Sift a quart of flour into a large bowl, stir in sufficient warm milk with one third of a tea-cup of home-made yeast to make a stiff dough, and let stand until light; then work in three beaten eggs, two tablespoonsful of melted butter, two of sugar and a sprinkle of salt; knead, adding a little flour, for 10 or 15 minutes. Prepare some peaches by paring, halving, removing the stones and pressing the pieces together again. Take pieces of dough as large as an egg, flatten with the rolling-pin, put a peach into each piece, pressing the dough over, making round balls. Put to rise on a floured pan, not allowing them to touch each other. They should be light in from one hour to one and a half. Fry as you would raised doughnuts, and serve with liquid sauce.

APPLE SANDWICH PUDDING.—Pare and slice thinly some mellow, acid apples and butter some thin slices of light bread. Into a buttered baking dish put, first, a layer of bread and butter just moistened with warm water, then a thick layer of apples sweetened and seasoned with cinnamon. Repeat these layers until the dish is full, but the last layer should be bread buttered on both sides. Cover with a plate and bake one and a half to two hours in a slow oven. Remove the plate two or three times and baste the top with a few spoonsful of butter and water. Should the apples be very dry it will be necessary to pour in a little water at the side of the pudding. Half an hour before the pudding is done, remove the plate and let the crust brown nicely. Eat with cream and sugar.

Not as the Poet Sings.

If the unfortunate and unhappy Kirk White were alive, it is more than probable that he would leave unsung his poem commencing "Come Consumption's Ghastly Throng," as the remedy for that fell disease has now been discovered. It is SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA. Many so called remedies have been offered to the public, but none have proved trustworthy until this preparation was given to suffering humanity. It not only relieves in every case, but in most cases permanently cures; at the same time is perfectly palatable.

REGULATIONS

RESPECTING THE DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN

PUBLIC LANDS

FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE

Canadian Pacific Railway

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OTTAWA, Oct. 14, 1879.

Public notice is hereby given that the following provisions, which shall be held to apply to the lands in the Province of Manitoba, and in the territories to the west and north-west thereof, are substituted for the Regulations, dated the 9th July last, governing the mode of disposing of the Public Lands situate within 110 (one hundred and ten) miles on each side of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which said Regulations are hereby superseded:—

1. "Until further and final survey of the said railway has been made west of the Red River, and for the purposes of these provisions, the line of the said railway shall be assumed to be on the fourth base westerly to the intersection of the said base by the line between ranges 21 and 22 west of the first principle meridian, and thence in a direct line to the confluence of the Shell River with the River Assiniboine.

2. "The country lying on each side of the line of railway shall be respectively divided into belts, as follows:—

"(1) A belt of five miles on either side of the railway, and immediately adjoining the same, to be called Belt A;

"(2) A belt of fifteen miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt A, to be called Belt B;

"(3) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt B, to be called Belt C;

"(4) A belt of twenty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining belt C, to be called Belt D; and

"(5) A belt of fifty miles on either side of the railway, adjoining Belt D, to be called belt E.

3. "The even-numbered sections in each township throughout the several belts above described shall be open for entry as homesteads and pre-emptions of 160 acres each respectively.

4. "The odd-numbered sections in each of such Townships shall not be open to homestead or pre-emption, but shall be specially reserved and designated as Railway Lands.

5. "The Railway Lands within the several belts shall be sold at the following rates, viz:—In Belt A, $5 (five dollars) per acre; in Belt B, $4 (four dollars) per acre; in Belt C, $3 (three dollars) per acre; in Belt D, $2 (two dollars) per acre; in Belt E, $1 (one dollar) per acre; and the terms of sale of such lands shall be as follows, viz: One-tenth in cash at the time of purchase; the balance in nine equal instalments, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on the balance of purchase money from time to time remaining unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

6. "The Pre-emption Lands within the several belts shall be sold for the prices and on the terms respectively as follows:—In the Belts A, B and C, at $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents) per acre; in Belt D, at $2 (two dollars) per acre; and in Belt E, at $1 (one dollar) per acre. The terms of payment to be four-tenths of the purchase money, together with interest on the latter at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, to be paid at the end of three years from the date of entry; the remainder to be paid in six equal instalments annually from and after the said date, with interest at the rate above mentioned on such portions of the purchase money as may remain unpaid, to be paid with each instalment.

7. "All payments for Railway Lands, and also for Pre-emption Lands, within the several Belts, shall be in cash, and not in scrip or military or police bounty warrants.

8. "All moneys received in payment of Pre-emption Lands shall inure to and form part of the fund for railway purposes, in a similar manner to the moneys received in payment of the Railway Lands.

9. "These provisions shall be retroactive so far as relates to any and all entries of Homestead and Pre-emption Lands, or sales of Railway Lands obtained or made under the Regulations of the 9th of July, hereby superseded; any payments made in excess of the rate hereby fixed shall be credited on account of sales of such lands.

10. The Order-in-Council of the 9th of November, 1877, relating to the settlement of the lands in Manitoba which had been previously withdrawn for Railway purposes, having been cancelled, all claims of persons who settled in good faith on lands under the said Order-in-Council shall be dealt with under these provisions, as to price of Pre-emptions, according to the belt in which such lands may be situate. Where a person may have taken up two quarter-sections under the said Order-in-Council, he may retain the quarter-section upon which he has settled, as a Homestead, and the other quarter-section as a Pre-emption, under these provisions, irrespective of whether such Homestead and Pre-emption may be found to be upon an even-numbered section or otherwise. Any moneys paid by such person on account of the lands entered by him under the said Order-in-Council, will be credited to him on account of his Pre-emption purchase, under these provisions. A person who may have taken up one quarter-section under the Order-in-Council mentioned will be allowed to retain the same as a Homestead, and will be permitted to enter a second quarter-section as a Pre-emption, the money paid on account of the land previously entered to be credited to him on account of such Pre-emption.

11. "All entries of lands shall be subject to the following provisions respecting the right of way of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or of any Government colonization railway connected therewith, viz:

a "In the case of the railway crossing land entered as a Homestead, the right of way thereon, and also any land which may be required for station purposes, shall be free to the Government.

b "Where the railway crosses Pre-emptions or railway Lands, entered subsequent to the date hereof, the Government may take possession of such portion thereof as may be required for right of way or for station grounds or ballast pits, and the owner shall only be entitled to claim payment for the land so taken, at the same rate per acre as he may have paid the Government for the same.

c "In case, on the final location of the railway through lands unsurveyed, or surveyed but not entered for at the time, a person is found in occupation of land which it may be desirable in the public interest to retain, the Government reserves the right to take possession of such land, paying the squatter the value of any improvements he may have made thereon.

12. "Claims to Public Lands arising from settlement after the date hereof, in territory unsurveyed at the time of such settlement, and which may be embraced within the limits affected by the above policy, or by the extension thereof in the future over additional territory, will be ultimately dealt with in accordance with the terms prescribed above for the lands in the particular belt in which such settlement may be found to be situate, subject to the operations of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

13. "All entries after the date hereof of un-occupied lands in the [illegible] Agency, will be considered as provisional until the railway line through that part of the territories has been located, after which the same will be finally disposed of in accordance with these provisions, as the same may apply to the particular belt in which such lands may be found to be situated, subject, as above, to the operation of sub-section c of section 11 of these provisions.

14. "With a view to encouraging settlement by cheapening the cost of building material, the Government reserves the right to grant Licenses, renewable yearly, under Section 52 of the 'Dominion Lands Act,' 1879, to cut merchantable timber on any lands situated within the several belts above described. And any settlement upon, or sale of lands within, the territory covered by such licenses, shall for the time being be subject to the operation of such licenses.

15. "The above provisions, it will, of course, be understood will not affect sections 11 and 29, which are public school lands, or sections 8 and 26, Hudson's Bay Company's lands.

"Any further information necessary may be obtained on application at the Dominion Lands Office, Ottawa, or from the agent of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, or from any of the local agents in Manitoba or the Territories.

By order of the Minister of the Interior,

J. S. DENNIS,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

There will be a special meeting of the Town Council in the Council Chamber to-morrow, (Tuesday) evening at 7.30 o'clock. Business of importance will come before the Council.

No Market.

There has been no market to-day, except for hay. Several loads were brought in on previous sales. There has been nothing done in grains, or any of the farm products.

Hops.

On Saturday Mr. Heffernan brought to the market eleven bales of hops, 2,230 pounds in weight, for which he received 20½ cents a pound from Mr. H. Calcutt. These hops were the produce of three acres of land in Asphodel, and were of very good quality.

I. O. G. T.

The first regular meeting of Peterborough Temple No. 340, I. O. G. T., in the new quarter, will be held to-night, when the installation of officers will take place. There will be an interesting literary programme presented. All good templars are invited to be present and participate.

Wheels to Runners.

This afternoon runners are taking the place of wheels. The snow is packing, and it is thought by many that sleighing will follow. There being no frost in the ground, it is thought by others that the snow will be all absorbed, and that the sleighing we now have will be of short duration, unless continuous snows follow.

Returned Hunters.

Messrs. Morrow, Winch, Merrick, Jardine and others who left Peterborough for a hunt two weeks since, returned early on Saturday morning. They had a pleasant trip, and a successful hunt, killing ten deer. They report that the snow flurry on Friday night only extended about nine miles north of Peterborough.

The Minstrels.

The Dupree & Benedict Minstrel Troupe, who appeared at Bradburn's Hall on Friday night, drew a large and appreciative audience. Their music, dancing and variety scenes were all that report had said of them. In the afternoon they paraded the streets as a brass band, and made a fine appearance, discoursing some excellent music.

A Threat.

Constable McGhee has received a postal card with the following reception:—

> "Mr. John McGhee, take warning, that if you are caught in the Scotch Village after dark, your brains will be scattered over the streets, and we will tear your rotten carcase limb from limb, so take care of yourself.
> FROM ONE THAT WILL DO IT.

It is adorned with representations of a coffin, skull and cross-bones.

Firemen, Attention!

The members of the Peterborough Fire Brigade are reminded that there will be a regular meeting held to-morrow evening at the Firemen's Hall. The most interesting business to be transacted will be the receiving of their half yearly pay. There will be other business of importance; the hour is half past seven o'clock sharp.

Masonic Installation Ceremony.

We are requested to state that there will be a meeting in the Masonic Hall, George Street, on Tuesday evening, 4th inst., at 8 a. m. o'clock, for the purpose of installing the W. M. elect of Keene Lodge, when a board of installing Masters will be formed for that purpose. All members of the lodges here should attend this meeting and take part in this interesting ceremony.

"Probabilities" and the Snow Storm.

"Probabilities" predicted on Saturday fresh to brisk westerly winds; partly cloudy cold weather, with snow flurries. "Probabilities" should step down and explain what he calls flurries. The one on Saturday night was the longest one we ever remember. Some seven inches of snow fell and the storm was continuous all day Sunday and last night and continues to-day.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day, are: brisk, north-westerly to northerly winds; gradually clearing weather. Storm signals are up throughout Canada. This town and surrounding country was visited with a heavy snow storm yesterday, continuing throughout the night and the greater part of to-day. It is variously estimated that from 6 to 8 inches of snow have fallen in this storm.

The Saturday Runaway.

The running away of Mr. Edward Reid's team on Saturday afternoon proved to have been more serious than was reported in Saturday's REVIEW. There was two other teams run into besides Mr. Laplante's. One was an express waggon which was considerably damaged, and the other a buggy. The horses were not tied to a post, but the reins were only fastened to the box of the waggon. Horses should not be left standing without some check upon them. The quietest horses may get frightened and run away.

Mr. Heathfield's Concert.

We have received the programme for Mr. Heathfield's concert on Friday evening, November 7th, and it gives promise of well-chosen music, admirably performed. The talents of Mr. Gilmore of Port Hope, and of his two daughters, are too well known to a Peterborough audience to require comment, and the same is the case with Mr. Heathfield and the local amateurs who will assist him. Miss Roche is not so well known, but we hear that she is a fine singer. She is a pupil of Mrs. Bradley, of Toronto, and has sung with much success on several occasions in that city. She was also a member of the choir of the Metropolitan Church there. Besides the attractive nature of the programme, Mr. Heathfield has another strong claim to a good house, from the fact of the willingness with which he has always given his aid to entertainments for the benefit of individuals, congregations or societies. There is now a good opportunity of returning the compliment.

POLICE COURT.

THE NUISANCE CASE.

MONDAY, Nov. 3.—The adjourned nuisance case, McDonald vs. Dunsford was called. There were present the following interested parties, Mr. Brown and Mr. E. Courtney as well as the plaintiff and defendant. Mr. Dunsford stated that he had prepared a petition to the Town Council for a sewer, and that he had the signatures of nearly all the property owners and residents along the lane upon it. The petition he hoped would be ready by the next meeting of the Town Council, although he was ready to go on with this case. Mr. Hatton suggested it would be better for all parties to come to some settlement of the matter, and if the parties consented he would enlarge the case until Tuesday the 18th, giving them time to complete their arrangements for a hearing before the Council at its next meeting. Both sides consented to this and the case was enlarged accordingly.

VIOLATION OF A MARKET BY-LAW.

Mr. R. H. Green, grocer, was charged by W. Denoon with selling fresh meats without a license. The charge sets forth that fresh pork had been exposed for sale at this store on the 30th of October.

CHARLES DELISLE sworn for the complainant said,—He knew Mr. Green and his shop. He was at the store on October 30th and asked the price of bacon, Mr. Green answered 10cts. He then asked the price of fresh pork and was answered 8cts. He said he would take two or three pounds of the fresh. Mr. Green brought the pork in from the front of the store and cut of a piece; it weighed about 4½ pounds. He said to make it five pounds and it was done. Witness took the pork home. It was fresh pork; there was no salt upon it.

To MR. BEAVIS, License Inspector. He passed the store every day and saw fresh meat exposed for sale.

MR. BEAVIS said he wished to make this a test case as there were many others doing the same thing, and it was time the by-law was understood and respected.

To DEFENDANT.—There was no salt upon it and there could not have been any on it, if so, the salt was so fine that he could not detect it.

W. DENOON, the complainant, sworn, said—Mr. Green may have sprinkled some salt upon the pork, but it is not what is known or recognized as salted pork. It was not cured. It was simply to evade the town by-law.

To MR. BEAVIS—There was not salt enough upon it to keep it from spoiling.

To the MAGISTRATE—Had no hesitation in saying that it was not cured. That there was not enough salt upon it to preserve it.

MR. GREEN, the defendant, was sworn and said—He remembered the 30th of October, when Mr. Delisle came into the store and asked for pork. He asked if he wanted old or new pork, and he gave him the fresh. He said what he meant by old pork was old salted pork, and by new he meant freshly salted pork.

To MR. BEAVIS—The pork was cured sufficiently to keep it. Delisle asked for pork and he wanted bacon, that is fresh bacon.

MR. WAINWRIGHT, sworn for the defence, said that he sold Mr. Green fresh pork on Saturday last and two or three days before that. Was in the habit of selling him meats. Was in Mr. Green's store on Thursday when the pork was sold to Delisle. Was shown a piece of pork. Said he would not call that fresh pork. The pork he saw in the shop on Thursday morning was salted enough to keep it.

The MAGISTRATE decided that the throwing of salt on the pork did not make it come under the by-law. From the evidence of defendant and his witnesses it was clear to his mind that the by-law had been violated. It was not necessary to call any further witnesses. The case as it stood upon defendant's own evidence was proven. He fined the defendant $1 and $1.25 costs, to be paid on or before the 8th of November, which would give him time to test the validity of the by-law in question.

Mr. Green proposes to appeal to the Court of General Sessions to test the case.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

George Rule was charged by Constable McGhee with being drunk and using profane language on the public streets. He was not present and a warrant was issued for him.

Cor. Daly, who had been summoned to appear on Friday of last week, failed to put in an appearance and answer to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

COUNTY POINTS.

LATE SAW LOG DRIVE.—Messrs. Irwin & Boyd have a drive of saw logs in Clear Lake, which they intend cutting into lumber at their mills at Nassau before they shut down for the season.

SAW LOGS.—Mr. Geo. Chalmers is talking of having a saw log shanty in Burleigh this winter.

THE STEAMERS.—The Cruiser and Chippewa are still kept busy early and late towing scows laden with cord wood for the Midland Railway.

LUMBERING.—Mr. L. G. Fobert, of this place, is going to put in a gang of men this winter for taking out saw-logs, ties, cordwood, &c. on his property on the 13th con. of Smith. He intends contracting to the highest bidder. We wish him success in his new enterprise.

ACCIDENT.—As the steamer Chippewa was going through the locks on Friday last, Captain Lillicrap fell into the water from the upper deck. He was got out in a few minutes, seemingly not much the worse for his cold bath.

LINDSAY.

AWAITING COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE.—The Post says:—Not long after Mr. Gaoler Jackson had left town on Monday for Kingston penitentiary with Mr. Dewart, of Fenelon Falls in custody, a telegram was received by Mr. Sheriff Kempt instructing him to have the prisoner retained here until the Government had considered his case. The sheriff immediately wired Mr. Jackson at Kingston to return with the prisoner, but Mr. Jackson did not receive the telegram until he was at the Kingston station preparing to depart for home. He then returned to the penitentiary, where he had a couple of hours before left his prisoner, and securing Dewart's release, both started for home next morning. They arrived here at noon, and the prisoner is now once more established in the county gaol, looking none the worse for his trip, except the slight change of having a portion of his hair removed, he having been in the penitentiary long enough to go through the first proceeding in the prison rules. It is said that the chief justice has advised commutation of sentence to six months in the central prison. The petition in the prisoner's favour was numerously and respectably signed.

GOT HIS FINGERS BLOWN OFF.—One of the Jordan Bros., farmers near Reaboro, had three fingers blown off on Sunday last by the explosion of a dynamite cap. He picked the cap up alongside a neighbor's well where blasting had been done, and thinking that it would make a good ferule for a walking stick, began to pick what he supposed was dirt out of it with a pin. It exploded in his hands and Dr. Poole was soon called upon to dress what remained of three fingers.

A FIENDISH ACT.—A reward of $100 is offered by Mr. W. B. Fee, baker, for the conviction of the party who cut a piece off his horse's tail whilst he was in a house in the north ward delivering bread about seven o'clock in the evening of the 18th. It was the act of a cruel ruffian of whom the community should be rid, and we hope he will be detected.

An Extensive Beard.

The Detroit Post and Tribune has been interviewing the possessor of the longest beard on record, Mr. Edwin Smith, of Fairfield, near Adrian, Mich. The beard measures 7 feet 6½ inches. Mr. Smith is a farmer, forty-seven years old, 6 feet high, and weighs only 145 pounds; hair and beard sandy and tinged with gray. His twin brother, less bearded, is stouter and enjoys much better health. No unusual growth of hair is noticeable in any other member of the family. Mr. Smith had a fuzzy face in childhood, began to shave at the age of thirteen, but stopped shaving eighteen years ago. His hair is thick and strong, and has to be cut fortnightly.

OR A WISE PRECAUTION.

On the borders of civilization it is customary with men to sleep with a revolver within easy grasp. This precaution is deemed necessary to insure the safety of their personal property. The sagacious housewife, to prepare against a sudden attack of sickness in her family of little ones, takes the wise precaution to arm herself with the most potent remedy known to science for the routing and putting to sudden flight, colic, diarrhoea, inflammation of the bowels caused by colds, or what is more often the case, the eating of green apples or other unripe fruit before retiring. The weapon is SCOTT & BOWNE'S EMULSION OF PALATABLE CASTOR OIL. Price 25 cents.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, except there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted Bank cheque for the sum of three thousand dollars for Section No. 33, and one for four thousand dollars for Section No. 34, must accompany the respective Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque or money thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfillment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required by the deposit of money to the amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract; of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the Contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

ELECTION CASE.—At the Supreme Court this morning the Chief Justice stated that they were not prepared to give a decision on the motion of the Hon. Jas. Cockburn to quash the appeal in the North Ontario election case on the ground that the statute had not been complied with in giving notice of a hearing within three days after the setting down of the appeal. Judgment will probably be given at four o'clock this afternoon.

WATER RATES.—There is a deficiency of about $7,000 in the waterworks revenue, and the committee recommends an increase of the water rates.

LOST HIS LIFE.—A skiff was noticed near a lumber yard last night, empty. A considerable quantity of sawdust covered the water for some distance around. A clear spot was noticed in the vicinity of the boat, and it is supposed some unfortunate person lost his life through a mistaken idea of the place.

THE N. P.—The gentlemen who managed the soup kitchen last fall say, there is so little relief necessary this winter that it is not probable that the kitchen will be re-opened. It is gratifying to notice such a small number of unemployed people in the city, and this result is traced to the N.P.

HALLOW E'EN.—A great deal of wanton mischief was perpetrated by boys and girls, fences being torn down, gates carried away, and other practical jokes played.

THE ARRANGEMENTS for working the Gatling gold mine are progressing satisfactorily. The furnace and arsenic chambers have been completed, and Mr. Tuttle, who is superintending the work, has gone to Chicago to secure the best grinding machines and amalgamating pans. Work is expected to commence at an early day.

THE TRIAL of the woman Ellis, who shot Mr. Duncan McIntyre, is to take place here on Monday.

OTTAWA.

A COLLISION almost took place on the Occidental Railway at Buckingham station on the morning of the 1st inst. The line at that point does not run in a straight line for more than a half or three-quarters of a mile. The freight train going down was a little behind, and the express coming up was a little ahead of time. Both trains coming in together on the one track at a rapid rate a terrific collision seemed imminent. Both engineers put on the air brakes when they saw the dangerous situation, and prevented what might have been a serious accident. As it was the engines almost touched each other when they came to a stand, and a man could scarcely pass his hand between the points of the cowcatchers.

ABORTION.—On the medical examination of the body of Elsie Armstrong, cook at the Union House, who was found dead in her bed, it was discovered that death was the result of an abortion. Letters found in the room point to the fact that a commercial traveller, a widower, representing a western manufacturing firm, was intimate with the unfortunate woman. The deceased is known to have had recently $300 in her possession, but it cannot be found. It is said her lover has the money. She is also the owner of a house and lot in Centre Town, and after her death yesterday the occupant called at the hotel to pay the rent, and then learned the sad truth. Deceased was 23 years of age. An inquest is being held.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—The shipment of lumber direct by the Q., M., O., and O. R. R. by Mr. John Rochester, M.P., and Messrs. Perley and Pattee, per account of Ledger, Wood & Co., Philadelphia, for the English market, by sailing vessel from Quebec, was completed on Monday. This is the first transaction of exporting lumber for Quebec shipment abroad direct by railroad from Ottawa, and opens the possibilities of a very large and profitable trade in the future, enabling the sawmill owners and shippers to do prompt transactions and take advantage of sudden rises and demand.

THE "HUASCAR'S" FATE.

PANAMA, Oct 17.—An official report of Capt. Garcia, commander of the Union, which was cruising with the Huascar at the time the latter was captured by the Chilians, states that while cruising about they met the Chilian fleet, which in two divisions were searching for them. On October 8th the Union and the Huascar sighted the first division of the Chilian fleet, and immediately fled toward the southwest with the Chilians following. A stiff breeze was blowing from the south which decreased the Huascar's speed, when Grau, her commander, resolved to steer north and endeavor to run between the Chilian fleet and the shore. He succeeded, and swept by the enemy's first division without firing a gun. The Peruvian ships quickly steamed away from their enemies, the Blanco, Encalada and three wooden steamers, when suddenly they sighted the second Chilian division directly ahead composed of the Almirante-Cochran and several smaller vessels. Grau saw that the speed of this ironclad was equal to his own, and accordingly steered for shoal water. On account of his light draft the Union here escaped, closely followed. The fight was begun by the Huascar discharging her two 300 pounders at close range at the Almirante-Cochran followed up by an unsuccessful attempt to ram. The other Chilian ironclad came down upon her, and Grau boldly placed himself between the two, which were thus prevented from firing so rapidly on account of the danger of hitting each other. The fight is said to have lasted 2 hours. It is not known whether the Huascar was taken by boarding, or whether, after the death of Grau, which is said to have occurred early in the action, and the wounding of the executive officer and several subordinates, the remaining officers unhurt, only four in number, hauled down the flag. The hull of the Huascar is said to have been riddled. Her engines were damaged so that she was afterwards towed to Autofagasta. Her turret was jammed so that it would not revolve. The damage to the Chilians was inconsiderable. The Huascar had but two 300 pounders to oppose 12 of the same calibre. Her armor was 4½ inches thick, against 9 inches of the Chilian ironclad. A subscription is opened already in Lima for the purchase of a new iron-clad to be named the Almirante Grau. People are giving money and household jewelry. One lady sent diamond jewelry valued at two thousand pounds. The ArchBishop heads the subscription with 2,000 soles. Already nearly 200,000 soles have been collected. The Ministry resigned in a body, but the resignations were not accepted. A commission has sailed for Europe to endeavor to purchase another iron-clad. It is reported that Mrs. Grau, on learning her husband's fate, fell ill and died.

He refusing, they inflicted serious wounds on him, tied his hands to a stove and his feet to the safe, and left without taking any goods. Denman managed to remove the gag and cried for assistance. He was released at daylight unconscious, and remaining so several hours. This is the third attempt to overmaster Denman in the same store. The safe is supposed to contain considerable money.

THE POLICY OF DISCRIMINATION.

The last number of the Monetary Times contains an article attacking the proposal that the British Empire should adopt a policy of tariff discrimination in favor of the various parts of the Empire as against the rest of the world, which is, at least, worthy of a passing notice.

The first objection taken to the proposal by the Times is that "England is in no position to put a duty on foreign wheat for the benefit of Canada," as "cheapness of production is the first condition of success in the severe competition she has to meet." This, to our minds, is a fallacious way of putting the matter, under existing circumstances, inasmuch as the markets of the world are no longer open to the English manufacturers upon equal terms or anything approaching to them. Take the American markets, for instance: It was not the question of a few cents a bushel in the relative values of wheat in England and America that has shut the English manufacturer out of the latter country, because that difference has always existed and must exist so long as America has a surplus to dispose of and England requires that surplus. It was, and is, the imposition of impost duties that is killing English manufactures, by placing them at a serious disadvantage in the markets of foreign countries, and of necessity also in colonial markets. Were the whole world to act on free trade principles, England's position would be sound; but, as it does not, and is not likely to do so, in the present generation at least, we conceive it to be her duty and her interest to act on the principle that her first duty is to her own people. Suppose for the moment that such a policy were adopted between Canada and the mother country, and that in accordance therewith a duty of ten cents a bushel and fifty cents a barrel were imposed on American wheat and flour imported into Great Britain while Canadian was admitted free, what would be the result? Would it not in the first place be the means of greatly promoting the settlement of our Nor'-West and developing the means of transit from west to east through Canadian—British territory? Of course, with every soul added to the Dominion, the demand for imported goods would increase, and with it the demand for British manufactures, on the hypothesis that these goods could enter Canadian markets upon more favourable terms than from any other country. Nor would this be all. With increased population the revenue of the country would so increase as to enable it to reduce the duties levied on British manufactures, and thus Canadian prosperity would mean English prosperity. But, says the Times, to advocate such a policy is to advocate a reversal of the National Policy, and the ruination of those who have invested their means in manufacturing on the strength of it. But here again we differ from our esteemed contemporary. In the first place, at the outset, the necessities of our revenue would require the maintenance of a substantial tariff, even upon British goods. In the next place, the lines which Canada can manufacture to the best advantage are those which come chiefly in competition with American rather than British goods. Indeed, the result of such a policy would be to foster the manufacture in Canada of every article for which she has special facilities, inasmuch as "the policy of discrimination" would give the Canadian manufactures as well as products an advantage over American in both British and Colonial markets. Moreover, no matter how low the tariff on British goods were reduced, we would, by the impetus thus given to the settlement of the Nor'-West and the carrying trade of our own country, have an enormously increased home demand, which, combined with the fact which the Times says has had such an important influence on our trade with the States, that "because we are a part of the continent of America, and that it is easier to trade with our immediate neighbors than with our kin on the other side of the Atlantic," it could not help being a decided advantage instead disadvantage to our manufacturers. Indeed to our mind, instead of being contrary to the spirit of the National Policy, it is merely a proposition to extend its operation to the Empire. Just as the union of the Provinces rendered such a policy practicable and profitable so would its extension to the whole British Empire render it of increasing advantage to that Empire. Britain, even now, is fighting in a sense for her existence, and in what possible way can she better bind the various parts of the Empire together than in the "golden bond of commerce." On our own continent were such a policy adopted, instead of the American farmer south of the lines having the British market free to him, as well as his own, the Canadian north of the lines would be placed on the vantage ground, while a simple provision that, say, Sarnia and Collingwood and such western Ontario ports should be constituted free or relatively free ports of entry for American farm produce, could be made the means of transferring the carrying trade of the Western States from American to Canadian routes, to the great advantage not only of Canadians but to those in England, so deeply interested in Canadian railways. The truth of the matter is, our entire legislative policy requires to be changed from the jug-handled free trade one to that of legislating in our own instead of our neighbors, interests, and the sooner it comes in Britain as well as the colonies the better for every one concerned.

USING HIS POSITION.

The Witness, now that the Quebec coup d'etat has finally failed, thus frankly confesses its origin and the prostitution of his office to which Mr. Letellier descended:—

"However it came about, the fact seems to be established by general consent that no confidence is to be looked for between a Lieutenant-Governor of one party and a ministry of another; that provincial governors are in fact to be considered as party managers, representing the party in power at Ottawa, and whose commission is is to embarrass political opponents as much as possible. The Hon. Mr. Letellier is largely responsible for this. No one has denied that he used his position to promote the ends of his own party, and his dismissal of his ministers was a stretch of his power in the same direction, which could only be excused by a very aggravated case. Mr. Letellier's stretch of power was, however, in the direction of an appeal to the people, and he was dismissed because he appealed to the people, and he was replaced by another whose role was to refuse appeals to the people."

The attempt to place Mr. Robitaille in the same category as Mr. Letellier is a very weak one. The latter ejected a ministry having a Parliamentary majority of two to one; the former declined to grant the demand of a beaten ministry for a second dissolution of a House elected under their auspices, a thing quite unprecedented.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The following are a few of the provisions of law, that it will be well for every person, at all engaged in trade, to know.

(1.) Wine measures will only be tolerated until the first of May next. Until that time traders using Wine measures, must distinctly inform parties purchasing from them, that the measure used is Wine measure. Should a trader sell by Wine measure without stating the fact to the purchaser, he is liable to be fined in the penalty provided by the act.

(2.) 4lb., 7lb., 28lb. and 56lb., weights will only be tolerated until the last day of June next.

(3.) Spring balances will not be allowed at all, and any party using them in trade is subject to the penalty provided.

(4.) Scales having both a disk and scoop, a counterpoise being used to balance the scoop, are not allowed, and must be put away as the party using them is liable to penalty.

(5.) Nails driven in the counter or elsewhere, for measuring purposes, are not allowed, and should be replaced at once by verified rules of substantial material.

(6.) Battered measures; measures coated with oil or other material, etc., must be exchanged for clean, sound, verified measures.

It is required that all weights and measures should have their denominations marked on them.

Manufacturers of measures should make no more wine measures. Traders in scales and balances should buy no more of the condemned kinds, and the public in general should endeavor, as soon as possible, to have one weight and one measure, and those correct.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS.

The Montreal Witness of the 1st instant says:—Last evening, as is not unusual on Halloween, a large number of lads were on the streets strolling around in squads of from ten to twenty, planning mischief, and the thoughtless pedestrian very often came to grief through their artifices. On St. Antoine street the trees were brought into requisition to weave little traps which made many a citizen caught in them suddenly recollect that the morrow was the first of November. A most dangerous trick and one which may be performed just once too often is that of connecting the trees and the fence by a cord, stretched across the sidewalk and placed about a foot above it, causing the pedestrian to trip over, or bringing him to a sudden halt by striking him in the face. Several citizens were thus treated last night, while the young plotters witnessed their discomfiture from a safe distance. At the corner of Belmont and Hanover streets, a large gate was found against a lamp-post this morning; a Mountain street druggist having been absent from his store for a moment, returned to find that a barrel of flour had been rolled into his front door; a St. Joseph street barber had his sign broken, and similar occurrences are reported in all parts of the city. Young Montreal was, perhaps, more than even on previous Halloween celebrations out on the street, but in the house festivities which did not smack of petty vandalism were rife, and the fun was of a much more sensible kind. Pulling taffy, cracking nuts, and similar amusements, following up the traditions of the nocturnal celebration were participated in.

DEATH OF ZACH. CHANDLER.

The News Creates a Sensation in Detroit—Manifestations of Profound Sorrow.

Detroit, Nov. 1.—It is a difficult matter to give your readers any idea of the intensity of the excitement that has prevailed in this city and throughout the State and country since the announcement of Senator Chandler's death this morning. All are agreed that nothing since the early disasters to the Union army and the assassination of President Lincoln has caused such widespread excitement among all classes. The despatches received by private individuals this morning with the first announcement were not credited, and the fact of his death was not believed until particulars were bulletined at the news-paper offices.

Business, except at the telegraph and newspaper offices, was almost at a standstill, and even those anxiously engaged in the present hotly contested Mayoralty election ceased canvassing and flocked to their respective headquarters and the lobbies of public offices and hotels to discuss the event and the probable effect thereof on the Republican party in the state and country. The Evening News publishes four columns of the life of the deceased Senator, while several columns are taken up with despatches from the cities and towns of the State and continent. The following extract from this evening's News is a fair summary of the editorials of to-day and of to-morrow's (Sunday) papers:—

"There is hardly a man in the United States whose death could have produced the intensity of emotion that this news will excite. Some will weep; some will regret it in silence; some will regret the personal friend; some the political patron; a whole great party will be thunderstruck at the loss of the man who three years ago saved it from annihilation, and upon whose sagacity and courageous energy it chiefly depended for its immediate future. Many will secretly rejoice at the removal of one whose presence was big enough to fill all avenues to political preferment and to exclude all but his friends. Many will not conceal their joy so carefully, for, like all positive and vigorous men, he had as bitter enemies as warm friends, and much in his course seemed as wicked to one class of men as it seemed glorious, honourable and heroic to another. Many more will be tempted to rejoice at the removal of him they regarded as at once the fiercest enemy of their party and the greatest obstacle to its success. Thus the death of Zachariah Chandler will be felt to-day throughout the length and breadth of this vast country. Whatever regard he was held in, there was no community in which his name and fame did not fill a large space, and which will not be thrilled with emotion of some sort at suddenly discovering that space a vacuum."

Mr. Chandler's great wealth made him a decided addition to political and social life, as he was a liberal entertainer. His estate is valued at two million dollars, including his large city business blocks, his Michigan farms, bank stock, and mansions in Washington and Detroit.

Ex-Governor Baldwin was chosen to break the news to Mrs. Chandler, whose grief was very affecting.

Several rumors of foul play have been in circulation here, hinting at the probability of poisoning, but the certificates of seven doctors that he died from cerebral hemorrhage have effectually settled that question.

This morning's Times says that Coroner Mann heard Senator Chandler speak at the Republican rally on Friday night, and went home to bed as usual. He dreamt he was holding an inquest on the body of Mr. Chandler, and that Jos. Medill, of the Tribune and Hon. Charles B. Farrell were on the jury. Strange to say, this dream turned out to be literally true the following day.

African Railways.

A French geographical paper, the Exploration, has received from Lisbon startling tidings of an English scheme for a railway from the river Zambesi, through Livingstoniana, "a Scotch town," to the northern coast of Zanzibar. Mr. Stanley started the idea, Manchester merchants have taken it up, the Government approve it, and a company with £2,000,000 capital is about to be formed. Central Africa and its treasures, bewails the Exploration, are about to share the fate of India and Australia, while the French Sahara Railway scheme hangs fire.

Advice to Farmers.

Mr James Hall, of James Hall & Son, cattle dealers, of Liverpool, while in responding to a toast at a complimentary dinner given to him at Toronto on Monday evening, advised the farmers of Canada to feed their stock well during the winter, as it would pay much better to sell the cattle than the corn. He stated further, that there is no prejudice in England against Canadian cattle, which, when well fed, sell readily at remunerative prices.

Health in Happiness.

NERVOUSNESS.—A very great number of those in the middle and higher classes of society, who, without being ever actually sick, never know what real health is; who live constantly in a lower plane of living than is normal in man, who are weak all over, though not specially and constantly weak in any one organ, who may not experience piercing and grinding pain, yet suffer at times, if not always, [illegible] which in many respects is worse than pain. These in that lamentable state have always been relieved, and many permanently so by using the Victoria Syrup of Hypophosphites, it being [illegible] adapted for these cases. For sale by all dealers. w45-d166

PARODY ON THE BURIAL OF MOORE.

"Not a laugh was heard, nor a joyous note,
As our friend to the bridal we hurried;
Not a wit discharged his farewell joke,
As the bachelor went to be married.

"We married him quickly to save his fright,
Our heads from the sad sight turning;
And we sighed as we stood by the lamp's dim light,
To think him not more discerning.

"To think that a bachelor free and bright,
And shy of the sex as we found him,
Should there at the altar, at dead of night,
Be caught in the snares that bound him.

"Few and short were the words we said,
Though of cake and wine partaking;
We escorted him home from the scene of dread,
While his knees were awfully shaking.

"Slowly and sadly we marched adown
From the top to the lowermost storey;
And we have never heard from her since, the poor man,
Whom we left alone in his glory."

MARK TWAIN AT THE BARBER'S.

All things change except barbers, the ways of barbers, and the surroundings of barbers. These never change. I went to get shaved. The barber shoved up my head and put a napkin under it. He ploughed his fingers into my collar and fixed a towel there. He explored my hair with his claws and suggested that it needed trimming. I said I did not want it trimmed. He explored again and said it was pretty long for the present style—better have a little taken off; it needed it behind especially. I said I had it cut only a week before. He yearned over it reflectively a moment, and then asked with a despairing manner, who did it. It came back at him promptly with a "You did!" I had him here. Then he fell to stirring up his lather and regarding himself in the glass, stopping now and again to get close and examine his chin critically or torture a pimple. Then he lathered one side of my face thoroughly, and was about to lather the other, when a dog-fight attracted his attention, and he ran to the window and stayed and saw it out, losing two shillings on the result in bets with the other barbers, a thing which gave me great satisfaction. He finished lathering, meantime getting the brush into my mouth only twice, and then began to rub in the suds with his hands; and as he now had his head turned, discussing the dog-fight with the other barbers, he naturally shovelled considerable lather into my mouth without knowing it; but I did.

He now began to sharpen his razor on an old suspender, and was delayed a good deal on account of a controversy about a cheap masquerade ball he had figured at the night before, in red cambric and bogus ermine, as some kind of a king. He was so gratified with being so chaffed about some damsel whom he had smitten with his charms that he used every means to continue the controversy by pretending to be annoyed at the chaffings of his fellows. This matter begot more surveyings of himself in the glass, and he put down his razor and brushed his hair with elaborate care, plastering an inverted arch of it down on his forehead, accomplishing an accurate "part" behind, and brushing the two wings forward over his ears with nice exactness. In the meantime the lather was drying on my face, and apparently eating into my vitals.

Now he began to shave, digging his fingers into my countenance to stretch the skin, making a handle of my nose now and then, bundling and tumbling my head this way and that as convenience in shaving demanded, and "hawking" and expectorating pleasantly all the while. As long as he was on the tough sides of my face I did not suffer; but when he began to rake and rip, and tug at my chin, the tears came. I did not mind his getting down so close to me; I did not mind his garlic, because all barbers eat garlic, I suppose; but there was an added something that made me fear he was decaying inwardly while still alive, and this gave me much concern. He now put his finger into my mouth to assist him in shaving the corners of my upper lip, and it was by this bit of circumstantial evidence that I discovered that a part of his duties in the shop was to clean the kerosene lamps.

About this time I was amusing myself trying to guess where he would be most likely to cut me this time, but he had got ahead of me, and sliced me on the end of the chin before I had got my mind made up. He immediately sharpened his razor—he might have done it before. I do not like a close shave, and would not let him go over me a second time. I tried to get him to put up his razor, dreading that he would make for the side of my chin, my pet tender spot, a place which a razor cannot touch twice without making trouble; but he said he only wanted to just smooth off one little roughness, and in that same moment he slipped his razor along the forbidden ground, and the dreaded pimple-signs of a close shave rose up smarting and answered to the call. Now he soaked his towel in bay rum, and slapped it all over my face hastily; slapped it over as if a human being ever yet washed his face in that way. Then he dried it by slapping with the dry part of the towel, as if a human being ever dried his face in such a fashion; but a barber seldom rubs you like a Christian. Next he poked bay rum into the cut place with his towel, then choked the wound with powdered starch, then soaked it with bay rum again, and would have gone on soaking and powdering it for evermore, no doubt, had I not rebelled and begged off. He powdered my whole face now, straightened me up, and began to plough my hair thoroughly with his hands and examine his fingers critically. Then he suggested a shampoo, and said my hair needed it badly—very badly. I observed that I shampooed it myself very thoroughly in the bath yesterday. I "had him" again. He next recommended some of "Smith's hair glorifier," and offered to sell me a bottle. I declined. He praised the new perfume, "Jones's delight of the toilet," and proposed to sell some of that. I declined again. He tendered me a tooth wash, an atrocity of his own invention, and, when I declined, offered to trade knives with me.

He returned to business after the miscarriage of this last enterprise, sprinkled me all over, legs and all, greased my hair in defiance of my protests against it, rubbed and scrubbed a good deal of it by the roots, and combed and brushed the rest, parting it behind, and plastering the eternal inverted arch of hair down on my forehead, and then while combing my scant eyebrows and defiling them with pomade, strung out an account of the achievements of a six-ounce black and tan terrier of his, till I heard the whistles blow for noon, and knew I was five minutes too late for the train, then he snatched away the towel, brushed it lightly about my face, passed his comb through my eyebrows once more, and gaily sung out "Next."

This barber fell down and died of apoplexy two hours later. I am waiting over a day for my revenge—I am going to attend his funeral.—Mark Twain.

Suspected Poisoning.

NORWICH, Conn., Nov. 4.—In the Riddell poisoning case this morning, three ladies and a gentleman, besides the attending physician, testified concerning the singular illness which Mrs. Riddell had several months before she died, apparently due to drinking port wine, which her husband left her. The wine was emptied from a flask by the prisoner immediately upon his arrest, but the doctor discovered poison in the tumbler. Riddell's only explanation of tampering with the wine, was that the flask had been exposed in a satchel in the boat the day before, and some one may have poisoned it.

THE DIGNITY OF OFFICE.

A Detroiter, who was rusticating in one of the wilderness counties of Michigan, was one day out hunting when he came upon a hamlet, consisting of a saw-mill, two houses, and a log barn. The sign of "Post-office" greeted his vision over a door in one of the houses, and he investigated. The office was an eight by ten room, and the boxes for mail matter numbered just four. A written sign on the wall announced that the mail arrived and departed once a week, and the Postmaster sat behind his table reading the "Postal Guide," and chewing a sassafras root.

"Any letter for John—?" asked the Detroiter, as he looked around.

The P. M. didn't shake his head and crush the inquirer's hopes all at once, as some officials do, but slowly arose, looked carefully into each one of the empty boxes, peered into an old cigar box on the window sill, and then answered.

"I don't see anything just now; but it is only four days till the next mail."

"Is this a money-order office?" continued the stranger.

"Well, no, not exactly, though we handle considerable money here."

"Can I get a dollar's worth of threes?" asked the Detroiter, after a pause.

"Well, no, not exactly," replied the official, looking into his wallet. "I guess I can spare you five or six now and the rest next week."

There was another pause as the post-master vainly tried to make change for a quarter, and the Detroiter finally remarked:

"This isn't rated as a first-class post-office, is it?"

"Well, no, not exactly," was the confidential reply. "Fact is, we don't do a very rushing business here, and sometimes I thing it would pay me better to go back to the farm."

"I don't suppose you make $30 a year here, do you?"

"Well, no, not exactly, but I don't look at that altogether. The position that it gives us in society here must be taken into consideration, you know?"

The population of the hamlet, including a tame bear and a dog, was only thirteen souls.—Free Press.

MEDICAL AND SCIENTIFIC.

IT is said that the painful sore finger known as the felon may be effectually cured in three hours with a poultice of the size of a small bean, made of quick lime slaked with soap, bound on the spot, and renewed every half hour.

BLEEDING from a wound, on man or beast, may be stopped by a mixture of wheat flour and common salt, in equal parts bound on with a cloth. If the bleeding be profuse, use a large quantity, say from one to three pints. It may be left on for hours, or even days, if necessary.

IT is a good plan to cover a bird-cage at night with a woollen or other cloth having a rough surface, as the vermin which infest most birds will be attracted by the greater warmth, leave the bird for the covering, and in the morning the latter may be scalded, and they will thus be destroyed.

A CORRESPONDENT says—I had no less than twenty large warts on my hands, and several small ones. I applied a common Irish potato, cutting it in two, and applying the juice over each wart two or three times a day. Mine have all disappeared, and I thought the remedy worth publishing.

IN curing hams and bacon simply use the same quantity of common soda as saltpetre—one ounce and a half of each to the fourteen pounds of ham or bacon, using the usual quantity of salt. The soda prevents that hardness in the lean of the bacon which is so often found, and keeps it quite mellow all through, besides, it prevents rust.

A WASH for the mouth is made as follows:—Dissolve a spoonful of black currant jelly in half a cup of hot water, and add two lumps of sugar. Keep in the mouth as long as possible, but do not swallow. It will give relief when the tongue is dry or the mouth foul.

IT IS a very common practice to eat light breakfast, and to partake of a hearty supper. This practice should be reversed. When people sup late, it should be lightly; but the breakfast should be solid and nutritious. If one eats a little supper, retires to bed early and rises betimes, he will rarely want for an appetite for breakfast.

PARAFFIN and carbolic acid are both very popular disinfectants. But why is not black oxide of manganese more often in use? If you find your rooms close in the morning after having the windows shut for the night, you can make the atmosphere appear quite fresh by keeping there all the night a dish of black oxide of manganese saturated with water.

KEEP THE MOUTH SHUT.—The influence of nasal respiration on the ear is illustrated by Mr. George Catlin, in his "History of the North American Indians." Among two millions of Indians he found not one who was deaf or breathed through his mouth, except three or four deaf, mutes; and in the memory of the chiefs of 150 tribes, not one case of deafness could be remembered to have occurred. This is explained by the mother always closing the mouth of the child whenever it attempted to breathe through it.

A LEARNED German doctor has discovered a means of dyeing the eyes of animals in general and of men in particular any color he pleases. He is accompanied on his travels of propagation by a dog with a rose-colored eye, a cat with an orange-red eye, and a monkey with a chrome-yellow eye. But the most curious specimens of his art are a negro with one black eye and the other blue, and a negress with one eye gold-colored and the other silver-white. The doctor says the process of ocular transformation, far from injuring the sight, strengthens and improves it.

MEDICATED ICE.—Dr. Edwyn Andrew, of Shrewsbury, England, has pointed out the advantages in certain surgical and medical cases of employing medicated ice. He thought the cold was rendered more effective by being combined with the active principles of drugs, and by freezing various medicine solutions. In that manner ice might be rendered highly anti-septic, caustic, or styptic. In medical cases especially of the throat, stomach, and hemorrhages from internal organs, ice might be thus pleasantly used to relieve symptoms and at the same time convey medicine as food to the stomach when the latter would resist them in any other way.

KEEPING THE HEAD CLEAN.—A distinguished physician who had spent much time at quarantine said that a person whose head was washed every day rarely took contagious diseases, but where the hair was allowed to become dirty and matted it was hardly possible to escape infection. Many persons find speedy relief for nervous headache by washing the hair thoroughly in weak soda water. I have known severe cases almost wholly cured in ten minutes by this remedy. A friend finds it the greatest relief in cases of "rose cold," the cold symptoms entirely leaving the eyes and nose after one thorough washing of the hair. The head should be thoroughly dried afterward, and avoid draughts of air for a little while.

SCOTLAND.

THE fines imposed on the gamblers recently arrested in a billiard room in the city of Edinburgh amount to £320.

THE Earl and Countess of Stafford and Warington and party had a pic-nic on the top of Cairngorem on the 6th October.

THE inhabitants of Aberfeldy, having declined to pay the necessary amount for lighting the street gas lamps, the streets are now in darkness.

THE Earl of Aberdeen has resolved to construct at a cost of about £35,000 a railway through his property in East Aberdeenshire from Udny to Methlick.

AN action has been signeted, in which the liquidators of the City of Glasgow Bank sue the directors of the bank for payment, jointly and severally, or severally, of four sums, amounting in all to £[illegible].

THERE are nearly a score of plants of Adam's Needle (Yucca Gloriosa) in fine flower at present in the Botanical Gardens. Such a number of specimens of this stately American Liliaceous plant in flowers at one time is a sight rarely seen in this country. Many of the plants measure from 8 to 10 feet in height.

IT has been decided, by a number of Scotch observatives, to raise a penny subscription for the purpose of presenting Mr. Gladstone with a new coat, in connection with his approaching visit to Midlothian.

The Queen and the Herd Laddie.

One day some years ago, when her majesty was standing on the public road near Balmoral, sketching the castle from a particular point, a flock of sheep approached. Her majesty, being intent on her work, took little notice of the flock and merely moved a little nearer the side of the road. A boy in charge of the sheep shouted at the top of a stentorian voice.

"Stan' oot o' the road, 'oman, and let the sheep gae by!"

"Her majesty not moving out of the way quite so fast as the shepherd wished, he again shouted:

"Fat are ye stan'in there for? Gaing oot o' that and let the sheep pass!"

One of her majesty's attendants, who had been at a distance on hearing his royal mistress thus assailed went up to the shepherd and thus addressed him:

"Do you know who it is you have been speaking so rudely to, boy?"

"Na—I neither ken nor care; but be she fa' she like she sunda be i' the sheep's road."

"That's the Queen," said the official.

The boy looked astonished, and, after recovering his senses, said, with great simplicity:

"The Queen! Od, fat way disna she pit on claes that foulk can ken her?"

Not as the Poet Sings.

If the unfortunate and unhappy Kirk White were alive, it is more than probable that he would leave unsung his poem commencing "Come Consumption's Ghastly Throng," as the remedy for that fell disease has now been discovered. It is SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA. Many so called remedies have been offered to the public, but none have proved trustworthy until this preparation was given to suffering humanity. It not only relieves in every case, but in most cases permanently cures; at the same time is perfectly palatable.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Welland Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on FRIDAY the 14th DAY OF NOVEMBER next, for the deepening and completion of that part of the Welland Canal, between Ramey's Bend and Port Colborne, known as Sections Nos. 33 and 34, embracing the greater part of what is called the "Rock Cut."

Plans showing the position of the work, and specifications for what remains to be done, can be seen at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's Office, Welland on and after TUESDAY the 4th DAY OF NOVEMBER next, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted Bank cheque for the sum of three thousand dollars for Section No. 33, and one for four thousand dollars for Section No. 34, must accompany the respective Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque or money thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfillment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required by the deposit of money to the amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract; of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the Contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

The Peterborough Rangers.

The Canada Gazette contains the following promotions in the 57th Peterborough Rangers:

No. 2 COMPANY, PETERBOROUGH,—To be Lieutenant provisionally: Sergeant John Wesley Miller, vice Langford, promoted.

To be 2nd Lieutenant:—Robert J. Lee, gentleman, M.S.

I. O. G. T.

The Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district as reported from Toronto at 10 o'clock to-day, are: moderate to fresh winds; partly cloudy continued cold weather with snow flurries. The weather in Peterborough is milder to-day; light wind, westerly, partly cloudy with occasional slight flurries of snow and indications of rain.

Company 4 of the 57th Battalion.

The arms and equipments formerly belonging to Company No. 4, Peterborough, under the captaincy of John Green, have been sent to Keene. They are to arm and equip the new company recently organized in that village by Dr. Dean, who has been appointed captain. The new company will be known as number 4, of the 57th Battalion.

Tuesday's Market.

The excitement in the butter market of Saturday, has been followed by a quiet and steady market to-day. The high prices have been succeeded by the regular market price, at which butter can be handled with profit to the shipper. Prime butter, therefore, may be quoted at 18 @ 20, medium at 15 @ 17, and inferior at 10 @ 12. Wood and hay made their appearance on the market to-day in large quantities, the latter finding ready sale at $6 @ $7, while wood dragged at $2.00 @ $2.50 for hard, and $1.50 @ $1.75 for soft, sawed. Some unsawed hard wood was sold at $2.50. There was a little wheat brought forward to-day, which was taken at $1.12 @ $1.15, although not sought after at our quotations.—Barley shared the same fate.

Quaint Acrostics.

We have received the following amusing letter and enclosures, and we give them to our readers as interesting specimens of backwoods literature:—

To the Editor of the Review.

SMITH, October 23rd, 1879.

GENTLEMEN,—I take the liberty to let you know, if you think that the enclosed acrostic is worthy to be published in your racy REVIEW, you are willingly invited to do so by your faithful humble servant, who delights in eulogizing merit. Some time ago, I thought to leave this part of Ontario, and go somewhere else, but the fates have ordered my horoscope otherwise; and, I'm contented to remain where I am, having purchased the farm whereon I do live. I intend (if spared by Providence,) for to become a permanent subscriber to your racy REVIEW, at the commencement of 1880. I never would have my humble subscription erased from your list; only I anticipated leaving, &c.

Yours, &c.,
SOLOMON PHILANDER SMITH.

THE REVIEW.

To you who publish the Peterborough REVIEW,
Our united thanks and eulogy are merited by you,
Keeping measures, not men, constantly in mind,
Ever remembering that the good, are always kind.
Renown, and great eulogy; are merited by you,
As you are always faithful in publishing the REVIEW.
Never failing to circulate your true and racy news,
Derived from all proper sources, as useful to peruse;
Christian sermons and gospel publishing you also pursue
On such a noble basis, depends the forte of the REVIEW.

OUR CHAMPION.

Edward Hanlan who dwells in great Ontario,
Deserves the greatest of eulogy as the world's Champion to row;
Wherever he is challenged to row the world round,
All victorious he does prove and his praise resound.
Renowned, as the Champion oars-man on all the world's waters
Deserves the merited praises of the world's sons and daughters;
Happy are the parents who have bred so great a son,
And happy may our Hero be, that hath great laurels won.
Now let us all, both great and small, who dwell in Ontario,
Laurel honours, to give our Champion-oars-man, for his great skill to row,
And may he always prosper whither so ever he does go,
Never failing as the Champion oarsman on the world's waters to row.

The Hall Trust.

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Board of this Trust held on Monday (at which all the members were present) it was decided to ask the Mayor, the Presidents of the St. George and St. Andrew's Societies, a representative of the Protestant Home, and the Protestant ministers of the town to meet the Board on Tuesday evening the 11th inst., for the purpose of conferring as to the best mode of assisting the poor during the present winter, and also with the view of securing united and economical action in so important a matter. The Secretary reported that steps had been taken to foreclose a mortgage for a considerable amount taken on the formation of the Trust, and from which no revenue had as yet been derived. His conduct was approved of, and the Investment Committee were instructed to present a written report on this and the other securities of the Trust, at the annual meeting in February, with a view to its being published along with the Auditor's Report. The Committee on Investments were also instructed to invest the funds of the Trust in municipal debentures as opportunity offered, provided the same can be obtained so as to yield a return of seven per cent. The St. Andrew's Church claim to another representative on the Board was not considered, as it was understood that Col. Haultain, as well as Mr. Fairbairn, who occupies the seat at issue, had decided to remove the difficulty by handing in their resignations immediately. Under these circumstances, St. Andrew's congregation will have the opportunity of electing a trustee in the room of Mr. Fairbairn, and St. Paul's congregation the opportunity of re-electing Col. Haultain or electing Mr. Fairbairn, or any one else whom they may desire. Outside of St. Paul's congregation, however, it will be somewhat difficult to understand why the Colonel should have resigned at all; but as his resignation seems to have become necessary to prevent an appeal to Parliament to rectify an oversight in the Act incorporating the Trust, St. Andrew's congregation in particular will recognize the generosity and high sense of right which actuates Col. Haultain in the course which he is adopting, as it will be the means of relieving St. Andrew's congregation of the necessity of appealing to the Legislature and entering upon a public controversy, the avoidance of which is desirable, in order to maintain the rights accorded to it under the deed of Trust.

THE INFANTICIDE CASE

The Inquest Again Adjourned to Procure Further Evidence.

The inquest on the remains of the child found in the closet of the Choate House was resumed last night in the Council Chamber.

The CORONER, DR. KINCAID, said that they had met pursuant to adjournment for the purpose of examining the witness, Maggie Leahy. He had made every exertion to ascertain the whereabouts of the witness but had thus far failed to find her. He had directed the Constable to secure her and bring her here. It was important that her evidence should be given, for if the reports about town of what she knew were true, it might materially affect the character of the verdict.

CONSTABLE JOHNSTON was called and stated that he had travelled to Douro, Indian Village and other places but could not find the witness. She was seen in Peterborough on Saturday on the market, but by persons who were not aware that she was wanted. He thought that she was not trying to keep away, for if she was she would not be in town, and further there was no necessity for her to keep away, as her testimony would, if true, as the reports stated, be beneficial to the mother.

The CORONER was of the same opinion, and so expressed himself.

The JURY said they could not render a verdict without the testimony of this witness. They had, they said, a heavy responsibility resting upon them, and they desired to have every doubt removed from their minds before rendering a decision that was so important to a human being.

The inquest was then again adjourned.

FENELON FALLS.

TO WORK AGAIN.—The Gazette says:—Hillard & Mowry's sawmill situated on the east bank of the Fenelon River close to its mouth, has, after lying idle for three or four years, been leased by Mr. Alexander McArthur and John Thompson, of this village, who have secured it upon favorable terms, with, we believe, the right of purchase. Towards spring the mill will be put in first class working order, and when the cutting season commences will give employment to sixty or seventy of the hands who are now in the woods, and who, but for the new firm, would at the breaking up of the shanties have to seek a market for their labors elsewhere.

PORT HOPE.

DEATH OF A PENSIONER.—On Saturday morning an old pensioner named Michael McFarlane who lived alone on the Lake Shore road, about six miles west of here was found dead in his bed. Deceased had been ailing a long time with an affection of the lungs. Coroner Maxwell held an inquest, and the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that death was caused by exhaustion, produced from want of proper nourishment and care.

BODY FOUND.—On Friday afternoon a Mr. Portugas, who lives on the 8th concession of Hope, near Rice Lake, was passing along the road and saw a large dog coming out of the wood with something in its mouth. He chased the animal and found it to be the body of a well developed infant, which had been partly eaten by the dog. He took the body into the house and notified Coroner Maxwell, who is holding an inquest this afternoon.

FIRE.—On Saturday evening the warehouse of Mr. C. Quinlan, on Cavan street was burned. The neighboring buildings were in great danger, but the water works enabled streams to be thrown that soon controlled the flames. The fire started where coal oil was stored by Mr. McLennan, whose boy, while drawing some oil, let a match fall.

TORONTO.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE.—The Mail makes the following announcement:—"After a short but keen contest with a not unworthy competitor the Mail has taken the lead in Canadian journalism, and it intends not only to keep but to increase it. With that end in view the proprietors of this journal have made an exclusive arrangement with the proprietor of the New York Herald for the simultaneous publication in the Mail and Herald of all cable despatches forwarded to the latter by its corps of correspondents at the chief centres in Europe and Asia. This arrangement goes into effect at once."

A REAL THANKSGIVING DAY.

From the Rural New Yorker.

The year is drawing to its close—growing thin, so to speak. One can almost look through it and see the shadow of 1880. After a long period of depression, everything again looks bright for our favored land—favored as few other lands are favored upon the face of the earth. Individuals as heretofore, and as must ever be, have had their sorrows and sufferings to bare; but the nation in its history has never been placed under a heavier load of obligation to Him who directs the sunshine and the rain—the germinating plants and their maturing fruits. It is with a saddened feeling that one sees in some of our home journals an ill-disguised satisfaction that we must be the gainers for the depression in other countries. We have enough to be thankful for without the heaping measures which the sufferings of others may for a time secure us. The National Day of Thanksgiving draws nigh. If we would have it a day of real thanksgiving, let us, while we rejoice over our own abundance, heartily sympathize with those who, from no apparent indiscretions or faults of their own, are deprived of their daily bread.

A Remedy for Sore Throat.

Dr. Ellis gave me a simple receipt for throat and lung affections. Upon my remarking on my tendency to such affection, he said "Now, Doctor, you may go home and thank God for having seen me, for I will give you a simple remedy that will be the means of prolonging your life for many years. Get a silk ribbon an inch or more wide, tie it about your neck and wear it until worn out and then replace it, and continue to do so." I confess I was a little surprised to find a man of Dr. Ellis's intelligence relying with so much confidence on such a remedy, and I asked an explanation of its virtues, but this he was not prepared to give.

A remedy for nasal catarrh which I think of some value, I will also give. Many cases of catarrh are caused by inability of the liver to perform its functions properly. In such cases there is often a too alkaline condition of the blood. When this is the case, the liver does not take out as much of the carbon and other substances as it should, and the mucous membrane of the nose becomes a dumping ground for the foul matter. If persons thus afflicted will squeeze the juice of a good sized lemon into half a tumbler of water and drink without sugar just before dinner, they will, if they live hygienically, be surprised to see how soon the catarrhal difficulty will diminish. When it fails to do so it may be considered as due to other causes.

He Sleeps with a Revolver Under His Head.

OR A WISE PRECAUTION.

On the borders of civilization it is customary with men to sleep with a revolver within easy grasp. This precaution is deemed necessary to insure the safety of their personal property. The sagacious housewife, to prepare against a sudden attack of sickness in her family of little ones, takes the wise precaution to arm herself with the most potent remedy known to science for [illegible] inflammation of the bowels caused by colds, or what is more often the case, the eating of green apples or other unripe fruit before retiring. The weapon is SCOTT & BOWNE'S [illegible] OF PALATABLE CASTOR OIL. Price 25 cents. d165-w45-1m

The most perilous hour of a person's life is when he is tempted to despond. No one should despond—not even the young man who is enfeebled, both mentally and physically, by habits of early dissipation, as Victoria Buchu and Uva Ursi will cure the most distressing cases of kidney disease, etc. For sale by all druggists, at $1 per bottle.

NERVOUSNESS.—A very great number of those in the middle and higher classes of society, who, without being ever actually sick, never know what real health is; who live constantly in a lower plane of living, than is normal in man, who are weak all over, though not specially and constantly weak in any one organ, who may not experience piercing and grinding pain, yet suffer at times, if not always, that profound exhaustion which is in many respects far worse than pain. These in that lamentable state have always been relieved, and many permanently so by using the Victoria Syrup of Hypophosphites, it being practically adapted for those cases. CANADIAN CHESHIRE IN FAVOR.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Canadian cheese, made in imitation of English Cheshire, is daily gaining approval, both for its delicious flavour and price.

AUSTRIA'S ITALIAN PROVINCES.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—Much excitement has been caused by the reception of a despatch, stating that a body of concealed assassins at Riva, in the Tyrol, fired at a major in the 8th Austrian infantry regiment, who was passing through the valley, with cries of hatred and revenge against Austria. The officer escaped uninjured, but the incident is regarded of importance at Vienna, as showing the irritated temper of the Italian provinces which are still held by the Austrian Government.

RECOVERED HER REASON.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Surprising improvement has taken place in the mental condition of the Empress Charlotte, widow of the Emperor Maximilian, who was slain in Mexico. Her mental faculties, which have been so long deranged, appear to have been almost miraculously restored. She converses with perfect lucidity. Her memory has returned, and the long night of oblivion and insanity which has overshadowed her seems to have given way to the return of reason and memory.

"SIR ROGER" IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—In some quarters, it is creditably believed that "Sir Roger" Tichborne will be released before the next general election, and that he is sure to get a seat in Parliament.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUE LAID BARE.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The National Gazette says that papers have been discovered at Cabul that seriously compromise the Russian Government in connection with the latest troubles.

ENGLAND AND TURKEY.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Sir Austin Layard, the British representative at the Sublime Porte, states that having obtained an interview with the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs, he told him bluntly that the British Government suspected that Russian influence predominates in the councils of the Sultan. To this statement the Turkish Minister returned an emphatic denial. Still, in further conversation concerning the rumors that England intended to bring to bear sufficient influence to produce a change in the Turkish Cabinet, the Minister said if Great Britain proceeded so far in the matter as actually to send one or more of her ships of war into Turkish waters, the Ministry would be so modified as to accord with the policy which England might dictate, and the Sultan decide upon as the best for meeting the exigency. He added that it was not the present intention of the Sublime Porte to do anything, or take any position which will involve Turkey in war with Great Britain.

EXCITEMENT AT PERA.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—At Pera the news received respecting the imperative demand made by the English Government has created intense excitement. An English resident there represents the commotion as similar to that which followed the outbreak of the Sofias immediately before the beginning of the Russian Turkish war. Up to this moment it had not been believed the English Government would take such a decisive step as to insist upon the reconstruction of the Cabinet, to threaten that if this demand was not complied with, her fleet would be sent through the Bosphorus, and that she would practically take possession of the city.

KURDISTAN INSURRECTION.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A despatch from Constantinople says the insurrection in Kurdistan is growing to an alarming extent.

AMERICAN.

ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The streets are thronged with people to-night anxiously awaiting returns from the elections. Although the weather is extremely cold, scores of men are waiting patiently around the bulletin boards to hear the latest announcements. Interest centres most deeply on the returns from New York and Massachusetts, and people do not seem to care much about the returns from other States.

THE INDIAN SITUATION.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 4.—Secretary Schurz, in answer to a congratulatory letter from a member of the Indian Board, replies that it is now generally admitted that had the Ute war been continued, the Meeker captives would have been sacrificed. The efforts of Agent Adams lead to the hope that the whole trouble may be peacefully settled. Arrangements are now promised that will deal justly with the Utes and prevent future trouble with the people of Colorado. A conflict would drive other Indians into hostility and give the Indians the advantage of a winter campaign.

GARDEN HILL.

A NOBLE DEED.—The Port Hope News says that Conductor Mimms, of the mixed noon train on the Midland Railway had an experience this morning such as seldom falls to the lot of a man in his position. It seems that there was an Indian on board who had been cultivating too intimate an acquaintance with "firewater," and consequently got slightly off his balance. While the train was in motion, the "man of the forest" proceeded to walk from one car to another, and the conductor happened to notice the action, hurried forward to stop him, but when the Indian got on the platform he stumbled forward, falling between the cars. With a jump like lightning, the conductor sprang and caught the fellow by the coat, and by almost superhuman strength, dragged him from his precarious position. Had the conductor been a moment later, the man would certainly have been crushed under the wheels of the cars.

A BRITISH SQUADRON.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—There is considerable excitement in Stamboul on account of the expected arrival of the British squadron. The Porte, having received no official explanations, has telegraphed to the Turkish Ambassador at London to ask Lord Salisbury for information.

AUSTRIA'S ENEMY.

ROME, Nov. 5.—Gen. Mozzacapo, author of the anti-Austrian pamphlet, has been appointed commander of the 7th corps. He has just published another article, insisting that the amount spent on the army is insufficient, and saying that only by a powerful army and great armaments can Italy hope to raise her voice high in the council of nations.

A COMMUNIST'S ELECTION.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—M. Humbert will appeal to the Council of State against the annulment by the Prefecture of the Seine of his election as a member of the Municipal Council.

AMERICAN NEW WHEAT.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The first cargo of American new wheat has arrived at Cardiff, 43,300 bushels in splendid condition.

THE TURKISH GRAND VIZIER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5.—It is believed that British action will lead to the return to power of Khaireddin Pasha, or to the assumption of the Premiership by Mahmoud Uedim Pasha, according as the Sultan may determine to yield to Great Britain or to seek Russian assistance in resisting that power.

REFORMING TURKEY.

VIENNA, Nov. 5.—The Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to Turkey has suddenly returned to Constantinople, probably to assist the energetic efforts now making to compel Turkey to fulfil her promises of reform.

THE TURKISH CRISIS.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A Cabinet Council was held yesterday and another to-day. The Turkish Ambassador had interview with Lord Salisbury, the before Cabinet Council and the French Ambassador after its adjournment. The Russian Ambassador had an interview with Lord Beaconsfield. The Times says there is no reason to suppose that the reforms, on which the British Ambassador at Constantinople is insisting, are beyond the powers of the Turkish Government.

AMERICAN LIVE STOCK.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Privy Council has issued an order that sheep from the United States shall after the 23rd November be subject to the same regulations as American cattle.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—An accident occurred to a passenger train on the Madras, British India, Railway near Arconum, on the 31st Oct., in consequence of the sinking of an embankment after rain. Nineteen persons, including three Europeans, were killed and forty-five wounded.

ATTACKING THE LORD MAYOR.

The London stereoscopic and photographic company has commenced proceedings against the Lord Mayor for slander growing out of a scene in the Lord Mayor's Court recently, wherein a bookseller was summoned for exposing certain photographs.

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says that when Kaufman represented to the Czar the impossibility of preparing a new Central Asia expedition without cash and supplies, he received the significant answer that it was perhaps better not to proceed with the expedition. The proposal to furnish the pretender to the Afghan throne with money for the purpose of intriguing among the Afghan chiefs met with an absolute refusal. The irritation against Lord Salisbury's speech has subsided, although the question has been even raised of withdrawing the Russian Ambassador from London. The idea was negatived on the ground that the speech could not be regarded as an official expression.

INSIGNIFICANT VICTORY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A Times editorial refers to the Kelly vote, and says that a victory won by such means is obviously deprived of more than half of its significance, though its effect on the political prospects of Tilden ought to be fatal.

CHANDLER'S FUNERAL.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—There are indications that Chandler's funeral this afternoon will be the most imposing held in this country since that of Lincoln. Many prominent men of all parties will be present, including Senators Blaine, Cameron, Burnside, Logan, Barnes, ex-Senator Cameron, Gov. Cromwell, Cullom, Foster, and Smith and the entire Michigan Congressional delegation. A large number of citizens and public officials from all parts of the State will attend. All the principal public and business buildings will be in mourning.

INCREASED ESTIMATES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Sun's Washington despatch says that Sherman's estimates for the next fiscal year ask for seven millions more than he requested last year; three millions being for taking the census, and two millions for pensions. Sherman yesterday wrote to a member of the Ohio Legislature, saying that he is not a candidate for Senator, but might accept a unanimous tender of that office.

GRANT'S CANDIDATURE.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—The Commercial, commenting on the result in New York, says that the election of Cornell, under the circumstances, with the rest of the Republican ticket defeated, is a poor sort of Republican victory. It certainly does not authorize Conkling to clash in the next Republican National Convention and claim that New York would vote for Grant, and for no other Republican candidate, and that he must therefore be nominated. On the contrary the Republicans of New York are admonished that if they would not permit their State to become a province of the solid South, they must escape from the Conkling machine, which is victorious only with the co-operation of the Tammany machine.

GRANT FOR PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Sun's Washington despatch states that the Vice-President of the Texas Railway says that the offer of the Presidency of that road was sent to General Grant on Saturday, the salary being $50,000 per annum.

PEACEFUL SIGNS.

DENVER, Nov. 5.—Agent Adams said he made no pledges to the Utes except to stop the troops' advance. At the council some chiefs wanted to continue to fight. Saperanaro made a speech, announcing that if the Utes did not yield to the whites he would join the white soldiers. Ouray has ordered the hostiles to meet him in ten days and Adams believes that about 25 head men will be executed.

NEW YORK ELECTIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—La[illegible] he Herald say that Robinson is defeated by 15,000 or 20,000, and that the remainder of the state ticket is, with little doubt, elected. The Times claims that the Republicans have elected 25 Senators, 88 Assemblymen, and the Democrats 7 Senators and 40 Assemblymen. The Herald makes Senate 26 Republicans, 3 Democrats and 3 Tammany, and the Assembly 75, Republican, 40 Democrats, 10 Tammany and 3 Anti-Tammany.

STATE ELECTIONS.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Senate stands 31 Republicans and 8 Butler Democrats. The Republican vote compared with last year's shows a falling off of 14,000

OMAHA, Nov. 5.—There are no reliable returns, but prominent politicians estimate the Republican majority at 10,000 or 11,000.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 5.—The probably Republican majority in the state will be 10,000 in a light vote.

REPORT DENIED.

FORT SCOTT, Nov. 5.—Advices from Short Creek discredit the reported killing of Jesse James and Marshal Leggett, who has been in pursuit of the outlaws since the reported killing, has returned.

TILDEN'S CANDIDATURE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The World says, editorially:—"The Democracy have carried the state by a handsome majority, and have elected every candidate upon the ticket except its head." Speaking of Tilden the World says, "henceforth no intelligent person will mention him seriously as a possible candidate for the Presidency.

FIGHT WITH INDIANS.

FORD BAYARD, New Mexico, Nov. 5.—Major Morrow struck Victoria on Oct. 27th, and fought him in Mexico. Morrow lost two killed. Victoria's band scattered.

INFLUX OF GOLD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Bothnia from Liverpool brought 500,000 of specie. The steamer Frisia from Europe brings 468,000.

ILLEGAL VOTING.

There were about a dozen arrests for illegal voting in this city yesterday.

CLOUDS VANISHED.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 5.—A London correspondent says that the clouds on the political horizon have vanished. Diplomatic action has resulted in a much more satisfactory condition of things. The British fleet will not proceed to Turkish waters.

WHOLESALE BALLOTING.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 5.—An outrageous attempt was made to-day in the sixth district of the Twelfth Ward to defeat the election of Sheridan for the Assembly. While the vote was being counted a man reached over the table and dropped a number of ballots among those being canvassed. The district will be thrown out, but that will not change the result.

INSANITY AND SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—August Woehler, barber, of Hartford, has written a letter stating that he has committed suicide, and declaring that he was the person who attempted to assassinate Dr. Foot in this city recently. He declares that he had reasons for wishing to kill Foot and for blowing out his brains. Woehler is said to be mentally irresponsible.

A TERRIBLE END.

A Little Girl Burned to Death in the Township of Thurlow.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 4.—A destructive fire destroyed the dwelling of Mr. P. C. Burgess, 5th con. of Thurlow, with the entire contents, at two o'clock this morning. One of the inmates, a little girl nine years of age, was so badly burned that she died this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess having gone from home on a visit, left the house in the care of the hired girl and three children, the eldest of whom is about fourteen years of age. At two a. m. one of the children was awakened by the fire and called the rest of the inmates of the house, who had barely time to escape in their night clothes. Mr. E. Metcalfe occupied a portion of the house, and had hardly time to escape in his night clothes with bare feet. He took out with him his little girl, 9 years of age, who seemed dazed with fright. In the excitement the girl was missed, when her father rushed into the burning building and found that she had rushed back to her bed and covered herself up with the clothing. By great exertion he managed to get her out by the back door, but it was found she had inhaled the heat with fatal results. The inmates suffered terribly from the cold, and Mr. Metcalfe, who was in his bare feet, came near having them frozen. He lost all his furniture and house hold effects, upon which there was no insurance. Mr. Burgess's loss will be about $2,000, partially insured in the London Mutual.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1879.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA R. R.

OUR readers will be glad to learn that Mr. Scott, who left here on Thursday evening last for the purpose of visiting the municipalities along the route between here and Ottawa, is meeting with much encouragement. On Friday evening he held a successful meeting at Marmora, at which the council were instructed to submit a By-law for $10,000, although the road will not enter the Township, and will run about three miles south of the village, and on Saturday the council met and submitted the By-law, which is to be voted upon the 29th inst.

On Saturday evening he had another large meeting of the ratepayers of the Township of Madoc at which the Grand Trunk (now operating the Grand Junction and Belleville, and North Hasting Roads) showed their hand and attempted to discourage the project, but the meeting was nevertheless disposed to aid the road to the extent of its ability. The same evening Mr. Scott was to hold a meeting in Madoc village, and go to Bridgewater on Monday.

WHY DESPOND?

Though the spirit of speculation is not so rife as it was a few years ago, it is certain that there is still an unwarrantable eagerness to make large and quick profits—a making haste to be rich. This spirit is very unfavorable to those important pursuits which demand patient toil and waiting for the rewards they promise. Crops must have time to grow, and when one crop fails, a long time must elapse before the next effort can bring relief. While this eagerness for rapid accumulation turns many from the safe and honorable callings of plain industry, it also exerts a potent influence on many who are devoted to different branches of agriculture. They are too much affected by the restlessness of the speculative temper. If they fail to meet the rewards of labor, which they anticipated, they are tempted to abandon their occupation or sink into a very unpleasant and hurtful despondency.

As the old crops are about finished and preparations for the new are under way, it is an appropriate time to call upon the heroes who have struggled in the peaceful conflicts of the farm to summon their calm judgment and moral manhood, as they face the prospects of another year. Especially do we appeal to those who, from any unforeseen cause, have encountered bitter disappointment. They are in danger of rash conclusions or unmanly down-heartedness. Let them consider that if they have been faithful, they are as worthy and as free from blame as if they had succeeded. Happy is that man who is without cause of self-censure in the day of trouble! Let them remember that failures are seldom as disastrous as they appear. Evils of many kinds often threaten to overwhelm the men they attack, and then with astonishing rapidity diminish their threatening, if they do not entirely vanish. Who has not been in straits that were fearful, which were passed in a very short time, to deliverance?

Let the disappointed look around and see if there are not good ways to meet the demands of the emergency. Such cases have often revealed unexpected advantages and capabilities. Failures have frequently led men to success and fortune which would otherwise never have been realized. One reason is that failures call up the slumbering powers and develop resources that were before undiscovered.

Another natural idea is that the worst failures seldom go farther than to necessitate a cheaper style of living. Any one would be surprised to know how many things he can spare without any great loss of comfort or well-being. While most of our wants are artificial, few are really indispensable. It is, then, a sheer want of manliness for one to yield to losses and go moping about under disappointments. It is childish. True manhood is always ready to bear self-denial, not only when it is necessary, but even when it contributes to a good cause. Failures require self-denial, and self-denial makes men nobler, stronger, and, often, happier. Failures may necessitate unwonted economy; but the habit of that economy may be the certain guide to greater success in the early future. Cowards feed the snake of despair and suicide. They want courage to "bear the ills" they have. Let the unfortunate cheer up! Let them try harder and hope fondly for better results of of labor next time. Let them see if there have been no mistakes which may be avoided in future. Let them remember the story of Bruce and the spider. Let them mark the example of many in every generation of the past. Above all, let them trust in him who is "good when He gives—no less that he denies." Farmers dealing, as they must, so directly and constantly with nature, need a quiet, abiding reliance on a benificient Providence.—Rural New Yorker.

BASIS OF A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS.

A New York contemporary says: In all cases where a merchant is doing a good business it will be found that while there may be advantages of location, etc., which he has been quick to discern, he himself is the main cause of his success. He has not spent any time in complaining of dull trade or waiting for business to improve, but has put in practice every means in his power to increase his sales and make his business remunerative. The habit of resting one's hope on the times, and of imagining that a better general business outlook will do for a man what he can only do for himself, is inimical to all success. A live business man may certainly expect to reap his share of the advantages of a stimulated demand and greater purchasing power among his customers, but in such a case it will be only such men who will reap the advantage. It should be understood by every merchant that the first requisite for success lies with himself, and if he does not conduct his business on principles which make it renumerative, the best times the country ever saw would be insufficient to supply the elements of success which are wanting in himself. The soundest policy is that of self-independence. A good mercantile training and the qualifications which go to make up a thorough man of business are things which, once acquired, can at all times be relied on independently of outside influences, and they are the only factors on which any hopes of success can be placed. Provided a man is so qualified, the case is indeed hard where he will not be able, not only to make both ends meet, but by systematic economy and a strict watch over his business to gain some headway. We believe that in nine cases out of ten where men have not succeeded within the past few years the fault has been mainly with themselves, and their inability to adopt themselves to the conditions of their trade.
